Trade In Mines Light With General Trend Down

TORONTO, May 10 (Canadian Press).—The price trend on the Standard Mining Exchange this morning was definitely easier, but trading was exceptionally light in volume, and the season was one of the quietest for a considerable period. Tough Oaks was one of the few active stocks and the weak feature of the morning, losing 2 3-4 at 41 3-4. McIntyre was sold down 20 cents at 25.30, and Kirkland Lake lost five at 107. Noranda eased ten at 15.50, Mining Corporation five at 335, and Castle Tretheway two at 140.

Early Setback In Wheat Followed By Upward Turn

CHICAGO, May 10 (Canadian Press)—Fresh upturns in the value of wheat took place early today after a setback at the start. Rains in the spring wheat belt were favorable for initial weakness of market but were soon more than counterbalanced as the result of buying based on government crop report indicating about 12,000,000 bushels smaller yield of winter wheat than has been looked for of late. The opening prices, 1-4 off, May 1.60 3-4 to 1.61 1-4 and July 1.39 to 1.39 1-4, were followed by material setbacks all around but then by a rise to well above Saturdays' finish for May and July. Corn showed independent strength owing to the scarcity of offerings. After opening at 1-8 off to 1-4c up, July 73 3-4c, the markets scored a decided general advance. Oats were firmer, sympathizing with corn. Starting unchanged to 1-8 higher, July 43 1-8 to 42 1-8c, Oats underwent a slight sag and then made a minor gain.

Bear Traders Force Reaction On New York Stock Market

NEW YORK, May 10. Canadian Press. — For the first time since the British general strike began a week ago, bear traders succeeded in forcing a sharp reaction in stock prices. The trading, which was extremely dull last week, picked up measurably in volume with the total sales reaching close to the million mark at the end of the third hour. Motor, rubber and accessory shares were hit hardest with selling obviously inspired by the announcement of a cut in automobile prices by one of the large manufacturers and the report of an increase in rubber stocks on hand in this country. About a dozen issues in the automobile and tire groups collapsed to new low levels for the year.

Porcupine District.

DOME MINES: Nothing of importance has recently developed. The mill is being crowded to the limit at Porcupine and is well ahead of mine developments. So much has been written on Dome of late that there is little left to say.

The first favorable news out from Red Lake as to results being obtained by diamond drilling will undoubtedly cause speculation to be rife in regard to Dome's chances. We look for favorable news as the Red Lake properties have a chance of developing into something as big or bigger than the Dome Porcupine property in its palmiest days. Every effort is being put forward by Dome officials to build up Red Lake quickly and accurately.

McINTYRE: Changes and enlargements taking place at the McIntyre Mill are keeping pace with shaft sinking and preparations for the hoisting of a considerably increased tonnage when new shaft reaches the depth of 300 ft. and old workings are connected with new. Late summer should see the shaft completed to the 3000 ft. level and connections made with old workings. At this time we look for mill tonnage to increase materially. Building of a new mill across Pearl Lake may be put off for a considerable period, if not completely, provided present mill or an enlargement of same can handle the required tonnage.

Hollinger with its cash reserve of some ten million dollars, which is being steadily added to, and with the increased production taking place now, shortly to be increased greatly by the stepping up to 8,000 tons per day, is in a splendid position to take on new properties. We cannot help thinking that the properties in Quebec which Noah Timmins and his associates are developing will eventually find their way into Hollinger's hands. The best of the known properties in Quebec are controlled by Timmins, and provided those properties are proven to have real merit, and are turned over to Hollinger, then a limit cannot at present be placed on the speculative value of Hollinger shares. If the above turns out to be correct then Hollinger's future will by no means be confined to the possibilities of their Porcupine property, production from which will likely reach its peak during this summer.

CONSOLIDATED WEST DOME LAKE

Work of sinking the winze was stopped at a depth of 1200 ft. and a station was cut. In the cutting of this station the downward extension of No. 3 vein was located, showing 3 feet of strong vein matter, assaying around $12 per ton. At present drifting to the west is being carried on on this vein. The question of sinking further is still undecided and it may be that development will be pushed on the 1200 ft. and upper levels in order to keep mill heads up, allowing the further sinking of the winze to wait until some future date.

ORGANIST LEAVES CITY.

F. W. Chenhall Honored By Members of St. James' Choir.

F. W. Chenhall, who for the past four years has been organist of St. James' United Church, left last night for Ottawa, where he has been transferred by the bank for whom he was working. At the close of the evening service, the members of the choir presented him with a club bag as a token of their appreciation. Frank Pratt, in a brief speech, eulogized the work of Mr. Chenhall, and on behalf of the choir wished him every success in his new sphere. A large number of the choir members gathered on the C.P.R. platform prior to the departure of the Ottawa train and gave Mr. Chenhall a royal send-off.

ALL IRISH DOCK WORKERS JOIN IN

Help in Canada.

SYDNEY, N.S., May 10 (Canadian Press). — Announcement was made last night at the headquarters of District 26, United Mine Workers of America, that the district would co-operate with the striking British miners in every way possible and that the members would not work on shipments of Cape Breton coal destined for British ports.

Condemns Convoy

LONDON, May 10 (Canadian Press).—The British Worker, organ of the strikers, says the convoy of cavalry and armored cars which yesterday guarded foodstuffs from Victoria Dock to Hyde Park was an attempt to delude the public into the belief that the country is in danger. "There was no risk of attack whatever," said the newspaper. The object of this ridiculous and unnecessary demonstration was to make people afraid by creating the belief that the strike has reached violent revolutionary aims." nder a convoy of 16 armored cars and flanked by cavalry, 158 motor trucks loaded with food were moved through the streets of London yesterday from Victoria Docks to Hyde Park. An official report says it was the hostility of dock workers and their comrades in the East end to releasing food in dock warehouses which made necessary the spectacular military display.

LONDON, May 10 (Canadian Press).—The first break in the iron clad discipline enforced by the Trades Union Congress in its conduct of the general strike appeared to-day when the assistance of the Parliamentary Labor Party was invoked to direct nation-wide meetings for creating and maintaining solidarity among the strikers. Hitherto the Union Congress Executive has insisted on conducting all administrative work connected with the strike.

Help Withdrawn.

LONDON, May 10 (Canadian Press).—The Trades Union Congress announced this afternoon that permits issued to union members to assist the Government in the distribution of foodstuffs had been withdrawn.

Ireland Joins Blockade.

DUBLIN, May 10 (Canadian Press).—On instructions from the British Labor and Irish Trade Unions, no shipments of foodstuffs or agricultural products were made from Dublin to-day and cross-Channel traffic is at a standstill. Prices of cattle and foodstuffs in the Free State are falling in consequence of the embargo.

BELFAST, May 10 (Canadian Press).—At a joint meeting of Labor representatives here to-day, instructions were announced from the Trades Union Congress that, beginning this afternoon, dock workers in the ports of Northern Ireland would cease to handle cargoes from or to Great Britain.

LONDON, May 10 (Canadian Press).—The British Gazette, the Government official newspaper, characterizes the successful passage of the food convoy as "raising the siege at the docks." It declares that it was a sure testimony of the fact that the strikers have suffered an early defeat in their attempt to starve London. "Ever since the beginning of the strike," says the Gazette, "hundreds of bags of flour had remained locked in storage along the docks. The Government had any number of lorries available to remove the consignments, any number of volunteer drivers, any number of willing helpers to load the lorries, but the strikers had dug in with obstinate thoroughness and it seemed as if nothing but an ugly clash would result if the lorries went to the docks in force." The Government's official communique says: "The food and fuel position everywhere is satisfactory. There is no difficulty experienced in revictualling and it is intended to keep the port of London open regularly."

Attempted Revolution.

"An attempted revolutioner" is the Earl of Balfour's characterization of the present strike, in the course of a signed statement appearing in to-day's British Gazette, the official Government organ. The effect of the success of this movement would be "to bring ruin, swift, complete and irresistable upon this country," Lord Balfour declared.

Vessels Handled.

LIVERPOOL, Eng., May 10. — (Canadian Press).—Twenty-six vessels docked or sailed here over the week-end, and thirty vessels were being loaded or discharged at Liverpool and Birkenhead docks to-day. The White Star liner Baltic and the Cunarder Caronia arrived from New York. Motor coaches were waiting to convey the passengers to their destinations.

Situation Improves.

LONDON, May 10 (Canadian Press).—The situation in the provinces appears to be improving. Work on Avonmouth docks is proceeding satisfactorily with the help of a large number of Oxford and Cambridge undergraduates. Hundreds of troops with an armoured car arrived at Bristol yesterday. Many 'bus and tram men are returning to work at Bath and other centres, including South Wales coal fields district, where the strikers are conducting themselves moderately. Eight food ships are being discharged at Glasgow, and two are being loaded with foodstuffs for the Western Highlands.

Railways Improving.

LONDON, May 10 (United Press) —Railway service was improving in Great Britain to-day as the full force of the Government's emergency organization made itself felt.

The London, Midland and Scottish Railway operated 849 trains on Saturday, and has scheduled 1,000 for to-day. The first regular service to Scotland left London this morning at 8.30. Several more trains are to be run to-morrow.

The London and North-Eastern Railway operated 760 trains on Saturday and has scheduled 904 to-day.

The Great Western Railway operated 612 trains on Saturday and scheduled 800 for to-day.

King Gives Up Ride

LONDON, May 10 (Canadian Press).—King George has given up his usual morning horseback ride during the strike crisis and now takes a morning constitutional in the five acre gardens of Buckingham Palace.

Ireland Keeps Clear

The Irish Labor party has advised shippers not to forward goods to England. It says Irish Labor desires to keep clear of the strike. All Irish internal services are running normally. The failure of the English market has brought about drops in prices in Irish commodities. As an instance, eggs in Donegal are selling to tuppence a dozen. Mail which arrived at Kingston from England last Friday has not been unloaded. Trade Unionists are refusing to handle sacks because they say they were previously handled by "blacklegs."

Emigrants Delayed.

OTTAWA, May 10 (Canadian Press).—One thousand persons who were prepared to leave England last week to migrate to Canada were delayed indefinitely on account of the general strike. According to the Immigration Department to-day arrangements were being made in England to bring immigrants to the ports by motor 'buses. Officials of the Department state that a new movement is commencing from the farmers of the United States who are applying in unprecedented numbers for admission to Canada.

LONDON, May 10 (Canadian Press).—A Privy Council may be held almost immediately, it is believed in political circles, for the purpose of giving effect to the Government's pledge to those remaining at work that they will be protected against the loss of trade union benefits, superannuation allowances or pensions, and against reprisals when the strike is ended.

In Peterborough Churches

AT KNOX UNITED CHURCH.

"As one whom his mother comfortheth, so will I comfort you," from the thirteenth verse of the 66th chapter of Isaiah, and "Can a woman forget her sucking child, that she should not have compassion on the son of her womb?" from the fifteenth verse of the 49th chapter of the same book, were the texts chosen by the Rev. M. C. Mackinnon for his Mother's Day sermon at Knox United Church yesterday morning. He also spoke from the twenty-first chapter of the second book of Samuel, from the story of Rizpah, who watched over the bodies of her sons for six months.

Mr. Mackinnon said that two thoughts might be taken from these passages. First they shed light on the love of a mother, and secondly on the love of God. He referred to the men who went overseas from very ordinary homes and performed great deeds of heroism, and said that likewise, if the occasion arose, the mothers of Peterborough would be capable of great deeds for their children. The possibilities of a mother's love, he said, were not realized. When God wished to give the people of Israel, in the depths of their despair, an illustration of the greatness of his love, he compared it to the love of a mother for her children.

Speaking of the love of God, Mr. Mackinnon referred to a book recently published, "The Motherhood of God,' and said that a great preacher had referred to God as a "Father with a Mother's heart." The heart of God, said the speaker, stood ever open for the return of his children, just as the home of a mother was ever open to her children.

AT ALL SAINTS' ANGLICAN.

The Rev. Cuthbert Cooper-Robinson of Japan was the preacher at All Saints' Anglican Church last night and he gave a most interesting picture of conditions in Japan and of the opportunity for Christian work. It was observed as an A.Y.P.A. service and Mr. Robinson gave a further talk, illustrated with lantern slides, at a gathering of the members of the association in the guild room after service. J. H. Price, president of the A.Y.P.A., read the lessons. The rector, Rev. J. D. Paterson, conducted the service.

Japan is in a state of confusion and unrest, said the speaker. It is changing from ancient to modern ways and on the same street may be seen man-drawn vehicles and huge motor lorries and in lonely mountain places can be found thatch-roofed cottages lighted by electricity. In the matter of religion there is confusion. All Japanese are more or less Shintoists, followers of a religion which combines ancestor worship with the worship of the wonders of nature. Many are also buddhists, and of both these religions there are many sects.

The great earthquake of 1923 brought to the people an awakening from the materialism into which they had fallen, said the speaker, and they sought information about Christianity. Just then the U.S.A. a Christian nation, barred them as inferiors and turned them against Christianity again.

The confusion is not a cause for pessimism, said Mr. Robinson. They want something; they are looking for a way out. "Who is the Way? Who is the door by which they can enter the fold out of confusion?" he asked. Japan is not the only country which needs a way out, he added.

"What are we going to do about it? Haven't we any responsibility in the matter?" he asked in concluding. He urged his hearers to think about it, to pray, to give, and to work, in order that these people might be shown the way out of their conclusion.

A suitable anthem was sung by the choir, and four missionary hymns were sung by the choir and congregation.

AT ST. PETER'S CATHEDRAL.

"Be ye doers of the Word, and not hearers only," a text taken from the Epistle of St. James, 1st chapter, 22nd to 27th verses, was the theme of the sermons preached at the morning Masses at St. Peters Cathedral yesterday, by His Lordship, Bishop O'Brien.

The Bishop said: "Are we content simply with keeping out of sin ourselves and with saving our own souls? We must never be narrow in our own religion. The individual Catholic should make every effort to know his religion and to be able to give an account of the faith that is in him."

Faith alone, said the reverend speaker, is not sufficient to save one's soul. Neither are good works alone. Both must go hand in hand. Expressing faith in one's daily life and in the piety of one's practice of religion, while good works are exemplified in the doing of one's duty in the state of life assigned to each. Catholics, when employers, should be just and charitable to their men, and when employees should strive to deal honorably with their employers. They should at all times be good citizens, respecting the laws of their country. And each man should watch his words and bridle his tongue, keeping away from evil companions and exercising care over his thoughts and his imagination, not allowing Satan to obtain hold in any way. Catholics should be practical Christians in their lives, remembering that "he that hath looked into the perfect law of liberty, and continueth there," as St. James says, is the only happy and contented man.

His Lordship also spoke briefly of the coming celebration in June of the anniversary of the first mass offered up in Peterborough.

ST. PAUL'S ANNIVERSARY.
(Contributed).

Yesterday was the first Sunday of St. Paul's special anniversary services. There was a choir of fifty voices, and Austin S. Douglas was the special baritone soloist. The congregation was very large in the morning, and Rev. William Allan took as his subject, "The Church's Programme and Passion."

Just a year ago to-day I was with you for the first time, Mr. Allan said. I came as special preacher to conduct your 92nd anniversary services, and continued for two weeks. The last Sunday night will be long remembered for the great congregation. Someone counted 106 autos lined up around the church on that last Sunday night. Now, after about a year's ministry, we can look back with thanksgiving for the success which has attended our efforts. We have seen the congregations so increase that our problem has often been to find room for them, and repeatedly people have had to go away unable to get a seat.

Then we have seen the attendance at the mid-week service go over the three hundred mark. And the attendance at the Sunday School has been larger than in many years. In every department of the life and work of the congregation we have had a year of real success, for all of which we give thanks to God.

On the occasion of my first visit, I was with you as a guest to wish you many happy returns of the day. Now it is my privilege to be here as a member of the family, and as such I wish you very many happy returns of this day. Whatever changes time may bring in the ecclesiastical world I am sure there will always be a place for the Presbyterian Church. It has a contribution to make which is peculiarly its own, and it never needs to apologize for its existence.

What is the Church? It is not every member of a church who can answer that question. And there is a distinct difference between "a church" and "the Church." The Church is an organization different from every other organization known to mankind. It is made of people—some are rich and some are poor; some are learned and some are not; but all of them, if they are really a part of the Church, have been:

(1) Redeemed: — Not with corruptible things such as silver and gold, but with the precious blood of Christ.

(2) Regenerated: — When Nichodemus stood in the presence of Jesus, Jesus said unto him, "Ye must be born from above." And that "must" is all-inclusive. Nichodemus was the finest product of the best religion of the time. Yet to him, Jesus said, "Ye must be born again."

The church is a company of people, won by sovereign grace, and welded into the mystical body of Christ by the operations of the Holy Spirit.

What does the Church exist for?

This is a practical age in which we live. And the church must also be practical. It is right that she should have a vision, and it is imperative that she should have a voice. But, has she got a programme? If not, neither vision nor voice will amount to much in the end. Well then, if she has a programme, what is her programme? If you were to judge her programme by what some churches are doing and saying, you might think:

1. That it Was an Ethical Society.

The door of respectability is the door by which you are admitted into the membership of many churches. The question of being born from above and been made a partaker of the Divine nature never seems to enter into it. And the pulpit spends its strength in talking about Jesus as our great examplar. The great weakness of all this is that it does not go far enough. Jesus once said, "Except your righteousness exceed the righteousness of the Scribes and Pharisees, ye shall in no-wise enter in."

2. If Often Seems Just to be a Benevolent Society:

It expresses itself in kindly feelings, and in helping the poor; all of which is very praiseworthy at the same time as it is secondary. When they brought the man sick of the palsy to Jesus, He said, "Thy sins be forgiven thee." Not his body first but his soul, and after that he will be healed.

3. Neither is the Church for Entertainment:

What, with its clubs of one kind and another, its bowling alleys, its bridge parties or whist drives, you would sometimes get the impression that it had gone into the show business. I am ready to admit that it has not always been wise to recognize that man has a social life as well as a spiritual one, but the tragedy of the present is that it is expending most of its strength on amusing sinners who are still rejecting Christ.

God commenced by selecting one man. Then there was one family, from which there came one nation. That nation gave to the world one Saviour. He in turn formed one apostleship and one Church, and that Church has one programme: "Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel to every creature."

The First Note Then is the Evangelistic:

It is our business to get the ear of the masses, and then turn upon it the whole battery of the Gospel of the grace of God. It is ours to tell out the good news. And while we are telling it we ought to be expecting and looking for conversions. The additions to the membership of any church that really has a worth-while programme should be of a spiritual kind.

The Second Note is the Ethical one:

Religion must touch every part of life, and it will do so when it is real religion. It should make for better homes, better social conditions, and a square deal for everybody. It ought to make its influence felt in politics, giving out no uncertain sound on every question which affects the highest good of the masses as well as the classes. It ought to have the ability to prevent industrial war, and it will have if ever it gets a fair chance in the life of the nations. And last, but not least, it ought to make for universal peace. Yes, it ought to hasten that time when men shall learn the art of war no more. When a church is asked to give a verdict on such a question as compulsory cadet drill in our places of education, and for any reason refuses to do so, it comes dangerously near playing the part of coward if not of traitor. I am no pacifist, and don't think we have reached Utopia yet. I believe in both the army and the navy; but keep both of these out of the schools on every basis other than as volunteer forces. If the blighting evil of war should ever afflict the British Empire again I believe that British breeding would show its fighting quality in giving a fighting force second to none. And if that time ever comes let us have conscription of every ounce of manhood and money to battle against the common foe. But until that time let us steer clear of the customs of continental powers and have everything of a military nature on the principle of volunteering.

Along with the Programme there should also be a Passion.

Without it all is vain and dead, but with it you can conquer all. Oh to have this church pulsating with the passion of the Apostle Paul, or that of the early Methodists or the Salvation Army.

VESSELS ENTER BUFFALO HARBOR

Force Way Through Ice Floes Into Port—Release Outbound Ships.

FOUR DAY FIGHT.

BUFFALO, N.Y., May 10 (Canadian Press).—Eight freighters from the Upper Lakes shores plowed their way through six miles of ice pack to port yesterday, and an imprisoned fleet of 38 out-bound freighters began to emerge from the westerly side of the floe into clear water. The outbound steamers had been bucking the tightly packed ice for more than a week. Captain Baizaire of the William A. Reiss, the first freighter to poke her nose inside the breakwater, said his vessel had been four days working through the ice jam. Captain James Connelly of the A. E. R. Schneider was more fortunate. He came through the pack in less than 24 hours, and made the trip from Fort William in four days, which is almost equal to steamer sailing time.

The Romance of Pottery

In the Beginning

The Potter's Art is as ancient as the History of Mankind—a fact proved by the specimens of pottery which have been dug up in recent times from strata containing remains of the earliest human types. The origin of this art is indeed lost in the mists of antiquity. Urged by necessity, man first fashioned pots and vessels by hand from soft clay, and later evolved crude forms of decoration by scratches and indentations made while the clay was still plastic.

Progress

Since that remote period considerable advances have been made from time to time, and during the last half century the Art of Potting has undergone vast and sweeping changes, for science has stepped in and made it possible today, by the use of machinery and organized method, to produce for the million artistic pottery which art by itself could create only for the millionaire.

This is especially true of the high-class productions made by Johnson Brothers (Hanley), Ltd., the renowned English Potters, who have now achieved a notable advancement in their production of "Pareek" Ware, which marks another chapter in the romantic story of earthenware manufacture.

The Ultimate Achievement

This is an entirely new body, the name "Pareek" being appropriately due to the combination of beautiful, pure coloring of Parian with the charmingly rich finish of Belleek. It possesses all the soundness and durability of their high-grade white Semi-Porcelain famous throughout the world's markets, and in evolving "Pareek" a new note of considerable interest has been struck. It is quite different from Ivory bodies hitherto produced—possessing many advantages and points of superiority.

Why it is Superior

It is warmer and more in keeping with modern furnishings, the soft richness appealing to the critical eye. It gives a wider scope for decorative colorings than can be obtained in hard white Semi-Porcelain, because the "tone" of the body blends the colors together and makes perfect harmonies of color-schemes which would be crude and inharmonious on a white body.

It has a really beautiful texture; note the perfectly true and even color-tone throughout.

Remark how it reflects the lustre of the glaze. It radiates life and warmth compared with the cold effect of white Semi-Porcelain or the dead flatness of the ordinary "Ivory" ware.

The quality is apparent at a glance, and critical inspection strengthens appreciation.

How it is Possible

Johnson's world-wide reputation stands behind it, and while it maintains and indeed enhances their high standard of excellence they are enabled, by their comprehensive and up-to-date methods, to put it on the market at really competitive cost.

It can now be had in our Basement China Store

Our Basement China Store has just put into stock two beautiful patterns in this new Johnson Bros.' product. A 97-Piece Dinner Set complete costs $37.50 in either design. They will also be available in open stock.

Tomorrow's HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble

TUESDAY, MAY 11.

According to the lunar transits this may not be a very important day, excepting for those in the employment of others. These should make every effort to merit promotion or recognition from their superiors. All others desiring to seek favors from those in authority or to aim for preferment or honors will find it a propitious time. It is hinted that all important change should be carefully considered. Home and heart affairs may cause some slight concern.

Those whose birthday it is are urged to equip themselves for favors from those in superior positions and make all changes slowly and protect the domestic circle from annoyance or anxiety.

SETBACKS.

Say, what's the diff if your plans go smash,an' a thought turns out as a heap of trash? It can fret you a lot, but it won't a bit, if the stuff you've got make you never quit.

You can't quite expect every thought that's bent, to bring forth results of a hundred per cent. Some things, undertaken, fall shy now and then, but, remember, old top, you can try again.

The fellow who figures and plans all day, and sticks to his task in his own sweet way, can feel fairly sure that he'll reach the top, when setbacks and such never make him stop.

The easiest way is to give right in—that is, if you never expect to win. But the better way, when the going's rough, is to plug on through—an' show your stuff.

GOOD NIGHT STORIES

By Blanche Silver

BETTY CHANGES HER MIND.

"Goodness, why the weary sigh?" laughed a merry voice. Betty turned around to see a smiling elfin face under a broad trimmed hat.

"Oh, Gocomeback, you dear!" Betty cried, shaking the wee travel elfin's hand. "I was just wishing I could go out on that house-boat and live. My! How lovely it would be to live out on the water like that all the time!"

Gocomeback shook his funny head, then he laughed.

"Maybe so. But I don't believe you'd like it after a short time. Come to think of it, I have a little friend who lives on a house-boat. Suppose we go and pay her a visit?" Before Betty could answer, she found herself standing beside Gocomeback on the banks of a lovely river.

Out on the waters danced hundreds of little house-boats. Some were used for homes, some used for shops. They all danced up and down with the rippling waters.

"Where in the world are we, anyway, Gocomeback?" Betty asked, turning to the wee elfin. "And do the people live in those house-boats all the time?"

"Sure, they do," replied Gocomeback. "This is Canton, the great city of Southern China, and this is the Canton River. There are more than one hundred thousand people living on house-boats in this great river."

"Why, even their markets are on boats," laughed Betty, as she and Gocomeback went on board the one of house-boats.

"This is Canton."

"Sure, they are," laughed a wee little Chinese girl whom Gocomeback introduced as Tutsan. She fastened some ropes about her brothers' and sisters' waists, then shook hands with Betty.

"You don't live on a house-boat?" she asked Betty. When Betty shook her head, Tutsan laughed. "Then you are a lucky, little girl. See, my brothers and sisters and I have no place to play but around the houseboat. That's why we have ropes fastened to our waists, so if we fall overboard someone can pull us out."

"And you have to play around the sides of the house-boat like this all the time?" Betty asked as she glanced down at the waters under them. "Goodness, I thought I'd like it, but I don't believe I'd like it near as much as where you have a yard to run in. Gocomeback will have to bring you to see me and I'll show you my lovely yard."

Just then Betty heard her Mama calling her, and takinghold of Gocomeback's hand away they sailed to America, and Betty was glad to get her feet on the nice, soft, green grass once more. Thanking Gocomeback for her visit to China, Betty hurried inside the house to see what her Mama wanted.

PARK STREET BAPTIST.

In the morning the Rev. N. R. McLeod took as his subject, "A Handful of Mothers' Religion." He said:

The congregation might be divided into three groups. To many of us mother is now a fragrant memory, a memory of one who lived long and well, and has now entered into her well-earned rest.

To many more mother is as a vessel wrecked upon the sea shore, never again fit for voyaging forth; her voyage is o'er; she waits to enter the harbor of rest.

To many others mother is still the one who works, labors, sacrifices, energizes for her home and children.

In the recognition of mother on "Mothers' Day" we do not forget father, but at the same time there must be a reason why mother has come into this position, and "Mothers' Day" has become so universally established. The speaker found the reason in a very old poem, "My Mother," one verse of which is:

"Who taught my infant lips to pray,
To love God's holy Word and day,
And walk in wisdom's pleasant way
My Mother."

When Napoleon was asked to define the greatest need of all France, he answered, "More good mothers."

Mother's religion is characterized by:

1. It's tenderness—that tenderness which responds nobly to either children's or the world's needs.

2. Endurance—that endurance which neglects not the worship of the sanctuary, religious training of the children, continuance in prayer, maintains a vital personal faith in God.

3. Reality—that reality which is based on an unchanging Word, unchanging God, unchanging Christ, unchanging Holy Spirit.

4. Sacrifice—that sacrifice which yields that which belongs to self for the sake of some one else. From this point of view think of mother's home, national and religious sacrifice.

5. Prayerfulness. Just as the thumb folded over the fingers of the hand makes a fist, so the prayers ofmother folded over her other great qualities of soul makes her life a unit for God and her home. While we emphasize the power of education and environment, great blessings indeed, we do well to think of the environment of mother's prayer life.

Mother's religion is well expressed in three words: It bows in submission to the Cross of Christ; it draws its life from the heart of Christ; and yields itself in service to Christ. May this Mothers' Day become your Salvation Day through your faith in Christ. Then you can say:

"Oh, mother, when I think of thee,
'Tis but a step to Calvary.
Thy gentle hand upon my brow
Is leading me to Jesus now."

In the afternoon a special open session of the Sunday school was held. The program included a recitation, entitled: "My Madonna," by Fern Rahmel; a duet, "It Pays to Serve Jesus," by Messrs. W. Saunders and A. Thompson; a recitation, "Somebody's Mother," by Jean Matchett, and a pageant, entitled, "Mothers of the Bible," by ten of the elder girls of the school. There was a large attendance, and the session was much enjoyed by all.

MURRAY STREET BAPTIST.

Mother's Day was marked in Murray Street Baptist Church yesterday in a very special way. At the morning service, which is a union of Church and Sunday school, there were addresses by Dr. Rose and A. J. Madill, and a recitation by Miss Gladys Asling, all centred about the thought of the day.

But the Pageant that was given at the evening service was a unique departure from the accepted standard of church service, appropriate and impressive. It was entitled "Daughters of Eve," and showed, in fitting manner, the great women of Bible days from Eve to Mary, mother of Jesus and Mary Magdalene. The characters were presented by Mrs. Post, Mrs. Westbrooke, Mrs. Wearing, Misses Adamson, Cruikshank, Drury, Eastwood, Garbutt, Jackson and Wood. The pageant was arranged by Mrs. Pettit, who also gave the connecting reading.

Music by the choir helped materially in the presentation, and outstanding were solos by Miss Trucie Pearson, Mrs. Ingram, Miss Lewis, and Dr. Graham. A quartette, Mrs. H. H. Graham, Miss Pearson, H. H. Graham, and Dr. D. J. Graham, rendered an acceptable selection, and the whole choir joined in several selections appropriate to the theme of the pageant.

Ten Candles.

There were ten characterizations, introduced by Solomon's exposition of virtuous womanhood. As each out standing woman was named, with suitable recitation of her acts, a candle was lighted. Eve, Marion, Ruth, Hannah, Naaman's maid, Esther, Mary (Mother of Jesus), Mary (who covered Jesus' feet with ointment), and Mary Magdalene, were the subjects. All of those taking part in the characterizations spoke the lines well, in voices that were clearly heard in all parts of the church, the clear intonation adding much to the effect of the pageant.

As a fitting climax to the story, which had followed daughters of Eve through many years of adversity, love, triumph, fidelity, failure and sacrifice, the closing scene found the characters grouped strikingly in the form of a cross. This tableau was most effective, the white dresses and flickering candles showing up against the choir loft and among the flowers that bedecked the platform.

Symbolic, too, was this scene. The joy that came to Mary, Mother of Jesus, at the Annunciation, was darkened by the shadow of the cross, and under the actual shadow of the cross she touched the depths of sorrow and reached the heights of sacrifice. There too, that other Mary, called Magdalene, proved the fidelity of Daughters of Eve—last at the cross, first at the tomb.

Baptismal Service.

Preceding the pageant there was a baptismal service in which several young people were baptized by Rev. Dr. Rose.

Special services for the occasion of the eightieth anniversary of the church were announced for next Sunday, when Rev. J. Austin Huntley will preach. Two memorial gifts will be presented to the church.

ST. ANDREW'S UNITED.

Mothers' Day was fittingly observed at the morning service. The front of the church was tastefully decorated with flowers and the entire service was in the nature of a beautiful tribute to the mothers of the world.

Rev. J. W. Gordon, the pastor, preached a special Mothers' Day sermon. One characteristic of mothers, he said, was their thoughtfulness. No matter what happens to disturb the world, a mother's thoughts are always the same—she is continually planning for the welfare of those nearest and dearest to her. She shares every joy with her children and their pains are hers. Another tribute to mothers, he said, was their unflinching loyalty. The world will stick up for a person if they are clever and popular, but only a mother will stick up for a person in times of adversity. If a man was the kind of a man his mother thought he was, his wife would have a better husband, and his children a better father.

In talking about mothers, he said, and finding out what they are like, we really find out what God is like. God is thoughtful. When we suffer, He suffers, and, despite our many failings, God's love continues through thick and thin. God is also loyal to us, and if we were as loyal to Him this world would be a more wonderful place. Mothers believe in their children, as God believes in us, he said, and a great deal of our faith in God and men is due to the teachings of our mothers.

GEORGE STREET UNITED.

Special music of a Mother's Day nature featured both services yesterday. In the morning the Rev. J. E. Todd preached a sermon on "Our Mothers" while the evening service was devoted to a special sermon on "Our Daughters." Taking his text from the first chapter of Ruth and reading from the fourteenth verse Mr. Todd stated that he was just as guilty as the rest of his brother ministers in—that he had preached more services to young men than to young women. He proposed, he said, to deal with the problems that face the young women of today from a sympathetic standpoint. The story of Ruth was one of the most interesting in the Bible. Its alright to say of a young woman that she is winsome and sweet, but in addition to these qualities Ruth also had will power.

Every age, the pastor said, feels that the problems that are being thrust upon them are the most intricate and complex that ever existed. Life has a way of either going back into the old ruts or reaching out for the new things that exist. The higher up the scale of living we go, the plainer we see the pathos of the other side, he said. There is that type of woman who is at the best a tawdry affair, nothing but dress and social affairs, whose God is the latest word in styles. He admitted that there was a certain attractiveness along that line, but the tragedy is, he said, that the young girls get the same spirit. There are no bargain days in obtaining the things that go to make character.

This generation is leaving the rising generation some fine things, he said, we are leaving them an economic system which is competitive in nature but which should not be allowed to enter the Church. "When I look at the Saturday edition of any of our newspapers I often wonder if the competitive system is entering into our religious life," he said.

We are leaving them a Protestant Church, the walls of which are divided, he said, and "not one division of which stands for a worth-while vital issue." These are a few of the problems we are handing down.

Everything finds its level, just as water, and each generation does the same. We are being told, he said, that the rising generation isn't nearly what the preceding one was. Every generation adopts that as a slogan. I am a great believer in heritage, he said, and be not deceived, the rising generation is just a little better than the previous. They might well be—they have harder problems to face—they have to solve the problem of bringing a war-mad world back to its senses. Young ladies, he counselled, do not think for a moment that by aping the customs and standards of men you will win them. Do not think because you smoke and swagger around they will like you better. That gets you nowhere. God in heaven did not make you that way and the young men don't want it. Life is a wonderful thing, he said, fall in love with life, it is a thrilling adventure with Jesus Christ, the master Pathfinder to direct your way, and life will be a grand and glorious thing.

ADVENTURES of the TWINS

by OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

Number Eleven.—
THE STORK ORDERS BOOTS.

Next they came to the Cobbler's, the Twins and the Whiffet did.

He was a smart cobbler, this one was, for he made shoes for fairies and overshoes for birds to wear on rainy days.

Today he was having a special sale of goloshes for robins, for the Weather Man had made a mistake and turned on his snow spigot instead of his rain spigot and the robins were likely to die of pneumonia.

And as Nancy said to Nick and the poor Whiffet, to which they both agreed, that it was just possible that the cobbler might make shoes and goloshes for shadows also.

So that was where they went.

"Come in," said the Jolly Cobbler, when they rapped. "Just two pairs left."

"Oh, excuse me!" he said. "I thought you were some more robins. This little flurry of spring snow is hard on the poor things. Can't you come in and sit for a spell?"

"I'm afraid we can't stay," said Nancy. "We came on an errand."

And she told him all about the runaway shadow.

"Well, sir!" said the Jolly Cobbler, scratching his head. "A little while ago I heard a terrible stamping outside my door. I couldn't go for a minute to see what it was, as I was fitting a thousand new pairs of shoes on the centipede, and when I went there was nobody there. But it may have been that shadow stamping to get in. It just may! Did he need shoeing, do you know?"

"I couldn't say," said the Whiffet. "He ran away so long ago that he's had time to be all over the world and back. And his shoes may be all worn out by this time."

"A very sensible remark," said the Jolly Cobbler. "Particularly if he went to Beloochistan. They say the roads there are something awful! If trade ever gets dull here, I shall move to Beloochistan, for new shoes don't last there at all, at all. It's a fine place for cobblers."

At that minute in came a stork, or I should say, in sneezed a stork, for as he entered he gave one big sneeze that quite blew the Jolly Shoemaker off his bench and when they went to look for the Whiffet, they found him up the chimney.

"Oh dear, I've got such a cold! It bust be idfluedza!" said the stork, blowing his beak with a checkerboard handkerchief.

"I cabe for a pair of boots," he went on. "The water is still chilly ad I bust have fish to eat. Could you fit be id boots?"

"Certainly," said the Jolly Cobbler, measuring the stork's long legs. "My! My! You do take a long pair, Mister Stork, and rubber five dollars a yard, too!"

"Cat help it," said the stork. "Legs is legs. Who are your custobers?"

The Jolly Cobbler introduced Nancy and Nick and the little rag-bag fairy to the stork and explained their errand.

"Why, I saw a shadow sobewhere!" said the stork. "It didn't belong to a soul ad it was just rudding around by itself. Oh yes! Dow I rebebeb! It was at the shore. I saw it rud right id to the water ad stay there."

"We'll go to the sea-shore!" cried Nancy. "We'll find your shadow for you yet, little Whiffet. Thank you, Mister Stork."

"Wait! Wait!" said the stork. "By boots will be fidished id a bidute. I'll ride you all there."

So the stork put the boots on and away they went.

CHINA PRESENTED.

A most enjoyable evening was spent at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Worboy, Sherbrook street, when about twenty five of their friends paid a surprise visit on Friday evening which took the form of a hard time party, to celebrate the 20th anniversary of their wedding.

The costumes caused much laughter, the ladies coming in house dresses, some not quite modern, and the men in overalls.

Prize winners for progressive euchre were ladies 1st, Mrs. C. Wiley; ladies, consolation, Mrs. Watson; men's first Mr. H. Wilson; men's consolation, Mr. Hollingsworth.

When lunch had been served, Mrs. Watson read an address and Mrs. C. Wiley presented Mr. and Mrs. Worboy with a prettily decorated basket of white with roses, containing several parcels which when opened proved to contain 20 pieces of Bridal Rose china.

Mr. Worboy thanked his friends for their thoughtfulness and the lovely gifts.

Dancing was then indulged in until the wee sm' hours when the party reluctantly broke up.

The address was

Mr. and Mrs. Worboy:

This being the 20th anniversary of your wedding, we feel that we cannot afford to lose this opportunity of showing you, even though in a small way, the esteem in which you are held by this circle of your old friends, and also by the new friends, that your spirit of friendliness and loving disnositions have won for you.

Through the years that we have known you, Friendship's Golden Chain has been woven, and let us hope that in the years to come the chain may grow longer and stronger, if possible, to make it stronger. We who have known you feel assured that in coming years of your married blessedness you will make yourself many more friends, but none will be more staunch and true than those you already have and hold.

Words cannot expreess our feelings on this occasion but we ask you to accept this small token, not for its value, but for what it stands for. May it remind you in future days of the many happy hours we have spent with you and our heartfelt wish is that health and happiness may be yours. Signed:

Plaits Have Put Their Knife Creases Into Fashion

Plaits head an important chapter on dress. There are box plaits at the front and back of skirts. There are inverted or inserted plaits in sports clothes. Clusters of fine plaits in one-piece dresses are the unmistakable sign of French extraction. Short capes and the lower part of sleeves are finely plaited and so are separate skirts and aprons and the lower part of frocks. Plaits have the double advantage of keeping a frock straight in repose and of kicking out and fluttering after the smart kinetic fashion when one walks. Materials that plait nicely are crêpe de Chine, taffets, satin crêpe and Georgette.

HER OWN WAY
A GIRL of TODAY

JERRY TO THE RESCUE.

It seemed to me that the bell at the other end of the phone had hardly begun to jingle before I heard Mamie's voice. Without giving me a chance to say anything she exclaimed.

"Judy, is it you? Where are you? What has happened?"

"Yes, it's me," I said with no regard for grammar.

I heard a commotion at the other end of the wire. Mamie was sobbing.

"Here, let me talk to her," said a man's voice. It did not sound like any voice I ever heard even when it asked. "Judy, where are you?"

"At the police station."

"What."

"The station nearest Lincoln Park."

The receiver was evidently dropped again, and another masculine voice spoke. "Judy, this is Jimmie Costello. Can't you speak? Are you hurt? What did you tell Jerry that sent him out of here on the run?"

"I told him I was in the police station nearest Lincoln Park."

"Good Lord! Well, he will be there in a few minutes, if he is not run in for breaking the speed law. Are you hurt, or did you lose your way or anything?"

"I was choked almost to death."

The receiver was dropped again, and I couldn't get anyone on the phone again.

I looked inquiringly at the officer at the desk.

"Don't worry," he said, reassuringly. "They have just dropped the phone and started over for you."

This I found to be true, for at the moment the door was swung open with a bang and Jerry Hathaway rushed in, bareheaded and disheveled.

Distractedly he looked about for a second, until his eyes lighted on me.

"Judy! Judy!" he cried, "I thought I had lost you." He had me in his arms before he had finished the sentence and was turning to take me out of the station when the officer said, "One moment, Mr. Hathaway."

"What do you want?" was Jerry's belligerent question.

"I want to find the miscreants who almost choked the young lady in your arms to death."

THE SALIVA.

You will recall how you came in hungry and saw mother's cooking on the table, so tempting. And you said, "It makes my mouth water."

How, as a matter of fact, it probably did, for the mere sight or smell of savory food is sufficient to stimulate the salivary glands to function.

The role played by the saliva among the defensive agencies, in tooth decay, is a very important one.

We have, first, the mechanical cleansing of the teeth and mouth structures by the saliva; how important it is then, that the food be palatable to stimulate the salivary flow and that mastication be thorough to the same end. For it is a matter of common observation, that in cases of 'dry mouth,' the teeth quickly crumble away through decay.

Now try this:

Chew for a few moments, some starchy food—a piece of white bread or potato. Notice presently, how sweet it tastes. What causes this?

In the saliva there is a content known as ptyalin, which has the power of converting starch into sugar and which action takes place during the process of mastication, as the first step in the digestion of the starch element. But the ptyalin content performs still the further function of freeing the tooth surfaces of clinging pasty particles by dissolving the starch.

Then, too, you have observed how sticky or ropy is the saliva, at times. This is due to still another salivary content—the mucus. The function of this substance is largely mechanical this substance is largely the mechanical one of binding the food particles together and at the same time of lubricating and making slippery, the surfaces of the teeth and mouth tissues, thus assisting in the act of swallowing.

Lastly, the presence of saliva, with its constant renewal, tends to overcome through its neutralizing effect, the harmful action of fermentation of carbohydrate matter in the mouth. Hence, it is important for this reason, too, that the supply be liberal.

Therefore, it is worthy of observation here, that great emotions, such as anger or fear, or the unpleasant feeling of worry and vexation, tend to greatly check the normal salivary flow, and, for this reason, if for no other, during the process of mastication, the mind should be swept clean of all such disturbing tendencies.

"WE CLEAN YER!"

Miss Maude Royden, famous English preacher and essayist, tells the story of a charwoman and two well-dressed women of means standing together before an exhibit of a poor, badly-managed home, and a model home.

The two women were making "isn't-it-terrible-how-some-people-live!" comments upon the poor house, which was probably much like the charwoman's own abode.

She endured it for a time, then wheeled and snapped, "And I wonder how clean you'd be if such women as me didn't clean yer!"

"AT HOMES"

Tea, small cakes and cinnamon toast are served on "at home" days. The tea service is arranged on a cart, and candles and open fire add welcome. The stranger, attending an "at home" for the first time, wears her gloves until her tea is offered, and drops a card with her address as she leaves.

CRIED FOR BURNT TOAST.

Imagine a man feeling badly because his toast is always perfectly browned on both sides! Yet such is the plight of Gandle, hero of the season's outstanding classic, "Gandle Follows His Rose."

The wife, brought in this manner "from the shelf where the genii keep gifts for mortals," is unable to make burnt toast, and Gandle yearns and yearns for this little touch with ordinary mortals.

CHEESE BISCUIT!

But we doubt that even poor Gandle struggling for "the common touch" would have smiled upon his lady Agatha had she burned this cheese biscuit made with 1 egg added to 1-2 cup grated cheese, all added to 2 cups flour, 2 tablespoons butter worked into flour, 5 even teaspoons baking powder sifted into flour with pinch o' salt, mixed with 1 scant cup of milk, more added if too soft. Cut in rounds and baked in very quick oven.

"NICE BABY"

Though his brother hides his eyes—

Oh, the dreadful bites he takes
When he's eating pies and cakes!"

YOUR HEALTH

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M.D.,
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

What a lot of things the young mother must learn! Babies can't talk but they can utter the strangest sounds. I remember hearing my own mother say that she had many a fright because of the startling and blood-curdling noises her babies made. She made sure they were choking to death and emitting the death rattle.

Without warning a baby, remarkably well all its life up to then, will suddenly develop a high fever. Day by day, it just seems to melt away.

Perhaps the first sign that something is wrong may be a terrible convulsion. Where a grown person has a chill, an infant may have a fit. The twitching and jerking, the blueness of the face and the set jaw, are terrifying.

All these disturbing symptoms are likely to be due to indigestion. The digestive organs of a tiny baby are delicate things. They do not well endure abuse, even the slightest.

The breast-fed baby is fortunate. The physical deterioration to which cow's milk is liable does not affect the mother's milk. If her milk is of good quality and plentiful enough, there is almost no danger of the baby's having indigestion, convulsion or fever.

The product brought you by the milkman must be carefully handled from the creamery to the consumer. If it is unclean, to begin with, or if it is permitted to get warm, then trouble is in store for the baby who is to drink it.

No matter how carefully milk is produced, there will be some germs in it. In all probability those left are merely the fermenting germs. But always there is a danger that the germs of illness may accidentally contaminate the milk.

If the milk is kept cold, under 45 or 50 degrees, the germs which are there by accident or carelessnesss, will not multiply. Such milk, then, is not particularly dangerous. But if the milk gets warm, in a few hours it swarms and teems with germs.

The baby unfortunate enough to get such milk will be sure to be upset by it. Just how serious will be the symptoms depends on the strength and resistance of the infant. If the conditions are unfavorable for overcoming the infection there will be high fever. This may be ushered in by convulsion, but whether it is or not the temperature will run up and stay there for a day or two or three.

You know how an adult runs down under the effects of fever. Of course, a weak little infant will suffer more serious symptoms.

A few experiences will teach the mother the importance of the most rigid watchfulness over baby's food and the bottle from which it is taken. Every utensil used in preparing the feedings must be clean as can be.

A.—The condition of the general health plays an important part in the condition of the scalp and hair. Careful shampooing and the use of a good tonic should bring about results. For full particulars send a self-addressed stamped envelope and repeat your question.

HOME-MAKING HELPS

THE END OF THE SEASON

The end of the Winter season brings about many changes in housekeeping duties. First there is the house cleaning and all that it means in the way of repairs, elimination of the useless and the addition of necessities for the coming season.

There are so many styles in Summer rugs that it is no deprivation to have the Winter ones cleaned and packed away so we may use them. The winter draperies should be cleaned and put away as soon as possible to save fading in the warm sunshine. Be sure in putting up the Summer curtains to use those that do up readily.

There are a number of points to remember when putting away Winter clothing and when cold storage is not always available. Brush, remove all spots with cleaning fluid, brush out pockets, and under cuffs and collars, then press with a warm iron which destroys moth eggs that may have been lodged in the garments. Fold all the woolen things neatly and do them up in newspaper (the print is objectionable to moths), cover with a brown paper, tie and label them, then place them in chest or trunk. Place the trunk or chest in a cool, dry room. If liked, a few moth balls may be thrown into the spaces around the bundles. Furs, as a rule, will keep perfectly put away in this fashion. A good way is to take a hard wood barrel, put screw hooks around the inside and all the things are in, take a small bottle of chloroform and put it in the bottom and pull out the cork. Cover the barrel well with newspaper and a tight fitting cover.

Launder the blankets, fold them in cheesecloth, wrap them in newspapers and they will keep perfectly. It is hanging the things in the sunlight and outdoors that does the harm, for there insects get at them and they are brought in too frequently with the eggs already laid on them and they develop after they are packed away.

SHE CHATS ABOUT A DELIGHTFUL PICTURE FROCK.

I have already mentioned Miss Black, a youthful client of Madame's, who was voted the best-dressed girl at her college.

Since such a reputation as this always has great appeal for women, I think it just as well to save in my diary this evening gown which is one of Miss Black's choices.

Of course, Madame's advice has meant much to Miss Black in choosing her wardrobe. At the same time, the young girl is a person with very definite ideas of her own, so I think credit for the reputation she has attained goes both to her good taste and Madame's expert fashions.

"In planning my evening things, I always try to include a filmy chiffon of white or a light color, and a bouffant gown," Miss Black remarked.

Miss Black happens to look very well in a bouffant party frock, and to know that she does, so she is very wise to include one in her evening repertoire.

At the same time, it is well to reflect that all young girls do not wear bouffant frocks with equal success, though most of them look well in a picture gown for some occasions.

Wide-skirted party frocks of the type Miss Black likes are especially smart just now, and I think the one she chose, which I am showing a sketch of here, is a particularly lovely one.

The material is apricot taffeta, not the very stiff taffeta that may be too bulky in appearance, but very lovely heavy taffeta with an almost invisible cording.

The off-the-shoulder neckline is most effective for one who possesses lovely shoulders, and the simplicity of the narrow bertha is striking and smart.

Pointed silver lace is inset at the top of the full skirt, and the hemline has shallow scallops that drop longer at each side.

A silver rose at the hip with silver berries dropping below it make a lovely and unusual ornament.

This is all, save for pale flesh evening hose and slippers of black and flesh kid, interlaced.

Friends of Mr. and Mrs. George Worboy Pay Surprise Visit.

CHINA PRESENTED.

A most enjoyable evening was spent at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Worboy, Sherbrook street, when about twenty five of their friends paid a surprise visit on Friday evening which took the form of a hard time party, to celebrate the 20th anniversary of their wedding.

The costumes caused much laughter, the ladies coming in house dresses, some not quite modern, and the men in overalls.

Prize winners for progressive euchre were ladies 1st, Mrs. C. Wiley; ladies, consolation, Mrs. Watson; men's first Mr. H. Wilson; men's consolation, Mr. Hollingsworth.

When lunch had been served, Mrs. Watson read an address and Mrs. C. Wiley presented Mr. and Mrs. Worboy with a prettily decorated basket of white with roses, containing several parcels which when opened proved to contain 20 pieces of Bridal Rose china.

Mr. Worboy thanked his friends for their thoughtfulness and the lovely gifts.

Dancing was then indulged in until the wee sm' hours when the party reluctantly broke up.

The address was

Mr. and Mrs. Worboy:

This being the 20th anniversary of your wedding, we feel that we cannot afford to lose this opportunity of showing you, even though in a small way, the esteem in which you are held by this circle of your old friends, and also by the new friends, that your spirit of friendliness and loving dispositions have won for you.

Through the years that we have known you, Friendship's Golden Chain has been woven, and let us hope that in the years to come the chain may grow longer and stronger, if possible, to make it stronger. We who have known you feel assured that in coming years of your married blessedness you will make yourself many more friends, but none will be more staunch and true than those you already have and hold.

Words cannot expreess our feelings on this occasion but we ask you to accept this small token, not for its value, but for what it stands for. May it remind you in future days of the many happy hours we have spent with you and our heartfelt wish is that health and happiness may be yours. Signed:

Plaits Have Put Their Knife Creases Into Fashion

Plaits head an important chapter on dress. There are box plaits at the front and back of skirts. There are inverted or inserted plaits in sports clothes. Clusters of fine plaits in one-piece dresses are the unmistakable sign of French extraction. Short capes and the lower part of sleeves are finely plaited and so are separate skirts and aprons and the lower part of frocks. Plaits have the double advantage of keeping a frock straight in repose and of kicking out and fluttering after the smart kinetic fashion when one walks. Materials that plait nicely are crêpe de Chine, taffeta, satin crêpe and Georgette.

HER OWN WAY
A GIRL of TODAY

JERRY TO THE RESCUE.

It seemed to me that the bell at the other end of the phone had hardly begun to jingle before I heard Mamie's voice. Without giving me a chance to say anything she exclaimed.

"Judy, is it you? Where are you? What has happened?"

"Yes, it's me," I said with no regard for grammar.

I heard a commotion at the other end of the wire. Mamie was sobbing.

"Here, let me talk to her," said a man's voice. It did not sound like any voice I ever heard even when it asked, "Judy, where are you?"

"At the police station."

"What."

"The station nearest Lincoln Park."

The receiver was evidently dropped again, and another masculine voice spoke. "Judy, this is Jimmie Costello. Can't you speak? Are you hurt? What did you tell Jerry that sent him out of here on the run?"

"I told him I was in the police station nearest Lincoln Park."

"Good Lord! Well, he will be there in a few minutes, if he is not run in for breaking the speed law. Are you hurt, or did you lose your way or anything?"

"I was choked almost to death."

The receiver was dropped again, and I couldn't get anyone on the phone again.

I looked inquiringly at the officer at the desk.

"Don't worry," he said, reassuringly. "They have just dropped the phone and started over for you."

This I found to be true, for at the moment the door was swung open with a bang and Jerry Hathaway rushed in, bareheaded and disheveled.

Distractedly he looked about for a second, until his eyes lighted on me. "Judy! Judy!" he cried, "I thought I had lost you." He had me in his arms before he had finished the sentence and was turning to take me out of the station when the officer said, "One moment, Mr. Hathaway."

"What do you want?" was Jerry's belligerent question.

"I want to find the miscreants who amost choked the young lady in your arms to death."

The Jumper Dress—Supreme for Sports or Daytime Wear

With the whole smart world in sports clothes, one's frocks may still have distinction of line as achieved in the little jumper, or two-piece costume featured here. The material is a pleasing design of the popular printed crêpe combined with plain crêpe. Scallops are a favorite adornment of new frocks, and are used on the turnback collar, pocket flaps and lower edge of the overblouse. There are gathers at each shoulder, and long set-in sleeves. A very narrow belt gives the costume an entirely new and different smartness, and changes its silhouette into a bloused effect. Two wide box-plaits attract attention to the front of the skirt—the back being plain—and contribute desired fulness. The blouse, No. 1347, is in sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44 inches bust. Size 36 bust requires 2¼ yards 39-inch figured crêpe. The skirt, No. 1341, is joined to a camisole top, and is in sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44 inches bust. Size 36 bust requires 1¾ yards 39-inch figured crêpe; lining for camisole top 1 yard 36-inch material. Price 20 cents each pattern.

THE SALIVA.

You will recall how you came in hungry and saw mother's cooking on the table, so tempting. And you said, "It makes my mouth water."

How, as a matter of fact, it probably did, for the mere sight or smell of savory food is sufficient to stimulate the salivary glands to function.

The role played by the saliva among the defensive agencies, in tooth decay, is a very important one.

We have, first, the mechanical cleansing of the teeth and mouth structures by the saliva; how important it is then, that the food be palatable to stimulate the salivary flow and that mastication be thorough to the same end. For it is a matter of common observation, that in cases of 'dry mouth,' the teeth quickly crumble away through decay.

If the milk is kept cold, under 45 or 50 degrees, the germs which are there by accident or carelessnesss, will not multiply. Such milk, then, is not particularly dangerous. But if the milk gets warm, in a few hours it swarms and teems with germs.

The baby unfortunate enough to get such milk will be sure to be upset by it. Just how serious will be the symptoms depends on the strength and resistance of the infant. If the conditions are unfavorable for overcoming the infection there will be high fever. This may be ushered in by convulsion, but whether it is or not the temperature will run up and stay there for a day or two or three.

You know how an adult runs down under the effects of fever. Of course, a weak little infant will suffer more serious symptoms.

A few experiences will teach the mother the importance of the most rigid watchfulness over baby's food and the bottle from which it is taken. Every utensil used in preparing the feedings must be clean as can be.

Answers to Health Queries.

A FEW EXTRA CALORIES.

A tablespoonful of thin cream added to clam bouillon makes it a much more interesting affair.

HOME-MAKING HELPS

THE END OF THE SEASON

The end of the Winter season brings about many changes in housekeeping duties. First there is the house cleaning and all that it means in the way of repairs, elimination of the useless and the addition of necessities for the coming season.

There are so many styles in Summer rugs that it is no deprivation to have the Winter ones cleaned and packed away so we may use them. The winter draperies should be cleaned and put away as soon as possible to save fading in the warm sunshine. Be sure in putting up the Summer curtains to use those that do up readily.

There are a number of points to remember when putting away Winter clothing and when cold storage is not always available. Brush, remove all spots with cleaning fluid, brush out pockets, and under cuffs and collars, then press with a warm iron which destroys moth eggs that may have been lodged in the garments. Fold all the woolen things neatly and do them up in newspaper (the print is objectionable to moths), cover with a brown paper, tie and label them, then place them in chest or trunk. Place the trunk or chest in a cool, dry room. If liked, a few moth balls may be thrown into the spaces around the bundles. Furs, as a rule, will keep perfectly put away in this fashion. A good way is to take a hard wood barrel, put screw hooks around the inside and all the things are in, take a small bottle of chloroform and put it in the bottom and pull out the cork. Cover the barrel well with newspaper and a tight fitting cover.

Launder the blankets, fold them in cheesecloth, wrap them in newspapers and they will keep perfectly. It is hanging the things in the sunlight and outdoors that does the harm, for there insects get at them and they are brought in too frequently with the eggs already laid on them and they develop after they are packed away.

SHE CHATS ABOUT A DELIGHTFUL PICTURE FROCK.

I have already mentioned Miss Black, a youthful client of Madame's, who was voted the best-dressed girl at her college.

Since such a reputation as this always has great appeal for women, I think it just as well to save in my diary this evening gown which is one of Miss Black's choices.

Of course, Madame's advice has meant much to Miss Black in choosing her wardrobe. At the same time, the young girl is a person with very definite ideas of her own, so I think credit for the reputation she has attained goes both to her good taste and Madame's expert fashions.

"In planning my evening things, I always try to include a filmy chiffon of white or a light color, and a bouffant gown," Miss Black remarked.

Miss Black happens to look very well in a bouffant party frock, and to know that she does, so she is very wise to include one in her evening repertoire.

At the same time, it is well to reflect that all young girls do not wear bouffant frocks with equal success, though most of them look well in a picture gown for some occasions.

Wide-skirted party frocks of the type Miss Black likes are especially smart just now, and I think the one she chose, which I am showing a sketch of here, is a particularly lovely one.

The material is apricot taffeta, not the very stiff taffeta that may be too bulky in appearance, but very lovely heavy taffeta with an almost invisible cording.

The off-the-shoulder neckline is most effective for one who possesses lovely shoulders, and the simplicity of the narrow bertha is striking and smart.

Pointed silver lace is inset at the top of the full skirt, and the hemline has shallow scallops that drop longer at each side.

A silver rose at the hip with silver berries dropping below it make a lovely and unusual ornament.

This is all, save for pale flesh evening hose and slippers of black and flesh kid, interlaced.

MASSEYS LOSE PAIR OF POINTS TO THE QUAKERS

Two Clever Teams Gave First Class Soccer in League Fixture.

MASSEYS UNLUCKY.

Opportunties Grasped By Quakers To Gain Two Snappy Goals.

Judging from the good attendance at King Edward Park on Saturday afternoon, local Senior soccer is supplying the need in first-class sport when the Massey and Quaker Oats met in a league fixture that was full of clean, fast and combination tactics. The score is no criterion of the play because both teams were well matched, but Mitchell, as the opportunist in play, gave his team mates the confidence to get a two-goal lead.

Opening Very Fast

After the first brush, fouls dominated the situation with free-kicks for goal, which did not prove dangerous until a foul against Roberts, who actually touched the ball outside the penalty area, left W. Logan to rap a fast drive into goal that Foster handled easily, but play was concentrated inside the goal area to Massey's cost, when Mitchell touched the sphere through far from the Massey's custodian.

Masseys Pressed Hard

The loss of this counter made the Massey boys very aggressive. Clark outwitted the defence down the wing, to miss the upright by inches. During the next five minutes Masseys held the upper hand in which both defences indulged in making clever clearances and well placed shots right into the goal-mouth. Two corners in succession in favor of the Masseys were frustrated by the Quakers' full-backs, who put up a stubborn defence and were very steady when hard pressed.

A Sure Goal Missed

Carmichael carried the attack to the other end again to make play interesting in around Foster's charge, but Blowers frustrated the attack when he passed out to the right wing. Montgomery and Clark combination then went down the field to centre the ball right across the goal, when the Quakers' defence missed the ball and all it needed was the touch of the foot that was not there to even up the score, but went past for a goal kick.

First-Class Soccer

It was nice to witness two elevens give such a clean display of tactics on the field and both sides' strategy and execution was exactly as written in which the Quaker forwards initiated an attack that resulted in Williams hitting the cross-bar from 15 yards range. Foster jumped up into the air to avert disaster but he found the post his friend. Man, relieved to his half-backs who paid a visit to Curtis' citadel who had difficulty in clearing James' long dropping shot. At this period of the tussel, the whole 22 men were giving their best.

Excitement Very High

Quick as a flash, the Quakers' left wing beat it to the other end, where Westlake prevented the brilliant wing from getting all their own way, but Mitchell run across to gain possession, he slipped the ball to G. Logan, who lifted it over the bar, to Foster's relief. No sooner did this take place when the same performance was repeated by James at the other end, and was very unfortunate in the closing minutes in not scoring, when he headed the ball into goal, but he was illegally handled when in the attitude of jumping to head the ball. Half time was announced with the Quakers holding a one-goal lead.

Half Time

Play in the second half opened with assaults by the Quaker men who found the Massey defence unbeatable. Halliday took the ball from Wilson, carried the onset right up into his opponents' area, where James lobbed the sphere over the bar. Again a Massey raid and corner caused a diversion around Curtis' charge, when he fisted clear when hard pressed. A foul brought relief to the Quakers. Maker punted up the field to Mitchell, who made tracks for goal. Mann tackled smartly to relieve the attack, but the Quakers' centre-forward replied with a long shot that went past. Burgess changed places with Williams to watch Clark, who played havoc around the Quakers' goal.

James Unfortunate

From a throw-in, James gained possession in midfield, and beat the two full backs nicely, as he travelled for goal, but the ball took a peculiar turn when he was in the act of shooting, thereby letting H. Curtis punt up field. He again broke through on his own, but passed across to Hotson, who placed a nice corner off Logan. The ball landed well outside the goal where Laidler's cranium diverted the sphere into goal. Curtis fisting clear. The Quaker half-backs cleared the attack and sent their own forwards on the move to give Foster an exciting time in goal.

A Surprise Goal

The play run from end to end for a while until J. Mitchell on the right wing was hemmed into the corner flag, but banged the ball again his opponent to get a corner-kick. He made an accurate centre into goal and at the opportune moment Williams ran in to convert at the far post. The Masseys tried hard to even up the score, but the breaks did not come their way. In the last five minutes of the battle, Mitchell hit the upright with stinging drives. While at the other end, James and Laidler made masterly strokes in play to get a goal, but it was not their luck. The ball was in mid-field when the final whistle resulted in Quakers, 2; Masseys, 0.

SUDDEN END TO BOUT IN OTTAWA

Harry Henning, of Toronto, Floored in Second Round.

OTTAWA, May 10 (Canadian Press).—Del Fontaine of Winnipeg scored a technical knockout over Harry Hennings of Toronto, in the second of a ten round scheduled boxing bout here Saturday night. The match was announced as being for the middleweight championship of Canada.

The end of the fight came very suddenly. In the first round the men fought cautiously, obviously feeling each other out. Near the end of the round Fontaine staged an offensive and rocked the Torontoian with a series of left hooks to the head. One minute and thirty seconds after the second round opened, Fontaine drove his opponent to the ropes and scored again with a left to the jaw. Henning dropped to the canvas for a count of eight. He rose again, and Fontaine scored time after time with his left hand to the jaw as Henning staggered helplessly around the ring. Fontaine was all over the Toronto boy, and again floored him, when Henning's seconds threw a towel into the ring and Referee Marsh awarded Fontaine the title on a technical knockout. The men both weighed 158 pounds.

Georges Chabot of Montreal won the decision over Phil Rivers of Toronto after a hard, fast battle in the semi-final event of eight rounds. The Montrealer took the majority of the rounds and his victory was well earned.

Why let CARBON Continually put your Car in the Repair Shop?

CARBON is the most annoying—and at the same time the most destructive element with which you must contend in the operation of your motor car.

It costs you money in frequent repair bills and in rapid deterioration of your motor and causes you annoyance by the knocking, missing, weakened condition it brings to your otherwise good engine.

The amount of carbon deposit—and carbon trouble—which you have, is determined by the motor oil you use; because carbon is produced when the oil burns in your cylinders.

To avoid carbon troubles use the motor oil that successfully combats carbon—Marvelube—refined from a matchless grade of Peruvian Crude Oil—a crude oil that is remarkably free from carbon. The Marvelube Process. by which it is made, is a new and revolutionary step forward in lubricating oil refining science, developed after four years of research. It reduces carbon to the merest trace in the finished oil.

No other motor oil can match Marvelube in this almost carbonless quality, because Imperial Oil Limited controls Peruvian crude oil, while the Marvelube Process is the sole property of Imperial Oil Limited.

Use Marvelube Motor Oil. Save money on repair bills. Keep your car on the road—smooth and powerful in its everyday performance.

Marvelube is made in six grades—including Marvelube "F" for Ford cars. It is sold at Imperial Oil stations and by good dealers everywhere. The standard retail price of Marvelube from bulk is 35c. per quart.

CECIL LEITCH—SHOULD KNOW RULES

In the semi-final round of a match play tournament for club teams the result depended upon the last match which was carried to the nineteenth hole. Here A played her opponent's ball after the tee shots and thereby immediately lost the hole under Rule 20. Neither player, however, knew the rule and they proceeded to play out the hole, B having dropped another ball, and the result was a win for A. It was then pointed out that this could be regarded as the "waiving of a penalty" and would mean the disqualification of both players, and this would leave the contest between the two teams undecided.

The affair was eventually settled by the two players replaying the nineteenth hole. B won this, which was perhaps entirely satisfactory, as the penalty incurred by A should have been claimed at once.

While it is always unpleasant to have to claim a penalty, it would be very much easier for all concerned if every player were to become conversant with the rules.

Were this so the offender would immediately admit the penalty and the opponent would be saved embarassment.

Diamond Disputes Decided

BILLY EVANS

When a batting-out-of-order play is properly discovered, how is it determined as to who shall be called out?

More disputes arise over this phase of play than over any other feature of baseball.

The man who should have batted, the proper batsman, is the player who should always be called out. No thought is given to the improper batsman relative to the out.

The improper batsman is simply the offender. The wrong that he commits is not penalized unless the team in the field is wide awake to the situation. Then the penalty is placed on the proper batsman.

Much confusion will be eliminated if one simply remembers that the proper batsman is the one who is called out when the mistake is discovered in time and an appeal made to the umpire.

If the improper batsman hits safely, he is simply removed from the bases, the proper batsman is called out and the man who follows the proper batsman in the batting order is the next hitter.

BILLY EVANS Says

Discards Deliver.

Certain major league managers appear to have unusual success with discards.

Wilbert Robinson of the Brooklyn Nationals has always been such a leader. He has been particularly fortunate with pitchers labeled through by other managers.

Credit for this unusual success with discarded twirlers has been attributed to the fact that Robinson as a player was a great catcher, a fine coach of pitchers.

It is beginning to look as if Rogers Hornsby of the St. Louis Cardinals is to share the spotlight that has been playing on genial Wilbert Robinson for these many years.

Correct Dope.

When I talked with Hornsby at the spring training camp of the Cardinals, his pitching was the only thing that gave him much concern.

"Rival clubs may not see it as I do, but I figure Keen, Huntzinger and Johnson are going to be a great help to my club.

"They have shown plenty of stuff and under the direction of Bill Killefer should be much improved pitchers this year. I am positive the former Cub manager will just about make my pitching staff.

"I know what Keen and Huntzinger can do and everybody tells me that Johnson, who once cost Detroit a lot of money, should win for me.

"Huntzinger has had the benefit of several years under McGraw and that means much. However, I intend to start Huntzinger and give him a four or five-day rest between games. With New York he was a relief pitcher almost entirely and he is hardly strong enough for that role.

"I also intend to use Johnson and Keen as regulars and am pretty sure they will deliver."

That Hornsby had the right dope a month before the opening of the season has been proven by the excellent work of these three pitchers.

Every game they have worked has been of the highest order and in most cases a victory has resulted.

Colorful Club.

When Hornsby discussed the chances of his club to win the National League pennant, he dwelled on the spirit of the club as one of the most important factors.

"The team has fight and confidence," is the way Hornsby summed up his club.

As a matter of fact, Hornsby has, by his own play inspired the club with the fighting spirit that is going to make the Cardinals troublesome. Hornsby does everything he asks his players.

No man on the team runs out a hit harder than Hornsby. No matter how far behind he continues to hustle, hoping for the break.

Regardless of where the St. Louis Cardinals finish this year, it is going to be an interesting team to watch, because it boasts the great Hornsby and a fighting cast.

Incidentally, it looks as if he is going to get pretty good pitching, the one feature of which he was doubtful.

MOVIGRAPHS

HOLLYWOOD, May 10. — "The Unknown Soldier"—Renaud Hoffman's cinema dedication to the human symbol who had but one life to contribute to war's death vat—will be one of the first motion pictures to deal with a romantic, spiritual theme of the World War.

The film tempo is attuned to the psychic conjectures that pervade all minds that think of the horrors and goodnesses of war.

HOLLYWOOD, May 10.—Florence Vidor has reached the top rung of the ladder. Announcement has just been made by Paramount that she has been elevated to the ranks of the stars.

To become a star is every player's ambition. It means that hereafter productions will be built around Florence and her personality, rather than Florence and her personality building themselves around the plays. Heretofore Miss Vidor has been known as merely a "featured player."

Some reach stardom overnight, such as Betty Bronson. But for most of them it is a long, hard way. Florence Vidor's fans, who have watched her progress, will be glad to know that now she takes nobody's dust—not even Gloria's, Bebe's or Pola's.

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studio may be indicted for many things, but never can it be said that it plays favorites. Two of the studio's leading stars, John Gilbert and Ramon Novarro, are to be broadcast in "Magnificent" pictures. Gilbert is to play in "Bardelys, the Magnificent," and Novarro in "Bellamy, the Magnificent."

The NUT Cracker

By JOE WILLIAMS

The Tunney-Stribling thing will go into the records as an N. D. fight anyway. . . . Only in this instance it will mean No Dough.

Shelby, Mont., to Miami, Fla., "Cheer up, the first 100 flops are always the hardest."

The remarkable thing about the defunct fight to us is that it degenerated into such a complete failure without any assistance from Jack Kearns.

These big league fights in small league territories will never be uniformly successful until some one invents a handy substitute for money.

The modern fighter, being what he is, is seldom willing to accept the equivalent to a $50,000 purse in lettuce, string beans, souvenir post cards and water front lots.

But he is always willing to meet the harassed promoter half way in an ox cart, providing he can ride the other half in a limousine.

A cow town out in Montana hired Dempsey and Gibbons to fight just to put the town on the map three years ago. . . . The town got on the map, but it's still trying to get off the nut.

Any kind of failure is encrusted with annoying bunions and embarrassing corns. Miami, the magnificent, blushes because there weren't enough yokels in the outlying realty developments to put the fight over.

This is either a rare form of civic pride or civic insanity or both.

There are a gang of cities in the country that would deem it a four-base pleasure to miss a fight between two modern heavyweights.

As we understand the advance publicity, the winner of the match was to meet Dempsey.

The boys were great optimists when they believed that. . . . In fact they were great optimists when they believed they would get $85,000.

Bobby Cruickshank has lost three golf tourneys by one stroke this year. . . . But fortunately he is a fluent cusser.

Cal Coolidge's boy says he has no ambition to be a Dempsey. . . . Maybe this is his way of saying he intends to be a fighter.

Harry Greb will probably be remembered as the fastest fighter the game every had. . . . Either in or out of the ring.

Willie Hoppe is getting old and losing his skill and the time can't be far off when the public will be calling him Bill.

The main difference between Nick Altrock and many of his contemporaries is he admits he is a clown ball player.

Someone should persuade the Prince of Wales to capitalize his unique abilities. . . . There is plenty of room in the world for a clever acrobat.

While the Harvard football situation might be worse, as the philosophical critic says, still it couldn't possibly be more comical.

We don't blame the pitchers for making Ruth walk so much. They'd be awful saps to carry a big bird like him around.

THEATRE AT THE REGENT

MAE MURRAY IS AT PEAK OF HER CAREER IN FILMS.

Flappers who yearn for Paris, with its tinsel, gaiety and romance, and sigh for a glimpse of the Montmarte, a visit to its strange cafes, and perhaps the sight of a real Apache or a real Apache dance—here's your chance.

Mae Murray will act as your guide on a personally conducted tour of it all—and the tinsel, the glitter, the cafes and the Apaches will all lie before you. Also—she'll teach you a lesson— and convince you that under all the tinsel and all the glitter there is a something else in Paris;—a bitter tragedy, perhaps—but the same tragedy that lurks in all our cities from London or New York down to Paducah.

Gaiety and Pathos.

It's all to be found in the new Mae Murray picture, "The Masked Bride," now playing at the Regent Theatre. It's a story of glitter and gaiety—of a Paris dancer in wonderful costumes and wonderful adventures— that narrow down into the real truth—that too often heartaches, danger and dread lie under the masks of artificial happiness.

The new picture, one of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's big features of the year, shows Miss Murray as the dancer—in wonderful dances, gorgeous costumes, and dazzling settings.

Francis X. Buchman, perhaps the handsomest man on the screen, is the hero—and a wonderful one, too.

STEAMERS COLLIDE.

Many Passengers Drowned When Vessel Sinks in Dnieper.

MOSCOW, May 10.—(Canadian Press.) — The steamer Bielormes, plying between Gomel and Kiev on the River Dnieper, collided with the barge Soone, after leaving Gomel. All the passengers on deck were rescued, while a number of passengers in the lower cabins went down with the vessel. The rescue squad which rushed to the scene saved many of the passengers, but the number who perished was not learned.

BRITISH WOMEN HELP IN RELIEF

Shop Girls and Society Dames Aid Victims of Stirke.

LONDON, May 10.—(Canadian Press.)—The women of Great Britain—society dames and shop girls alike—are swinging into line vigorously in efforts to alleviate the suffering and discomfort caused by the general strike.

There was no early Saturday closing at the headquarters of the Women's Auxiliary Service, which is headed by Commandant Mary Allen, who was decorated for her war services. So incessant was the stream of volunteer workers for first aid and red cross work that recruiting was halted Saturday afternoon until Monday to give the staff opportunity to catch up with the applicants that have enrolled already.

Commandant Allen went by aeroplane to Birmingham Saturday in response to an appeal to organize women there for public service along the same lines as is being done in London. It is probable that the auxiliary service will be extended to other English centres if the strike continues.

Woman Pilots Plane.

Two private aeroplanes have been placed at the disposal of Commandant Allen to facilitate her transportation to the industrial centres. One of the planes is piloted by the noted English woman flier, Mrs. Elliott Lynn.

Offers of automobiles have come in such numbers that Commandant Allen has been obliged to organize a special transport department for which Viscountess Rhondda, Great Britain's foremost woman in the business world, who is a director of coal mines in South Wales and of other enterprises, has turned over her premises on Victoria street.

A number of women doctors also have offered their services for red cross and first aid work.

Lady Plunkett and Lady Lettice Lygon, who is a noted society beauty, are the latest additions to the force of women who are helping the newspapers by selling the present slim newspaper issues.

Clyde Women Bitter.

"General" Flora Drummond, of the Women's Guild of the Empire, who is working in her home area in Glasgow, reports there is a bitter feeling among the Clyde women against the strike, which they complain has been called without a general vote. She reports that the strike is beginning to cause great distress among the poorer families.

Many of the wives of trades unionists are helping out in the strike emergency by working in soup kitchens and rest rooms.

Inspector Campbell of the women's section of the London Police Court who has had twelve years' experience in that line of work, praised the readiness with which the women of all classes are submitting to the somewhat severe discipline enforced in the auxiliary services.

Society women are cheerfully accepting menial tasks, she said. For instance, Lady Louis Mountbatten, formerly Edwina Ashley, one of the wealthiest girls in England, does not disdain to fry sausages for the hungry lorry drivers at the Hyde Park milk depot. Gertrude Lady Decies is another enthusiastic worker.

ELDERS ORDAINED AT BRIDGENORTH

Rev. P. L. Jull Officiates and Preaches Inspiring Sermon.

A very impressive service was held on the Bridgenorth pastoral charge of the United Church of Canada Sunday, May 2, when Rev. P. L. Jull, B.A., of Lakefield, conducted an ordination service, at which nine men were ordained into the eldership of the church. The members elected and ordained at the separate churches were as follows: Bridgenorth—W. A. Sidey, W. J. Telford, P. T. Udy. Fairview—W. H. Bell, F. F. Bell, F. McKee. Selwyn—I. Elliott, G. Fitzgerald, F. McIlmoyl. Following the ordination service, the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper was administered, at which each elder assisted in the dispensation.

Mr. Jull chose for his text, I. Tim. v., 17: "Let the elders that rule well be counted worthy of double honor." After introducing his subject by a historical sketch of the place and function of the elder in the early Christian Church, he pointed out its honored place in the former Presbyterian Church in Canada, applying it in conclusion to the present day in the United Church of Canada. An elder must be a man of honesty, sobriety and integrity in his private life, which virtues are a basis for his election to a place of honor, ruling and teaching in his office as a spiritual guide in all the evangelical work of the church.

Mr. Jull's services were highly appreciated by the congregations at each church, and his ideal and practical picture of the eldership will long remain as a cherished possession.

The way that Rogers Hornsby has walloped the pill in the exhibition games in the South has been like a bottle of spring tonic to the St. Louis Cardinal baseball fans. With Hornsby in top batting form it is figured that the Cardinals should be able to keep in the thick of the pennant scramble through the season.

ALL SAINTS' MAKES A DRIVE THIS WEEK

Campaign To Raise $20,000 Is Well Under Way—Workers Enthusiastic.

Those who are campaigning for the $20,000 required to clear All Saints' Church of debt and make necessary improvements report great encouragement in their efforts. They are being well received by members of the congregation and others, and see no reason why the objective for this worthy work should not be reached.

At the Confirmation Service last Sunday a crowded congregation heard His Lordship Bishop Sweeny voice his approval of the effort and give his best wishes for its success. A mortgage of $12,300 on the Church and another of $3,500 on the Rectory have been a drag on progress for years, and this is the first big effort put forth to wipe them out.

The campaign being launched this year is particularly appropriate, since this is the Semi-Jubilee of the setting apart of All Saints' as a separate Parish. There is a splendid work being done by this Church, not only in the religious exercises but in those other Christian work that includes the caring for the sick, the helping of the needy, and the relief of all kinds of suffering. There are 500 scholars in attendance at the Sunday School every week, an indication of the big field covered by the workers, and at the Confirmation service held on May 2nd there were eighty-four candidates.

The special effort is being made this week. Many volunteers are busy, and they hope that everyone will do his part in the great work being attempted.

CHIEF'S TRIP IS FRUITLESS

Fear Man Who Robbed Safe Had Too Long a Start.

ARREST MADE

LINDSAY, May 10. — Chief Umphrey's visit to Toronto in search of the young man who is accused of stealing $241 from Beatty & Stroud's safe over the week end, was barren of results. The accused got too big a start on the authorities, and it is believed that he is now across the line.

The Chief on Friday arrested a local young man named Joe Sullivan in connection with the theft. He has been remaned to jail for eight days. The police refuse to divulge any information bearing on Sullivan's alleged connection with the matter. The same officer visited Omemee Friday where he is said to have secured important information.

NO DESIRE IN INDIA TO LEAVE BRITISH EMPIRE

No Leader of Any Importance Advocates Separation, Says Indian Speaker.

ADDRESSES ROTARY.

Hambourg String Quartette Makes Delightful Contribution To Programme.

That there is any strong current of opinion in India in favour of separation from the British Empire was emphatically denied by Mr. John Raja Ratnam Isaac, a native of India where he has been a Y.M.C.A. worker for the last twenty years, in the course of a most interesting address on the subject "India, Yesterday, Today and Tomorrow," at the weekly luncheon of the Peterboro Rotary Club at the Empress today. Mr. Isaac's picture of conditions in India and his explanation of the ambitions of leading Indians were much appreciated by the Rotarians.

An enjoyable feature of today's programme was contributed by the Hambourg String Quartette of which Martin Chenhall Jr. of Peterboro is the cellist. The quartette gave a delightful rendition of Puchon's arrangement of the favourite old English song "Drink To Me Only" and in response to the enthusiastic applause played with equal effectiveness the descriptive number "The Mill", Raff-Puchon.

Mr. Isaac's address on India emphasized the fact that although the missionaries and other Christian workers seemed to be making slow progress as judged by the number of converts made, Christianity had nevertheless made a profound impression upon the people of India, a statement that Mr. Isaac supported by quotations from Gandhi and other Indian leaders. The speaker gave a graphic description of the conditions produced in India by development of caste system and by the many divisions in which the people were placed by creed differences. He stressed the long history of India and pointed out that the literature of the olden days was a sealed book to all but a very small percentage of the Indian people, only 6 per cent of whom could read or write their own language. This illiteracy coupled with the shackling influence of the caste system made progress slow but ambition to have India become a free nation with a system of government similar to that of Canada was not lacking. This did not mean separation from the Empire and he declared that no leader of any importance in any of the parties sought to promote such a separation.

The carnival committee of which Past President John H. Seels is chairman was authorized to make arrangements for a week's programme this year instead of the one day summer carnival as held by Rotary during the past two years. Further particulars as to this interesting event will be announced in the near future.

AROUND THE CITY.

The fire department was called to the Walter G. Green foundry on Saturday at noon to put out a small fire which started in the moulding boxes. At 4.25 p.m. the garage at the rear of 368 Brock Street caught fire. A bonfire had been started and the sparks from this ignited the shingles on the roof. Very little damage was caused. At 11.08 a.m. on Sunday the department was called to a stove-pipe fire at 503 Albert street, and at 1.37 p.m. a grass fire broke out in the field of the Canadian Woollens at the corner of Monaghan Road and McDonnel.

CORSAN TEACHES OLD AND YOUNG

Swimming Instructor Also Gives Talks on Life-Saving.

HERE NEXT WEEK.

In view of the pending visit of George H. Corsan, the International expert in swimming, to the local branch of the Young Men's Christian Association, the following comment may prove of interest to the citizens of Peterborough. Capt. Corsan will open a city wide course in swimming for beginners and coaching for the more advanced on Monday, May 17th.

"His (Corsan's) campaigns are not devoted to boys as was the case years ago, but even if they were, they would still have a far reaching benefit in the community. In addition to the success which has attended his efforts with boys, Mr. Corsan has featured the teaching of young men and women; of middle aged men and women; of even elderly men and women. His work with this type of pupil is as attractive and successful as has been his work with boys for many years."

It is hoped that arrangements can be made whereby Mr. Corsan will talk to the boys and girls at the schools on swimming and life-saving. In addition to the work he does in the swimming pools on this continent Mr. Corsan makes a regular feature of his work in talking to the school children and members of the service club on the topic which lies nearest his heart. In addition to the educational features thus presented he writes articles regularly for some of the leading out-door magazines.

Mr. Corsan will give an exhibition during his stay in Peterborough which will prove to be an eye-opener to many people, as he commands some sixty stunts and strokes and exhibits wonderful control. This intrepid swimmer negotiated the waters of Toronto Bay last fall whilst shackled hand and foot.

OBITUARY.

MAURICE O'HERON.

The death occurred on Saturday, in St. Joseph's Hospital, of Maurice O'Heron, for many years a resident of Peterborough. The deceased had been in the employ of the Canadian Woollens Company for 53 years.

There remain to mourn his loss his wife, one son, Herbert, of this city, six daughters, Daisy and Madeline at home, Mrs. Stephen O'Connor, Mrs. George Hynes, and Mrs. Fred Lajoie, of this city, and Mrs. Fred Derocher, of St. Catharines, and one sister, Mrs. Dan Hennessy, of Peterborough.

The funeral will take place from the family residence to the Church of the Immaculate Conception and thence to St. Peter's cemetery. The cortege will leave the house at 8.45 to-morrow morning.

MRS. JAMES FERGUSON.

The death occurred on Saturday evening, May 8, at her residence, 476 Bonaccord street, Peterborough, of Rachel Moore, widow of the late James Ferguson, who predeceased her six and one-half months ago.

The late Mrs. Ferguson was of a quiet nature, but was greatly loved and respected by those who knew her. The late Mrs. Ferguson was eighty-five years of age. She has been in failing health for the last two years, but suffered a stroke of paralysis on Wednesday last, from which she never recovered.

The funeral will be from her late residence, Bonaccord street, on Tuesday afternoon. The service will be at 2 o'clock.

CHURCH DISPUTE COMES UP AGAIN

Both Factions Plan To Use Church Next Sunday.

AT PITTSBURGH.

KINGSTON, Ont., May 10 (Canadian Press). — Announcement by both factions that they would hold services in the church next Sunday apparently presages another dispute over the possession of St. John's Church in Pittsburgh Township, which for some months has been a bone of contention between the Presbyterians and the Unionists. Rev. W. M. Fee of Picton announced at the service of the Presbyterians in St. John's last evening that they, the Presbyterians, would hold services in the church weekly henceforth, beginning next Sunday. To-day it was learned officially that the Unionists are planning to hold their service as usual next Sunday morning.

CHURCHILL'S HOUSE USED BY LABORITES

Former Home of Strike's Bitterest Opponent Is Strike Headquarters.

LONDON, May 10 (Canadian Press).—By the irony of fortune the old home of Right Hon. Winston Churchill, Chancellor of the Exchequer, who is considered by the trade unionists one of their bitterest opponents in the British Government, is now being used as the Labor Party headquarters in the conduct of the general strike.

The old-fashioned three storey and basement house at 34 Eccleston Square, which now houses the strike leaders, was the first home of Mr. and Mrs. Churchill after their marriage in 1908. The high-ceilinged room on the second floor, overlooking a park, where Mr. Churchill spent many quiet and pleasant hours, today is serving as the office of Arthur Henderson, Home Secretary under the Labor Government of Ramsay MacDonald, and is the scene of constant activity.

In the days of the Churchills' residence in Eccleston Square this room was Mr. Churchill's library. The Churchills have many pleasant recollections of the house because it was here that they set up housekeeping and did much entertaining as a young married couple. Then, too, the house was the birthplace of their first child, sixteen years ago.

The Labor Party headquarters also includes two neighborng buildings where are located the offices of the Trades Union Congress upon which the eyes of Great Britain are now centered.

C.W.L. HOLDS TEA.

Pleasant Afternoon Spent at Home of Mrs. E. Conroy.

The Catholic Women's League were hostesses at a very pleasant tea held on Saturday afternoon at the residence of Mrs. Ed. Conroy, Reid Street. The guests were received by Mrs. Conroy and Mrs. N. E. Phelan, president of the society, with Mrs. J. U. Finn officiating at the door, and Mrs. M. Henry ushering the ladies into the tea room. The table, which was prettily centered with a large silver basket of red tulips, was presided over by Mrs. F. Fairen and Mrs. J. A. Sharpe. Assistants were Mrs. J. Corkery, Junior, Mrs. F. LaPlante, the Misses Florence Giroux, Cathleen Conroy, Marcelle McNulty, Irene Buchanan, Jean Duffus, Jean White, Lucille Doris, and Marguerite Merrell.

During the afternoon an enjoyable musical programme, in charge of Miss Geraldine Collins was rendered, with instrumental selections by Mrs. W. Hickey, Miss Lucille Dorris and Mrs. Louis Letellier, and vocal solos by the Misses Geraldine Collins, Gladys Costello, Catheleen McCarthy, and Mr. Jack Roach. Accompanists for the solos were Mrs. Hickey, and Miss Letellier.

Convict Jumps Railing Repents His Rash Action

KINGSTON, Ont., May 10.—(Special.) — A sensation was caused in the Portsmouth penitentiary on Sunday night, just at supper time, when a convict named Mintz, serving a three year term, attempted to jump to the stone floor 30 feet below.

However, he repented with his first leap over the railing, for he caught the iron railing and swinging in the air he threw his body inward, and fell into the third gallery, and repeated the act to the second and first galleries, finally dropping to the floor, fall of about seven feet. When the guards reached him lying in a heap, he got up and was able to walk to the hospital, where it was found he suffered from a bruised arm, his elbow also being fractured.

Mintz, who has been employed as a mason's helper, said that the impulse that came to him was to throw himself over the railing and was due to a nervous condition he had suffered all day.

TWILIGHT MUSICALE.

A fine closing to Music Week in Peterboro was a very interesting programme of vocal and instrumental numbers given at a Twilight Musicale held in the hall of the Conservatory of Music on Saturday afternoon. Much appreciation was accorded the numbers on a splendid programme, which included two opening selections by a small orchestra, directed by Professor Gliddon, a number by a String Quartette, led by Dr. H. G. Park, instrumental numbers by Miss Kathleen Sutton of Millbrook, and Arnold Spencer, and vocal solos that were charmingly rendered by a number of Mrs. Dorothy Allan Park's pupils.

The programme was as follows: March, "The Vanished Army," and an "Andante," by Verdi, given by the orchestra; vocal solos, "A Boat Song" and "The Lass with the Delicate Air," sung by Miss Helen Lytle; "Winds in the Trees" and "Dawn," sung by Miss Ida McBride; "Dawn, Gentle Flower," and an "Ave Maria," the latter sung in Latin, by Mrs. Walter Byers; "Summertime" and "A Pastorale" (Old English), sung by Miss Margaret Dickson of Campbellford, and 'Rose, Softly Blooming," and "Solveig's Song" by Greig, sung by Mrs. Ross Willamson. Miss Kathleen Sutton played with delicate tone Schubert's "Impromptu" and a Concert Etude, "La Chassee," by Liszt, and Arnold Spencer gave a violin number in very good style, a "Sonata" by Handel. A string quartette, led by Dr. H. G. Park, played in excellent fashion the quartette setting of "Drink to Me Only With Thine Eyes." Members of this quartette, a new addition to the city's list of musical groups, are Dr. Park, first violin and leader, A. McKeown, second violin, C. Gallegher, viola, and C. Seymour, violoncello.

Accompanists for the musicale were Miss Agnes Logan, playing for the soloists, and Miss Olga Fowler for the orchestra.

EIGHT TEAMS IN E. P. BALL LEAGUE

Teams Are Stronger and the Fans Will See Keen Competition.

The East Peterborough Baseball League will operate this coming season with four clubs in the rural series and four teams in the city section. At a meeting of the League on Saturday night plans for the season were discussed and it was decided to hold another meeting on Wednesday night when the new executive will be elected and the opening games scheduled. Applications for membership must be received at this meeting. All the clubs of last season are confident of putting out stronger teams and a banner season is anticipated.

CENTRAL LEAGUERS HAVE A WORKOUT

Manager Shiner Johnston had his Central leaguers out in full force at the Exhibition Grounds Saturday, and two hours' workout helped the gang to get some of the winter's kinks out of their system. Hap Harrison was out with the squad for the first time this season. A scrub game with the Raybestos, East Peterborough League team, wound up the practice, and both teams got in a lot of useful work. The season opens a week from Wednesday, when the Petes invade Kingston.

IN POLICE COURT.

Fish Cases.

The police court presented a busy appearance this morning as a result of the activities of Peter Stevenson, warden of game and fisheries for the provincial government, and R. D. Windsor, overseer for the department, who spent the week-end in this district with disastrous results to a number of men who, it is said, were fishing for maskinonge out of season.

Magistrate Langley, in fining several of the accused, stated that the province was spending large sums of money in attempting to replenish the fisheries in order that honest anglers would be provided with good sport at the proper season. This sort of offence, he said, would have to be stamped out, as it was the cause of great damage among the fish, especially during the spawning season. He stated that he would deal more severely with any offenders brought before him on this charge in the future.

The first case brought before His Worship was that of a resident of Ennismore, who was charged with having maskinonge in his possession out of season. The accused pleaded guilty to having the fish in his possession, but said that he had never fished in his life, either in season or out of season. He had been working at a camp in Harvey township, and one of the men on the gang had caught a fish which he asked him to clean. "I was just cleaning the first," he said, "when the inspector walked in."

He stated that he had been a resident of this district for 65 years and during that time he had never been in police court before.

A resident of Bewdley pleaded guilty to a charge of spearing maskinonge. Warden Stevenson stated that he came across the man in the same camp as the former accused. He was sitting by the fire, he said, frying the fish when he found him. In all there were three fish, the inspector said. His Worship fined the accused at the rate of $5 a fish, making a total fine of $15, plus $4.50 costs.

The third man, a resident of Ennismore, pleaded guilty, and told the Magistrate in a frank manner that "He had just been fishing, but had had no luck." If he had caught any, he said, they would have been used for food for his wife and family.

Warden Stevenson asked the Magistrate to take a lenitent view in this case, due to the family circumstances of the man. His Worship acceded to the request of the warden and inflicted the minimum penalty of $5 and costs.

Two other men, both residents of Bridgenorth, pleaded not guilty to a charge of spearing. Their cases will be heard on Tuesday, May 18.

On of the above men will likely face a charge of driving his automobile without license plates. The Inspectors found the car by the side of the lake and it is now in custody with a "seized" label on it.

Warden Stevenson stated to The Examiner, that in all he had placed under seizure as a result of his activities in the district, four spears, one motor car, and a basket of lunge. The warden also said "The public must be made to understand that these fish cannot be propagated successfully, and if we are to conserve maskinonge, illegal fishing must stop."

THEFT CASE

A local man pleaded guilty to a charge of stealing 400 pounds of sheet lead, the property of the Canadian Woollens, Limited. He was remanded until Wednesday for sentence.

AND LIQUOR

Charged with keeping liquor for sale contrary to the provision of the Ontario Temperance Act, a local man pleaded not guilty before Magistrate O. A. Langley this morning. The accused consented to an adjournment until Tuesday, May 18, and was allowed his liberty on condition that he report at the police station every night at 8 p.m.

Peace At Any Moment Expected in Britain After Secret Parley

Both Labor and Government Express Hope For Settlement But Each Claims Advantage in Present Situation—General Strike is Declared Illegal.

STOCK EXCHANGE BAROMETER SHOWS INDUSTRIAL WEATHER PROBS BETTET

LONDON, May 11 (Canadian Press).—Peace negotiations in Great Britain's general strike can be definitely said to be going on under the surface. They have not yet reached an official status and what results they will achieve remains to be seen, but a man high in Labor ranks stated late this afternoon that parleys were proceeding. They were in such a delicate state, however, he added, that nothing further could be said for the moment. He said it was possible something tangible would be forthcoming tomorrow, but emphasized that nothing definite was in sight now.

The Government communique issued at 7 o'clock tonight says "There is as yet little sign of a general collapse of the strike, and the Trades Union Congress is believed to be making efforts to call out certain trades still at work. It can be definitely stated that there is a growing disaffection among the strikers with the policy of the general strike and considerable uneasiness as to its ultimate results."

Peace at Any Moment.

Indications of an easing in the general strike deadlock became more pronounced this afternoon. A. J. Cook, the miners' chief, declared: "Peace is possible at any moment, on terms that will give economic security to the miners." Numbers of people had been approaching the miners' leaders, he asserted, with the view of settling the deadlock.

At almost the same time the Government spokesman was saying to newspapermen, "Without being unduly optimistic, I think we may say that the tide has turned. There is a tendency all over the country for the strikers to drift back to work." The Trades Union Congress, which has charge of the general strike, scouted this statement, reiterating that the solidarity of the men was being maintained. Reports from the provinces indicated that the strike was steadily collapsing in South Wales as far as tramway men, railway men and electricians were concerned. The Government spokesman, citing the improvement in transportation services, said 5,530 trains were run yesterday in the United Kingdom as compared with 849 on the first day of the strike.

STOCK MARKET.

LONDON, May 11. Canadian Press. — The Stock Exchange which so frequently has been the barometer of future good or bad news, to-day showed indications of confidence that an early settlement of the general strike is in sight. Gilt-edge securities were quoted at a slightly higher price in anticipation of renewed buying when it is officially announced that the strike has been settled.

LONDON, May 11 (Canadian Press).—About the time the Government was commandeering all supplies of newsprint not in the hands of publishers, Winston Churchill, Chancellor of the Exchequer, announced in the House Monday that such action was necessary because of a shortage of newsprint and the need of it for the Government official newspaper, the British Gazette.

The subject of the British Gazette having been introduced, the Government was taken to task by several members of the House for having failed to publish the peace appeal broadcast by the Archbishop of Canterbury.

Seizure of the newsprint will compel the Labor organ, the British Worker, and the regular dailies to discontinue publication when their supplies now on hand are exhausted.

Arousing Antagonism.

Former Premier Lloyd George, the Liberal leader, was rather pungent in his remarks on the Government failure to publish the Christian appeal. He declared that the Government was not getting public opinion on the right lines when it aroused merely a spirit of antagonism by saying — "Break them in pieces like a potter's wheel."

Ministerial protests greeted this attack, and Sir Henry Page Croft called out, "Every word you are saying is mischievous."

Mr. Lloyd George rejoined that he was for conciliation, while other members might take a different view. He was speaking his honest opinion as a member of Parliament with all desire to save the country from disaster.

Will Print Appeal.

Chancellor Churchill, after explaining that the British Gazette could not publish everything and was trying to make a fair selection of news, remarked that Mr. Lloyd George, who himself had frequently held the highest responsibility in trade crises, ought to have been ready to make a somewhat greater allowance for the Government's immense difficulties. Later he promised that the appeal would be printed as soon as room could be found in the columns of the paper for it.

The Laborite, Charles G. Ammon, complaining of the Gazette's omission to publish the appeal, declared that Mr. Churchill, who was "running the Gazette," would do anything possible to prevent peace "in order to bring down the iron heel and pose as the saviour of society."

Mr. Churchill, he continued, fancied himself in his Napoleonic position. Both sides might have been discussing the terms of the Archbishop of Canterbury's appeal but for the action of the Chancellor of the Exchequer and those associated with him.

Government Not Impartial.

The Solicitor-General, Sir Thomas Inskip, replying to the strictures on the attitude of the Gazette, admitted that the Government was not impartial. It intended that the will of the nation should prevail through its established institutions against those attempting to subvert it. The Government organ, inspired by that determination, was likely to reflect an opinion of that kind.

Police Not Violent

LONDON, May 11 (Canadian Press).—Neither the police nor the special volunteer constables have displayed unnecessary roughness in dealing with strike disorders, Sir William Joynson-Hicks, Home Secretary, today told the House of Commons, in answer to a series of questions.

Hadden Guest, Laborite, charged that police and special constables had entered a public house in a working district of Southwark and had clubbed working men who were playing cards. He also asserted that they had chased women and children without cause and had broken a house open and had ordered the occupants to the street in order to beat them.

Aid From Canada

OTTAWA(May 11 (Canadian Press).—The Trades and Labor Congress of Canada is appealing for financial support for the British miners at present on strike in the Old Country. A telegraphic appeal for subscriptions was sent out last night by Secretary P. M. Draper to all Trades Council affiliated with the Trades and Labor Council. There are about sixty of these councils.

First Commercial Plane Launched In Vickers Yard

MONTREAL, May 11.—(Canadian Press.)— A new phase in the aeroplane industry of the Dominion was celebrated yesterday with the launching from the Vicker yards here of the first commercial plane ever to be constructed in Canada for a commercial concern. Christened the "Vedette," the plane is to be used by the Fairchild Aerial Surveys Limited of Grandmere, Que., for forestry patrol, aerial photography and reconnaisance duty.

PROMISE BROKEN

Automobile Tariff Should Have Been Scrutinized by New Commission.

OTTAWA, May 11 (Canadian Press).—Sir Henry Drayton, former Minister of Finance, continuing the Budget debate Monday, asked whether the only justification of the new tariff commission was to give a few men jobs.

If it was intended that the commission should function, surely the automobile tariff should have been subject to its scrutiny before the change was made.

"Has anyone the right to take the word of the Prime Minister as meaning anything?" he asked. Surely statements made in the Speech from the Throne ought to be observed. The Government's declaration that a tariff commission would be appointed was taken to mean that this commission would investigate and report upon the tariff before important changes were made. In the case of the automobile duties, however, this had not been done.

"The shocking thing about the automobile taxes are that they seem to indicate that the Government is above all ordinary considerations of honor or honesty," said Sir Henry. The Government had not even arrived at the net protection which was being enjoyed by the automobile manufacturers before cutting the tariff.

With reference to the income tax, Sir Henry said that he understood that it was only the Canadian investor who suffered from the income tax on dividends. Dividends paid to the American were not subject to the tax.

A "Gold Brick" Budget

Members of the Government had been taking credit for a return to prosperity. "They would, with far greater justice and accuracy, have shown how greatly this Government have retarded prosperity and industrial growth," said Sir Henry. The Minister of Finance had referred to it as a prosperity Budget; but, in Sir Henry's opinion, it was a "gold brick" Budget.

Canada, with other countries, had gone through the pangs of a very drastic deflation, which climaxed in the year 1921. In the case of Canada, this deflation had been inescapable, and had not been brought about by any Government measure. The universal trend since had been upwards, and in the case of Canada ought relatively to have been just as marked and just as quick as in the case of the United States. "It has not, but for the first time in our history we have had increasing prosperity in the United States without enjoying it here," he declared.

Sir Henry stated that the Minister of Finance in his Budget of 1923 had declared that business men did not like to be always threatened with changes in the tariff. Mr. Robb had recognized that that business stability which he desired could not be obtained without tariff stability, and he had then given the country, for that reason, an assurance of stability of tariff. "But," said Sir Henry, "under this government promises are made but to be broken."

C.N.R. Revenue Less

Taking "The Minister's own yardstick" of railway business to indicate prosperity, Sir Henry said that the Minister of Finance forgot that the improved showing was due to railway economies. "The whole betterment is owing to decreased costs of operation and notwithstanding [illegible] because the total freight carried by Canadian railways had decreased from 1923 to 1925 by 7,518,000 tons.

"No country can be said to be prosperous with a diminishing home market.

On the Minister's own yard-stick our production is less. Smaller production with increased exports and lessened imports indicates no general prosperity, but rather a lessened domestic activity, a shrinking home market and a shrinking national payroll."

Sir Henry quoted the immigration

"Cat-Eyed Annie" Caught After Spectacular Escape

SYRACUSE, N.Y., May 11 (Canadian Press)—Rain drenched, hungry, and wretchedly cold, Lillian McDowell, Cat-Eyed-Annie," of numerous spectacular jewel thefts, who escaped from Auburn Prison early yesterday, was recaptured at daylight this morning one mile northeast of Woodsport. She was found in an open field, partly hidden, in a pile of weeds and brush.

IS AN O.T.A. OFFENCE.

Judge Quashes Ottawa Convictions Under Former Law.

TORONTO, May 11 (Canadian Press).—On the ground that carrying liquor on the person, though a breach of the Ontario Temperance Act, is not an offence against the carriage of liquor act, under which he was fined $200 by an Ottawa police magistrate, the conviction of Frank Turcotte has been quashed without costs by Mr. Justice Fisher. The accused had purchased brandy in Hull and was taking it to an invalid daughter. The carriage of liquor act provides that liquor must not be transported on the highway in a vehicle or in any other manner. Mr. Justice Fisher says the words "in another manner" must be given a sensible meaning consonant with the rest of the clause.

STRIKE BULLETINS

HOPE FOR PUBLIC.

LONDON, May 11. Canadian Press. — The British Broadcasting Company to-day radioed to the British public that, although no official confirmation can be obtained, there is reason to believe moves toward a settlement of the general strike are taking place.

Strike is Illegal.

Notwithstanding the Government's action in commandeering the newsprint supply not in the hands of the publishers, The Daily Mail brought out its first London edition this morning.

In its leading article the paper suggests that it is not denied by anyone that the general strike is illegal. The Trades Union Congress has no legal sanction, its orders are contrary to law, and it should be dissolved. The Mail also urges that "the 500 Soviet agents" in Great Britain be deported.

Sir John Simon's declaration that the strike is illegal is declared by the Government spokesman to have caused many trade unionists to return to work unconditionally.

Strike in Belfast.

Difficulties are being encountered in London in moving meat from the great central market at Smithfield, owing to alleged intimidation on the part of strikers. The Board of Trade has approved the Smithfield emergency organization's plans to throw a cordon of police around the entire market district. An appeal has been issued for strong men to load and unload supplies of meat arriving at the market. Dock workers in Ulster have gone on strike in Belfast. Five hundred of them quit their jobs.

MAKE STRIKE PUNISHABLE.

LONDON, May 11. — (United Press.)—The Daily Express to-day demanded that the Government make the calling or participation in a general strike a punishable offence.

Recalling Sir John Simon's opinion that a general strike is contrary to civil law, the Express said:

"The country wishes to be protected from such danger in the future and from continuance of the present hold-up. It is the duty of the Government at once to make a general strike a punishable offence as a conspiracy against the safety and well being of the State."

THE WEATHER.

Highest temperature on Monday 55 degrees; lowest last night, 38 degrees. I received a bulletin yesterday, together with a map showing the weather conditions prevailing throughout Canada this spring. The section of Ontario lying between Port Perry and Tweed has had a daily average of eight degrees below what it should be, and Peterboro is about the centre of this section. From Toronto westward to Windsor the average is 2 to 6 below, and from Ottawa eastward through Quebec and the Maritime Provinces, the spring has been 4 to 6 degrees lower than average. All through the west it has been that much above, and farming prospects there look particularly bright.—W. P.

Two Sides Of The Shield

The Government Side

By the Right Honorable Stanley Baldwin, P.C., Prime Minister of Great Britain. Written exclusively for the United Press. (Copyright 1926 by the United Press. Copyright in all countries. Unauthorized production prohibited). Special to The Examiner.

LONDON, May 11.—I have received your invitation to convey a statement through the United Press to the people. It seems almost superfluous in view of the way in which the public appears to have grasped the significance of the struggle in which we are involved, to reiterate the principles which are at stake.

At the beginning of the second week of the general strike, it is reassuring to be able to state that the community has shown itself not only determined to overcome the threat which has been made to its political rights but fully capable of defending them efficiently and calmly.

There is no longer any doubt that transport and other vital services can be carried out effectively and are being improved hour by hour.

Ultimate victory for the nation and of the cause of constitutional government are in fact assured, for there must be no confusion between the stoppage in industry and the general strike. They are two distinct issues. The stoppage in the coal industry has followed nine months of inquiry and negotiations. These negotiations will, I hope, be resumed directly the general strike has been cancelled by the Trades Unions Congress and I shall continue my efforts to see that in any settlement justice is done both to the miners and the owners.

No one, I repeat, must confuse the issues in the coal industry which are purely local and industrial, with those of the general strike, which was called while negotiations between the government, the mine owners and the miners were still in progress.

By calling this general strike, the Trades Unions Congress tried to decree that railways should not run, that transports should not move, that unloading of ships should stop; and that no news should reach the people. None of these objects have been attained. The nation has not been paralyzed. Railways are running, transport is moving; ships are being unloaded, news is being distributed, and what is most important of all, adequate food supplies are reaching all parts of the country.

In short the attempt to "hold-up" the nation has failed, and it is to be hoped that before long the Trades Unions council and the men who have obeyed their orders will realize the futility of continuing the general strike, the collapse of which is inevitable. When the strike is over, the British nation will, by defeating it, have done much to protect political institutions throughout the world. The government will, of course, continue to safeguard the legitimate rights of the Trades Unions. But the country has shown that neither now nor hereafter will unconstitutional interference be tolerated in the political affairs of the nations by any organizations in the state.

The Labor Side

By the Right Hon. John R. Clynes, M.P., President of the National Union of General and Municipal Workers. Written exclusively for the United Press. (Copyright in all countries by United Press)..

LONDON, May 11.—No doubt the people in other lands misunderstand the position of British Labor, because there is a natural dislike of anything approaching a national strike. We can only state the facts and leave the verdict with the people.

The strike was begun with the greatest reluctance and begun not because the leaders wanted, but because millions of workmen could see no other way of defending the miners and showing their sympathy with men who had already suffered heavy wage reductions.

Many men who are against Labor in this unfortunate conflict know the value of stating that the trade unions were waging war against the British nation. These men cannot be classed as deliberate liars, but they are talking most egregious nonsense.

There is no attack on popular government. To distract attention from the real issue will not assist the settlement.

Responsible leaders on the Labor side are men of proved moderation and caution. Most of the men on strike don't belong to the political Labor party and probably voted for other parties at the last election.

They are men who fought for their country and to impute disloyalty to them now is the meanest of insults.

This is an industrial struggle absolutely. It is no general strike but a strike on a large scale, in sympathy with the miners, whose cause has evoked support and sacrifice from other workers unparalleled in industrial history. A few men in this struggle may have revolutionary tendencies and the way to strengthen these is to go on repeating unfounded charges of revolutionary purpose on the part of organized Labor in Britain.

The strike is not an attack on the community, and is not directed against the British constitution. It is an act of retaliation against the mine-owners' lockout. I have never approved a general strike as a policy but I know the causes which in this case have produced a deplorable position.

I know how much all classes will suffer in common losses entailed by wide and bitter industrial conflict. I believe that in the main the dispute will be conducted in keeping with the British reputation for common sense. But that reputation would best be retained by a return at once to negotiations and by both sides seeking a settlement free from lockout of miners on the one hand and strike of other workers on the other.

Cries of "No Surrender" will settle nothing and a prolonged stoppage must involve losses for which even the hopes of success on either side would offer no compensation.

MINE OWNERS CONSIDER PLANS FOR EFFICIENCY

Discuss Drastic Proposals For Re-organization of Industry.

TO MAKE PROPOSALS.

Success Would End Dispute Without Either Side Being Beaten.

LONDON, May 11 (Canadian Press).—The executive committee of the Miners' Federation, on whose behalf the general strike was called, held an emergency meeting at Labor headquarters early this morning to discuss peace terms arising from negotiations of Sir Alfred Mond with the coal owners, and Sir Herbert Samuel, chairman of the Coal Commission, with the miners' leaders.

They adjourned at 1.30 o'clock without reaching a decision and will resume the conference later today.

The coal owners for two days have been discussing with Sir Alfred plans for drastic reorganization of the industry to make it more efficient. These include closing the poorer mines and an arrangement by which only the mines near the sea shall produce for export.

Lord Londonderry, the richest mine owner Peer, and David Davis, a big Wales owner, have been prominent in these talks which aim at a production scheme that will permit owners to meet the miners with proposals the latter may accept. Then the general strike could be called off without either side in the present dispute being beaten.

PLANNING ALREADY TO HANDLE HARVEST

Grain Commissioners Discuss Port Facilities.

MONTREAL, May 11 (Canadian Press).—Plans for the handling through the ports of Vancouver and Montreal of Canada's 1926 grain crop were under discussion here yesterday at a meeting of the Board of Grain Commissioners for the Dominion. Two members of the local Board of Trade attended the session.

Leslie H. Boyd, chairman of the Grain Commissioners, said the Board was here to confer with its chief officers and to meet the trade and discuss the standards of grain handling circles. Conferences with the Harbor Commissioners of Montreal had also been held, he said, so that the Grain Board might work in better co-operation with the local port.

Mr. Boyd thought that all conditions pointed favorably to another bumper grain crop for the Dominion this year, and he said the Commissioners were going to see to it that "as much grain as possible is handled through Canadian ports."

PAINTER FALLS INTO WHIRLPOOL

BELIEVED DROWNED.

NIAGARA Falls, N.Y., May 11.—(Canadian Press.)—Thomas Wainwright, 48, of Niagara Falls, Ont., is believed to have fallen 50 feet into the Niagara river and drowned while painting the girders of the lower steel arch bridge just above the whirlpool rapids. Fellow workers missed Wainwright and began an investigation. He could not be found. Laborers working on the Niagara gorge railroad tracks near the bridge said they heard a scream shortly before the painters missed Wainwright. The missing man was married and had several children.

Washington, D.C., has a house made of rammed earth which dates back to 1773. The walls are so hard that the owner recently abandoned an attempt to tear them down.

Four Dead and Twenty Injured in Three British Railway Accidents

LONDON, May 11 (Canadian Press). — The first serious railroad accidents since the beginning of the strike occurred Monday, causing four deaths and the serious injury of about twenty others.

At a point near Edinburgh a passenger train, manned by a volunteer crew, collided with a freight train. Three passengers were killed and a number hurt.

Another accident occurred at Cambridge, one person being killed and two injured.

A third occurred north of Newcastle, several persons being injured.

FIRST CASE OF SABOTAGE FROM GENERAL STRIKE

Flying Scotsman, Famous Express, Derailed Near Newcastle.

RAIL PULLED UP.

Privy Council Held To-day, But Transactions Not Disclosed.

LONDON, May 11 (Canadian Press) — The first case of serious sabotage since the general strike began was reported today. The famous flying Scotsman, run from London to Edinburgh, having on board four hundred passengers, was wrecked yesterday at Cramlington, a mining district near Newcastle. A misplaced rail, which the authorities say they believe was deliberately pulled up, caused the wreck. The engine and two coaches turned over and but for the fact that the train was moving slowly it is likely there would have been a serious loss of life. As it was one person was injured. An inspector on the engine with the volunteer engineer noticed the rail had been pulled up. The engineer slammed on all the brakes but the engine and four coaches left the rails, the engine and two coaches toppling over.

King George held a privy council at Buckingham Palace this morning. Whether it was for the ratification of further emergency measures was not disclosed. The government spokesman outlining the situation at the beginning of eighth day of the strike said there had been important defections among the railwaymen but that the main body of the strikers remained out.

The whole country was quiet, he added. The improvised transportation services were steadily expanding and measures of protection for volunteers had proved efficacious.

PROMOTIONS MADE AT SUB-STATION

Relief Operator Given Permanent Position By Utilities.

The regular monthly meeting of the Utilities Commission was held yesterday afternoon. A letter was received from the Hydro Commission of Ontario suggesting that in the case of the Maple Leaf Milling Co., on the first of June, when the old contract runs out, a new contract may be entered into with the said company for power to run the chopper, and a short term contract may be entered into in regards running the flour mill.

The chairman and engineer were authorized to buy a new Chevrolet runabout with a standard box on the rear for the use of the engineer's department.

The Engineer recommended that James Cummings, who has been acting as relief operator at the substation, be appointed operator at $110 per month, and that Harold Wilson be appointed relief operator, and that John Trotter be appointed to the vacancy at the filtration plant at $90 per month.

B. Routley wrote the Commission asking for water to be installed into his houses, which is outside the city limits, and the request was granted as long as it involves no capital expenditure by the Commission and Mr. Routley is to pay suburban rates, which is at the rate of $4.00 for every two months.

EXPERTS DOUBT AMERICAN MADE POLE IN FLIGHT

Danish and Norwegian Explorers Mention Difficulties of Observations.

COPENHAGEN, May 11. — No land was found in po lar regions by the Byrd expedition, despatches from Spitzbergen quote the commander as saying.

Byrd declared that when he thought he was near the pole he circled smaller and smaller areas, until he was finally sure that the pole had been reached. It was then he turned the plane toward Spitzbergen again.

Cables from North European capitals quote Byrd as saying he circled the pole thrice, unfurled an American flag, and dropped a box of documents.

Doubts Cast.

Some Danish and Norwegian experts voiced doubts as to whether Byrd actually reached the pole. They claimed it is almost impossible to take safe observations from an airplane while flying. They declared Byrd's observations must be examined most closely before decision on whether he reached the pole, is made.

Roald Amundsen and Lincoln Ellsworth were among the first to greet the explorer, and congratulated him heartily.

Somewhat Skeptical.

Danish and Norwegian aviation experts and explorers praised Byrd's courage and energy highly, but were somewhat skeptical as to whether he actually reached the pole. They declared it is theoretically possible that Byrd could have covered the distance from King's Bay to the pole and back in 15 1-2 hours, but that it is almost impossible to take safe observations from an aeroplane while flying. Therefore, they said, Byrd's observations must be checked closely.

Lauge Koch, Danish Arctic expert, was extremely skeptical. He said Byrd would be unable to prove anything except that he flew a distance equal to that of the return trip from the Spitzbergen base to the pole.

"Nobody can prove that he has been nearer than about 100 kilometers from the pole unless he landed and took at least two observations from the ground," the Dane said.

Several members of the Amundsen camp, however, firmly believe Byrd succeeded, despatches said.

Riiser Larsen expressed that belief, and said the flyers Balchen and Omdahl hold the same opinion.

BERNIER SILENT.

QUEBEC, Que., May 11.—(Canadian Press.)— While he was not willing to make any statement at the present time as to whether or not Lieut. Commander Richard E. Byrd, who is reported in yesterday morning's despatches as having flown over the North Pole, Captain J. E. Bernier, Canadian explorer, when interviewed Monday, remarked that the American flyer must have travelled at a "tremendous speed" if he made the distance from King's Bay to the pole, a trip of about 700 miles, according to Bernier's own calculations, in fifteen hours and thirty minutes.

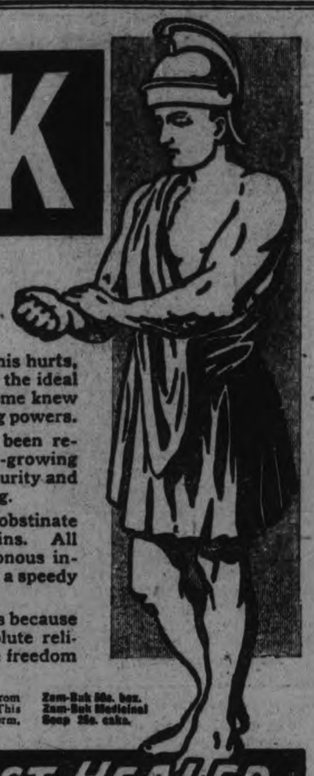
ZAM-BUK



is based on a 2000 Year-old Secret

JUST as Nature has given to man the instinct to rub his hurts, so in her wonderful storehouse of herbs she provides the ideal substance to rub with. The Gladiators of Ancient Rome knew this secret. Their precious herbal balms had magic healing powers.

After 2,000 years, the secret of natural healing has been rediscovered. In Zam-Buk we have to-day the identical skin-growing property of the ancient costly balms, with the additional purity and refinement which only modern scientific skill can bring.

Directly Zam-Buk is smeared on a jagged wound or obstinate sore, an extraordinary regeneration of the tissues begins. All pain and itching dies away, inflammation is allayed, poisonous influences which hinder healing are neutralised, and there is a speedy growth of new skin.

Zam-Buk is "the handy skin doctor" in a million homes because it is so quickly soothing and effective. Zam-Buk's absolute reliability comes from its pure herbal character and entire freedom from animal fats.

If you have a wound, sore or an ulcer that defies ordinary ointments, or if you suffer from a fiery eczema, or know the weakening agony of piles, Zam-Buk is the friend you need. This great soother and healer is also unequalled for cuts, burns, scalds, bad legs, ringworm, poisoned sores, children's scalp troubles and for general embrocational use.

THE WORLD'S GREATEST HEALER

YOUNG PEOPLE OF GREAT BRITAIN ENTER STRIKE SERVICE WITH ZEAL

Workers For Both Sides Are Dressed Very Much — Alike.

BOYS MAN TRAINS.

Many Ex-Soldiers Are Acting as Civil Constables For Emergencies.

LONDON, May 11.—(Canadian Press).—Youth refuses to be downhearted, even if there is a general strike, and the zeal with which the youngsters have jumped into service on both sides of the industrial dispute indicates clearly that British virility is not on the wane.

It is no longer possible to tell from their clothing whether the young workers are supporters of the strikers or the Government. Pickets for the labor forces and volunteers who are working to break the strike are all apt to be clad in knickerbockers, riding suits or "Oxford bags."

The women who are driving cars for the Trades Union Congress are often dressed more smartly than the feminine contingent who are supporting the Government.

Many suburban trains are being manned almost entirely by young collegians or high school boys in their college togs. Bareheaded youths with their hair pasted down slickly are selling or punching tickets, or dispatching and managing trains.

One train leaving Hampstead for the city at nine o'clock every morning has been christened the "Flapper Special," by its young directors, who have pasted signs on each car, which afford the girl passengers much amusement.

Trips on the underground railway have become much like a society reception, as ticket sellers, punchers, constables and other workers welcome their passengers as if they were old friends coming to call on them.

The civil constable forces all over the city are composed mostly of young men and some of these report for duty in their own motors and have deserted the golf courses and tennis courts to take up their new duties.

At Somerset House in the Strand, at the headquarters of the London Scottish, near Buckingham Palace, and at other large buildings having interior courts and ample rooms and corridors, the civil constables are held for emergency calls, working in 12-hour shifts. Most of these youngsters have been militarily trained and many are ex-officers and ex-soldiers.

The power houses and other vulnerable points are policed by the regular police force, assisted by the civil constables. Most of the latter, however, chafe at such duty and ask to be transferred to sections of the city where football players are more apt to get a scrimmage to their liking.

All this youthful contingent moving through the streets in private motor cars day and night is doing much to relieve the lack of transportation by giving lifts to pedestrians, but it is the girls who get most of the rides.

"They are a lot of flapper-snappers, and have no time for an honest workman," one sore-footed walker complained after a half dozen youngsters who had ignored his appeals picked up girls.

A British surgeon recently said that the majority of people virtually commit suicide because they pay so little attention to their health.

AUTO CRASH KILLS FIVE.

MOUNT CLEMENS, Mich., May 11.—Five persons were killed instantly late Saturday when their automobile was struck head-on by a limited interurban car, two miles north of here.

The dead were Mrs. Charles Rank, August Rank, two children of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Rank, and Mrs. Rank, mother of August Rank.

C.P.R. STEAMERS SAIL AS USUAL

Transportation To and From London By Motor Coaches.

HOTELS ARE HIT.

LONDON, May 11. Canadian Press Cable. — There has been no alteration in the sailings of the Canadian Pacific steaships as a result of the strike. Arrangements have been made for the transportation of outgoing passengers to Liverpool and Southampton and incoming passengers from these ports to London by motor coach.

The London hotels are only half-filled. Many visitors from overseas who at first seemed inclined to stay in London, and see the strike through have taken passage for home or have gone to the country.

Although there is no shortage anywhere some of the hotels are placing notices in the bedrooms urging economy in the use of electricity and the breakfast tables are denuded of the superfluity of toast and marmalade.

Many hand-compositors in the newspaper offices are involuntarily out of work as a result of their colleagues of the type-setting machines being on strike and have enrolled as special constables doing duty on Fleet street in the neighborhood of the newspaper offices. They were assisting the regular constables this morning when a large quantity of newsprint for the government paper, the British Gazette, was taken out of storage on Fleet street.

The amateurs at handling the heavy rolls of newsprint went about their work very clumsily and they were jeered by the strikers who were standing about in thousands. Strikers, however, made no attempt to molest them.

The legitimate night clubs are almost deserted, save for a few actors and writers who drop in for a whiskey and soda and a chat after having done turns as special constables.

Certain foolish stories are being circulated. One story asserts that the volunteer workers in the Hyde Park camp and such places are living on the fat of the land at the government's expense, whereas the truth is that the food is of the plain and substantial kind such as was provided for the troops by the Y.W.C.A. and similar institutions in war time.

MOTOR FATALITY.

One Dead in Vancouver Accident.

VANCOUVER, B.C., May 11.—(Canadian Press.)—When their automobile, failing to make a sharp turn on Marine Drive, six miles south of here, plunged over a ten foot embankment early Monday, Rodericu Dunn, 48, was instantly killed, and Chas. Johnson was severely injured.

BOY BADLY HURT OUTSIDE SCHOOL

Alec Bowen, 13, Has One Arm and One Leg Broken.

RUNS INTO CAR.

WARSAW, May 11.—Alec Bowen, 13, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bowen, Warsaw, met with a painful accident yesterday in which he sustained a broken leg, a broken arm and was badly bruised. The accident occurred just as the children were going into school. As they have no playground the teacher had them lined up on the road and young Bowen, whose view was blocked by two large wood piles, darted across the road when he ran into an automobile. Fortunately the car was going slowly at the time or the consequences might have been more serious. Dr. Munro, Warsaw, and Dr. Fraser, Lakefield, attended the injured lad and reports this morning indicate that he is doing well, although suffering considerable pain.

SOFTBALL SEASON OFFICIALLY OPENED

CAMPBELLFORD, May 11. — The soft ball season was officially opened here last evening when the Cloth Co. boys won from the Hydro 17 runs to 7 before a very large crowd for an opening game.

The mill boys started right off to make the game safe. The first 7 batters to face Johnston hit safely and they all scored before the side was retired.

The Mill played pretty fair ball behind the clever pitching of Storie, while the Hydro were guilty of some bad misplays and were particularly weak in the outfield.

The line-up:

Cloth Co.: Bennett c; Storie p; Montgomery 1b; Cochrane 2b; Reeves 3b; Blake ss; Blakeley lf; Bell rf; Lombert cf; Blackwood cf.

HORSES DROWNED.

Ottawa Team Weighted By Harness.

OTTAWA, Ont., May 11.—(Canadian Press.)—A unique accident happened at the exhibition grounds here Monday when a team of horses harnessed together, but not attached to a vehicle, while drinking from the Rideau canal, fell into the water and were drowned. It is believed the harness kept them from coming to the surface.

FIRST FOREST FIRE.

Under Control at James, on C. N. R.

PORT ARTHUR, Ont., May 11.—(Canadian Press.)—The first forest fires of the season in the district are reported. The original outbreak was at James on the Canadian National Railway, but it was put under control and is now said to be completely out.

A report reached the city Monday that the bridge at Mile 94 on the C.N.R., west of here, had been burned.

Arrangements have been made for passengers to be transferred at that point.

CATTLE, GRAIN AND PRODUCE

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, May 10 (Canadian Press).—Although rain in the Dakotas, Minnesota, Nebraska and the Canadian Northwest led finally today to lower prices for wheat, it was a two-sided market. Much buying resulted from the government crop report pointing to 12,000,000 bushels smaller yield of domestic winter wheat than has recently been expected. Chicago closing quotations on wheat were iregular at 3-4c net decline to 5-8c advance, May $1.61 3-8 to $1.61 5-8 and July $1.38 5-8 to $1.38 3-4, with corn 1-2 to 7-8c up; oats a shade to 1-8 to 1-4c off, and provisions showing 10 to 35 cents gain.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, May 10 (Canadian Press).—With the only foreign demand being for Manitoba spring wheat in nearby positions, trading on the Montreal Grain Exchange was quiet today. On spot there was some demand for No. 2 Northern wheat and sales were made at 10 1-2 cents per bushel over the Winnipeg May option, but trading in oats, barley and rye continued very slow. The domestic market for oats was about steady.

Receipts of butter were 776 packages compared with 762 for the same day last week. Business was quiet at stead prices with local demand being dull.

Cheese receipts totalled 1,549 boxes as against 495 last Monday. Lack of foreign demand for spot offerings resulted in such a quiet market that it was difficult to quote prices.

Liberal offering of potatoes accounted for a weaker market feeling and prices tumbled 25 cents to 50 cents per bag. Business was small.

The demand for beans showed no improvement and the steady market remained dull. Car lots of choice white hand picked beans were quoted at $2.25 per bushel and broken lots at around $2.50 per bushel.

CANADA'S GENERAL EXPENDITURE

and emigration figures for January and February of this year. In the first two months of the year there were 6,720 immigrants, according to the Government's figures, while according to the Labor Department of the United States 13,204 Canadians had gone to that country—"nearly double what we have been able to get into this country with all the millions we are spending."

Analysis of Expenditures

Sir Henry said that Mr. Robb in his Budget had divided the expenditures for the past year under three headings. The first heading was 'Principle expenditure attributable to war." The second "Other fixed and public debt charges"; the third, "General expenditure." He proposed to compare the figures for 1921-1922 with those presented by the Minister for the year 1925-1926. Mr. Robb showed a reduction on the first item of $15,249,098. This was due to the fact that the cost of the war necessarily lessened year by year apart altogether from any government action.

"No Government supporter can sensibly claim any credit whatever for cutting down the cost of soldiers' civil re-establishment by a sum well over nine million dollars," said Sir Henry. He analyzed the items under the second heading and came to the conclusion that there was an increase in the amount of this item as compared with 1921-1922 of $976,083.

A comparison of the totals under the third head, taking the figures of the Finance Minister, showed a reduction of $8,693,466 during the past year, said Sir Henry. It must be born in mind, however, that this Government contributed nothing to the provinces under the Agricultural Instruction Act. Also it must be remembered that railway deficits for that year which were included under general expenditures amounted to $6,326,800 and that there was a charge to railway capital of $1,346,254. In 1925-26 there was a reduction of $1,399,008 in the amount payable under the Canadian Highways Act. This reduction was not a result of any Governmental action but mainly a result of the work being very largely completed. Making all the reductions which he considered should be made from the 1921-22 expenses, in order to arrive at a fair comparison, Sir Henry concluded that general expenditure last year increased over that of 1921-22 by $7,075,869.

Railway Demands Reduced

Sir Henry declared that the improved situation disclosed by the Budget was pretty well covered by the decrease of railway demands upon the treasury. Mr. Robb had pointed out that during the fiscal year 1924-25, the assistance to the railways was $74,000,000, exclusive of an issue of bonds for refunding purposes. "We now have the difference between guarantees for refunding purposes and new obligations admitted," commented Sir Henry.

"It is admitted generally the railways are today over capitalized," he continued. 'The Government admits it. This very Budget admits it. No statement of our debt can be proper unless the distinction this Government now makes for the first time is made and the fact recognized that when the country guarantees bonds for new issues for railways—which are not worth the country's present investment by hundreds of millions and which are solely owned by the country—that the country's obligations, its debt, is increased by just the amount of the guarantee."

Sir Henry stated that in the two fiscal years ending March 31st, 1924 and 1925, the Government had guaranteed bonds over and above the refunding or redemption of previous issues to the extent of $118,000,000. The whole of this sum, he said, ought to have been added to the country's debt.

The Minister of Finance calculated Canada's net debt at $2,395,084,685. "Let us take his figures as they stand, giving him the full benefit of the revaluation of securities, changes in trust funds and in ownership of elevators—if we be honest with ourselves, much more so if we be honest with the ratepayers of our country, we must add the $118,000,000 which makes the net debt $2,513,107,783."

Sir Henry concluded his speech with an appeal for "a little more fairness" in dealing with the figures of the country's business.

J. S. Woodsworth

J. S. Woodsworth (Labor, Winnipeg North Centre) spoke of the revenue of the country, one-half of which went to pay the interest on the war debts of Canada. This was "an imposing war memorial which was likely to be enduring," yet the estimates for this year for what was called national defence were higher than the estimates for civil government. Mr. Woodsworth pointed out that the amount of money over which the house had control was comparatively small—approximately 40 per cent of the entire expenditure of the country was actually controllable by the Commons. Mr. Woodsworth pointed to the fact that the income tax had provided in the past something less than 15 per cent of the taxes of the country.

He regretted the dissipation of our natural resources, our soils and forests were rapidly diminishing and our minerals were not as extensive as had been supposed. "We should spend a great deal more time in discussing the question of the conservation and utilization of our great natural resources," he declared.

A capital levy for the extinction of our war debt should be made, said Mr. Woodsworth. He also expressed the belief that a Federal inheritance tax should be in effect.

Mr. Woodsworth said he was prepared to admit that many Labor men in Eastern Canada were Protectionists and voted Conservative. These men did not believe in political action for Labor," he said. He spoke of the large delegation of workingmen which had appeared in Ottawa recently, being brought here by their own employers to present the employers' case. There was not a shred of organized Labor among them. Mr. Woodsworth said he was interested to know that even the companies' police had come along to keep order.

Government Stronger

F. W. Gershaw (Liberal, Medicine Hat) believed that the Government had strengthened its position with the people of Canada since the general election. The majority of Canadians, he thought, would approve of the Budget. The Government should carry through its original Budget proposals in the matter of the automobile tariff. Some Conservative speakers had endeavored to create the impression that had the Conservatives been in power the automobile tariffs would never have been cut. Dr. Gershaw was of the opinion that the majority of the Conservatives really approved of the reduction. The Budget would not interfere with the prosperity of the large industries but would actually stimulate national unity and the prosperity of Canada as a whole.

THE POWER OF THE PRESS.

The anxiety of both the British Government and the strikers to control the press is a striking tribute to the influence of the daily papers.

One of the first trades to be called out by the strike committee was the printers, in the hope that the Government would be without means of communicating its essential bulletins.

The Government countered by issuing a newspaper on its own account, which is called the British Gazette, and which during the strike has been the official mouthpiece of the authorities.

Now the Government has carried the war into Africa by commandeering all supplies of news print in Britain.

This step will not only ensure an ample supply of paper for the Government journal, but it will also have the effect of tieing up the Labour newspaper and leaving the strikers without a publicity organ.

No more striking tribute to the power of the press could be given than these attempts on the part of Government and strikers alike to ensure a publicity service for their side of the controversy and to handicap the opposition by closing off its means of reaching the public.

COMMANDER BYRD'S FEAT.

So accustomed have we grown to wonderful achievements that the announcement that a United States aviator has succeeded in flying over the North Pole has been received with about the same show of interest that would greet a report that somebody had motored from Peterboro to New York.

The people of today have been so literally swamped with near miracles that they are prepared to accept almost any feat as possible.

Yet even our familiarity with wonderful exploits should not blind us to the fact that Commander Byrd and his assistant, Chief Petty Officer Bennett, have added a new and glorious chapter to the history of aerial navigation and to the romance of Polar exploration.

Even in this era of abnormal achievement there is a thrill in the story of how these two flyers "hopped off" in the early hours of the Arctic morning, flew over 700 miles to the North Pole, circled the Pole three times and sped homeward to their base, completing a 1,500-mile journey that was covered at an average speed of 98.75 miles an hour.

It is likely that the feat will be repeated by the other airmen waiting to make the attempt, but to Commander Byrd and his companion goes the honour of being the first men in history to fly over the Pole.

ONLY ONE COURSE.

The British general strike continues into its second week with both Government and strikers calling upon their reserves.

How long the tie-up will last no one can say, but one thing is certain and that is, there can be no peace negotiations until the general strike has been called off.

The Labour leaders persist in the declaration that the strike is purely an industrial one, and they are undoubtedly sincere in such statements, yet the fact remains that Communists both in Britain and without regard the situation as a very important step toward revolution, and that they will do everything in their power to bring about such a result.

In the face of such a challenge there is only one course possible: "Either the country must break the general strike or the general strike will break the country," to quote a Government bulletin.

There can be no surrender no matter what turn the situation takes, and fortunately the Government shows no sign of weakening.

It faces the crisis heartened by a realization that the great mass of the people outside the ranks of the strikers are behind it, ready to suffer rather than yield to a demand that they believe is unjustified.

ILLEGAL FISHING.

Loyal citizens should be glad to co-operate with the local Fish and Game Protective Association in protecting game fish from attack during the spawning season.

So much damage can be done by illegal fishing at this time that it is surprising to realize how many people there are who, while quick to be offended were any one to suggest that they are not desirable citizens, have no scruples about violating the fishery regulations.

The taking of maskinonge during the spawning season means that the future supply of these fish is diminished by literally thousands.

Yet there are people who treat the law as a scrap of paper, and perhaps even worse than these illegal fishers are the citizens who unhesitatingly buy game fish from the poachers.

Their offence is worse because, as a rule, they are of the class that is supposed not only to know the laws of the land but to uphold them.

If there were not a market for fish at this time of year there would not be nearly so much bootlegging in these wares, and local citizens who encourage law-breaking by becoming purchasers of maskinonge caught out of season surely do not realize the harm they are causing or the traffic would show a sudden decline.

THE REVOLUTIONARY STRIKE.

Communists and revolutionists the world over hail with delight the British general sympathetic strike. They regard it as a class conflict, the beginning of their eagerly desired direct campaign against the established industrial system. True, even Stalin, one of the red leaders of Soviet Russia, admits that a dictatorship of or for the proletariat is out of the question in Great Britain because of the innate moderation of the people. Still, the general strike is welcomed by him as a long step toward ultimate Communism. Chicago Communists, to judge by the rapturous assertions of their organ, are equally delighted by the so-called revolutionary action of British strikers.

On the other hand, intelligent trade unionists, though expressing sympathy with the British coal miners, obviously are perturbed by the general strike and significantly refrain from approving it. William Green, President of the American Federation of Labor, truly says that the general strike has obscured the original issue—justice to the miners—and confused the public mind. He takes occasion to reaffirm his belief in the policy of collective bargaining, strict observance of agreements and practical trade unionism.

The British Trades Union Congress departed from the traditional principles of reasonable trade unionism in calling the general strike and is now giving aid and comfort to the extreme radicals who favor class warfare and violence as means of destroying the present social, economic and political system. They undoubtedly expected by their defiant act to force the Government and the mine owners to resume negotiations for a settlement of the coal controversy. The issue they have actually thrust to the fore is whether constitutional and parliamentary government shall be maintained in Great Britain, or whether supreme power shall pass from the hands of duly elected representatives of all the people into the hands of a group of men who speak for a section of the nation only and do not always faithfully reflect the sentiments and judgments even of that section.

Such an issue, as the emergency organ of the Government, the British Gazette, says, "can only end in a decisive and unmistakable victory for Parliament." Autocracy, whether of king or so-called proletarian chiefs, is intolerable to a free people.—Chicago Daily News.

PURIFYING THE BRITISH PRESS.

The press of Great Britain has traditions of which it is justly proud. In its assertion of the principles of liberty established in the eighteenth century, its influence upon public opinion, its observance of the unwritten code which governs the conduct of the newspaper profession, its fairness in the discussion of public questions, and its standards as a disseminator of news and a medium of well-informed criticism and comment, it has long enjoyed a reputation unsurpassed by the press of any other country.

It is true there are those who detect in certain modern developments of British newspaperdom signs of decadence. The abandonment of the old conventional forms of display and treatment of news in favor of methods more typical of American than of British journalism; the less weighty, if better written, discussion of domestic and Imperial politics, and especially of foreign affairs; the growth of sensationalism and the personal element, and the concentration of newspaper power in the hands of a few wealthy capitalists, who seek to control politics and play the part of dictators, are all pointed to as evidences of a descent from the old high traditions.

Perhaps the most surprising feature of the modern British press, however, or at all events of that section of it which glories in big circulations, is the publicity given to court proceedings. The publication of reports of divorce court and criminal court cases is not a new development. The scandals of high and low life aired before judges and juries have long been regarded as good "copy," not to be despised or rejected by even the ultra-respectable journals. But of recent years, the growth of what is called a popular press, which caters chiefly to the demand for sensations and by that means builds up a huge circulation, has increased the washing of dirty linen in public to an extent that has become odious.

In certain weekly newspapers in England and Scotland, which provide Sunday reading for millions of people, as well as in not a few dailies, there is no more prominent feature than the latest divorce case or murder trial. The co-respondent who wrecks a home is treated as a hero, the lady in the case as a heroine, the murderer as a super-criminal to be written-up, photographed in all sorts of poses, interviewed, and bribed to contribute "impressions" or reminiscences for the benefit of a public that is supposed to wallow in such lurid and prurient details. Whatever may be said of the supply of sensations which have their origin in the criminal courts, the practice of publishing the proceedings of the divorce courts is one that reflects little credit on British journalism or on the people whose curiosity it is intended to satisfy.

The excuse offered by some of the more reputable newspapers for continuing it is that so long as it remains lawful to report and publish divorce cases the multitude will demand that kind of reading and that no single journal, or group of journals, under present-day conditions of keen competition, could afford to ignore the demand without courting extinction. Efforts have been made by a number of the leading newspaper proprietors in Britain to reach an agreement to refrain from the publication of divorce proceedings, but without result, and now it is proposed to achieve the desired end of cleaning journalism by legislative enactment.

A bill has been introduced in the British House of Commons to limit the reporting of proceedings in the divorce courts to a statement of the causes of action, the names and addresses of witnesses and the summing up of the judge; and the hope is expressed by a large section of the press that the measure will pass. A similar bill was introduced three years ago, but got no further than the second reading. Last year it came before the House of Lords and passed through all stages, to reach the Lower House too late for further progress.

Whether the bill will meet a better fate at the third approach remains to be seen, for it is to be expected that the popular weeklies will not willingly accept a restriction which would deprive them of one of their main assets, and will exert all their influence to defeat its enactment.—Ottawa Journal.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Make it a real Clean-Up Week in Peterboro.

The Kingston Standard suggests that parliamentary speeches should be broadcasted. Aren't there enough reception troubles as it is?

The action of the British strikers in refusing financial assistance from the Moscow Internationale shows the strike leaders are well aware of the reaction upon public opinion that would follow a revelation of Communistic activity.

Commander Byrd in his North Pole flight had at least no traffic problems to worry him.

Dr. Mayo prescribes walking as the best possible exercise. But he neglects to inform us where it is safe to follow his advice.

The British strike has lasted a week without a shot being fired. Is there any other place on the face of the earth where such a record could be made?

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

LETTERS TO THE PUBLISHED UNDER THIS HEAD MUST BE RECEIVED AT THE EXAMINER OFFICE ON THE DAY BEFORE THEY ARE DESIRED PUBLISHED.

The Editor of The Examiner.

Sir—A noted American spell-binder, one of that guild of well-paid good speakers, who go about telling the people what they must do to be saved, was brought to Toronto last week and, to the surprise of everybody, announced a complete change of fashion. "We are becoming too businesslike, too sombre, too materialistic," he cried. "The flapper and the wild young man are the evidences of the rebellion of the young against it. That's what jazz is. It is a defiance of the present fashion of cutting people out from our own patterns, especially young people, and stamping them as good or bad and treating them like boots and shoes. It can't be done. Human nature is individualistic and cannot and will not be treated as a mass production."

The life of Mr. John Riddell is a fine example of the working out of this individualistic or voluntary principle. It has been well said that our present style is to pull up "the flowers with the weeds." To do that is, of course, to destroy the garden of life and to reduce all humanity to the level of weeds. Now it so happens that many of these fancy stunts of our modernists in religion and in life are really not possible of accomplishment. It sounds wonderfully attractive to the uneducated ear that good people may be made as easily as good clothes and good turnips, but it is not true. Who, by taking thought, let alone by exercising compulsion, can increase his stature either in body or character?

Character must grow of itself, otherwise it is a sham. It cannot be made by the fiat of even a god, let alone of a man or a society of women gathered together to houseclean and make over the world. The passing of laws to effect it simply shows our ignorance of what character is and the backfire of these laws is most destructive in its tendency and effect. Taking the world out of the hands of God and reconstructing the principle of humanity's life and treatment has been preceded by taking the religious world out of His hands too and in saying what shall be adored and used as worthy of use and what not.

The modernist man and woman think that the "world" has been allowed to go to ruin by God and that if He had adopted such means as they are adopting it would have been a different place. They are dissatisfied with the Bible also. In fact, the Almighty is practically charged with having furnished ample means of temptation and then with having left the world to its own devices. This is not faith—it is scepticism. In fact, it is a denial of reliance upon and belief in God. Thus we see the answer of Jesus to the Canaanitish woman being reproved by the critics as the answer of a bigotted law and not of a Christian at all. We find others pointing, with a shrug of the shoulders, to the contradiction apparently involved in the two sayings that he who is not against me is for me and he who is not for me is against me. Thus the glaring and deciding difference between Modernism and Fundamentalism (the old faith) lies in the belief that the Bible is or is not the Word of God and, therefore, is or is not to be criticised, and that God is or is not the Ruler of the world. With the coming of modernism departs faith. There is no getting away from the fact that the new belief is not the old one. The life of Mr. Riddell is one of those of the old regime now fast passing away and being forever lost to sight.

When, too, we see "reformers" upsetting the basis of private right and demanding that laws take the place of the voluntary principle in everyday life, we are not surprised except at the lack of thought on the part of the "reformers." A law is now being asked for making the widow's proper portion or share a first lien on the living man's estate. This lien would render his property of little use in business. If he should die his creditors would find his property a poor security perhaps and, as a consequence would, in life, refuse him credit. "Oh!" exclaim the reformers, "we did not think of that." That is the distinguishing mark of reformers. They never suspect that they do not know it all and often do vastly more harm than good.

Of course, a man "should" provide for his widow and a "good" man will do so, but when a "good" man is reduced by the law to the level of a bad man and is compelled to do what he ought to do, he may be irritated into finding a means of not doing it because there is no love or affection involved in it any more to actuate him. It has become all a question of "must."

Thus is the voluntary, the beautiful life, destroyed, with the result that, in time, the only love remaining will be that of sex. If a "good" man says to his wife that he has provided for her amply, &c., she will simply say, or leave it unsaid, that he need not talk of it as an evidence of his love because, according to law, he "must" do it anyhow. And so, little by little, the punishment of the bad being made to apply to all as when the old woman in the shoe beat all her children good and bad, the desire to be "good" or upright and chivalrous will disappear for lack of nourishment and life will have become merely a business affair, a sort of huckster shop with provision for the future as the main object of the woman and a lost share of obligation as the chief characteristic of the man. Follow this out and married life, which is often none too lovely now, will become a horrible thing, made up of compulsion, distrust, scheming, and then brutality. There is nothing more stupid and more terrible than this herding of the people.

It is, of course, true that a case of neglect where the widow is left bare is not to be condoned and ought to be punished—unless she deserves it. But it is also true that if you treat all men as criminals, or cattle, you will, in time, make them criminals or cattle. Then, again, all compulsory laws that are not merely punishments for ill-doing are easily evaded. So that though they destroy the beautiful in life that is really all they succeed in doing. Were Christianity like that it would have produced few martyrs, the first and greatest of whom was the Christ Himself. If it becomes so that decent people "must" do this and "must" do that and "must" do everything because it is the law of the land and the mere dictum of others, why appeal to the sense of the unwritten laws in men, their conscience and their dignity of character?

This shifting from the "high and lofty" basis of life to the low and brutal will, in a very short time, make us all cynical, sneering and rebellious with boasting as the sign radiant, and surely it is doing so. Until the final arrival of that era compels us to desist, we will go on with the old order when people were people, not cattle. As Longfellow says in his "Psalm of Life"—"Be not like dumb-driven cattle. Be a hero in the strife." He meant, of course, if you are allowed to do so and are not reduced to the level of your pursuers. —J. H. Burnham.

ABOUT ALCOHOL.

To the Editor of The Examiner:—

In view of the fact that many sensible, but ill-informed people have the opinion that the use of alcohol is helpful in the cure of many diseases, let us hear what Dr. J. W. S. McCullough, Chief Officer of Health of the Province of Ontario, says on the subject. (Dr. J. W. S. McCullough is a brother of Dr. McCullough, eye and ear specialist of Peterborough.)

The doctor began his address by saying: "It will be understood at the outset I am not discussing the various methods proposed from time to time for lessening the amount of alcohol consumed. I am concerned here and now, only with the practical questions: (1) Does the use of alcohol serve to promote health and longevity? and (2) Does the use of alcohol injure the health and shorten life?

"I shall endeavor in the light of experience and scientific knowledge to answer these questions.

Alcohol As a Drug.

"Alcohol, in my opinion, has a limited use as a drug, and as a drug only. It's value does not nearly approach in usefulness that of dozens of other drugs. It belongs to the class of drugs known as narcotics. Narcotics are notorious in that all of them are habit-forming drugs. Alcohol is a narcotic and its use, even in moderation, tends to become a habit. The alcoholic forms an abnormal type of disease, and it is rare that he ever recovers. The opinion of hospital authorities, as to the value of alcohol, is apparent from the fact that in seven of the large hospitals in London, England, the cost of liquor supplied has, in the last 40 years dropped from about 7,000 pounds to 1,200 pounds a year.

"The situation in our own hospitals and among most physicians is the same. In diseases like tuberculosis, in which alcohol was used a good deal, it is now known to be a positive injury to the user—and no physician skilled in the treatment of consumption thinks of using it.

Alcohol as a Beverage.

"The strongest indictment against alcohol is that it excites the passions and diminishes the will power. The fact that it lowers the moral tone does more harm to human beings than all the cirrhotic livers, hardened arteries, shrunken kidneys, inflamed stomachs and other affections attributed to its excessive use.

"Alcohol, as a direct or predisposing cause, is responsible for 1-3 of the total admissions to hospitals for the insane!"

And how the children suffer for the wrong-doing of the parents! Read what the doctor says:—

"The children of inebriates are commonly lunatics, criminals or drunkards!

"Whenever you see the ready sale of liquor, there you are bound to see rickets, half-naked and under-nourished children, squalid homes and tuberculosis.

"One of the saddest sights it has ever been my lot to witness was the half-naked, bare-footed, starved-looking child in London, Glasgow and other British cities, minding the baby outside the saloon—while the frowsy mother took her beer inside.

"What is true of all great cities where liquor is sold is true to a lesser extent of every place where liquor is readily procured.

"In Montreal the infant mortality rate is 146 per thousand living births as compared with 73.4 for Toronto.

There can be no partnership between public health and alcohol. Their roads lead to different goals."

CONGRATULATES MR. MERRILL

The Editor,
Peterboro' Examiner,
Peterboro,' Ontario.

Dear Sir:—

It may perhaps again prove interesting to you to know that your fellow townsman, Mr. W. H. Merrill, of 544 Harvey Street, is again worthy of congratulations by reason of the fact that he is the first one of our sales representatives to send in new business for the season of 1927.

Mr. Merrill has held this honor for a number of years which we consider quite remarkable inasmuch as we have over 2,000 representatives in the field in both the United States and Canada. Naturally we are very much pleased at the work that Mr. Merrill is doing, and this makes it doubly pleasant for us to contribute our special prize each year to your Agricultural Fair.

Allow us to say in this regard that we understand your Fair is rapidly becoming second to none in Canada so that the people of your community are to be congratulated not only because of their forethought in placing their seed orders early, but also for the manner in which they are working to make your district one of the most profitable and pleasant agricultural communities anywhere in the province.

We trust that we are not assuming too much to venture the remark that we have had a small part in this progress, and you may be sure that we shall always do what we can to distribute only the best and most productive seed stocks that can be grown.

Yours very truly,
GARDNER SEED COMPANY.

SAVE THE CHILDREN.

To the Editor of The Examiner:—

Sir.—Is there a society in the city for the protection of children from dogs, or is it only for the protection of Dogs? The daily papers contain many sad cases of attacks by dogs on little children.

—INQUIRER.

HE DOESN'T LIKE IT.

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Sir.—People have been shocked to see the large and continuous stream of "drunks" being fined from day to day at the police court. But what I want to know is why some of the young women around this town who get drunk "in a public place" don't get soaked. People need not blame bootlegging and the police for this drinking. It's homebrew, real hard stuff, that's doing it, a thing not known before. It was said that the next generation wouldn't know the taste of liquor, but that's about all some of them do know. Surely the Lord is visiting His wrath upon the people for their presumption.

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY

KEEP SMILING.

Smile, you son of a gun, smile! Never let your face look like a funeral—like a search warrant.

The bud that cannot blossom dries up in the stalk. Smile if you have to force it.

When your voice sounds like a benediction, when your face looks like an old lemon, folks are sure to sidestep you.

What you give out, you are reasonably sure to take in.

Remember this: The face is more legible than an open book. You can read the face at a distance and get it all at a glance. The book compels you to thumb the leaves.

Smile, you son of a gun, smile!

AUTO PARTS TO BE DEFINED BY BUDGET CHANGE

"Make Position of Parts' Men Safe" Robb Tells Commons.

ONLY ALTERATION.

No Duty on American Magazines—No Sales Tax Change.

OTTAWA, May 11 (Canadian Press).—"There will be no general changes in the automobile tariff as announced," declared Hon. J. A. Robb, Minister of Finance, in the House Monday. The proposed new duties of 27½ per cent. under the general tariff on automobiles valued at over $1,200 and of 20 per cent. on automobiles under $1,200 in value would remain. Some words would be added, however, to clarify the administration of the proposals. There would be no change as to principle.

Sir Henry Drayton asked if any changes were proposed in the sales or luxury tax or in the rebates on parts.

Mr. Robb—There will be no general changes as to parts. There will be some changes in the language defining parts so as to make the position of the parts men absolutely safe.

Mr. Robb added that there was to be no change in the sales tax. Representations had been made to him to make changes in the Excise tax on the ground that the machine would be sold lower to the Canadian people, but he had not been convinced that such changes would be in the public interest.

Allusion to 1920.

Glancing in the direction of Sir Henry Drayton, the Minister of Finance in the last Conservative Government, Mr. Robb said he could assure his honorable friend that the changes would certainly not exceed those changes made in the budget of 1920 between the time it was brought down and the time it passed the House.

Hon. H. C. Hocken (Conservative, Toronto West Centre) asked the Minister if there would be any duty imposed on American magazines.

Mr. Robb replied that he had listened to Mr. Hocken's speech of a few days ago with a great deal of interest, and although he had made out a good case for his point of view, he (Mr. Robb) was not prepared to say there would be any changes.

OLD SUPPORTER OF LAURIER IN QUEBEC IS DEAD

Senator William Mitchell Was Liberal Leader in Eastern Townships.

DIED IN MONTREAL.

Father of Hon. Walter G. Mitchell—Appointed Senator in 1904.

MONTREAL, May 11. Canadian Press. — In the death in this city on Monday of Senator William Mitchell the Canadian Upper House lost a member of veteran experience, the Liberal party an adherent who for many years was a pillar of strength behind Sir Wilfrid Laurier in the Eastern Townships, while industrial and railway enterprises are poorer for the passing of one who had set a high mark in those features of Canadian history.

The Senator had been in poor health for the past 18 months and for the larger part of the past year he had been confined in the Montreal general hospital. His condition of late has grown steadily worse and the end came in the local hospital yesterday morning. Senator Mitchell was in his 75th year.

Despite his sinking condition Senator Mitchell maintained his interest in public affairs. At the time of the last Federal elections the Senator was confined to the hospital but at his request special arrangements were made and the results of the polling throughout the country were carried to his bedside by special messengers as soon as they were available is this city.

Born in the township of Durham, Quebec, the man who later was to become one of the country's political leaders received his early education in the rural schools of the district. As a youth the went to the State of Maine, and it was while there that he started his career as a railwayman by accepting a minor position with a United States' railroad.

On his return to Durham he went into the lumbering business and soon he had built up extensive operations in this line. Then he broke into Canadian railroad affairs. He made his home in Drummondville and it was there that he became prominent in the political affairs of the Eastern Townships. Sir Wilfrid Laurier summoned him to the Senate in 1904.

Senator Mitchell is survived by his widow, nee Dora Goddar, of Danville, Que., whom he married in 1876, and two sons, Hon. Walter G. Mitchell, former provincial treasurer for Quebec, and elected M.P., for St. Antoine, in 1921, and H. L. Mitchell.

The funeral is to be held to-day from the residence here of Hon. Walter Mitchell. Service will be held at Christ church Cathedral and interment made at Mount Royal cemetery.

NEW TEETH FOR CONDEMNED MAN

IN QUEBEC JAIL.

QUEBEC, Que., May 11 (Canadian Press).—A condemned man is allowed a great deal of privilege and favors between the day he is sentenced to death and the date fixed for his execution, and the Government never hesitates to pay for anything within reason which might be required to make the last days of a person who is to die on the scaffold as easy as possible. It very seldom happens, however, that the Government is called upon to supply a condemned man with a new set of false teeth, or at least part of such a set.

Eugene Bigouette, who is in the Quebec Jail, where he is being detained until the date of his execution, July 2, complained to Governor Carbonneau on Saturday forenoon that he could no longer "enjoy" his food as he had broken one of his false teeth, and it is indicated the deficiency will be supplied.

BOTTLES OF LIQUOR UNDER SHIP'S COAL

Two of French Crew Arrested at Halifax.

HALIFAX, N.S., May 11 (Canadian Press).—The French steamer Pro Patria was seized Sunday night by Customs officials and two members of the crew placed under arrest when a search of the stokehold revealed about sixty bottles of assorted liquors hidden under the coal.

Godsoe Albert, stoker, who was busily engaged smashing the bottles when the officers boarded the steamer, and Thomas Quam, third engineer, were taken into custody, the former charged with having liquor in his possession and the latter with smuggling.

PRISON FAILED TO HOLD WOMAN

"Cateye Annie" Dug Her Way Out of Auburn Prison.

A JEWEL THIEF.

AUBURN, N.Y., May 11.—Dodging her way through an 18-inch wall, Lillian McDonald, better known to the police of the United States as "Cateye Annie," notorious jewel thief, escaped from the state prison here Monday.

The woman, who was serving a ten-year sentence for grand larceny, and in solitary confinement as an incorrigible, made her escape between 5.30 and 6 a.m., while wall sentries were off duty. After digging through the wall with an iron bar used for raising the heavy prison windows, she took a plank from the green house and scaled a 12-foot wall to freedom. None saw her go and searching parties have been unable to find any trace of her.

Hard to Hold.

"Cateye Annie" was sentenced from Erie County by Judge Noonan. The day before she was sentenced she escaped from the Erie County Jail, and was recaptured the next day at Buffalo and sentenced October 23, 1925.

Police and prison officials regard "Cateye Annie," who is also known as Julia Archer, as one of the most dangerous women criminals in the country. She is wanted at Baltimore and Columbus for jewel thefts.

Had Her Own System.

"Cateye" had a system of her own. She posed as a maid in the homes of the wealthy, learned the plans of homes and the habits of those for whom she worked. Often the maid and the family jewels disappeared at the same time. She has a long prison record, and has served time at Joliet, Ills., and the Ohio State Penitentiary.

CRITICAL PERIOD FOR LEAGUE NOW

Discussion of Reconstruction of League Council Starts To-day.

PLEA FROM CECIL.

Geneva, May 11 (Canadian Press) —What is generally conceded to be a critical period in the life of the League of Nations, following the crisis caused by the recent failure to elect Germany, opened today, when a special commission began the study of the problem of the reconstruction of the League Council. All the members present apparently have been deeply impressed by the importance which Germany has signed with Russia. After the election of Dr. Guiseppe Motta, as president, the discussion, which was public, was begun. Viscount Cecil, representing Great Britain, declared that loyalty to the League of Nations made it necessary that a final agreement be reached. Alluding to the attitude of Brazil, Spain, and Poland, whose demands for seats on the Council caused the German difficulty, Viscount Cecil made a plea that all states represented at the meeting approach the question without fixed opinions.

$10 JUDGMENT IN TRESPASS CASE

Use of Old Trail Through Haliburton Property Has Been Forbidden.

NON-JURY COURT

LINDSAY, May 11.—A non-jury session of the Supreme Court opened Monday at the Court-House, with Justice Grant presiding and an imposing array of legal luminaries in attendance. Originally five cases were slated, but one was settled out of court.

The first case up for hearing was that of Moody vs. Blair. Both parties are residents of the County of Haliburton. The plaintiff, Mrs. Moody, brought action for $500 for trespass on her property in the Township of Minden. It appears that the trouble arose out of the practice of defendant using a road that had been recognized by a trail for more than twenty years. Gates had been put up by plaintiff to prevent use of road, and defendant had been advised not to make use of it as a highway. Ludwig and Ballantyne, of Toronto, represented the plaintiff, while Mr. A. F. Fulton of Lindsay represented defendant. Judgment was given plaintiff for $10 and costs, to be determined on Supreme Court scale.

The case of Brandon of Fenelon Falls vs. Bank of Montreal, is one arising out of the failure of the Home Bank.

A case which is arousing considerable interest is that of Wetherup vs. Burk. This is a claim for damages arising out of the death of the plaintiff's wife in an automobile accident. The late Mrs. Wetherup, who has relatives in Peterboro County, was journeying to Toronto Exhibition last August in the defendant's car. When near Seagrave the car struck a soft spot in the road and was wrecked, Mrs. Wetherup being instantly killed. R. I. Moore of Lindsay represents the plaintiff, and Frank Hughes of Toronto the defendant.

Another interesting case is that of Phillips vs. Archer. This is action brought as a result of alleged malpractice. J. E. Anderson of Lindsay, for the plaintiff; A. J. Thompson of Toronto for the defendant.

SWEEPING SEA FOR TWO HALIFAX MEN

Went Out in Motor Boat Last Thursday.

HALIFAX, N.S., May 11.—(Canadian Press.) — The Government steamer Aranmore left Monday to search for two Halifax men who have been missing in a twenty horse power motor boat since Thursday evening, when they left a vessel some fifteen miles off the coast to return to Halifax. The men are James Whiteman and Walter White.

On Thursday they left in a motor boat and ran out to meet an unnamed vessel which was lying some fifteen miles off the coast. They had supper and left about six o'clock. No trace of them has yet been found and it is believed that they met with engine trouble after leaving the vessel. They were without food.

Why Have Gray Hair?

Don't deceive yourself. No one really wants gray hair. The world accepts it as a sign that you are aging—and the world wants Youth.

Thousands of men and women whose hair was gray or becoming "streaked" have tried Kolor-Bak—and they are frankly delighted at the improvement it has made in their appearance.

For, with the aid of this clean, colorless liquid, gray hair regains its natural shade—not overnight as is so awkward and embarrassing when mussy dyes are used—but so gradually that the change can scarcely be seen from day to day. Yet results often appear in a week.

Kolor-Bak has the added virtues of a tonic. It gives the hair a beautiful softness and lustre and at the same time routs dandruff. Try it. No sample of your hair is required. The same bottle may be used by everyone. And you can get your money back if desired results do not appear. Guarantee in each package.

Rugs you will see in well-furnished homes-

THE well-chosen rug is the keynote of the decorating scheme. It gives old furniture new charm, provides a setting for the choice pieces, quietly dominates its little kingdom. You realize the truth of this when the rug is taken up for a dance or when sent to be cleaned. Its absence creates a bareness and removes the appearance of warmth and comfort of the whole house.

The spirit of the present day is mirrored in the beauty of coloring, the individuality of design and the perfection of weaving of BARRYMORE Guaranteed RUGS. These are the rugs you will see in the majority of well-furnished homes, as BARRYMORE RUGS are designed and woven with the thought always clearly in view that they will be placed in modern homes where all the decorations are smart and up to date. RADIO PROVED USE ON SUNDAY

British Public Supplied With Strike News—Papers Missing.

BALDWIN HEARD.

LONDON, May 11. Canadian Press Cable. — If ever the radio demonstrated its utility it was during the week-end when city workers, their feet blistered from pilgrimages to and from the city during the week, sought rest in the suburban fastnesses, and listened, through the medium of the wireless, to reports of the strike situation throughout Great Britain. The potency of the wireless in this time of wholesale civil trouble, will perhaps come to be regarded as one of the most surprising discoveries of this disturbed period and as a proof of the wisdom of the government to retain supreme control of this means of communication.

Throughout Saturday and Sunday broadcasts of wireless information were made every few hours. Although householders in England found their usual bottle of milk on on their doorsteps Sunday morning, due to the efficiency of the government transport system, the Sunday paper, which nowadays is welcomed by British families of every religious persuasion on the Sabbath morn. was missing and the people were consequently grateful for the information broodcast over the radio. The mid-day dinner was postponed in thousands of homes so that the one o'clock broadcast could be heard.

Briefly the chief message was "All quiet on the front." There was however a stirring story of how flour was convoyed from the East London docks to Hyde Park. The listeners were also given the details for the terms of service for the civil constabulary reserve and told how the Plymouth strikers played the Plymouth police in a football game, with the chief constable's wife kicking off.

Saturday night Premier Stanley Baldwin's voice was heard within the four corners of the kingdom. Sunday night Most Rev. R. T. Davidson, the Archbishop of Canterbury, preached a sermon over the radio, and Viscount Grey of Fallodon, delivered an address. The diversity of the announcements made over the week end is remarkable. Within 24 hours there was an announcement from a Roman Catholic bishop concerning last night's devotions in the churches, intimations to teachers of special classes to attend as usual, and an announcement that the zoological gardens would remain open to-day as usual. As a matter of fact Premier Baldwin spent the afternoon at the gardens.

Some of the most vital matters handled by the wireless stations concern the train services, about which broadcasts are made nightly.

A curious little feature is that listeners-in notice that strange voices are making the announcements, the explanation being that the regular announcers are so overworked that their understudies are taking over their duties.

NORWOOD CADETS PASS INSPECTOR

Make Good Showing at Annual Inspection by Captain Heron.

NORWOOD, May 11.—The Norwood High School Cadets were inspected on Wednesday morning last by Captain V. W. S. Heron, of the headquarters staff, Kingston.

The inspection took place on the Exhibition Grounds, with Raymond Scott in command, and David Brown second in command.

Squad and company drill as well as field manoeuvres were carried out with precision by the corps, while the "march past" was done with an exactness befitting a body of veterans. Strathcona exercises, stunts and games under the direction of Principal R. G. Lawlor, provided enough variety to make it very entertaining for the onlookers. The girls of the High School were responsible for the singing and for the schools yells which have got to be a feature at the local inspection.

Captain Heron, in addressing the corps, said he had graded them A, which is the highest mark obtainable. A half holiday was requested by him for the school. This had already been anticipated, as was shown by the programme prepared for the afternoon.

Mr. F. Fry, chairman of the Board, and Rev. T. M. Wesley also addressed a few remarks to the students.

Three games of softball were played during the afternoon, the first between two teams under C. Copen and D. McNeely, the former winning by a score of 13-12. In the next game the winners played a team captained by Raymond Scott, and were defeated, the score being 17-7.

Two teams, captained by H. Thompson and B. Stillman, played, the former winning by the score 52-10. The winners of this group then played the winners of the first group, but were defeated, the score being 22-14.

After the sports all repaired to the school, where a short concert was given and refreshments served.

The ORACLE

This day we fashion Destiny, our web of Fate we spin —Whittier.

Fixed fate, free will, foreknowledge absolute. —Milton.

L. G.—You have a good deal of rather heavy physical power, with tenacity and creative ability in your makeup. You have always been quite successful in matters connected with business, commerce and finance. Defeat does not easily discourage you and your are usually quite optimistic in temper. With all your ability in money matters, you are sometimes quite slow in the payment of bills, and are careless also of your own belongings and those of others, although you resent being reminded to return borrowed articles. You are fond of praise and are easily wounded by trifles. A quick temper and a tendency to worry have been your handicaps so far in life. Always follow out your own intuitions. The Golden Rule should be your motto. You were born on Thursday. Your colors are blue, cream ...

Mick.—You have been blessed with a nature that is strong and highly developed, well-equipped to face the circumstances of daily life, but you will be handicapped to a certain extent always, (unless you resolve to eradicate this trait) by a tendency toward change and uncertainty that will do much to mar your success. Try always to stick to one thing, after you have considered a course of action carefully. You are also inclined toward nervousness, a hereditary tendency, and should always seek good cheer and sunshine, and the companionship of those people whom you like best. You are generous, kind-hearted and noble, but inclined to be jealous. Study always whatever tends to strengthen your will, and learn to distinguish the true from the false, both in people and things. Guard against the hoarding of money. Marry a girl born in November, March or January. You were born on Tues... and brown. ... certain amount of social and personal attraction in your makeup, but not great depth. You are inclined to be vacillating and fickle, with a tendency toward jealousy that often gets you into trouble. You are well meaning, but quick tempered and impulsive, and have a habit of often putting your foot in it, as the saying goes, by uttering the first thought that comes into your mind. You have an outspoken frankness in speech and detest anything that savors of deceit or deception. You have a keen sense of humour and of sarcasm and at times are anything but jovial. You should be quite successful in business matters, as long as you follow out your own ideas, rather than the advice of others. Be careful of extremes in all things. You were born on Monday. Your color is pink.

Ras.—For you to acquire happiness means that you have to do considerable spade work on your own nature. Born with an inclination toward moodiness and a tendency toward the mystic and occult affairs of life, circumstances of your life have conspired to increase this tendency. You will constanty have to work hard against shyness and introspection, but others have conquered these traits and so can you, if you try hard enough. Get out more and mix with people and try to forget yourself. No matter where you go, you will take your own shelf with you. It is your own nature that is causing any unhappiness you may have. Cultivate patience and the habit of not seeing little things that annoy. Engage in any occupation that appears to suit you, without regard to the advice of others, because you are individual and should follow out your own ideas at most times. You were born on Monday. Your colors are steel and brick shades.

G. O. R.—There are conflicting elements in your makeup which will give you some trouble at times. Naturally, you have a tendency toward conservative ideas and to a nature that is apt to be introspective and gloomy at times, but your way of happiness lies along the road of service to others, and the bringing of joy and happiness to the lives of those around you. You are sympathetic and philanthropic, and have a great thirst for knowledge, with a habit of asking questions about any subject that happens to interest you at the moment. You are thoughtful, industrious, sensible and persevering and, while apparently yielding in your ways, are quite determined and obstinate in your opinions, usually formed after long thought. You should guard against extremes in drinking of tea and coffee and always take care of your feet, for you find it hard to obtain comfortable shoes. You were born on Wednesday. Your colors are steel and purple. If you mean the 21st October, 1925, a Wednesday, that was a day for making no important purchases, and for exercising patience. The 21st of October, 1926, a Thursday, is a day for co-operating with your superiors, lending a helping hand and for working hard.

Hazel Eyes.—You have an emotional and sympathetic nature, with very strong maternal feelings. You make an admirable housewife, being economical, industrious and provident. You are thoroughly devoted to all the interests of your home and family, which you place first. You are saving in your disposition, sometimes too much so, and must guard against a miserly tendency in later life. You are easily hurt by unkindness, and, not being very intuitive in the choice of friends, frequently suffer from slights, after being misled by a show of good fellowship in others. You are very determined in your opinions, and are not easily forced out of a conclusion. Born with a nature that is affectionate and charming, circumstances of your life have made you rather moody at times and you must constantly fight against too much reserve and retirement. You were born on Sunday. Your colors are white and yellow.

Kath.—You have a good deal of poise and self-satisfaction in your make-up, and incline toward the conservative side of life, not being very favorable to new enterprises. You will find that your success in life will come through the use of tact and diplomacy in your dealings with others, not by the use of force. You have a practical, executive type of nature that makes you impatient of awaiting results. You like to get things done in a hurry and do not wish to be hampered by others who are not as quick in their ways of doing and thinking as yourself. You regard a promise as sacred, and do not like the breaking of promises by others. Nervous trouble will be your bugbear. Cultivate calmness and repose, and do not allow jealousy, hatred, anger or envy to obtain hold on you. Marry a man born in April, August or November. Yes, you were born on Sunday. Your colors are shades of steel and brick.

Molly Mine.—You have a disposition that has few conflicting elements. It is very markedly the number of marriage. You have a peace-loving, gentle nature, with a strong inspirational influence. And your happiness in life will come from intimate service to others—the service inspired by love. You should have musical ability. You are usually full of enthusiasm and are not easily cast down or discouraged. You are careless about money matters and about returning borrowed articles, although you resent any criticism of your ways in this regard. You are easily confused and dislike busy and crowded thoroughfares. Success will come to you when you conquer a quick temper and a tendency to worry. Your motto should be: "Think Often of your friends and Seldom of your enemies." Marry a man born in February, May, August or March. August and December are your lucky months, Friday your good day. Yes, you were born on Sunday. Your colors are grey and heliotrope.

Maude.—You should have a very nice personality, your greatest faults being a too sensitive disposition and a tendency toward jealousy. You are peace-loving and kind, without, however, a great deal of efficiency, and your greatest happiness in life will come from serving others in the service inspired by love. You should at all times seek good cheer and sunshine, because your nature demands both for its well-being. You thrive only when surrounded by those you like. You have a fear of poverty, burglars and robbery, and are very uneasy when left alone at nights. Do not allow disease to get a hold on you, as medicine is slow to act with you. Learn to respect the opinions of others and guard against fickleness of character. You were born on Tuesday. Your colors are gold and violet.

M. D.—You have much physical endurance and power, but a nature that is fickle and changeable, the type that will not mean much happiness for you unless you try to overcome this vacillating quality in it. You have great possibilities for good, if you but resolve to use them to the full. The happiness of others is owing to you to a great extent, as you appear to have the power of making those around you happy. You have a high sens of honor, and a degree of sensitiveness that sometimes gives you much worry. You are a natural home builder, and and will make a good wife. Study how to concentrate and strive for self-reliance and independence from all outside influences. Think carefully over what you can do best, then decide your path in life and do not swerve from it. Marry a man born in October, January or June. April and August are your lucky months, Saturday your good day. Yes, you were born on Sunday. Your colors are green and silver. The day you ask about, which was a Saturday, was one for confidently assuming any responsibility offered you.

Ona.—You should have a very nice type of nature. Your stars point to a disposition that likes pleasure and good cheer, with an aptitude for the fine arts, and your happiness and success in life will come from the bringing of laughter and joy to the lives of those around you. In doing this, you will gain much for yourself. You are active, independent and persevering and like moving and travel. You have a good disposition, being very jolly when you are jolly, but quite miserable at times, without any real reason. You are very careful in matters of money and business, and a promise with you is absolutely sacred. You would make a good teacher, a designer, manager of store or hotel, or, in fact, should achieve success in any commercial position. Strive for self-control, particularly of your temper, and avoid the society of scolders and fault-finders, who depress you. Follow out your own original ideas. Marry a man born in May, July, February or November. March and November are your good months, Tuesdays and Saturdays your lucky days. You were born on Wednesday. Your color is black.

M. E. M.—You have a natural inclination toward pleasure and good cheer and a liking for the fine arts that should make your life quite pleasant, but you have a tendency toward change and uncertainty in your ways that does not always make for happiness or success in its possessor. You should try to cultivate decision at all times, even in very small matters. You are generous and ambitious, but are careless about money and also about returning borrowed articles, resenting any criticism when told about your faults in these regards. You are easily confused, and dislike crowds and busy thoroughfares. Nervous prostration and stomach trouble will bother you, caused by worry, anger and impatience. Do not waste so much time in worrying over things that may never happen. You were born on Thursday. Your color is black.

J. D.—You have a feminine, receptive nature and a very strong maternal element in your disposition. Combined with this, you have an aptitude for matters of business and finance that should make you a very excellent wife indeed. You are possessed of great powers of good and can usually inspire those around you to good, if you control your quick temper and tendency to criticism and selfishness. You are very emotional and have strong intuitions, which you should mostly follow. You are energetic at most times, but at times have fits of laziness when you wish to do very little of anything. Guard against sudden, violent pains in the head, and against stomach trouble, often caused by a liking for rich, highly-seasoned foods. January and October are your lucky months, Sunday your good day. You were born on Monday, not Wednesday. Your colors are gold, violet and white.

MOTHERS' DAY SERVICES

AT CAMPBELLFORD.

CAMPBELLFORD, May 11.—The services held in St. John's church on Sunday were all largely attended. In the morning, Rev. Mr. Elliott gave a splendid address on Mothers' Day". Special music was rendered and Mr. Walter Henson sang a solo, "Mother of Mine."

In the afternoon the Sunday school met in the church and special music and singing and a short talk by the superintendent was given.

A large number of the Independent Order of Oddfellows marched to the church in a body for the evening service. Rev. Mr. Elliott took his text from the eighteenth chapter of First Samuel, "The friendship of Jonathan for David," stressing the value of freindship and fellowship.

Mr. Cecil Searles gave a violin solo, Miss Helen Wood and Mr. G. W. Lucy sang a duet, 'Love Divine' and the choir sang special anthems. After the service the Lodge marched in a body to their lodge rooms where they dispersed.

The altar was prettily banked with ferns and carnations, several sprays being sent by friends in honor of Mothers' Day.

AT MILLBROOK.

MILLBROOK, May 11.—A special Mothers' Day service was held in the United church on Sunday, beginning at 10 a.m., the Sunday school and the regular congregation uniting for the occasion.

The superintendent, Mr. W. Fred Fallis, was in charge, and Rev. Joseph Wilks led in the opening prayer. The order of service included an opening invocation, "Honor thy father and thy mother that the days may be long in the land", suitable hymns, and responsive Scripture reading in which the various departments of the school took part in turn, or in unison.

Five little girls, Bryar Edmunds, Myrtle Nattrass, Helen Mitchell, Mary Burnham, and Gertie Richards sang two selections, "Sing for Joy", and "Beautiful May Time", instead of the usual anthems by the choir, and the Wide Awakes Group of Canadian Girls in Training presented the pageant, 'Mothers of the Bible", wearing appropriate costume.

The characters were: Spirit of Motherhood, Jean Burnham; Eve, Annie McMahon; Rachel, Margaret Howard; Jocebed, Elsie Spence; Ruth, Jean Stinson; Hannah, Wilma Fallis; Mother of David, Flossie McMahon; Mother of Jonathan, Etta Peel; Salome, Marjorie Sayles; Mary, the Mother of Christ, Hazel McMahon.

Immediately after the first address by the Spirit of Motherhood two little girls, Bryar Edmunds and Mary Burnham, carrying lighted candles, sang, "Jesus bida us shine," and after Mary's entrance on the platform Mrs. H. W. Johnston sang very effectively the solo, "O Little Town of Bethlehem." Each character carried an unlighted candle when she came in, Motherhood lighting each in turn from the tall one she carried after their claim to remembrance had been made.

The pastor, in place of the regular sermon, spoke briefly to the children on "A Right Ambition in Life", and a baptismal service, in which four little ones received this rite, concluded the morning worship. The children baptized were the little daughter and son of Mr. and Mrs. B. B. Dawson, Mary Beatrice and John Brenton; Albert Edward Stinson, and Alvin Millard Lambert, whose parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. Stinson, and Mr. and Mrs. V. C. Lambert, assumed the obligations which the convenant of baptism implies.

The usual literature for the school was distributed after the benediction by the pastor.

GRACE CHURCH.

MILLBROOK, May 11.—The service at the Grace Presbyterian church on Sunday afternoon was in charge of the new pastor, Rev. John Riddle, whose ordination to the ministry, and induction to the joint pastorate of Millbrook and Centreville took place at the latter church last week.

Carnations and roses in front of the pulpit made appropriate decorations for Mothers' Day, the solo, "Memories of Mother", sung by Miss Anna Hawthorne, being also most suitable to the occasion.

Rev. Mr. Riddle spoke on the subject, "The Spirit of Mothers' Day," basing his remarks upon two types of mothers, Rebekah and the Syro-Phenician woman, depicted, the one in the Old and the other in the New Testament, reading the passages from Genesis 27:13-29, and Matthew 15: 21-28, for his Scripture lessons.

Rebekah's ambition rose high for her younger, and favorite son, but it defeated its own ends; deceiving his old father, Jacob was in turn himself deceived, after being banished from his home, and separated finally from his mother's scheming love. The truth of Proverbs 31:30, "Favor is deceitful and beauty vain, but a woman that feareth the Lord, she shall be praised," finds its proof in the result of Rebekah's action.

The mother in the New Testament faced all the opposition of the disciples, and the traditions of her own people, to reach Jesus and have her daughter healed. She took what Jesus pointed out as a disadvantage and used it as an advantage, gaining her request as "Jesus answered and said unto her, O woman, great is thy faith; be it unto thee even as thou wilt. And her daughter was made whole from that very hour."

Jesus, in this case, while seeming to discourage the woman, was really presenting to the inner circle of his disciples one phase of the truth concerning His kingdom since He could not unfold His purpose to the nation as a whole, having been rejected both by it and its leaders.

"Many seem to be living and working under some disability which they turn to advantage, surpassing others who apparently hav no such drag upon them; they make that which seems their burden the ladder by which they climb and reach the goal toward which they had set out in life."

"Motherhood is exalted by Christianity, and a true mother will strive to give her children one of life's greatest gifts—a normal, healthy physique; better than this, which may not be appreciated until it is lost, she will try to give the highes' gift, leading her children to accept that more abundant life made possible through Jesus Christ."

"Human life is best developed on the basis of the family, and the home, of which the mother is intended by God to be the centre, is the foundation of the nation. Moses' great perception realized this when he linked together economics and religion, based on the family system, as fundamental to the nations' existence and growth. It was when the family life was degraded and immoral that Babylon, Egypt, Rome, and Greece fell, though apparently at the zenith of their power, and the speaker made reference to the present industrial strike in England, adding the question, "Are we getting away from the great truths that Moses laid down in connection with the home? The divorce laws placed upon our statute books—are they a sign of decay, spiritual or economic, or both? While nations have come and gone the Jew is a mighty force among us still due to Moses' realization of what family life really implies."

"What is a mother's chief desire always? That her child should come to God through Jesus Christ, and her love is but an exemplification of the divine love of the Father."

A loud speaker has been ordered for the Brooklyn supreme court so that the jury and stenographers can be sure of hearing all the evidence.

OSHAWA HOPES FOR NEW MOTOR PLANT

$750,000 Addition To General Motors Proposed.

OSHAWA, May 11.— Although no official statement has been issued by the Government at Ottawa, it is understood here, the information coming on good authority, that the Budget in regard to the tariff on motor cars and the industry will be revised, and that the cut will be made up, thus placing the car business practically on the same basis as before.

Great pressure has been brought to bear on Mackenzie King, Hon. James Robb, Finance Minister, and the Liberals at Ottawa from every angle and from every allied industry throughout the country. The fruit of the representations will be a circumnavigation of the question, but getting back to protection just the same. In an effort to satisfy the west the original cut will remain, but will be completley covered up, or almost so, by other revisions.

When the announcement is made by the Government of the changes in the original Budget, it is understood that the General Motors Corporation will then make its plans public for the construction of the new Pontiac car at Oshawa.

The Pontiac plant will mean a large adidtion to the present works costing in the neighborhood of $750,000, and 1,000 men will be engaged.

Great Motor City.

If the changed Budget receives the sanction of Parliament, or, in other words, if the motor car industry is properly protected, Oshawa is destined to become the Motor City of Canada.

Australian Plant.

S. McLaughlin, president of the General Motors, Canada, states that the establishment of the new plant in Australia will not affect the Canadian plant in its export trade.

BYNG PLANTS TREE.

On Site of Victoria's Proposed Solarium.

VICTORIA, B.C., May 11.—(Canadian Press.) — Simplicity marked a ceremony at Mill Bay, north of here, yesterday, when Baron Byng, Governor General of Canada, planted a tree on the site of a proposed solarium for crippled children in memory of Queen Alexandra.

Lord and Lady Byng are spending a short holiday on Vancouver Island preparatory to commencing their return tour across Canada.

"THESE WOMEN"

By MALCOLM DUART

COPYRIGHT 1926

The Characters and Situations in this Story are entirely fictional.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Early in the story Harry Morton (middle-aged, handsome, rich, unmarried and the guardian of Audrey Morton) has thrown out of his house in Peterborough a shabby stranger whom he called "Smith." Smith claimed to be Audrey's stepfather. To get rid of him, Morton sent him to a job in South America.

At the end of the last installment Audrey has just received a letter from Smith.

Audrey is wildly in love with her guardian. So is Nona, a Toronto stage girl. Morton, to turn Audrey's mind from him, has let her see him with Nona and other women, and also has thrust John Parrish, his secretary, into her company. In addition to his Peterborough home, he maintains an apartment in Toronto.

Audrey slaps Parrish when he says Morton is not the proper man to be her guardian.

To learn how other women fascinate Morton, Audrey has just started exercises in a gymnasium, where girls' muscles are stretched for stage dancing. Discussion of this career is interrupted by receipt of the letter from "Smith."

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXIII

"I'd never mistake that penmanship," commented Morton.

Audrey looked at him with a gasp of interest. There was a note in his voice that she never had heard before.

"You hate him!" she exclaimed.

Morton turned the letter over and inspected the signature.

"P. H. Smith," he read aloud, without answering her.

The handwriting was singularly clear and beautiful—the writing that is peculiar to architects, and engineers, and accountants, and others who make precision their life's work.

Morton turned to the beginning, and read, half aloud:

"At Sea, the 21st.

"I expect to mail this at the first port we touch. There is something that I know of deep interest to you. The knowledge is worth money to you—and to me. I am willing to sell my knowledge. You have access to your guardian's funds. He is wealthy. Upon receipt of five thousand dollars from you, in the form of any negotiable paper, I will give you information that I am quite sure you never have had. What do you know of yourself, and of your guardian? Do you know who your mother was? Do you know who I am? Maybe you will not care about this last item—until you have received word from me, in return for your five thousand. Then you will be much interested. Knowing something of women, I am quite sure you will show this letter to Morton. Knowing something of him, I am sure he will give no explanation. Again drawing upon my knowledge of women, I am fairly assured that sooner or later you will transmit to me the sum I have mentioned. Curiosity in this case is legitimate. From time to time I shall inquire at the office of the International Express Co., in Buenos Aires, for a letter (with enclosure) from you, addressed to the undersigned."

Audrey took the letter from Morton's hand and looked at it again.

"Isn't he horrible?" she cried. "Does he really know all those things?"

Tossing the envelope on the table, Morton paced rapidly up and down the room for a few moments.

"Audrey," he said, abruptly, "you are a rich woman. I have made over to you half of all I have. You may send him the money he asks, if you wish."

Audrey leaned back against the desk.

"You hate him!" she said again.

"I have every reason to hate him Morton said solemnly. "There was a time when I would gladly have strangled him to death, if it had not been for you—for the effect it would have upon you!"

The girl's eyes had something of worship in them. "You always have been thinking of me, haven't you?"

"Always!" he answered. He moved nearer her. "Do you wish to send him the money? He can tell you what he says he can tell."

"I'll never do it." Her voice rang with sincerity. "I would be cheating you if I did it."

The man sat down, and with his elbows upon the desk, rested his chin in his hands. After a long silence he spoke again.

"Dearest," he said, "there are terrible things that can come into the lives of innocent people. Sometimes they are made to suffer for things that are not their fault at all; things they have nothing to do with, except to pay the penalty.

"I have been trying to shield you."

She moved nearer to him.

Leaning over, she almost whispered: "Daddy, is that man my real father?"

He was startled. With a quick gesture he seized her arm and pressed it with his fingers until she winced.

"No!" he shouted. "No! Praise God, you didn't enter the world under that handicap!"

He relaxed his grasp, and with a little sigh she passed her hand over his cheek.

"I'm so glad!" she said, softly. "Ever since I first saw him I've wondered that—a little. And I hated him so—I hated his eyes and the way he looked at me and at you."

Looking into the distance, and tapping on the table with his fingers, Morton spoke, monotonously, as of a subject which he dreaded.

"Smith is not his name, of course," he said. "It is a good enough name for his present purposes. And he is a bad man. A very evil man, who has caused much needless agony to people who never harmed him." He thought a moment before he went on. "There is a kink in the minds of men, sometimes, that makes them a danger to everyone with whom they come in contact. He is like that."

Swinging around in his chair, he looked at Audrey, his lips twitching as if he were about to weep. She put her arm around his head and drew it to her bosom, crooning over him.

He went on speaking, in the same dead, colorless tone. "He did a great wrong to you, sweetheart. You were too young to know about it—you were a little baby. I hope you never WILL know about it. I've tried to keep it from you. I always shall try."

"There, there!" She smoothed his cheek. "Don't worry about him any more."

Morton shook his head. "I am not worrying about him. Whenever I desire I can put him where he can harm no one else. But Audrey—if I do that I'll hurt you."

She held him closer to her.

"I guess he knows that," she surmised, with a wise little nod. "That's why he didn't care if you saw his letter."

"I suppose so," he assented. "Evidently he feels that if he has five thousand dollars he can be independent of me and the job I gave him in the Argentine. The money would be gone, though, before long."

He gave a short laugh. "He never was skillful with money. They kept him for two long terms in the penitentiary because of his—well, carelessness. That was why we didn't get to see him at our house for eighteen years or thereabouts."

The girl shivered. "A jail-bird!"

"Worse than that," he supplemented. "A disease—a walking small-pox—a plague!"

It was an auspicious time for Parrish to begin his new role as Audrey's assistant guardian.

After her conversation with Morton the girl slipped away to the washroom, and when she returned, the rouge was gone from her lips and her lashes were innocent of the mascara they had worn when she came.

Parrish entered Morton's office by one door as Audrey came in at the other.

Morton held up an admonitory hand.

The girl drew herself up stiffly and then relaxed as she caught her guardian's glance.

"If it were—if it were any other day, I WOULD slap him again," she said, turning her shoulder conspicuously toward Parrish.

Parrish made a defensive gesture. "I only did what I thought was right and she attacked me!" Plainly his grievance had not wholly died away.

"You deserved slapping," she said. "How can you say anything against my daddy when he's treated you so well?"

"Oh, tut, tut, tut!" Morton got up, and placing his hand on Parrish's shoulder, took the girl by the hand. "I don't care two hoots in—in the hereafter what anybody says about me! Parrish is a good young man and he thinks I'm a bad old one.

"That doesn't worry me. He means well when he tells you to beware of me. We ought to encourage people who mean well. They are needed in the world.

"Although—" he turned to Parrish—"some well-meaning people make idiots of themselves. Eh, Parrish?"

The young man hung his head. "I don't admit I'm an idiot."

"You are, though," interposed Audrey, briskly.

Morton moved his hand to her shoulder, and still holding to Parrish, gave them both a brief shake.

"Hush!" he commanded. "Don't act like two children putting out their tongues at one another.

"Parrish, you are instructed to take Miss Morton wherever she wants to go, each afternoon and evening. Audrey, he'll be along to see that you're not harmed in any way. Now behave yourselves."

Parrish looked covertly at Audrey. "Well, come on!" he said, turning to the door.

"Do I have to go with him?" she asked Morton.

"I'd rather you had somebody to watch out after you," he said, gently. "This new career of yours isn't any too safe, you know."

She kissed him, and with a pout, followed Parrish out the door.

The letter from Smith still lay on the table. Morton picked it up and read it again, carefully. Then, turning to his desk, he unlocked an inner drawer and took from it a packet of papers. It was the one he had unfolded before the Peterborough detective when Smith first appeared at Morton's home.

Drawing from the package two yellowed sheets, he laid them side by side with the letter Audrey had received. Looking back and forth, he compared the handwriting.

"It hasn't varied a hair's breadth," he commented to himself, as he folded the documents and put them away. The new letter from Smith was carefully folded with them.

This done, he picked up the telephone directory and leafed over it. Finding the number he wanted, he called a theatrical agency.

"This is Harry Morton speaking," he said to the girl who answered. "Let me talk to Abe."

He waited until a man's voice gave a gruff "Hello."

"This is Harry Morton," he said. The voice at the other end promptly became cordial. "Are you putting on any new revues this spring for the jazz restaurants? . . . I thought you would . . . . Well, I want you to do me a favor. I'll drop in and see you in half an hour."

In addressing the cadets at the conclusion of the revolutions, Capt. Heron said that the object of the cadet movement was not to develop the military spirit, but the aims of those behind the movement were three-fold—to make loyal citizens, to teach boys to obey and to respect authority. He congratulated the cadets, their commanders and instructors for the splendid showing they had made. Other speakers were Geo. O'Sullivan, Chairman of the Board of Education; Major J. M. Bygott, Rev. C. D. Daniel, Mayor G. A. Kingston, Principal Haig of the Public School and Principal Greig of the High School.

VETERANS' PAPER UNDER NEW NAME

"The Legionary" Official Organ of Canadian Legion.

OTTAWA, Ont., May 11.—(Canadian Press). — The passing of "The Veteran," leading ex-service men's publication in Canada for the past eight years, and its replacement by "The Legionary" was announced from the editorial offices here yesterday. The new publication will be issued as the official organ of the Canadian Legion of the British Empire Service League into which all existing veterans' organizations are being amalgamated. The present circulation and advertising of "The Veteran" will be carried on by "The Legionary," and the editing and business management remains as heretofore. Besides the change in name, the principal alternation will be in the passing of control of the editorial policy from the Great War Veterans' Association to the National Executive of the new Legion.

"The Veteran" was launched in December, 1917, and within six months its circulation had passed the 100,000 mark. The first editor was J. A. Stephenson of Ottawa. He was succeeded by David Loughnan, now of Vancouver. The present editor, T. C. Lapp of Ottawa, was appointed in September, 1921. "The Veteran" was published first as a monthly, then as a weekly, and for the past two and a half years as a semi-monthly magazine.

The decision to transpose "The Veteran" into the official organ of the Canadian Legion of the B.E.S.L. was made at the Legion conference in Ottawa on April 12 to 16, and the National President of the new organization, Lieut.-Gen. Sir Percy Lake of Victoria, chose the new name.

PARIS UNEMPLOYED

TOURS, France, May 11—There are only 147 unemployed persons in Paris, whereas London, before the strike there had 800,000 and Berlin 450,000, Minister of Labor Durafour said at a banquet inaugurating the Tours exposition week.

TUMMON TALKS ON DAIRY TREATY

Says Home Market Means Much To Canadian Dairymen.

INSTABILITY NOW.

OTTAWA, May 11 (Canadian Press).—W. E. Tummon, Conservative, Hastings South, in speaking on the Budget, said that, coming from a county which had been a pioneer in the dairy industry, he was particularly interested in the Australian and New Zealand treaties. He attacked the Government for the negotiation of these treaties, by which, he said, the producers in those countries were allowed to compete with the Canadian producers whose costs of production were vastly higher. Mr. Tummon said that for every pound of butter exported by Canada last year, 11 pounds had been consumed at home, yet there were those who insisted that the home market was not important to farmers. The Government by its actions had created some instability and uncertainty among dairy farmers, as it had in commercial and industrial life of the country. A policy was needed by which Canadians would supply as far as possible the wants of Canada.

John Vallance (Liberal, South Battleford) supported the Budget. The reduction in the income tax, he said, would help to remove what had always been a grievance in Western Canada.

RAILWAY MEN SEND $500 TO STRIKERS

First Direct Financial Aid From Canada.

OTTAWA, Ont., May 11 (Canadian) — The first direct financial contribution from Canadian workers for the support of British trade unionists on strike was forwarded Monday from Ottawa by the national headquarters of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railroad Employees A remittance of $500 was sent by the Brotherhood to Walter Citrine, secretary, the British Trades Union Congress, for disposition as considered advisable by the executive officers of the congress.

A. R. Mosher, President of the Canadian Brotherhood, said he believed every worker in Canada is in full sympathy with the miners and supporting trade unionists of Great Britain. He deprecated the hesitancy on the part of some representatives in Canada of United States controlled international organizations to give whole-hearted support to the British workers, and considered their right to the title of "international" forfeited by the failure to support strongly an action in which the issues were so clear cut.

The officers and members of the C.B.R.E. are convinced, said Mr. Mosher, that the struggle in Great Britain is purely economic. He believed the struggle would continue until some assurance was forthcoming that the miners and their families would not be forced below the present bare subsistence level.

AMUNDSEN EXPEDITION STARTS ITS FLIGHT ACROSS NORTH POLE

Norge Leaves Spitzbergen To-day To Go To Alaska.

THREE DAY TRIP.

Explorers Hope To Find Land For Use As Airplane Base.

OSLO, Norway, May 11 (Canadian Press).—The Amundsen - Ellsworth dirigible Norge started on its flight to the North Pole and Alaska at 10.10 o'clock this morning, says a message from King's Bay, Spitzbergen.

Amundsen, the noted explorer, and Lincoln Ellsworth, his companion on their unsuccessful attempt to reach the North Pole by aeroplane last year, hope primarily to discover land during the flight of their Italian dirigible Norge, which began to-day. Amundsen has pointed out that it is only 2,000 miles from Spitzbergen to Alaska, and that the discovery of even a small piece of land near the top of the world would afford an invaluable connecting link between America and Europe and Asia.

Under the plans made by Amundsen for this spring, the Norge will fly in an almost straight line across the Pole and through the centre of the unexplored region of the Arctic area in the Polar Sea. The leaders of the expedition have estimated that it will take three days to fly from King's Bay, Spitzbergen, to Point Barrow, Alaska. The first pilot of the Norge is Col. Umberto Nobile, the Italian aviation officer who superintended her construction, and who flew her successfully from Rome across Europe to England, thence to Norway and Leningrad, and finally to Spitzbergen.

The Norge is equipped completely as a passenger carrier, and is fitted with one large combined control and passenger car mounted well forward. There is accommodation for twenty passengers in this car. On the trip from Leningrad to Spitzbergen the Norge carried a crew of fourteen. Her maximum speed is 62 miles an hour. Her useful cargo capacity is eight tons. She is inflated with hydrogen.

Praise From Germany.

BERLIN, May 11 (Canadian Press).—Reflecting the disbelief of some German scientists in Admiral Peary's discovery of the North Pole, newspapers yesterday gave prominence to Commander Richard E. Byrd's flight as "a spectacular conclusion by air of something which numerous explorers have for decades attempted to achieve by dog teams."

Byrd's Claim Doubted.

OSLO, Norway, May 11 (Canadian Press).—There is some diversity of opinion here as to whether or not Lieut.-Commander Richard E. Bryd reached the North Pole in his flight from Spitzbergen on Sunday.

Dr. Skattum, president of the Geographical Society, holds that it is impossible to accept Commander Byrd's claim that he reached the Pole before his observations are published. On the other hand, Lieut. Boee, chief of the Army Aeronautic School, praises the achievement of Commander Byrd and does not doubt his claim.

Crossing Polar Ice.

OSLO, May 11 (Canadian Press).—A wireless message received from Captain Amundsen at 11.45 o'clock this morning said:

"Now flying across Polar ice. Expedition sends its best thanks to Premier of Norway for his kindly telegram received immediately before start."

It was officially announced this afternoon that Captain Amundsen will take possession of any land found during the voyage in the name of the King of Norway.

St. Paul's Choir Concert

(By Jeanette.)

There was a good attendance at the annual anniversary concert of the choir of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, presented last evening before approximately six hundred people, who made a very appreciative audience for the fine programme rendered by the choir and the assisting artists, Mrs. Vera McLean, contralto, Austin S. Douglas, bass-baritone, and the String Quarette from the Hambourg Conservatory of Music, Toronto.

The programme opened with choral selections from "Elijah," in which the choir, under direction of Mr. Martin B. Chenhall, A.R.C.O., interpreted very pleasingly this powerful number, illustrating the individual, imaginative faculty of its composer, Mendelssohn, in the florid yet rich harmony of the different portions. The visiting vocalists, Mrs. McLean and Mr. Douglas, both had solo parts in this selection. A quality of fine volume in the forte passages sung by the choir in this number was offset by the thin tone of the soft work.

Other choral numbers were Oley-Speaks "Reveries," three-part choruses for women's voices, in which the ladies of the choir had a prettily shaded selection. "De Sandman" was an "a capella" rendition by male voices that showed exceptionally good ensemble tone in the pianissimo passages, in a satisfying choral structure that tottered slightly in the solo work, but received a generous meed of applause at its conclusion.

The best number in the choral section was the final glee for five voices; "The Bells of St. Michael's Tower," in which there was a more noticeable element of the vigorous treatment lacking in the previous choruses. The ringing cadences of this selection, which opens with a bell imitation in staccato effect, lend themselves admirably to the atmosphere of the number, and the choir excelled in this final effort, which had a particularly effective accompaniment of piano and organ.

The visiting vocalists were accorded much hearty appreciation of their efforts, the male singer, Mr. Austin S. Douglas, who is soloist at the Bloor Street Baptist Church, Toronto, and who made his first bow to Peterborough audiences last evening, probably making the best impression. Mr. Douglas has a very fine, sonorous bass-baritone voice, used a trifle pompously, but with a pleasing dramatic rendition and flexible expressiveness that made his numbers very attractive in their varied treatment. His faulty diction made it difficult at times to hear the words, but the tone production was always good.

Mr. Douglas opened his programme with two negro spirituals, "Swing Low, Sweet Chariot," and "Oh, Didn't It Rain," in which his quality of interpretive force and smooth, dignified tone was paramount. An encore, "Kitty O'Toole" was done in Irish accent and excellent jolly style.

Mr. Douglas' second solo, "The Song of the Volga Boatman," a Russian folk song, descriptive of the arrival and departure of the river men, was beautifully rendered, and was probably his major effort of the evening. The dignified, somewhat sombre timbre of his deep voice was at its best in the descriptive cadences of the song which depicts the pianissimo distant effect of the plashing oars, the increasing breadth of tone in the approach of the boat and the final diminuendo again as the oarsmen recede in the distance. As an encore, the singer gave "The Big Bass Viol."

Mrs. Vera McLean repeated once again last night the splendid impression made by her on previous visits to the city. Her rich, luscious contralto, powerful and sweet, brought her hearty applause after each rendition. The lovely song, "Trees" was her initial number, followed by "A Little Song," and, as an encore, a beautiful rendition of "Annie Laurie." "Break o'Day," with its soaring passages was a second solo number, with an encore in the old favorite which lends itself so admirably to a rich contralto voice, "I Passed by Your Window." With Mr. Douglas, Mrs. McLean had a duett, in which the two fine voices blended admirably, inadequate diction making it almost impossible, however, to distinguish the words.

An interesting portion of the programme provided was the music of the Hambourg Studio String Quartette, composed of Maurice Solway, first violin; Murray Adaskin, second violin; Arthur Mulner, viola, and Martin B. Chenhal, Junior, 'cello. They played, as an opening number, an "Allegro" and "Menuetto" from Opus 54, by Mozart, in which the master's delicious melodic intervals and expressive coloring were adequately rendered by the four young musicians, who give promise of future pre-eminence in this, the most perfect type of chamber music. They play with a graceful, restrained touch and soft, expressive rendition that is very pleasing, and their music, while displaying a quality of individual interpretation in each instrument that does not make for the compact, rounded tone that is the ideal of instrumental quartettes, is illustrative of the high mental participation in this music that is characteristic of each member of such musical groups.

"The Mill," a brief, dainty, descriptive thing, was the second selection by the quartette, with a lovely encore in an arrangement of the old favorite, "Drink to Me Only With Thine Eyes."

The haunting cadences of the charming "Londonderry Air" came next, with a second number in the vivacious music of Schubert's "March Militaire," and a pleasing encore in the graceful melody of Haydn's 'Serenade."

Splendid accompaniments to the various choral and solo numbers of the evening were played by Miss Muriel Bridge at the organ, and Miss Agnes Logan at the piano. The choir made an attractive appearance last evening, the ladies in white gowns, with a setting of flowers and ferns. At the conclusion of the programme, the choir and assisting artists were entertained by the Ladies' Aid Society of the Church, in the Sunday School rooms.

NEAR SOUEDA.

BEIRUT, Syria, May 11 (Canadian Press).—A column of French troops tramped over the route to Soueda yesterday and buried the remains of 3,000 of their comrades who were massacred by the Druse tribesmen nine months ago while attempting to relieve the Soueda garrison, which was besieged by the tribesmen. In addition to interring what was left of the victims, the troops recovered the greater portion of the war material which had been abandoned when the relief column was ambushed.

STILL CLEANING UP.

On Monday Mr. Careful Man
Knew Clean-Up Week was here.
Said he, "I'll make thinks spic-and-span!
Yes, sir! All clean and clear!"
He found the straight and narrow path
A faithful, true and tried walk.
And gathered mortar, plaster, lath,
Broken bottles, chipped crockery, ashes, ancient garments, old hats, cardboard boxes, etc., and placed them on the sidewalk.

On Tuesday came a man with bags
And baskets big enough.
He gathered up the papers, rags,
But left the other stuff.
And when his labors all were o'er
Some tidy dreams were shattered
And Mr. Careful Man was sore
For old mattresses, broken baby dolls, powdered lime, hairnets, discarded safety razor blades, etc., all o'er the street were scattered.

On Wednesday came the rubbish cart,
A wondrous sight to see.
The rubbish man is very smart
And, oh, so strong is he.
He flung the ash cans up and down.
His way could n'er be my way.
He seemed to wish to paint the town
And so with tomato cans, cinders, clinkers, paper, rags, broken bottles, old mattresses, old hats, older coats, broken baby buggies, broken dress holders and coat hangers and stray bits of garbage he littered up the highway.

WHAT IS HERB JUICE ?

Long centuries ago primitive man cured his ills and ailments with simple roots, leaves and barks which nature generously provided for him. These medicines were crude and some of them far from pleasant to take but they were effective. The best proof of their merit is the fact that after years of progress, study and learning, man has never found any better medicines than those which came from Nature's bosom. MILLER'S HERB JUICE as the name implies, is composed of the juices of leaves, roots and barks extracted in such a manner by the largest pharmaceutical house in Canada, that the greatest strength and value are obtained. It acts upon the human system in a natural way—its effect is mild but sure. It is safe for young and old as it is nature's own best medicine. What HERB JUICE will do is best judged by the results it has already accomplished for many others who will tell you they owe their present good health to the restorative powers of HERB JUICE.

HERB JUICE will relieve indigestion, constipation, stomach, liver and bowel disorders and similar ailments.

Prices Of Many Issues Weak At Toronto To-day

TORONTO, May 11 (Canadian Press).—With trading slightly increased in volume, prices were inclined to turn weaker on the Toronto Stock Exchange this morning, though the downturn did not affect the entire list. Bell Telephone was the weakest issue, losing 2¼ at 131½ in active trading. Smelters eased a half at 1-89¾, and International Nickel a quarter at 33 5-8. Arnold Common, the most recently listed stock, came into demand and advanced a point and an eighth at 19 3-8. Brazilian firmed a quarter at 90 3-4. In the mines, McIntyre eased 23 cents at 25.15 and Nipissing ten at 5.50.

Lightest Session Of Year On Standard Mine Market

TORONTO, May 11 (Canadian Press).—Prices were well maintained on the Standard Mining Exchange this morning, but trading was much lighter than yesterday and the least in volume of any session so far this year. Premier losing eight at 2.15, was the only noticeably easier stock. McIntyre firmed 25 cents at 25.35, Teck Hughes 1 at 326, Hollinger ten at 18.40, and Crown Reserve one at 13½.

Wheat Prices Take Drop Other Grains Are Firmer

CHICAGO, May 11 (Canadian Press).—Scattered selling that disclosed a lack of support in the wheat market proved sufficient to pull down values to-day in early dealings. The opening, ¼c to 1 1-8c down, was followed by a slight further drop, but then by a sharp rally in which May showed a sudden jump of 2 3-4c from early bottom figures. Considerable significance, too, in connection with the approaching windup of dealings in May wheat here was attached to the notice which appeared to-day, calling for a separate report to the Government on each open account on May wheat here exceeding 3'0,000 bushels, whereas heretofore the limit had been 500,000 bushels. This announcement brought about liquidation in May.

Corn prices developed strength after a wavering start. The backwardness of planting attracted increasing attention. Opening prices were 1-8c off to 3-8c up, and material gains all around ensued. Oats were steadied by the firmness of corn. Price changes in oats were negligible. Provisions tended upward.

After Irregular Opening Prices Rise At New York

NEW YORK, May 11.— (Canadian Press.)—Stock prices turned upward after an early period of irregularity to-day under the stimulus of easier money rates and cable despatches indicating a more hopeful feeling regarding an early settlement of the British general strike. Motors had another sinking spell on further selling inspired by rumors of further price cutting, but they stiffened later when it became apparent that bear traders were not forcing the liquidation of much long stock. Despite private reports of another increase in crude oil production last week, oil shares displayed a relatively firm undertone.

NEW YORK SUMMARY

Credit of $200,000,000 obtained by Great Britain through Federal Reserve Bank and the Bank of England, following recent return to the gold basis remains undisturbed. Famous Players declared dividend of $2 on common. Stockholders of Loews, Inc., ratify proposal to issue $15,000,000 debentures. Railroad Brotherhood orders strike of United Railways in Cuba. Strike spreads to Cuban Central Railway. Action of the Senate motion to recommit Watson-Parker Railroad Labor Bill practically assures passage in the identical form in which it came from the House.

MINING NEWS.

(Supplied by Stobie. Forlong Co'y.)

Mining Corporation. — The first three months of this year will show a production of approximately 600,000 ounces from Mining Corporation. This production will likely be maintained during the year and reserves are known to be such that the management feels safe in predicting that the ore in sight will yield production at approximately the same rate for the next two years.

Gowanda District.

Castle Trethewey Our report re locating of No. 4 vein on the 625 level has been confirmed. At present this vein is being developed and shows good ore over a mining width with considerable high grade. Estimates as to the ore reserves are a little premature as the management has not as yet obtained sufficient data on which to base an estimate. Development is rapidly opening up new ore, and it is safe to say that there is at least two years' reserve in sight at the mine based on an annual production of approximately 1,000,000 ounces.

No work is being done at present on the 700 foot level, development being confined to 625 feet and above Mill tonnage remains around 110 tons per day. It is possible and very probable that the management will see fit to increase mill capacity considerably before many months.

The new management has outlined an extensive exploration and development campaign which will embrace, opening up of the No. 1 shaft on the north side of Miller Lake, the possible starting to sink of a new shaft, and the exploration of veins discovered on the surface last fall, on which no work has been done.

STRIKE BULLETINS

Judgment on Strike.

LONDON, May 11 (Canadian Press). — The general strike is illegal, Justice Astbury declared in Chancery Division to-day, and those inciting it or participating in it are not protected under the laws regulating trades unions. His opinion, the first handed down from the judicial bench since the general strike began, was made in granting an injunction against certain branch leaders of the Sailors' and Firemen's Union. The injunction restrains the branch leaders from calling out their men without orders from general headquarters of the union.

Serious, Says Bishop.

LONDON, Ont., May 11 (Canadian Press).—"The general strike in Britain," said Bishop David Williams to-day, in his charge to the Synod of Huron, "is the most serious event that has happened in Britain for many generations. It is a challenge to representative government, an attempt by one class to make life impossible for the rest of the people except on its terms. Much as we sympathize with the miners in their effort to maintain a higher wage, the method adopted by the trades unions is subversive of representative government which has been hitherto the shall mark and bulwark of advancing civilization."

EMBARGO ON FUNDS.

LONDON, May 11.— (Canadian Press.) — The Trades Union Congress spokesman announced to-night that he understands the government has placed an embargo on foreign funds which might be sent to British strikers.

MONEY FROM MOSCOW.

MOSCOW, May 11.— (Canadian Press.)—The Council of the Trades Unions of Soviet Russia has learned of the refusal of the British Trades Union Congress to accept financial aid to support the strike from foreign, including Soviet, trade unions.

It therefore has decided, first to return to the Trade Unions the sums which had been transferred to the British unions; second to continue collection on behalf of British miners; and third to deposit all sums collected in a special fund for British miners. This fund is to be placed at the disposal of the General Council of British Trades Union Congress or the British Miners' Federation.

CRICKET NEWS

LONDON, May 10 (Canadian Press Cable)—The touring Australian team opened their game against Surrey on Saturday. Collins, the visiting captain, won the toss and went to bat on a fine, soft wicket following Friday night's rain. At the end of the afternoon's play the Australians had made 301 for six wickets. They were lucky, however, as the Englishmen, although fielding smartly on the ground, had an epidemic of missed catches, two being missed off Taylor and Woodfull while McCartney, Collins and Hendry each escaped being caught.

Lift out Corn—root and all

Cutting corns, or using a so-called corn solvent is useless. You have probably tried and know yourself how the corn comes back again painful as ever in a week or less. The only satisfactory way to deal with an obstinate corn is to take a Radox Foot Bath once or twice, you can lift the whole corn out with your fingers.

How Radox Bath Salts Remove Corns

When you put your feet into a foot-bath containing Radox, the salts soften the hard outer layers of the corn and the dead skin (of the corn) combines with the Radox Bath Salts to form a protein salt of the actual corn itself. This dissolves in the water and so loosens the corn that it can be lifted out bodily.

The Radox Bath Salt does not attack the living skin; it softens and refreshes this; it cannot dissolve it. It is only the dead skin—the corn—which it dissolves.

There is nothing left to ache; the corn is bodily removed and the feet are left clean and healthy.

A Radox enthusiast writes:—"My wife tried plasters, salves, salts and soda to try and move her corn, which has nearly driven her mad the last three months; but they moved neither the corn nor the pain. We saw an advertisement showing a corn being pulled out. We sent for the Radox Bath Salts at 6 o'clock, and at twenty minutes to seven my wife was pulling the corn out, after years of agony. It is worth $20 a package."

We know of no other salt that will do the work of Radox in removing corns.

NEW NEGLIGEES FOLLOW THE TWO-PIECE VOGUE

Paris Sponsors the Mode for Two-Piece Garments in Boudoir Attire.

By ANNETTE BRADSHAW

We little thought, when the first effective two- piece frocks were introduced, sometime ago, that the vogue would spread to so many other lines of apparel.

One of the innovations was the two-piece evening dress, and now we have the two-piece negligee.

This is not in any sense the former type two-piece negligee, consisting of a thin filmy affair worn over a straight slip of matching or contrasting shade.

The really new two-piece negligees are like the ones above. They combine a smart finger-tip jacket with an equally smart abbreviated skirt, and the effect is most youthful.

The model at the left consists of a pleated sleeveless chartreuse chiffon worn with a matching skirt joined to a flesh chiffon bodice. Both are trimmed with deep cream lace, and the skirt portion uses its lace as an inset yoke, for all the world like a number of the smartest sport skirts of the season.

The other negligee is made entirely of thin red China silk. The color is that clear red that is so becoming to blondes and brunettes alike, and, strange to say, the plain bodice is of silk in a peculiar dull shade of blue. The effect is really very pleasing.

Othe negligees are devoid of pleats, using several layers of varicolored chiffon in blending pastel tints. All of them have short modish jackets and equally short, modish skirts.

A Fashion Model's Diary

By Grace Thorncliffe

SHE DESCRIBES A HAND-PAINTED FROCK.

Madame numbers among her clients a very lovely young movie actress who insists upon clothes of striking individuality.

Now, it was through her that I happened to find a small job on the side, which suited me to perfection, as it has given me a bit of extra money for my Summer frocks.

It all happened in the Winter, when I offered to do a hand-painted handkerchief for her to wear at the neck, beneath her fur coat. She admired mine, and had been so nice to me that I wanted to do her a favor. I made the handkerchief as a gift, and she was most enthusiastic about it.

Then, last week, she came in and asked Madame if she might have a special order frock made up, and if I might do a hand-painted border, following an idea of her own.

Madame was delighted, and said I might have time off to work on it at the shop and that she would pay me a regular commission for the work.

The result is the very lovely frock I am showing here.

Madame designed the rather long overblouse, with its unusual collar, a shaped strip bound with bias silk at the edges, and crossing over so that each end of the tab buttons over the same button.

The skirt has a straight back, with a wide box pleat at the front.

The young actress brought in a rough sketch of her own, a very charming seaside scene, and explained that she wanted me to reproduce it in gay colors about the bottom of her blouse.

I chose the loveliest blues and green and yellows and reds, with just a touch of gold here and there, and with blackbirds flying above the scene.

The young girl liked it immensely, and urged Madame to give me odd painting jobs, as well as modeling. Then she said:

"Now for a hat," and Madame knew that was her signal to send for the milliner.

The hat has a leghorn brim and crochetted straw crown, both in soft green.

Ashes of Roses Flat Crepe is Used in This Frock of Peasant Inspiration.

The peasant dress, which had such a vogue a few seasons ago, has left its stamp upon fashion in designs such as the one above.

While the frock is not actually a peasant dress, it shows much evidence of the peasant influence. The material is flat crepe in a lovely ashes of roses shade, and there is liberal use of shirring at yoke and hips.

The bands of color, in blue and green, add a bright note to the frock. This model would be lovely in oyster white crepe, with bands in any gay color.

A GIRL of TODAY

JUDY DECLARES JERRY A STRANGER.

I hastily disengaged myself from Jerry's arms and I felt my face grow red as I said: "Please let me go home, Mr. Officer. I am just about all in. Tomorrow I will come back if you wish and tell you all about the jinx that has been following me ever since I came to this fair city of yours.

"Now I want to go home. If you will let me go, I am sure Mr. Hathaway will come over and tell you all about it in the morning.'

"My dear young lady, you don't have to tell me anything. Personally I would like to have you prefer some charges against a man or men unknown who came near killing you, but that is up to you. I can't keep you from going to your home, young lady, if I wanted to. But I really would like some information whereby I could jug those men."

"Did they steal anything from you?"

"Yes, they, or rather he, for I think there was but one man, took from me my purse."

"How much money was there in it?"

"A little over twenty-five dollars which I owe to Mrs. Riley for my room rent. The purse itself, however, is probably worth—," I looked at Jerry.

"Officer, I gave the purse to Miss Dean this morning and it cost two hundred and fifty dollars. It was the finest one I could buy. I gave it to her in compensation for the insults she received in my father's restaurant when a purse of hers was taken containing two hundred and fifty dollars.

"It is a long story, officer, and I haven't time to tell it to you now," continued Jerry. "Besides I think Miss Dean should be taken home and put to bed. I will return in the morning and answer any question you may put to me, for I am just as anxious to have that man found and punished as you are."

The officer looked both curious and somewhat disgusted.

"Don't worry," said Jerry. "because I haven't time to tell you all that led up to this attack, but I will tell it all to you in the morning. It may have some bearing on the case."

"The sooner we get the story, Mr. Hathaway, the easier it will be to find the thief."

"All right," said Jerry as he rushed me out to his roadster.

"Judy," he said the moment we were on our way to Mamie's: "I want you to marry me tomorrow morning. It is not safe to leave you out in the cold another moment without someone to take care of you."

"Don't be in such a hurry," I said happily, for I was beginning to like my impetuous lover very much. "You must know we are almost strangers."

THE HOME KITCHEN

WHEN CHERRIES ARE RIPE

Cherry season never seems to be half as long as we wish it might be for there are so many ways of using this excellent fruit. The big black or red cherries when perfectly ripe are the best.

Cherry Jelly.

Wash and stem three pounds of ripe cherries. Put the fruit into a porcelain lined kettle, or an agate kettle, and melt slowly, then cook gently until the juice flows freely. Strain through a colandar, pressing out all the juice. To a quart of juice add three-quarters of a package of gelatine powder softened in a little cold water. Sweeten to taste and bring to boiling point to slightly thicken. Strain into a wet mould and set to cool and harden. Unmould and serve with whipped cream or ice cream.

Cherry Preserves.

Prepare the cherries as for jam, only use a pint of sugar to a pint of fruit. Cook until the syrup is rich and thick, then can as usual. Sometimes the preserves will keep in a stone crock in a dry, cool place, but it is safer to seal them unless they are eaten up quickly.

Canned Cherries.

Prepare as for preserves, only use a half pint of sugar to a pint of the fruit. Cook until the fruit is done, then can hot in the usual way. Turn the cans upside down to cool; when cold tighten the covers and store in a dry place.

Cherry Ice.

Prepare the same as for the cherry jelly, then, after sweetening, stir in a heaping tablespoonful of cornstarch dissolved in a little water. Bring to boiling point and when slightly thickened remove from the fire and cool. The liquid should be sweeter than for the jelly as the freezing takes out the sweetness. When cold, turn into the freezer and freeze. Sometimes the juice of an orange or a lemon is added when the cherry juice is removed from the fire.

ACID MOUTH.

'Acid mouth' denotes a condition in which the saliva is acid in reaction—turning blue litmus red.

Normally, saliva resting in the mouth is neutral or very slightly acid, while saliva as it flows from the glands is but slightly alkaline.

The danger of real 'acid mouth' in which the saliva exhibits a marked acid reaction is that the acid content injures tooth enamel and bringing about a general weakening of tooth structure, giving rise to decay.

But normally the salivary glands will not tolerate for long, a marked acidity in the mouth as they are stimulated by the very presence of the acid content to a flow of slightly alkaline saliva to neutralize it.

For example: You may eat some citrus fruit, grapefruit, or orange, and from the presence of the fruits acids, the saliva in the mouth will give a marked acid reaction. But this condition will remain but a few minutes as a rule' the saliva returning shortly to neutrality or near-neutrality.

There appear to be, however, real cases of 'acid mouth' in some individuals, and to combat this they are offered both alkaline dentifrices and pastes in which are incorporated fruit acids.

Nevertheless, exhaustive tests have proven that mouth acidity or alkalivity cannot be controlled by foreign substances for any length of time.

A real case of 'acid mouth,' therefore, can only be permanently remedied by a diet that will build up the alkaline reserve of the body to combat 'acid mouth.'

In general, milk, fruit and vegetables build up the alkaline reserve of the body, while eggs, meat, cereal and bread deplete it. The average diet meat, bread, potatoes and pastry—tends towards acidosis or a depleted alkali reserve.

Hence, it is not so important whether we use this or that dentifrice, as that the tooth-brush may be habitually employed for the maintenance of a clean, healthy mouth.

VELVET EAR MUFFS.

The usual story-book absent-minded professor, riding in a train abroad, dons ear muffs on a hot day in order to be unannoyed by questions and remarks of fellow travelers, as he wishes to concentrate on the thesis he is writing.

But—ear muffs or no ear muffs—a fair traveling maiden in distress makes him take the ear muffs off and list to her tale of woe. All this in a new story called "Velvet Ear-Pads," by Edith Wharton. Which only proves that the colonelette's hubby and Jocko O'Grubby are brothers under the skin!

HOW SHE DID IT!

The lady who performed this feat of talking and looking velvet ear muffs off the scholarly brow of the prof must have been attired nattily.

If it had happened this summer, she would have worn a big black milan hat with wide band of snakeskin, mayhap, and a black and white check cape coat of simple line, untrimmed.

THE ACTRESS.

Many miles of white paper have been eaten up with black ink of late, as critic after critic has told why all the world and his wife have gone mad over the Castilian actress, Raquel Meller.

Perhaps this is not far off—"She is one in whom all men see all women they have loved, and in whom all women see all the women any man has ever loved."

Perhaps we who cannot pay $25 a seat may have "Mimosa" and "Violettes" on our phonographs and radios.

BEAUTY THROUGH UGLINESS.

"Charm" is probably that intangible asset which makes Raquel Meller the lodestone she is. Foreign women acquire charm, 'tis said, through emphasizing into conspicuousness their ugliest features. They explain that it makes them a "type." A small mouth, they say, is pretty, but a large mouth is interesting.

I know a very ugly woman who has learned that by wearing quaint battered gold earrings her ugliness is transformed into exotic quaintness. Try it. Also try sleeping without a pillow, if we must blend the practical with the sublime.

WIVES AND COAL.

It is no cruelty for a wife to be forced to light the furnace fire and carry coal, if she is physically fit. This from a ruling of an eastern divorce judge. Which makes it hard on the married girls who have taught the husband class that no one but a brute makes a wife tend the furnace.

THE COOKSTOVE.

And judges still opine that a wife's place is by the cook-stove where she shall stir such viands divine as strawberry mousse. One quart strawberry juice, 1 1-3 cups sugar, 1 1-4 tablespoons gelatin, 2 tablespoons cold water, 3 tablespoons hot water, 2 tablespoons lemon, 1 cup evaporated milk, 1 cup whipping cream, few grains salt. Chill milk and cream mixed.

Cover quart berries with sugar and let stand 1 hour. Rub through fine sieve. Add gelatin softened in cold water and dissolved in boiling water. Set berry mixture in pan of cold water and stir until it thickens. Beat cream and salt till stiff and fold in berry mixture. Pour into mould, pack in sat and ice, let stand 3 to 4 hours.

THAT LIGHT TEXTURE.

When you take an angel food from the oven always turn it upside down to cool. This prevents it from falling and settling as it is inclined to do.

REMOVE SMOKE STAINS.

When woodwork looks very smoky or oily, a tablespoon of ammonia added to each gallon of water that is used to wash it will brighten it up considerably.

Here's the Way to Lighten Cloudy Teeth

—to give them gleaming whiteness

Your gums like coral to contrast them—just remove that dingy film, see what happens.

Famous $100,000 stars of the movies use this new method as a "make-up" before going on a scene. That is why movie smiles are so gleamingly white. Leading dentists widely advise it because it protects the teeth and gums.

It is called Pepsodent—a new-type tooth paste that works by removing the dingy film coat from teeth that old-time dentifrices did not clear off successfully. That's why brushing has failed you.

Run your tongue across your teeth and you'll feel that film. A slippery coating that absorbs discolorations, breeds bacteria and invites tooth decay, gum troubles and pyorrhea.

Remove it and you will be amazed at what you see. Discard old ways now. Get Pepsodent at any drug store. Or send for 10-day tube—no charge.

YOUR HEALTH

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M.D.,
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

Are you giving any attention to the way you stand and walk and sleep? Do you give thought to your posture and the carriage of your body?

Look over any group of persons you may see assembled anywhere. If you study each individual carefully, you will be shocked to see how few of them are giving heed to posture.

Lots of men who strut the stage of life think they are standing up straight because they throw their shoulders back. The abdomen may be hanging down like a rubber bag full of water.

The time to teach the right attitude of body is in childhood. The child can be trained to have a straight back, a well poised head, and a pulled-in abdomen. But if no heed is given to posture, in adult life the shoulders will be round, the gait will be slouchy and the figure distorted.

The Department of Health in New York City is located in an out-of-the-way place, on a street through which lots of very poor people pass. As I looked out of the window I was struck often by the splendid, upright carriage and fine figures of many of the women. The reasons are not hard to determine, because every little while a woman would pass with a bundle of clothing, a wash-basket, or a pile of kindling, nicely balanced on her head.

You cannot carry a package on the head, unsupported by the hands, unless the body is held upright and the head poised just right. Habitual use of the head for this purpose develops a posture and carriage which are absolutely perfect.

Since the World War we see many more well carried bodies than we did before. The setting up exercises of the Army and Navy did much to develop the service men. But I can see that we are slipping back and I consider it unfortunate.

To permit the abdominal muscles to relax, means that the heavy, large intestine will roll upon itself and drop down into a space which should not exist. If the abdomen is kept drawn in, as it should be, this cannot happen. Mechanical interference with the passage of the intestinal stream is the inevitable result of the bad habit of permitting the abdomen to relax and pouch.

Stooping prevents free filling of the lungs. To keep the lungs well filled by the practice of deep breathing will help to prevent stooping.

Learn to hold the head up and the chin in. The shoulders should be back and the abdomen in. The legs should be held straight and the feet should point forward.

Look yourself over by a daily inspection before the mirror. Promote your health and long life by practicing proper posture.

RHEUMATIC PAINS GO SWOLLEN JOINTS VANISH

Thousands of sufferers have freed themselves from the bondage of rheumatism; rid themselves of the torturing pain; reduced the swollen joints; thrown away canes and crutches, and from helpless beings became able to work and be of use to themselves and their families.

They took Rheuma; the modern enemy of rheumatism, lumbago, sciatica, arthritis, and chronic neuralgia.

Don't be skeptical about Rheuma. You will know in a few hours after beginning the treatment that the poisonous waste matter is leaving your system through the natural channels. You will feel better in a day; you will know you are going to be helped in less than a week.

There is no guess work about Rheuma bringing you back to health. That's why McDermid & Jury and druggists everywhere sell it with guarantee of money back if it does not give quick relief.

BANK HELD UP.

Six Robbers Take $35,000 From Town Near Dayton.

GOOD NIGHT STORIES

By Blanche Silver

DICKY MAKES A WONDERFUL DISCOVERY.

"Goodness!" Dicky exclaimed, stopping short and rubbing his hands over his face. "I sure do hate those horrid spiders. My face is all covered with his web. I'd just like to know how a spider can fly through the air."

"Would you?" laughed a merry voice, and Happy Giggles, the wee elfin from Make-believe-land hopped up from behind a bush and bowed politely to Dicky. "So you ran into Money-spinner's web?"

"Money-spinner's nothing," laughed Dicky, brushing the last bit of silken web from his cheeks, "I ran into a spider's web. I hate those horrid old spiders, Happy Giggles."

"Have they done you any harm that makes you hate them?" asked the elfin. "A great big boy like you hating such a tiny thing as a money-spinner! Besides, didn't you know, Dicky, that if a Money-spinner thinks enough of you to drag one of his silken money-cords across your face, it will bring you good luck?"

"Goodness no," laughed Dicky. "Come on, Money-spinner and cover my face," he laughed merrily.

"Did you call me?" piped up a tiny voice, and Dicky looked up to see a wee, tiny spider sitting on the leaf of the plant right on the level with his eyes. "Hello there, Happy Giggles! Is this the boy who hates me?"

"I guess I made a mistake," laughed Dicky, gazing at the pretty little gray spider. "But there is one thing I'd like to have you tell me, Mr. Money-spinner—how can you fly without any wings?"

"Oh, that's easy when you learn how," laughed Happy Giggles. "Isn't it, Mr. Money-spinner? Better show Dicky how it's done."

"Seeing is believing," chuckled the wee spider. He crawled up to a higher twig and very quickly spun a lovely soft silken cord. He sat very quiet

"Did You Call Me?"

a second, then up into the air he went and floated to another bush.

Dicky ran over to the bush, and there sat Mr. Money-spinner as calm and collected as if nothing had happened.

"Still I can't see how that was done," laughed Dicky. "It's certainly interesting. No trouble at all, is it?"

"None, only to spin the silken cord," replied Mr. Money-spinner. "You see it's this way. I made the web, waited until a warm wave of air touched me, and something in my web moves in a hot wave. So when I felt the heat pulling me, up I went. Simple enough when one can spin the kind of a web I spin."

"But can you always come down just when you want to?" asked Dicky.

"That's one great trouble," laughed Mr. Money-spinner. "When once I start I sail until I hit a wave of air with moisture in it. Then the moisture clings to my web, I fly on until I strike a colder wave. The cold wave condenses the moisture along my silken cord and the weight brings me down to earth. It may be in the meadow or it may be out in the middle of the stream. There's no telling, when I go up into the air, just where or when I'm coming down. I came down on a lily pad one hot day. But goodness here I go," and as he spoke, Mr. Money-spinner's wee body lifted in the air as he sailed away, his soft silken web brushed against Dicky's cheek, and sure enough Dicky had good luck all that day.

ROOF COLLAPSES

Kawartha Park Church Fails to Stand Wintry Blasts.

Early visitors to Kawartha Park report that the new church which was erected last fall is now a wreck, due, it is said, to the weight of the snow which caused the roof to collapse. The church was built to replace the large tent which did service in this connection during former seasons.

ADVENTURES of the TWINS

by OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

Number Twelve.—
AN ADVENTURE UNDER THE SEA.

"I don't see the shadow now," said the Stork who had carried the Twins and their little fairy friend to the seashore to look for the Whiffet's shadow. "It's gone!"

With that he made a dive for a shiny green mackerel, with his long beak, and from that on, he didn't pay the slightest attention to them. A stork can't possibly think of two things at once.

Suddenly a large wave splashed over their feet and there on top of it sat a tiny merman.

"Here's a note from Capt. Pennywinkle," he said.

The wave rolled out again and the little water fairy went with it.

Nick opened the note and read: "Dear Twins— I saw you from the bottom of the sea. I can't go to you because I'm the traffic cop down here and if I didn't watch, the whales and sharks would run right over everybody. But you can come to me. Bring your little friend in the purple suit along. You'll find three seahorses waiting for you in the quiet water by the first big rock. Your friend,

"Captain Pennywinkle."

The Twins and the Whiffet crawled out onto the great flat rock and looked down.

And there just as the tiny sea policeman had said, were three sea-horses tied to some eel-grass.

"Oh! Oh! I'll shrink more than ever if I get wet again," said the Whiffet. "And if I do I'll burst every seam."

"Oh, no you won't!" said a big hermit crab sticking his head out of a whelk-shell. "I know all about bombazine and it only shrinks twice. All things come to an end some time, even shrinking."

"And whelks," said a lobster severely. "You know you ate that whelk just so you could have his house."

The Twins and the Whiffet got on the three sea-horses and soon they were quite under the water, traveling along toward the corner of Shell Avenue and Sand Boulevard at the bottom of the sea.

"Oh, look!" cried the little rag-bag fairy. "The sky has fallen into the sea. There are all the stars!"

"Oh, ho!" laughed Nick. "They aren't stars. They're fish—starfish."

"Humph!" said the Whiffet.

So they all rode along and along.

Suddenly the Whiffet cried out. "Look there! The garden has fallen into the sea. Look at the flowers!"

"Oh, ho!" said Nick. "Those are fish, too! Or sort of fish. They're called sea-anemones. My book says so!"

"Well, I don't care—there are chestnuts anyway!" said the Whiffet. "They're exactly like the prickly things that grew on the chestnut tree outside of the attic where I was born

"Oh, ho!" said Nick. "You're wrong again, Whiffet. Those are fish, too. Or sort of fish. They're called sea-urchins."

"Well, I think the sea's a queer place," said the Whiffet. "I think they don't have shadows her at all!"

But just then it got very dark over their heads. A lot of big fish were swimming right over them. And on the white sand below was a whole flock of fish shadows.

"Oh, dear!" said the rag-bag fairy. "I'm all mixed up."

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK?

By Edson R. Waite, Secretary Shawnee, Okla., Board of Commerce.

Charles R. Thurston, Editor of The Pawtucket (Rhode Island) Times, says:

THAT what is needed most in newspaper circles is not better newspapers but better readers of newspapers. By that I mean that very many readers of newspapers fail to read them with the greatest profit because they read them carelessly and with little appreciation of what there is in them that would be profitable to them. The conviction has been borne in upon me with increasing force of late that newspapers need better readers more than readers need better newspapers.

From my observation and experience I have come to believe that comparatively few even habitual readers of newspapers get as much out of them as they ought to and would if they read newspapers as the y should be read. The great mass of readers of newspapers, I believe, read them without much real thought as to what they want to get out of them or what they can get out of them. If close analysis were made it would probably be found that very few even regular readers of newspapers fully understand a very large percentage of what they read. And yet what tremendous possibilities there are in even a single edition of a newspaper for adding very materially to one's knowledge and information about worth while matters.

The average newspaper is a tremendous power for the education of the masses, but if the masses would read the papers intelligently and with a definite purpose how much more they would find in them worth reading. Can't we have better newspaper readers as well as better newspapers?

Tomorrow's HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble

WEDNESDAY, MAY 12.

According to the predominant lunar and mutual aspects, this day is likely to develop perplexing and contradictory situations. While there is an augury for liveliness, possibly involving a change of benefit, yet there is omen of delays and disappointments. Also there is warning against new undertakings or projects and it is enjoined that conservation be exercised in the handling of the finances. It may be a time to consider for future operation, as the mind should be keen and enterprising. Personal matters should prosper.

Those whose birthday it is may expect a year of contradictory experience with fluctuating fortunes. There may be new opportunities, but beset with difficulties and delays. Be careful with the funds and shun radical departures from old lines for the present. The mind should be alert and personal affairs thrive. A child born on this day may be versatile and have a leaning to invention and original lines of thought. It should be fitted to surmount some difficult obstacles.

WOMAN LOSES LEG.

Is Caught in Shaft of Elevator—Condition Critical.

MONTREAL, May 11 (Canadian Press).—Caught in an elevator door, Mrs. L. McCallkum, 38 years old, a chambermaid in a local hotel, was dragged by her left leg up the elevator shaft for four floors. When she was removed to the hospital after her cries had attracted assistance, it was found necessary to amputate the injured limb and perform a blood transfusion. Her condition is critical.

"WHY?"

As every day passes, most every wee child asks questions galore that near drive mother wild. The what and the where and the whyfore of things, are words to the singsong that every kid sings.

You mustn't do that and you mustn't do this are things a child's told so he won't go amiss. You're aiming to help him, and hope to get by, but always are stopped when the youngster asks "Why?"

Too often all parents lay rules down offhand that minds of the wee folks can ne'er understand. 'Tis well to explain them. 'Tis well to be stern. For, knowing the whys, is the way children learn.

When talking things over and making rules clear, you're helping the child to go right, without fear. You'll get his respect 'cause he knows that you're grown, and you'll help him to build up a mind of his own.

FRENCH MAY REJECT U. S. TERMS ON DEBT

Doubt in Paris Favorable Majority Can Be Found.

PARIS, May 11—It is beginning to look doubtful whether a majority can be found in the French Chamber favorable to ratification of the Franco-American war debt settlement. The members of Parliament have nearly three weeks of their vacation left in which to discuss this and other problems with their constituents. They are also attending the sessions of the General Councils in their respective departments and, according to reports of the meetings which have reached Paris, the majority have shown distinct disfavor with the Washington agreement.

All ladies of the community are invited to be present.

It was decided to apply to the department for a demonstrator to hold a Domestic Science class during the month of August in Cavan Community Hall. The hall committee having kindly offered the use of the hall. Fourteen have given their names as members of the class and there are others expected to join later.

STANDARD OIL CO. (NEW JERSEY)

John Steele and the Rev. J. Riddell, Millbrook, were visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Paul on Thursday.

The trapping season ended April 30th, furs having been disposed of by May 10. Local trappers say that the catch has been a very good one in spite of the discouraging beginning.

There are many cases of scarlet fever in Millbrook just at present with one family reported in Cavan. It seems to be a mild form of the diseases.

Cavan Council were in Cavanville one evening this week viewing the site where M. Barker intends building a garage.

The mixed train, known as Briton's, still continues to make daily trips on the C.N.R. through Cavan, on its way to Port Hope from Lindsay. It was supposed to stop on April 1st. It appears now as if it may continue indefinitely. This will be very pleasing to the people of Bethany and points en route, served by this train.

Since the warm rain on Thursday the grass is growing very quickly. This will mean a great deal to the farmers, if it continues favorable weather, as on many farms feed is becoming scarce. The stock has been fed through a very long winter.

The frost came unusually early last fall and winter weather has continued to a much later date this spring.

Don't confuse Tanlac with ordinary patent nostrums. It is Nature's own tonic and builder, compounded from roots, barks, and herbs that we gather at great expense from the four corners of the earth.

Tanlac goes straight to the seat of your trouble; cleanses and purifies the blood stream; puts your digestion in proper shape. First thing you know you have an appetite like a starved child. You rest at night and your whole body begins to feel the stir of strength and energy.

Don't you be discouraged. Don't put off testing Tanlac another day. Get a bottle now and in a week you should notice signs of real improvement. Then you will feel like your old self again. Take Tanlac Vegetable Pills for constipation.

Thanks Tanlac for Renewed Health

"My gratitude to Tanlac is unbounded Splitting headaches, nervous indigestion and insomnia shattered my health. I lost the ability to rest quietly, day or night. Now my nerves are steady, appetite keen and I enjoy life as of old."

SEYMOUR BALL LEAGUE READY

Hastings Applied For Admission, But Distance Kept Them Out.

OFFICERS ELECTED.

BURNBRAE, May 11.—The baseball moguls of Seymour met in annual conclave at the Seymour Parsonage, Campbellford, on Saturday evening, and it was decided to have the Seymour Township Baseball League carry on for another year. Representatives were present from Trent River, Burnbrae, Rylstone and English Line. The last-named club has been doubtful about entering, but with Hoard's out of hard ball and the privilege of drawing three or four men from Campbellford, the Line should put a strong team in the field. They were represented at the meeting by Douglast Maybee, the youthful star first baseman of the team. Burnbrae was represented by the manager and pitcher, Ernest Eagleson, while Wilfrid Spencer and Ray Fry looked after Rylstone's interests. The old Seymour West team, which is amalgamated with Trent River under the latter name, sent two good sportsmen in the persons of George Van Volkenburg and Will Macoun.

A delegation from Hastings, consisting of Messrs. Wellman, Scriver and Cassody, were present seeking admission to the League, either as at present constituted or else under O.B.A. rules and regulations. The Hastings team hold the Clarke trophy won last year by competition in the Northumberland League. As this League is not operating this season, Hastings is without a baseball home. The Seymour League meeting could not see its way clear to admit Hastings, chiefly on the score of distance, most of the Seymour players being farmers, and [illegible] able to secure the time for afternoon games. However, the Hastings delegation was assured that they would not lack competition for the Clarke cup and tentative plans were laid for a five-game series to begin early in June with a game each week. The Seymour team will be picked from the players of the four League teams who reside in Northumberland and are thus eligible to compete in the Clarke series.

Most of last year's constitution was retained for this year. However, some amendments were in order. This season teams are limited to eighteen players, who must be all listed and names handed to the secretary, not later than the first game in which the team takes part. No names can be changed or added after this except in case of serious accident or death. This annuls the ten days' residence rule, and gives the executive power to apportion players to the teams in such a way as to make them as near equal strength as possible. The usual deposit fee of two dollars per team must accompany the lists.

Postponed games this year will of necessity be played within five days of scheduled date. The schedule, which will be published soon, starts about the first of June, and will thus be over by July 20 at the latest. With only four teams in the League, the play-offs will be the first and second teams. Last year three team play-off was a farce of defaults, and Burnbrae won the championship by winning only one game on the field.

The officers elected for 1926 are as follows:

Past and Honorary President — Rev. Chas. Daniel.

President—George Donald.

Vice-President—George Van Volkenburg.

Secretary-Treasurer—E. L. Anderson.

The Executive will be the managers chosen by each team. Each club has one vote on the executive, and the president gives the deciding vote in case of a tie.

BALTIMORE CHECK BUFFALO'S FLIGHT

Rochester 1, Newark 0

ROCHESTER, May 10 (Canadian Press).—Rochester defeated Newark by 1 to 0 today with Berlyn Horne pitching shutout ball. Schroeder also pitched a fine game. Score:

Newark . . . . ..000000000— 0 8 0

RANK OUTSIDER WON PREAKNESS

Display Paid $40.70 On $2 Ticket in Maryland's Classic.

BACKED BY FEW.

BALTIMORE, May 11 (Canadian Press)—A rank outsider again won the Preakness, Maryland's historic classic at a mile and three-sixteenths Monday, W. J. Salmon's colt Display almost completely overlooked by the rail birds at the pari-mutuel booths, swept through to an impressive victory in the 30th renewal, nipping Harry Payne Whitney's Blondin by a head. The few betters who backed the Salmon entry were rewarded at the rate of $40.70 for each $2 mutual ticket. Display's time was 1:59 4-5.

Mars, a Man o' War colt from the Walter M. Jeffords stable, was a close third, with Dress Parade in fourth place. Little more than a length separated the four leaders at the wire. Canter, the Maryland favorite, and Bagen Baggage, a Kentucky entry, a heavily backed favorite, were shuffled back in the pack, although Canter had held the lead for a mile of the distance.

As the colts sped around the last turn Blondin drove to the front with Display just behind as Canter and Rockman weakened.

Display disposed of the Whitney horse handily in the race for the wire with Mabien wielding the whip. He cased at the wire and Display was the winner by apparently plenty of reserve.

More than 30,000 persons witnessed the classic, which with 13 starters was worth $53,625 to the winner.

Lee Rosenberg withdrew his Ingrid, the lonely filly, early in the afternoon and Montferrat was scratched by the Sagamore stable just before post time. The colts carried 126 pounds.

HELPFUL HINTS BY GOLFING STARS

BY SPECIAL ARRANGEMENT WITH GOLFERS MAGAZINE, CHICAGO.

ABE MITCHELL—STAND CLOSE WITH IRONS

The ball must be hit firmly and crisply with the mashie, with all the iron clubs, and that can not be done easily if we stand too far away. A close stance gets more over the ball, and from that position we are better able to control the club-head. It is power as much as accuracy that is essential in the approach on that very point. When, however, the stance is far from the ball, the swing is seldom true, and, worst of all, the balance of the body is apt to be upset.

There is little body movement in the mashie shot, but that will creep in if the stance is far from the ball.

Watching the players at North Foreland recently, I saw many who had this fault, and, as there was a good deal of wind blowing, many approaches never found the greens at all. That is, of course, fatal in a stroke competition: in fact, in any match.

Standing too far away, the club does not come up straight enough in a mashie approach. It inclines to be swung round the right leg.

BALTIMORE LOOKS DANGEROUS AGAIN.

Baltimore again looks to be the class of the International League. The Orioles copped their first five brushes, beating Toronto in a double-header to reach that figure. Baltimore has been winning pennants with such regularity it would do the circuit worlds of good were some other team to come through this season, but Dunn's outfits again looks like a tough one to whip.

There is not a player on the roster of the Boston Red Sox today who was with the club in 1922 the club being the only one in the major leagues to change its entire personnel since that year.

MOVIGRAPHS

HOLLYWOOD, May 11.—A little girl, left an orphan in Wyoming, has blossomed out as the million-dollar child actress of the silver screen.

To her foster parents, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Coad, she represents bread cast upon the waters that is returning a hundredfold—and then some.

Mr. and Mrs. Coad were attracted by her sweet, appealing little face, alive and vital and interested, a face that reminded the motherly Mrs. Coad of "a bird poised on the branch of a tree, just ready for flight.

The first thing her adopted parents discovered about Joyce was that she could recite from memory long stories that had been read to her but two or three times. Then her talent in painting and drawing came to their notice.

Her Discovery.

The family moved to Los Angeles at a most opportune time. Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer was just beginning its west coast search for a "million-dollar baby."

Joyce was given a test. She passed in review before the judges, in a maze of thousands of other children. But her childlike simplicity and naturalness stood out.

"There is something about Joyce that gets you," said one judge.

She took directions like a tried and true trouper, responding to emotion and mood like a violin in the hands of a master.

Her prize was a contract. And when the critics saw her first work in "The Devil's Circus," they called liars those who said it was Joyce's debut before the camera.

Then she came to the notice of Lillian Gish, who was beginning work on "The Scarlet Letter." There had been a long hunt for someone to play "Pearl," a very difficult part. The discovery of Joyce ended the search.

"I think she is just the type Hawthorne had in mind when he wrote "The Scarlet Letter," said Miss Gish. "She is just the child I had pictured.

Rises to Heights.

"Great acting should always be perfectly natural, and in this Joyce is indeed a great actress. Without knowing it herself she rises to unusual dramatic heights. She is unspoiled, perfectly natural and seems to need no prompting. She catches the spirit of a play.

"She cries at a moment's notice, and what is more remarkable still, she laughs easily. It is almost harder to laugh convincingly than it is to cry.

"There was only one day when Joyce had any trouble. That was when she was told to be angry. She had never been angry in her life. Anger had to be explained to her. But she is artist enough to respond to directing and to do a scene that has not come under hor experience."

There is one moment in "The Scarlet Letter" when Joyce rises to the emotion of a Duse. The tragic simplicity of her forgiveness of her father is beautiful and moving.

Most remarkable of all, the girl doesn't know that she is remarkable. She does her work because she likes it. She could no more help being an actress than the sun could help being the sun. She takes her work seriously and judges herself harshly, knowing well when she has done a good scene and when she has done a bad one.

Joyce Coad is different from other child proteges because of her vast simplicity and naturalness.

GREECE MARKET FOR CANADIAN WHEAT

New Consul General Sees Trade Opening.

MONTREAL, Que., May 11 (Canadian Press)—A greater market for Canadian wheat is likely to be opened soon in Greece, in the opinion of John Doxaras who besides being the new Consul-General in Canada for that country is also a member of the Greek Economic Commission. The present high duty against Canadian wheat, Mr. Doxaras explained here yesterday, was also levied against the grain of other nations.

Prior to the war Greece had taken practically all of her grain importations from Russia, but this year the new consul general believed Canada might be chosen by the Greek Government as a field for grain purchases.

He declared that oSuth American wheat had not been popular after it had been imported in large quantities into Greece.

Former British M.P. Granted Decree From Second Husband.

LONDON, May 11 (Canadian Press).—Lady Terrington, a former member of Parliament, obtained a divorce on the ground that Lord Terrington had been guilty of adultery with Mrs. Rene Devere Humphrey. Contrary to expectations, Lord Terrington did not defend the suit. Lady Terrington, who is about 36 years old, was the fourth woman to take a seat in the House of Commons, being elected in 1922, and came to be known as "the best dressed M.P." Lord Terrington was her second husband. Guy Seabright, whom she married in 1907, committed suicide in 1912.

O.H.A. IS TAKING FIRM STAND

Only Legitimate Change of Residence to be Considered in Granting Certificates Next Season.

The following taken from Mr. W. A. Hewitt's own column in the Toronto Star will be of interest to hockey clubs in the province:

That the O. H. A. during the coming season are going to scrutinize very closely every change in residence there is no doubt as the jumping of players from one team to another has been a source of considerable evil for some time back, and a halt is going to be called.

"Clubs and players who wish tto play in the O.H.A. next winter have been given fair warning that the importation and migration of players must stop. Playing certificates will not be issued to any player who changes his residence where there is any doubt as to the bonafides of such change. Players who have already moved have a week to get back to whence they came if they want to play hockey next winter; otherwise they will find themselves out in the cold when next winter rolls around. Players who expected to make last-minute changes this week will receive even less consideration, and have been warned that if they leave their present towns they will be debarred from the O.H.A. altogether next winter. Those who are wise will stay where they are."

BASEBALL GOSSIP

Despite the odd rumour that baseball is dying out in the city, such a state of affairs is far from actually being the case.

Sergeant Jack Deannard called a meeting of those interested in the Juvenile and Midget teams which are being sponsored by the Kiwanis club, and no less than 45 boys turned out, with prospects of a great many more to come. There will be another practice on Wednesday night at 6 p.m. at King Edward park and all boys desirous of catching a place with either of the teams is asked to be present.

THEATRE

LON CHANEY IN "THE BLACK-BIRD."

The name of Lon Chaney to the faithful movie patron has come to be syonymous with interest and vital acting. The grim-faced actor may occupy the centre of the stage at all times, but he certainly has the art of making his presentations outstanding and individual. As Quasimodo in "The Hunchback of Notre Dame," as the clown, in "He Who Gets Slapped," as the madman in "The Phantom of the Opera," Lon Chaney has become a familiar figure to Peterboro audiences, and as Dan Tate, in "The Blackbird," he is once more making his appearance in the current feature picture at the Capitol Theatre.

Anyone who sits through the absorbing presentation of "The Blackbird," may experience the same sense of defeat that came to one observer who watched the usual unhappy ending, at least for the chief character that closes its presentation. In this story of the thief of London's underworld, the kingpin of the gutter-snipes of the Limehouse District, there seemed to be a note of hope of final regeneration in the opening scenes, but the ending is Chaney's usual logical one of annihilation for himself and happiness for those he has loved.

Once again he makes use of his weird faculty for physical disfiguration and in "The Blackbird" he has a dual role. Evidently difficult presentations of this type are the only ones in which Lon Chaney delights, and his grotesque, crippled figure and evil face lend themselves admirably to the delineation of "The Blackbird,' in the hulking figure of Dan Tate, boss of the crook gang of Whitechapel, and in his dual role, the "Bishop," as his people call him, of the Mission of the district. When Dan Tate gets into difficulties with the police through his thieving activities he effects a metamorphosis, and appears as the sorrowful-eyed twisted figured man who is trying to help the poor and the wayward. Lon Chaneys artistry, however, does not stretch far enough to give a very convincing presentation to this role of the holy man. The evil eyes of the "blackbird" look out under the smooth brow of the man of peace.

It is a gripping delineation, this of the master crook of the low dens of London Town, and possibly Chaney's best since "The Hunchback." Interwoven in the tale are the scenes of life in the cabarets of the district, with Fifi (Renee Adoree) as the dancer of the marionette show, intriguing the fancy of Dan Tate and the visiting "slummer," Bertram P. Glayde, known as "West End Bertie" to the police, and a crook of a smoother, more artitocratic type. In this role, Owen Moore, a stranger to local audiences, has a touch of his old time fire in the love scenes with Fifi, and has an individual type of presentation as the crooked man who comes to the straight and narrow way by the path of love, and runs foul of the "blackbird" in his journey. Then there is the pathetic figure of "Limehouse Polly," the blackbirds former wife, who persists in her love for the man who is evil to the world, but in whom she sees the traces of a soul that will not die. This picture might have been less logical if Dan Tate had taken a different way and Polly had been with him in a happier finale than the scene where she weeps over his dead, deformed body, but it also might have been more compelling if Lon Chaney's flair for the sombre spotlight could have allowed him to deviate from the plan he apparently takes in his portrayals, the unswerving one-path road. It would have been interesting to have seen the transformation of the evil-eyed man in a happier ending. But possibly his artistry does not extend far enough to enable him to achieve the "about face" necessary for such a development of the type that made "The Miracle Man" so memorable.

An odd introduction to the picture is the appearance and swift fading out of the various types of dwellers in the Limehouse District, an opening that, like the rest of the picture, must be seen to be fully appreciated, and makes "The Blackbird" notably outstanding from start to finish.

With the feature is an entertaining comedy in "The Tin Ghost" wit' Lige Conley as the chief actor, and an automatic soldier in the title role.

—Jeanette.

AT THE REGENT

MAE INTRODUCES "ACTINIC GOWN"

Brings Back Idea From Paris in Order to Get Better Screen Effect

No longer need cameramen worry about color values, daily with ray-screens, and bewail the fact that red photographs black and blue photographs white, and that gowns which look beautiful to the eye can't, sometimes, be made to look beautiful on the screen.

Mae Murray, famous screen star, has brought from Paris a panacea for all the cameraman's troubles in her "actinic gown." With one fell swoop it has cleared up the old-old trouble of gowns of beautiful colors that won't register.

A modiste in Paris discovered the secret while designing the costumes for "The Masked Bride," Miss Murray's sensational story of the Paris underworld, now playing at the Regent Theatre. During her vacation, just before starting the picture, Miss Murray went to Paris and was fitted for new and daring costumes that she wears. Among them was a splendid red affair that her heart was set on. "The only trouble is that it'll photograph black," she bewailed.

The modiste cogitated. "We'll treat it with something to produce actinic rays!" he decided. Actinic rays, be it known, are the rays in light that affect a film. A chemist was called into aid, and a colorless preparation of quinine and calcium sulphates concocted—invisible to the eye, but luminous to a film. This gives the gown a shimmering, phosphorescent effect on the screen that brings out its true color values. The same trick is used in producing so-called "spirit pictures."

Miss Murray wears some very daring costumes in the new play, a Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer feature laid in the Paris underworld. Francis X. Bushman plays the hero; she a Paris dancer enmeshed in a strange plot. Others in the cast are Roy D'Arcy, Basil Rathbone, Pauline Neff, Chester Conklin, Fred Warren, Leo White and others. Christy Cabanne directed the play. Several hundred people appear in spectacular cafe and underworld scenes in the new production.

Amundsen Redeems Defeat of Last Year; Airship Heads South

ARCTIC FASTNESS BROKEN INTO FOR SECOND TIME IN THREE DAYS

Dirigible Carries Seventeen Of Crew and Is Now On Way To Nome, Alaska—Continuation of 2,750 Mile Air Journey.

OSLO, Norway, May 12 (Canadian Press)—The dirigible Norge passed over the North Pole early this morning. Flying conditions were reported to be excellent. The Norge, the second aircraft in history to fly over the top of the world is on its way to Nome, Alaska. Today is the forty-fifth birthday of Lincoln Ellsworth, New York, one of the expedition's leaders.

The great balloon in sailing over the pole duplicated within three days the feat of the three engined aeroplane piloted by Lieut. Commander Byrd. The dirigible, however, is continuing a 2,750 mile journey to Nome, Alaska, while the aeroplane after circling the pole returned to Spitzbergen. The Norge left Spitzbergen at five a.m. Canadian Eastern daylight saving time yesterday and was over the pole with seventeen members of its crew at seven o'clock last night.

Drop Flags at Pole.

NEW YORK, May 12 (Canadian Press). — Cables from Stockholm announce that communication with the Norge was established during the night when the flight up to that time had been successful. At midnight it was misty and a slight breeze was blowing. The Norge was travelling at a height of 2,360 feet. The temperature was 10.4 degrees fahrenheit above zero. Crossing the North Pole Norwegian, Italian and United States flags were dropped from the dirigible.

FIFTY MILES AN HOUR.

In the course of her journey over the pole, the Norge travelled at approximately fifty miles an hour, and it was estimated that if the airship kept this speed she would reach Point Barrow en route to Nome, at 11 to-night, Eastern daylight time.

The ship lost 13 hours by the mere act of passing the pole. That is on approaching the pole it was 1 a.m., to-day, Norwegian time, aboard ship, and a moment later it was 2 p.m. yesterday.

The whole trip was in the land of "the midnight sun," making it a daylight trip throughout.

POLICE UNEARTH FASCIST PLANS

Overthrow of Present German Government By Force Planned.

DREAM ON PAPER.

BERLIN, May 12.— (Canadian Press.)—The discovery of detailed plans for the establishment of a German Fascist dictatorship whose object was the "restoration of the Hohenzollern empire in renewed splendor," was announced by the police to-day. Officials stated that raids on the homes of alleged German Fascist leaders disclosed a mass of documents including a detailed plan for a concentric attack on Berlin. Other documents called for the forcible resignation of President Von Hindenburg, the overthrow of the Federal State Constitutionalists by armed forces, the dissolution of all parliaments, the expulsion of Jews from Germany, and the confiscation of their property. The police stated they regarded the Fascist plot as merely a dream worked out on paper.

LINDSAY, May 12.—(Special.)—This morning at 8.00 o'clock Mrs. John Lake mysteriously disappeared from her home on St. Paul street, and it is feared that she has been drowned, as her coat and hat have been found on the banks of the Scugog river.

When her disappearance was noted search parties were instituted and it was learned that she had been seen on the north-east boundary of the town and later on the C. P.R. tracks close to the iron bridge across the Scugog.

This afternoon her coat and hat were found under the C. N. R. bridge. Chief Umphrey was notified and parties are now dragging the river for her remains.

Mrs. Lake has been suffering for some time from nervous trouble and it is feared that she ended her life while in a despondent mood. She is a native of England and was very highly respected in the community.

Strike Headquarters Is Among Last To Hear Of Termination Of British General Strike

((Special to The Examiner by Henry Somerville.)

LONDON, May 12.—By the irony of fate those at strike headquarters in Eccleston Square were among the last in London to learn that the general strike would terminate today. The general council had left at 11.45 for Downing Street. Pressmen were waiting for the usual conference which takes place daily at 12.45. The conference had not begun at one o'clock because all the leaders were at Downing Street. Shortly after one, people came from neighboring houses and said that news of the calling off of the general strike had been broadcasted by wireless.

The news did not cause much surprise. It was known that many of the leaders were opposed to carrying on the general strike when it was declared illegal. The news which came this morning that the miners were calling delegates to a conference to meet in London clearly foreshadowed the end of the strike, since the delegates could not attend unless trains resumed running. There is practically universal satisfaction at the decision although some extremists consider this "Black Wednesday," recalling "Black Friday" of 1920, when the Triple Alliance collapsed and miners were left to stand a three months' strike by themselves.

The Government's statement of its position is that the cabinet accepted unconditional surrender. General council negotiations will take place during the next few days. The Miners' Federation has not associated itself with the general council, and the miners are awaiting their conference on Friday before accepting any terms. The general council say that they assume certain suggestions of Sir Herbert Samuel, chairman of the Royal Commission, will be adopted, but the Government reserves complete liberty of decision.

REVOLUTION IN POLAND; TROOPS MENACE MOSCOW; MARTIAL LAW DECLARED

Political Unrest Seethed in Country For Fortnight Preceding Outbreak—Police Raid Homes of Industrials and Issue Warrant For Arrest of Leader.

GOVERNMENT MAINTAINS CONTROL.

WARSAW, May 12 (United Press).—Revolution broke out here today and troops are marching on the capital. Marshal Pilsudski, Poland's greatest military hero, assisted by his generals are leading the revolution. Pilsudski troops were concentrated at Rembertow, whence they have begun to march on Warsaw, and the Government has mobilized its troops to defend the capital. It was officially announced today that Pilsudski effected the mobilization of his troops by issuing false mobilization orders. The Government today initiated a state of national defence and issued a manifesto demanding peace and order.

Political unrest preceded today's outbreak, and a fortnight ago Premier Skrzynski was defeated and his cabinet resigned. The Polish president selected M. Grabski, a former premier, to form a cabinet, but Pilsudski objected, compelling the president yesterday to assign the task of forming a cabinet to M. Witos. The military leader charged that Grabski's former regime had been disastrous for the army.

Pilsudski became the national saviour during the Russo-Polish War which followed the Great War. Marshal Joseph Pilsudski was commander-in-Chief of the Polish armies from 1918 to 1922. He was head of the Army Council during the Skryznski regime and during the period he commanded the army he was also head of the state. Marshal Pilsudski is 59 years old.

The police raided the homes of President Voegelier of the new Polish Steel Trust and also the homes of three leading industrials, Winkhaus, Wiscott, and Von Loewenstein. The Government issued a warrant for the arrest of Pilsudski.

Shirts Seized In Winnipeg Said To Have Been Smuggled

WINNIPEG, Man., May 12 (Canadian Press). — Investigations conducted locally during the past ten days by secret service agents of the Federal Department of Customs, have resulted in the seizure of large quantities of shirts, alleged to have been made in United States prisons. The agents claim that no duty was paid on these shipments.

The shirts which are said to have been stored in a number of distributing plants in Winnipeg, are being held pending instructions from Ottawa. The value of the seizure has not been revealed.

Terms of Settlement

LONDON, May 12 (Canadian Press).—Sir Herbert Samuel, as chairman of the royal commission which made the report on the British coal industry about which the conflict centered, was the natural go-between in the settlement of the strike. His memorandum, which the general council of the Trades Union Congress accepted as the basis for calling off the general strike and resuming negotiations on the coal controversy, contains the following points:

First—The coal subsidy to be renewed for such reasonable time as may be required.

Second—The creation of a national wages board including representatives of miners, mine owners and neutrals with an independent chairman, to revise miners' wages.

Third—It is understood there shall be no revision of previous wages without sufficient assurances that the reorganization of the coal industry as proposed by the Royal Commission shall be executed.

Fourth—A committee to be named by the Government, with representation for the miners, which shall prepare legislative and executive measures necessary to effect the reconstruction of the coal industry.

The memorandum suggests that revised wage scale be on simpler lines, if possible, than the old ones, and that they shall not adversely affect the wages of the lowest paid men.

It also suggests measures to prevent recruitment of new workers over 18 years of age into the industry if unemployed miners are available and provides that workers displaced by the closing of uneconomical areas shall be transferred with Government assistance, as recommended by the Royal Commission.

It is estimated that 350,000 men will be displaced in the mining industry by the execution of plans for complete reorganization of the industry.

BELIEVE DEATH IS ACCIDENTAL WHILE HUNTING

Captain Travers Williams-Taylor Had a Splendid Army Record.

IN GREAT WAR.

Born Here in 1894—Latterly in Charge of Native Cavalry.

(Special to the Examiner.)

MONTREAL, Que., May 12. — Sir Frederick and Mrs. Williams-Taylor received the distressing news by cable yesterday from the officer commanding the 13th Hussars at Khartoum, that their only son, Captain Travers Williams-Taylor, had died at Shendi on the Blue Nile.

Beyond the announcement that Captain Williams-Taylor had been killed, no particulars were given in the message which reached his friends here. He was sent last month with a party of natives from the Sudan on a special mission to Abyssinia, expecting to return at the end of May. As he had intended to hunt big game on the Abyssinian borderland, it is feared that he met with some accident while hunting.

Born in Peterborough

Captain Travers Williams-Taylor was born on 20th June, 1894, at Peterborough, Ontario. He was educated at Wellington College, Berkshire, and Port Hope. In 1913 he entered the Royal Military College, Kingston, where he remained until the outbreak of war in August, 1914, when on getting his discharge from the R.M.C. he received a commission in the Fifth Royal Highlanders of Canada and being appointed A.D.C. to Brigadier-General Victor Williams, commandant of the Valcartier camp, was at Valcartier until the end of September, when he was made a temporary captain and appointed A.D.C. to the officer commanding the First Canadian Contingent, Major General E. A. H. Alderson.

Proceeding from Salisbury Plain to France in the following spring, he was with the Canadians for eighteen months and during that time was twice wounded. He then joined the British permanent forces in June, 1916, and shortly afterwards, with his regiment, the 13th Hussars, went to Mesopotamia. He was wounded in November, 1916, and in November 1917, his parents received a message from General Maude at Bagdad reporting that Captain Williams - Taylor was wounded and missing following an engagement with the Turks at Tekri.

For more than six weeks he was posted as missing, subseqeuntly officially reported as wounded, and a prisoner of war. Captain Williams-Taylor was a prisoner in the hands of the Turks at Afion-kada-Hissar, Turkey, until the close of the war.

After the armistice he came to Canada to visit his parents, subsequently joining his regiment at Aldershot of which he became adjutant in 1923, and remained in that capacity until October, 1925, when he left for the Sudan where at the time of his death he was along with four other British officers in charge of a troop of native cavalry.

The last letter from him was dated 25th March when he said that he would be out of touch with the mail service for five weeks, as he was going, partly on duty, for reconnaissance work and partly on a shooting expedition, into Abyssinia.

Captain Williams-Taylor, who was regarded as a fearless soldier, and was popular with his brother officers, was a polo player and enthusiastic in all branches of sport.

His engagement to Miss Virginia Inglis of Baltimore, was announced last autumn. He is survived by his parents, Sir Frederick and Lady Williams-Taylor, and one sister, Mrs. Frederick Newell Watriss, of New York.

Children's Aid Society Discusses Ways Of Improving Conditions.

SUGGEST POLICE.

Strong Action May Be Needed To Correct Bad Environment.

The regular monthly meeting of the Board of Management of the Children's Aid Society was held in the board room of the Chamber of Commerce yesterday afternoon. The first vice-president, Mrs. W. H. Gibbs, was in the chair. The following were present: Mesdames Welsh, Devey, Newhall, Hill, Hodgson, Messrs. Edgar, Powell, Abraham, Dobbin, Hopwood, Stocker, Moffat.

The report of the Purchasing Committee was given by Mrs. J. Welsh, and Mr. G. W. Powell gave the agent's report, recording 12 applications made for children during the past month; children brought to the Shelter (not wards), 3; children returned to parents (not wards), 4; children sent to the Industrial School, 1.

A letter from the Public Trustees was read by Mr. Powell, acquainting the Board of a bequest made to the Children's Aid Society in the will of the late Mrs. Mary Jane Braden of Selwyn. This bequest will be the sum of either $2,000 or $2,500.

Mr. Edgar, the secretary, gave the matron's report, showing 19 children housed in the Shelter during the month, with 4 brought in and 4 sent out, and no sickness. Mr. Edgar also reported the receipt of $15 from the Female Voice Choir, being one-half of the net proceeds of the sacred concert given on Sunday evening last at the Capitol Theatre. The gross receipts were $40, the sum of $10 going to the Capitol Theatre and the remaining $30 being divided equally between the Children's Shelter and St. Vincent's Orphanage. Much appreciation was voiced of the efforts of the Female Voice Choir in this direction.

"Intelligence Quotient."

Mr. Edgar read a letter received from Inspector A. Mowat, with regard to a child of sub-normal parents, who is rated as an imbecile, and, after a year's tuition in school, is unable to count up to three. This child was examined by Dr. A. B. Sinclair, inspector of auxiliary classes for sub-normal children, on a recent visit to the city, and he reported that, at the age of eight years and four months, she had the mentality of a child of three years and six months, with an intelligence

COAL SUBSIDY TO BE RESUMED AND WAGES BOARD ESTABLISHED

Victory Establishes Fact That Organized Trades Unionism is Unable To Effect Stoppage of Industry and Transport—Government Accepted 'Unconditional Surrender.'

LONDON, May 12 (United Press)—The coal strike, involving more than 1,000,000 miners, will continue despite cancellation of the general strike, A. J. Cook, secretary of the Miners' Federation told the United Press today.

(By A. L. Bradford, United Press Staff Correspondent)

LONDON, May 12—Great Britain today won the greatest industrial war ever launched against any government, when, after eight and a half days, the general strike order which caused millions of workers to leave their jobs was cancelled.

The victory, such as it is, merely establishes the fact that the organized force of trades unionism is unable to effect a complete stoppage of trade industry and transport. While the nation won the fight for cessation of the strangling general strike order, labor was not defeated in the ends for which the strike was called, namely amelioration of the lot of the coal miners. The coal strike would go on, A. J. Cook, secretary of the Miners' Federation, told the United Press today. The miners are well organized and courageous. They are inured to hardship. Having started the strike alone, they declare they will continue it in defence of their rights until assured that they will not be required to carry an unjust share of the burden of deflation in the coal industry.

What Miners Want

The miners have additional grievances which are much the same as those of other miners throughout the world. They demand better protection from accidents. They want compensation for occupational disease. There is a vigorous demand for separation of mine profits from the profits of coal carrying railroads and coal-using factories under ownership identical with that of the mines. The separation is intended to insure that colliery profits, upon which wages are figured, will not be spuriously low. The miners want better houses in place of their present quarters which they describe as miserable, crowded, unhealthy hovels.

Modern mine equipment so that piece-workers' labor will bring a just return is another demand. Middlemen's charges absorb the pits' earnings and should be reduced, the miners say. Earnings ought to be available for improving the mines and maintaining wages.

Conference Last Night

Last night the Trades Union leaders met in conference and until an early hour this morning. Premier Baldwin and a number of colleagues waited to receive some word from the Laborites. Then at 1 a.m. came word that the strike leaders would meet again this morning, and the ministers retired. Premier Baldwin with his cabinet and the full Council of the Trades Union Congress finally get together at noon today, the ninth day of the general strike. The meeting came after a two hour meeting of the Trades Union Congress at its headquarters and a protracted consultation between Trades Union Congress officials and the miners' representatives. The conditions on which the strike was called off are as follows:

The governmental subsidy to the coal industry will be resumed immediately. The lockout against the miners will be withdrawn. A wages board will be established to revise the miners' wages with the understanding that there shall be no revision without sufficient assurances that the measures recommending reorganization of the mining industry by the Royal Coal Commission shall be put into effect.

In announcing to Premier Baldwin and the cabinet at noon that the strike was over, Chairman Arthur Pugh said the action was taken in order to enable the resumption of negotiations for the settlement of the miners' grievances which negotiations the government had declared could not be resumed while the general strike lasted. The Trades Union Congress forthwith dispatched telegrams to this effect to the affiliated unions throughout the country.

Individual unions before acting must await definite instructions from their own executive councils. However, it is expected the Trades Union Congress instructions will have a quick effect and that the wheels of industry will begin to turn again almost immediately.

The official statement of the settlement issued from the Premier's residence in Downing street reads:

"The Prime Minister, who was accompanied by the Minister of Labor, the Secretary for India, the Secretary for War, the First Lord of the Admiralty, Minister of Health and the Secretary for Mines, received the members of the General Council of the Trades Union Congress at 12.20 o'clock this afternoon at No. 10 Downing street. Mr. Pugh announced on behalf of the General Council of the Trades Union Congress that the general strike is being terminated to-day. Mr. Citrine, secretary of the Trades Union Congress, afterward made the following statement:

"In order to resume negotiations the General Council of the Trades Union Congress has decided to terminate the general strike to-day, and telegrams of instructions are being sent to the secretaries of all the affiliated unions.

"The members before acting must await definite instructions from their own general councils.

(Signed), Arthur Pugh, John Bromley, W. Citrine.

Almost as soon as the decision was made known to the Cabinet it was flashed throughout the country by radio to the anxious people, who had earlier been informed that strong peace rumours were in the air.

Received With Cheers.

At London hotels and restaurants the announcement of the great news was received with almost hysterical cheers and hand clapping and a moment later when an orchestra on the radio struck up "God Save the King" thousands sprang to their feet and stood at attention. The general strike began a week ago last Monday at midnight, being called to support the miners in their stand against a reduction of pay and lengthening of working hours.

LABOR ORDERS ARSENAL EMPLOYEES BACK TO WORK JUST BEFORE BRITISH STRIKE IS ORDERED STOPPED SIR JOHN SIMON LAUNCHES PEACE MOVE IN COMMONS

Engineers Receive "Marching Orders" With Enthusiasm Government Dockyards and Admiralty Workers Not Affected—No Relaxing of Effort on Both Sides.

PEACE ACTIVITIES LIVELIER ON TUESDAY.

Sessions of Trades Union Council—King Meets the Privy Council—Liberals of Commons Propose Truce and Resumption of Work.

LONDON, May 12 (Canadian Press).—Although an undercurrent of peace was noticeable in London Tuesday and there was much talk of the possibility of an early peace, the Government and the leaders of Labor did not relax their measures—on the one side to overcome the gigantic Labor demonstration, and on the other to carry on the general strike, which is just beginning its second week.

Labor's official mouthpiece, The British Worker, announced the spread of the strike to the men in the engineering and shipbuilding trades, the Trades Union Congress having issued the strike call to the unions in these trades, which are affiliated with the Congress.

Men working in government dockyards, admiralty establishments and government engineering departments, however, are not affected.

Impatient to Quit.

This is in part 'the second line of defence" which the Labor leaders promised several days ago would, if necessary, be brought into the field, and, in making reference to the call, The British Worker says: "These men have awaited their instructions impatiently, and throughout the country they have received their marching orders with enthusiasm and a sense of relief.

"In addition to the men obeying this call to reinforce the gallant first line, others are out because of refusal to work with blacklegs or because the pressure of the strike is closing down factories."

This was one of the outstanding events of an eventful day, and it means that not less than 300,000 engineers and shipbuilders have joined forces with other industrial workers standing out against the government's warning that the general strike must be called off before negotiations for the settlement of the miners' strike are possible.

Justice Astbury's pronouncement in the chancery division that the general strike was illegal was viewed as highly important, and was utilized by Sir John Simon, the former home secretary, in the House of Commons to support his previous contention that the men on strike had violated the law and could be held responsible for the damage ensuing from the general strike.

Peace Move in Commons.

Peace activities were of a livelier and more extensive character than on any day since the men withdrew from their labors. Sir John Simon declared in the Commons that he and some of his friends were about to take up the responsibility that both the Government and Trades Union Congress had appeared to avoid—that of reaching a definite agreement for the resumption of peace negotiations. This will take the form of a request that the House of Commons record its view that the Government under certain conditions set forth, consent to give tempory assistance to the coal industry. The conditions were that the general strike be called off, that work be resumed in the mines at the old rates, and that the recommendations of the royal coal commission be put into effect.

There was apparently a general belief that Sir John's proposal had received some encouragement from the government, and the former Labor minister, Tom Shaw, took occasion to say that the Labor men were ready to make the peace move effective if the miners were guaranteed a square deal.

Ramsay MacDonald, the former Labor Premier, who left a sick bed to take part in the struggle and who has been working with the others day and night to bring the opposing elements to what has been characterized as "a reasonable frame of mind," was in the thick of the Labor conferences yesterday. But, wearied and worn, he kept silent, saying that he was not yet ready to talk. It is evident to all observers, however, that he is using every effort to bring about the necessary preliminaries to a settlement.

King Calls Council

The ministers of the crown were again in council Tuesday; and the King held a privy council, those present being the Earl of Balfour, Sir William Joynson-Hicks and Lord Eustace Percy. Lord Balfour had a private conference with the King prior to this, and Sir William Joynson-Hicks remained for a time with the King after the council.

Whether these movements had any close relations to the peace efforts is not known, but in other directions there has been great activity, and late last night a conference, called early in the evening, was still in session at the Trades Union Congress headquarters. This was between the council of the Trades Union Congress, and the leaders of the Miners' Federation including Herbert Smith, vice president, and A. J. Cook, secretary, with the assistance of Ramsay MacDonald, Arthur Henderson, and other members of the Parliamentary Labor Party.

These conferences are likely to be continued today. Nothing has been divulged, but it is supposed that the consultations were devoted to seeking some formula which might enable resumption of the negotiations at the point where they originally collapsed.

Arsenal Workers Return

All these moves are significant, but there is no one as yet to venture a prediction as to the outcome. While the Trades Union Congress called out more men, there was evidence of conciliatory tendencies in other ways. One was particularly remarked—the Trades Union Congress ordered all the trade unionists employed at the Woolwich Arsenal, who struck on their own responsibility, to resume work today.

Everything would seem now to depend upon whether it will be possible to induce the mine owners to retract their steps, so that the negotiations may resume the position they held before the lockout notices took effect.

As to the general situation, transport and food supplies are being handled by the government with increasing facility. In London yesterday so great was the improvement in the bus services that large sections of the populace were relieved of further anxiety on this score.

More regular trains were in operation, but there have been several accidents on the railroads in the past two days. Early today the famous "Flying Scotchman," an express from Edinburgh to London, which fortunately was travelling very slowly, came upon an open rail, and was partialy wrecked. The rail had been removed.

DUMPING DUTY ON AUSTRALIAN BUTTER AND CANNED FRUIT, TOO

Applied as Counterbalance To Australian Export Bonus, Hon. Mr. Boivin Informs the House of Commons.

HEENAN TELLS OF "PERSECUTION."

OTTAWA, Ont., May 12.—Butter imported from Australia since January 1st has been subject to a dumping duty of six cents a pound, Hon. G. H. Boivin stated in the House Tuesday when answering a question put by J. L. Stansell.

The Minister of Customs said he had inquired and found that the Patterson export bonus scheme had come into effect in Australia on January 1st last. This provided an export bonus on butter of three pence per pound, correspondingly increasing the value of the product. In consequence all importations to Canada since that date had been subject to the equivalent dumping duty of 6c. As to imports of canned fruit from Australia, all collectors had been advised of the graduated export bonus which, it would appear, would subject Australian imports in that line to the dumping duty. Any entries were accepted subject to that.

Heenan on Budget.

Peter Heenan, Liberal-Labor of Kenora, started to speak on the budget and expressed the hope that the clouds over the Old Land would soon clear up. He proceeded to refer to the Cape Breton troubles of last year, saying that when referring to them Monday, Dr. Maloney (Conservative, South Renfrew) got his wires crossed. Troops had been sent but he could find no record of anyone being shot and killed.

Quinn, Conservative of Halifax, proceeded to cross-examine Mr. Heenan about a Liberal attorney-general of Nova Scotia having asked a Liberal government at Ottawa to send troops to Sydney.

Went Automatically.

"The request," intervened Hon. E. M. MacDonald, "was made to the D.O.C. at Halifax and the troops went from there automatically."

"I would call your attention, Mr. Speaker, to the fact that I, not the Minister, am making the speech," said Mr. Heenan, resentfully. He proceeded to say that while there was no shooting or killing at Sydney there certainly was at Winnipeg in 1919 when the Union Government had despatched troops there to quell a strike."

"Tory Persecution."

Mr. Heenan went at length into charges against the Provincial Government of Ontario. That administration "intimidated and persecuted" settlers who would not support Tory candidates. The people of Ontario were as disappointed in the Ferguson Government as they were in 4.4 beer.

G. B. Nicholson (Conservative, Algoma East) rose to a point of order declaring that Mr. Heenan was not discussing the Federal budget but rather the finances of Ontario, and making charges against men who had no opportunity to reply.

Speaker Lemieux said he could not see the point of order.

Mr. Heenan replied to Mr. Nicholson by saying that instead of raising points of order he ought to be protesting against the "damnable practices of the Conservatives in Northern Ontario."

Speaker Lemieux insisted that Mr. Heenan withdraw the word "damnable." This was done and the word "rotten" was substituted.

Later, Speaker Lemieux again called upon Mr. Heenan to confine his remarks to the budget.

Mr. Heenan replied that he had noticed that other members "wandered all over the country, talking of Provincial affairs, strikes, lockouts and murders."

Speaking of the automobile tariff, he had noticed that none of the Conservatives had said that the duty had been too high but many of them wanted the whole matter referred to the Tariff Board in which other Conservatives had expressed complete lack of confidence.

Mr. Heenan said that in view of the efforts being made in Great Britain to settle the strike, it would be well for Canadians of all classes to refrain from heated expressions, particularly at the present stage of affairs. Only words of encouragement and helpfulness should be given in the hope that Canadians might be of assistance to their Old Country friends in settling the conflict in a way that would be fair and honorable to both sides.

J. D. Chaplin.

J. D. Chaplin (Conservative, Lincoln) said that the previous speaker was a Labor man, who had not a word to say about the thousands of working people who had come to Ottawa on the recent delegation.

The Government had admitted its obligations to Providence for the budget. It was not the first time Providence had been invoked by the Government. The Prime Minister, in the election, had said that he could not reform the Senate from the outside, but could only invoke Providence to remove some of those senators to appoint others who would be prepared to carry through the reform. "Just imagine invoking Providence to allow Duncan Marshall to get into the Senate," said Mr. Chaplin.

Mr. Chaplin criticized the Government for putting into the regular Government funds the sums received from England in adjustment of war expenditure. He thought these properly belonged to war debt and should have gone to reduce that debt. He recalled that last year the Minister of Finance promised that Roumania and Greece would repay some of the monies loaned to them by Canada. So far the House had not heard that these payments were made.

While this Government, chiefly at the behest of the Western members, was refusing to protect industry for the benefit of Canada, it was raising the duty on meats for the benefit of Australia and on products of the West Indies for the benefit of the colored laborer in the latter country.

"That is the kind of protection my Western friends are hoping for," he added.

Mr. Chaplin criticized the manner in which the taxes on autos had been announced. While the Minister of Finance was trying to decide what the policy of the Government should be, the officials of the Customs Department were making rulings concerning certain auto parts. The attempt had been made, he said, to divide an auto into four parts. Actually, there were from one hundred and sixty to two hundred separate and distinct parts in an automobile, and no satisfactory appraisal could be made unless a proper classification was arrived at.

Drive Money Out.

The Government had driven artisans out of the country, and now it was proposing to drive money out. "I warn the Minister of Finance that when the dollar is taxed excessively it will get away from him."

Mr. Chaplin gave instances of increased income tax payments by those whose income was partly from Canadian dividends. The Ministers of the Cabinet had taken particular care of themselves, he said, by reducing the tax on incomes of $14,000 from $1,144 to $670. Speaking of incomes from Canadian dividends, he said that up to $50,000 the tax had been increased, but on an income of $50,000 from Canadian dividends there was actually a decrease of 5 per cent. In the tax compared to last year and this decrease was as high as 15 per cent. on incomes of $90,000 from Canadian dividends. It was a rich man's change, lightening the burden on those who could most afford to pay.

CONDITION OF LAND IS GOOD

In Spite of Heavy Rainfalls During Spring—Work Delayed.

BAILIEBORO NEWS.

BAILIEBORO, May 12.—Despite the fact that there have been very heavy rainfalls this spring, the land is working up very loosely and in excellent condition. The season for getting the spring grain sowed is getting late but the farmers are by no means discouraged.

Up to date there has been very little work done upon the land, and this week if the weather continues fine the farm horses throughout the district will get hardened down to labor ere many days have passed.

There has already been several farmers who have cultivated up a portion of their fall wheat where it looked to be killed out, but in the greater portion of fall wheat fields the wheat is all alive, and during the past few days the wheat and seeds have taken on a fifty per cent better appearance.

A special Mother's Day service was observed in the United Church Sunday school on Sunday afternoon. A very interesting and touching pageant was put on by ten of the Sunday school girls.

A reception to new members of the church was given during the afternoon church service at which twenty-one new members joined the new United church at Bailieboro.

The Chinese used fingerprints as seals on documents before the time of Christ.

Mr. Langford is holding an auction sale of farm stock, implements and grain, at his premises on Tuesday, May 18th. He is undecided where he will reside in future.

The annual Sunday School business meeting passed off successfully. Mr. Wesley Redden remains superintendent and Mr. George Spencer, assistant superintendent. The school has formed a choir of young people with Mr. Ernest Wilkinson as leader and Mr. Rufus Redden as organist. The organization arranged for the annual Sunday School picnic to be held on June 18th at the church grounds, dinner to be served in the new dining hall. The games are to take place on the new park which has been purchased by the Trent River Fish and Game Protective Association.

Firesafe shingles cost you less

THE indestructible asbestos that gives Johns-Manville Asbestos Shingles fire-safety, gives them a permanence that means a lower cost per year.

So you have fire protection and permanence, too—freedom from too frequent repairs and too soon replacements.

That's why hundreds of home owners are turning to these lasting Canadian-made shingles for greater roofing protection. They find they actually cost less than cheap shingles.

THE HORTICULTURAL SOCIETY.

The Peterboro Horticultural Society's campaign for new members should appeal with peculiar force at this season of the year when the good citizens of Peterboro are busy with their gardens and in the beautifying of their premises.

The options offered by the society to its members by which they are given a choice of thirty different lots of plants, bulbs, etc., should prove irresistibly attractive.

In addition to getting this splendid choice, those who join the Horticultural Society receive the benefit of expert advice on horticultural problems, and at the same time they have the satisfaction of knowing that they have identified themselves with an organization that is working for the betterment of Peterboro and helping materially to make this a more attractive city.

The membership of the Horticultural Society should run into four figures when the smallness of the annual fee, the value of the options offered and the opportunity to assist a community movement of much general benefit are taken into consideration.

Those citizens who have not looked into the benefits they would receive from becoming members would do well to study the list of options.

The present campaign should be successful in greatly adding to the numerical strength of the society.

CADET TRAINING.

The various cadet corps in the villages of this district within the past week have passed through their annual inspection with flying colours.

The zeal shown by those responsible for the instruction of the youngsters, as well as the interest displayed by the cadets themselves is intense.

The trouble with opponents of the cadet system is that they conjure up a bogey of militarism to assail and religiously shut their eyes to all the benefits of the training.

The smattering of military drill received in the schools of Canada does not inspire anybody with a burning desire to adopt soldiering as a life profession any more than does the thoroughness of the Swiss training in the use of firearms cause the people of that country to try out their weapons on a human target.

On the other hand, beside the effect that it should have on the physique of the school boy, cadet instruction should produce a very beneficial result in teaching youngsters some much needed discipline.

The parents of today seem to find it impossible to teach boys to obey or to respect authority.

Why then should there be any quarrel with a system of training that if given a fair chance will succeed where the home authorities have failed?

A REVIVAL OF CANOEING.

Referring to the re-organization of a canoe club in Smith's Falls, the Brockville Recorder and Times makes an earnest plea for a revival of canoeing in that city.

"Canoeing is as good an aquatic sport as any, and it is one which is distinctly Canadian," says the Recorder and Times. "It calls for the exercise of muscle and considerable endurance, and widely joined in contributes materially to the development of a strong and wide-awake young manhood."

What about Peterboro?

Here we are in the home of the canoe, the birthplace of the graceful craft that is known the world over by the name of Peterboro, and yet there is nothing in the nature of a canoe club in this city, although we have splendid facilities for carrying on the sport.

We are developing no crack paddlers here, and for many years Peterboro has been unrepresented in championship paddling events.

No attempt is made to encouraging paddling, and where as in a city situated as Peterboro is there should be a small army of expert canoemen, the men who can handle the craft like a master constitute a mere handful.

The motor boat, the automobile, the tendency to shirk sport that "calls for the exercise of muscle and considerable endurance," have all contributed to this lamentable condition.

Peterboro is the home of the canoe, but, alas, not the home of canoemen.

BRING ON THE BY-ELECTIONS.

Premier Ferguson was expected to make an announcement at London today as to his intentions in regard to a general election and as to the stand his Government intends to take in regard to the liquor question.

The Examiner has no inkling as to what the head of the Government will say about these two matters, or indeed whether he will make a definite announcement at all.

But there is one question on which the Premier should have something to say today, and that is the matter of the seven ridings in Ontario which are without representation in the Legislature.

If there is not to be a general election in the near future, then no excuse remains for not issuing writs for by-elections in London, Cochrane, Centre Grey, Kenora, North Norfolk, South Simcoe and East Kent, which have been disfranchised for periods varying from six to nine months.

The statute calling for writs to be issued within 90 days following the death or resignation of a member has been flouted by the Government in the case of these seven vacant seats, not one of which was represented in the recent session of the Legislature.

If the Government is not going to the country almost at once, let it bring on these by-elections.

Not a shadow of an excuse remains for leaving thousands of electors without representation in the Legislature.

The coming out parties of the girls are about the same as ever, but the dear things come out a little further.—Sault Star.

THE COST OF THE STRIKE.

Early optimistic predictions that the great British strike would collapse within a few days do not now appear to have been based upon much more than hope, says the Ottawa Journal. Both the strikers and the nation would seem to have settled down to a desperate combat with characteristic British tenacity, and unless common sense is brought to the rescue by realization of catastrophic consequences, no one dare predict what the outcome will be. Already the cost is enormous. Some idea of what it involves in dollars and cents is given in a statement by Mr. Phillip Snowden, who was Chancellor of the Exchequer in the Labor Government. He writes:

"The financial cost and trade losses of this calamity are hardly calculable. The last great industrial dispute in 1921 in which the mines alone were concerned, cost the national exchequer £40,000,000 and the trade losses were calculated at £340,000,000.

"The present stoppage is costing in wages and loss of production about £10,000,000 a day ($50,000,000). To this must be added the loss on wastage of stored commodities and the cost of the enormous and expensive organization which the Government has established for maintaining in part the supply of necessary services. The indirect losses cannot even be estimated, but are colossal. . . . . This great catastrophe will set back national recovery indefinitely. It would be no exaggeration to say that if this strike continues a fortnight the direct and indirect cost will amount to £1,000,000,000 ($5,000,000,000)."

For a country that is already burdened with taxation and debt, which has obligations and commitments all over the world, and whose war payments to America alone total $500,000 a day, such a situation is indeed staggering. And the most pathetic feature of the whole tragedy is that in the end there can be no victors.

CANADA'S CHIEF ASSET AND FOREMOST PRODUCT.

Canada is justly proud of its immense resources of forest and fertile field, of mine, and water power. But of their greatest asset Canadians are characteristically voiceless. It is not something drawn from the earth. It has sprung rather from an inherent consciousness in the people of the value of the "things that are unseen." The Dominion's greatest resource is character. Set down anywhere on the globe, a people of such integrity, courage, open mind and friendliness would have made a notable place for themselves; endowed with the unmeasured wealth of Canada, they will make their land one of the earth's chosen places.

It has taken courage to open up Canada, as it did the United States. Today calls for fresh courage, and tomorrow will make its new demands. Every day the structure of nationhood visibly rises higher. This is but the sixtieth year since the divided Provinces united in one Confederation. Since then the prairies have been carpeted with farm and city. It has been a period of seed-time. In the last few years the Panama Canal has aided in the Dominion's development. Newly settled cities, thrilled with their sudden greatness, are gazing past Provincial boundaries, while older communities are broadening their interest in their continental neighbors. Every man who looks beyond his own fence, and works on today despite the doubts and discouragements that beset all construction, makes himself one of Canada's nation-builders.

Canada does not build for itself alone. It builds for the British Empire, for its great republican associate to the south, and for the peace of the world. The myriad of its sons and daughters who have settled in the United States are an anchor of Anglo-American friendship. The host of Americans who in their turn have sought fortune in Canada form another tie. The present Dominion Parliament has at least one member who did not quit the States till long after he was a grown man. In the United States Canadians have risen to the highest positions of moral leadership and responsibility. There is no public sentiment whatever within the United States for the annexation of its neighbor—it would be fruitless were it entertained—but there is a growing and already widespread appreciation of Canadians. This understanding cannot fail to include the Mother Country of Canada within its compass. If it should prove good public policy for Canada and the United States to unite in building the St. Lawrence waterway to the Great Lakes, the locks set athwart the river will tie not only the two great neighbors closer together but also Great Britain. Friendship at one corner of the British Empire cannot fail to extend to all.

As a means of promoting a larger understanding of the Dominion, the Monitor with this issue presents some account of Canada and its resources, cultural as well as physical. Passing mention is given also to a few of its cities. No attempt has been made to make the record complete. That would be impossible within the confines of a single newspaper. The Monitor has sought merely to sketch some of the outstanding characteristics of a great country and a great people.

Whatever its varied problems of geography, population, race, pioneering or the like—and every nation has its imposing questions—Canada faces them with sturdy boldness. Its resources of character and continent are such as to challenge difficulties. As the years roll on, Canada's chiefest product may well be recognized as neither gold, nor wood, nor wheat—but men.—Christian Science Monitor.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

The Budget debate, Ottawa announces, is to be carried over into next week. At that rate the boys will be lucky to get out of the trenches by Dominion Day.

Mr. Woodsworth, Labour member of the House of Commons, in a speech the other day deplored the amount of money spent on national defence. Some public men have such trusting natures!

Our fishery reserves are being depleted all too fast through legitimate fishing. Why then hasten the end of the sport in these waters by illegal angling?

The famous train from London to Edinburgh, "The Flying Scotsman," is being driven by a millionaire American stock broker living in London—a fact that is mentioned just to illustrate the spirit that refuses to yield to what he majority of people consider an unfair challenge.

In some people's opinion what Premier Baldwin says in London, England, is not nearly so important as what Premier Ferguson may say in London, Ontario.

"As you were" is the military way of expressing the ultimatum issued by the O.H.A. to the players of the Province.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, May 11 (Canadian Press) — Indications of better chances for a prompt ending of the British general strike helped the wheat market upward today. WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG, Man., May 11 (Canadian Press)—Reports of signs of peace in the industrial dispute in the United Kingdom, and increased export sales late in the session brought about sharp advances in the price of wheat today.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Que., May 11 (Canadian Press) — A steady demand from foreign sources for Manitoba wheat in nearby positions resulted in a good business being done today on the Montreal Grain Exchange. Activity also marked the domestic demand and sales of No. 2 Northern Wheat were made at 11 cents per bushel above the Winnipeg May option. Number 3 Canadian Western Oats sold at 5 1-2 cents over similar option. Prices for car lots of oats were unchanged.

Receipts of butter were 855 packages, as compared with 1,546 for last Tuesday. An easier feeling was in evidence and prices declined 1-4 to 3-4 cents per pound.

Cheese receipts were 5,698 boxes, against 2,446 for the same day last week. Business over the cables was dull as was also local demand. Prices were nominal.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

LETTERS TO BE PUBLISHED UNDER THIS HEAD MUST BE RECEIVED AT THE EXAMINER OFFICE ON THE DAY BEFORE THEY ARE DESIRED PUBLISHED.

STATE OWNERSHIP—A MENACE.

Sir,—While it is to be expected that the affairs of a province will have to be looked after for the benefit of the province by the representatives and men of the government chosen for the purpose, still the seat of power remains in the people. The people, therefore, cannot sidestep their responsibility by leaving it to the government. A government is supposed to do what the people as a whole want done, as in handling public throughroads and highways leaving from one part of the province to another, but the undeveloped natural resources of a country, such as forests, mining lands and water-powers are not the business of a government, but of the people—individually or collectively in companies or municipalities. When the government takes charge of the development and management of these natural resources it leaves private enterprise without materials and power which it can control and it consequently ceases to function. Had the municipality of Peterborough wished to take over natural resources, such as water-powers, which bear direct and vital relation to the prosperity of the municipality and of the people undertaking to do business here we could have done so just as the great lumbermen here used to do and we could have secured from the government for development and use what it is our business to look after and develop, and not the government's. But, as it is, we are pretending to run our own business, when, as a matter of fact we have tied our own hands and so hampered our managerial powers that we are now in the position of looking to the government instead of to ourselves. Between two stools we have fallen to the ground. I remember suggesting to the northern half of this county that it should secure, as it could have secured, for I was member at that time, the power at Burleigh Falls, which I had learned from a personal interview with a great New York hydraulic engineer, was capable of easy and cheap development and which is, we know, largely maintained by the government. The distribution of this power would have paid for all the schools and the roads, etc., etc., in the north country besides furnishing power to every farmer there at a very low rate. But the people lacked initiative. They failed, just as Peterborough has hailed, to secure power maintained for it at somebody else's expense.

I was commissioned by the late Mr. Kendry to offer the old Auburn water privilege to the city for $30,000. The city wouldn't touch it. The very same power was shortly after that sold to the Seymour Power Co. by Mr. Kendry for much more than eight times that sum. I know that because I conducted the transfer. Then it was sold under practical compulsion to the Hydro by the Seymour Co., and the city pays a tremendously increased price for the electrical power delivered from it, and has no control over it! If this is good business it exceeds my humble powers of appreciation. "Hydrophiles" have kept saying that cheap hydro power would make this city hum with industry. Has it? All we have here is what we secured ourselves under the old style municipal or private ownership plan. Hydro, however, has taken the reins out of our hands, but is not driving the horse and wagon which is consequently going nowhere. But that Hydro should object to private enterprise as in the case of the buses is to confess that state-ownership is not able to compete with private ownership and demands the suppression of it. We have been contending that state-ownership destroys, in the long run, initiative and private enterprise, but had no idea that it would deliberately come out and demand the immediate suppression of it. The extension of this form of state-ownership would, if continued, soon wind us up altogether. The less agressive, but not less destructive kind is a slower and smoother, though not less effective process.

Editor of Examiner:

Dear sir:

A few years ago Mr. Elliott, the County Clerk, wrote several letters in The Examiner, condemning the proposed good roads system, which the county talked about taking over. He showed and explained how it would work and what a hardship it would be on the taxpayer for no real good. I wish to say, and there are hundreds beside myself, who know today that every word he the Chemong road as an example wrote has come true. I will take because I know all about how this good road system is working out on this road.

In the year 1920 I was appointed overseer of the Chemong road. I got my time book and was told to go ahead and do certain work, take out the big stones that were sticking up, build a culvert at Findley's hill, draw gravel, and so on. The mix-up then started, no end to bosses. Mr. McFarlane was supposed to be the boss, the Suburban Commision would come out and order certain work done, next day the superintendent would come along and order it not done, even go so far as to tell me to tell the chairman of the Commission to go to h——.

It was the same then as now, too many bosses and not enough men to do the work on this road, four bosses and one man and team working, except odd days when their was some extra. I am willing to bet that one third of all the moneys voted by the government, the city and county is eaten up with officials. Now why is this good road system partly a failure? Because the officials are not experienced men, not one of them from the superintendent down. The Government engineers, what are they? Is there an experienced man in the bunch. We had far better roads under Statute labor. The city is asked to pay some eight or nine thousand dollars to the Suburban Road System. Do they know how and where their money is being spent? The Commission brings in a report at the end of the year, so much spent on road number so and so. Unless you know the number of roads, how do you know where the money is going? The bad spot on Findley's hill was caused by breaking up the hard surface and then leaving the job unfinished, no material going on roads, nothing but scrape until the road is as thin as a wafer.

R. N. SCOTT,
Ex-Reeve Smith.

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Sir:

"Anxious" in your paper says that Christ never preached the prohibition of anything and that if He had said "Let there be no whiskey" there would be none. That is right. Prohibition was the invention of Howard Russell and John B. Gough, not of Jesus Christ. Christ said to believe in Him and we would be saved from all sin but I say that prohibition has done more good in five minutes than Christianity ever did since it was founded. What made us doubt Christianity first was that when the Supreme Powers could have prohibited the means of evil like whiskey they did not do it. I says to myself if a people is to save themselves they must get after it just like a mad dog. Crying "I believe! I believe!" will never save you from a mad dog. Man must save himself and then if there is any hereafter for him he'll get it. We have been tied by preaching and whooping-up too long. Prohibition is better than salvation ever was which I say with all respect but because it is true. We have got there and let us acknowledge it.

4 out of 5 get pyorrhea through neglect

PYORRHEA, dread disease of the gums, attacks four persons out of every five past forty because they are careless of Nature's warning.

It starts with tender bleeding gums. Later the teeth loosen in their sockets and poison is spread throughout the system, often causing rheumatism, neuritis and other sickness.

If you have pyorrhea go to your dentist at once for treatment. He can help you. To prevent pyorrhea consult your dentist at least twice a year, brush your teeth night and morning with Forhan's for the Gums.

Forhan's is the formula of a registered dentist. It contains Forhan's Pyorrhea Liquid which has been used by dentists for the last 15 years in the treatment of pyorrhea.

If used regularly and used in time, Forhan's for the Gums will prevent pyorrhea or check its progress. It is a pleasant dentifrice which serves a dual purpose: it cleanses the teeth and wards off dread pyorrhea. All druggists, 35c and 60c in tubes.

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY

A THOUGHT ON LAUGHING

During my years of traveling about this country and meeting each month hundreds and hundreds of people, I have observed much, and among the lessons that I have learned, laughter has taught me a lot.

First, permit me to go on record as firmly believing in laughter, for it is a great mental tonic and physical medicine.

The insane seldom laugh. A famous physician says: "Laughter is one of the greatest helps to digestion."

Laughter is more: Laughter opens the lips and lets the heart have its say. Laughter electrifies the nerves, stirs the blood, expands the chest, and makes a man more agreeable.

I have seen men far past middle age so change the wrinkles or the furrows in their face by laughter that they have carried the expression of youth.

But all laughter is not the same. When we laugh at the real or supposed weakness of another, we display our true character, and plainly evidence the influence of early training.

Nothing is more embarrassing to the membership of a club of right-minded men than to hear the regular ridiculer break loose in laughter at some unfortunate mistake on the part of a member.

Ridicule is a cheap cloak that will not cover the small statute of laughing satire.

Mr. Micawber loved comfort—

Whether or not you are "waiting for something to turn up," you'll appreciate the homey restfulness of the Westminster.

CANADA TARGET OF NEW U. S. MILK LAW

Virtual Embargo Under Guise of Sanitary Demands.

WASHINGTON, D.C., May 12.—Canadian Press. — Beginnin_ of tthe hearings before the Senate Agricultural Committee Tuesday of the Lenroot bill intended to tighten up the law and regulations as to the importation of milk and cream served to make it clear tthe bill is aimed all Canadian milk producers.

In the course of arguments made by representatives of New York dairy interests for the bill, it was admitted the shutting out of Canadian competition was desired. Those who spoke for the bill included Senators Lenroot of Wisconsin and Copeland of New York. Representatives of New York dairy interests, D'Arcy Scott of Canada, and Secretary W. F. Stephen of the Canadian milk producers, will be heard in the course of the hearings which will continue two or three days. They do not oppose sanitary requirements but fear a plan to shut out the Canadian produce under the guise of regulations.

Senator Copeland suggested that the standard applied in New York should apply to all milk a cream shipped from one state to another.

This was at once opposed by Senator Lenroot as it would hit at milk producers in a number of states.

CAMPBELLFORD APPEAL WAS DISMISSED BY JUDGE HUYCKE

Upheld Magistrate Payne's Decision in Sale of Goods on Commission.

COUNCIL BUYS SAFE.

CAMPBELLFORD, May 12. — His Honor Judge E. C. S. Huycke of Peterborough has handed down his decision in the appeal case of Police Chief Brown against The Robinson Company of Napanee, which was heard here at a session of the Division Court on May 1st, and the appeal is dismissed with costs to the defendants.

This was a case brought in the local police court against the Robinson company by Chief Brown, at the instigation of the merchants, the presiding magistrate being G. A. Payne who, on hearing the evidence, decided for the defendants. The latter sent a consignment of goods to a local dealer to be sold on a commission basis of 10 per cent, all goods not disposed of to be returned if the dealer so decided. A representative of the Napanee firm accompanied the goods here to demonstrate the various articles.

It was held by the plaintiff that the local dealer was really the agent of the company, but, in his decision, Judge Huycke finds that the reverse of this contention is the case.

The decision was appealed to the Division Court by the Town Council, the members of which sought to protect their own bylaw and the local merchants from outside competition.

Town Solicitor D. J. Lynch appeared for the plaintiff and W. S. Herrington, K.C., for the defendants.

Safe for Documents

Th members of the Town Council have finally agreed on the purchase of a safe for the preservation of the valuable papers of the municipality, the one selected being manufactured by the Office Specialty Company of Peterborough, the salesman who closed the deal being D. A. Costello of that city. This is the safe that was recommended by the committee that went to Peterborough to investigate and was given the preference over safes manufactured in Toronto and the United States. The prices is $535.

Preparing the Estimates

The Council will hold a special meeting next Monday night to strike the rate for the year and the estimates are being prepared. So far the only amount approximately agreed upon is the sum of $5,000 to be spent on the roads and bridges of the town. This includes $1,000 for the construction of a new bridge at Simpson Street and the debenture payments on the road machinery which was purchased last year.

The Board of Education will this year ask for an appropriation of $25,300, the same amount that was voted in 1925 for educational purposes. Of this total $10,580 is required for the High School alone, the salary roll of which is $16,000, the balance being made up by the various grants from outside. These figures do not include what is required to meet the debenture payments.

Miss Potts is the well-known goalkeeper of the Campbelford ladies' hockey team and her work in that position attracted favorable comment from the sporting writers wherever she played during the past three years. Miss Marguerite Keating takes the position resigned by Miss Potts.

NEW FLAG DESIGN FOR SOUTH AFRICA

Fly Union Jack in Addition on State Occasions.

CAPE TOWN, South Africa, May 12.— (Canadian Press Cable, via Reuters.)—The Hertzog government has accepted a design for a new flag for the Union of South Africa. The design for the flag shows a vertical red barr next the staff and horizontal bars in green, yellow and blue.

The Union Jack will be flown in addition to the new flag on state occasions.

Early in the year a commission representative of all parties in South Africa was appointed to select a flag for the Union of South Africa. This step was the outcome of a friendly arrangement between Gen. J. B. M. Hertzog, premier and nationalist leader and Gen. Jan. Christian Smuts, former premier and leader of the South African party in the house of assembly.

Over 3,000 designs for the new flag were submitted to the commission.

SHOE INDUSTRY ON OPEN SHOP SYSTEM

Scheme of Quebec Manufacturers in Wage Dispute.

QUEBEC, May 12 (Canadian Press).—Following the decision of the members of the Quebec Boot and Shoe Manufacturers' Association to operate their factories on the "open shop" system, it was learned yesterday that although their doors are open, as far as production is concerned, the fourteen factories operated by members of the association are at a standstill.

The shoe workers, totalling some three thousand men, who are directly affected by the unofficial walkout, apart from a large number of boys and girls, are unemployed pending a settlement of the complicated wage dispute which has handicapped the industry since November last.

Apart from the fourteen factories referred to, however, there are between twelve and eighteen other factories whose owners are not members of the association and these are functioning normally.

No further efforts were made by either side yesterday to bring about a settlement of the dispute, and inquiries at the headquarters of both the manufacturers and the union elicited the information that no meeting of leaders of both sides has as yet been arranged to take place.

THINK IT OVER.

Canada's foreign trade has made an astonishing recovery. The returns for December, 1925, completed the figures for much the best year since the end of the war boom, and, making allowance for the abnormal conditions which then prevailed, it is the best trade year the country has ever had. There was an increase of no less than $295,000,000 in the country's foreign trade in 1925, as compared with 1924. Total imports and exports (of Canadian goods) in the year, $2,161,254,202, bring the trade again above two billions, a position previously attained only during the five years of the inflated prices of the war boom.

Nor was the remarkable expansion of 1925 confined to any one field, though naturally, the excellent wheat crop contributed substantially to the result. The increase of $212,928,956 in exports over 1924 included a gain in wheat of $63,409,353, refined sugar, $11,705,374; wheat flour, $10,023,603; rubber goods, $7,803,405; seeds, $6,557,136; vegetables, $4,210,848; cheese, $12,200,194; meats, $12,140,321; wood pulp, $7,688,933; paper, $7,375,540; automobiles, $7,039,377; lead, $6,500,014; gold-bearing quartz, nuggets, etc. $3,074,198.

10 YEARS IN PRISON FOR ROBERT SCOTT

New Trial Refused By Chicago Court.

CHICAGO, Ill., May 12 (Canadian Press). — A new trial was denied Robert Scott yesterday, and he was sentenced to prison for ten years by Judge Emanuel Eller for the robbery of a druggist in 1924.

Judge Eller delayed for thirty days the mittimus committing Scott to the penitentiary to permit his attorney to prepare a bill of exceptions for appeal.

Scott is to be tried June 15 for the murder of Joseph Maurer, clerk in another drug store, for whose death his brother Russell was found guilty and sentenced to be hanged. Russell was saved by an insanity plea and is now in an asylum.

Skin Troubles

Come from Constipation

Constipation is the cause of most complexion troubles. Poisons from the waste matter are picked up by the blood and carried to all parts of the body, especially the skin.

No one needs to have a sallow, muddy complexion. Proper diet, exercise, surface cleanliness and above all—internal cleanliness. Nujol prevents the formation of intestinal poisons that ruin your health and complexion.

Constipation is dangerous for anybody. Nujol is safe for everybody. It does not affect the stomach, and is not absorbed by the body. Medical authorities approve Nujol because it is so safe, so gentle and so natural in its action.

Nujol makes up for a deficiency of natural lubricant in the intestines. It softens the waste matter and thus permits thorough and regular bowel movements without griping.

Nujol can be taken for any length of time without ill effects. Unlike laxatives, it does not form a habit, and can be discontinued at any time.

Ask your druggist for Nujol.

$25,000 CABLED TO STRIKERS BY CLOTHING UNION

Propose Total of $150,000 By "One-Dollar-a-Man" Levy.

MEET IN MONTREAL.

"Golden Rule" Nash Says Capitalistic System Riding To Fall.

MONTREAL, May 12.—(Canadian Press).—A "one-dollar-a-man" assistance policy to the general strikers of Great Britain was Tuesday voted by representative of 150,000 employees in North America attending the convention in this city of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America. A donation of $25,000 was cabled yesterday afternoon to "aid the cause" and further assistance of $125,000 was practically assured through the unanimous vote of the delegates that every clothing worker in Canada and the United States be asked to assess themselves one dollar, the amounts to be collected by the union headquarters and forwarded to Britain.

"Golden Rule" Nash.

For the first time in the history of the Union, an employer of labor addressed its convention. A Nash, clothing manufacturer of Cincinnati, Ohio, and known the world over as "Golden Rule Nash", told the delegates he believed an industrial millenium was approaching. The capitalist system was riding to a fall, he thought, and unless some steadying influence was introduced the fall would come in the present generation. He said it would be impossible to stand for the rights of labor until the avariciousness and class consciousness of the capitalist class were dicarded.

Mr. Nash had some criticism to offer of ministers of the Christian church whom he said he had confronted with problem of finding a larger life' for his five thousand employees. The ministers, he said, merely wished to ensure that the workers "would go to heaven" while he was largely concerned with making their lives tolerable upon earth.

The speaker was given a noisy demonstration when he declared he was ready at any time to turn over his property rights to the Amalgamated Workers or to any other body. He said he only desired the assurance that the property would be used for the benefits of the workers.

Value of Contracts.

In a brief outline to the delegates of the value of contracts between employers and employees, Sidney Hillman, President of the Union, said such contracts were useless if the good will of both parties did not go into them. "They wanted merely protection of their rights so that great masses of people could not be thrown out of employment without just cause. What we are trying to establish is a law in industry."

The morning session of the convention, which to to continue until the end of the week, was devoted to the appointment of committees and other routine matters.

MONTREAL JEWS MAY APPEAL TO PRIVY COUNCIL

Granted Leave To Carry School Case to the Highest Court.

IN NEAR FUTURE.

Seek Representation On Board of Protestant School Commissioners.

QUEBEC, Que., May 12 (Canadian Press).—That the appeal of the Montreal Jews against the judgment of the Supreme Court of Canada, regarding the education of Jewish children in the metropolis will come before the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council in the very near future, is the latest information in the hands of the Provincial authorities. Leave to appeal was granted by the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council last week. Arrangements are being made by the various interests concerned to have legal representatives at the hearing of the case.

On Friday last the Protestant Committee met and authorized the chairman, Hon. Walter Mitchell, to take all necessary steps. It is understood that both the Protestant and Catholic School Boards of Montreal will have counsel attending the trial in their interests.

The Provincial Government is particularly interested in the case as there appears to be some question of the constitutionality of the Provincial school laws.

The appeal is taken against a ruling of the Supreme Court of Canada upholding the judgment of the Quebec Court of Appeals to the effect that persons of Jewish faith could not be appointed to the Board of Protestant School Commissioners, that the Board was not obliged to appoint Jewish teachers in its schools and that the Provincial Legislature could not pass legislation providing that persons professing the Jewish religion be appointed to the Board.

STRONGER BEER TO REPLACE 4.4 HOTELS REPORT

Permits Do Not Specify Alcoholic Content, Campbellford Story.

HOPE FOR CHANGE.

O'Keefe Company Making No More 4-4 Agent Stated.

CAMPBELLFORD, May 12—Hotelkeepers in Campbellford, Warkworth and other centres in Northumberland County are authority for the statement that no more 4-4 beer is to be manufactured and that when the present supply is sold out permits will be issued giving them authority to sell a beverage containing a higher percentage of alcohol. In the meantime any man engaged in the traffic last year who wishes to continue the business will be given a permit the cost of which will be the same as last year, $10. These permits will read for the sale of beer without mentioning the percentage of alcohol and will contain a special clause by which the dealer obligates himself to pay a higher fee if called upon to do so any time during the license year. The inference is that the government proposes to permit the manufacture and sale of a stronger beer and that in that event the license fee will be increased.

Few Licenses Issued

None of the hotels in Campbellford have renewed their licenses and only one restaurant has taken out another permit to carry on. A Toronto agent of the O'Keefe brewing company was in this district last week and gave out the information that his company will brew no more of the so-called Ferguson beer. Then in his wake came a license inspector who told of the proposed change in the method of issuing permits. This has encouraged the hotel keepers to hope that another change is to be made in the Ontario Temperance Act but no one is in a position to say whether the Government will submit any further amendment to the people for their approval by going to the country. It is, however, recalled in this connection that the Ferguson Cabinet was given by the Legislature practically a free hand to amend the Ontario Temperance Act at discretion so that it now lies in its power to raise the alcoholic strength of beer just as they did when they increased it a year ago in the face of protests from the prohibitionists.

Train Hit London (Ont.) Bus Four Passengers Injured

LONDON, Ont., May 12. — (Canadian Press).—An investigation was made yesterday by officials of the C. N. R. with Charles G. Forrester, superintendent of the London Division, to attach the blame for the accident that occurred on Monday night at the Egerton Street crossing when a freight train struck one of the London street railway 'buses. Four persons were injured, some seriously, as a result of the collision, and the 'bus, in charge of Fred. Wilkie, was practically demolished. Street railway officials are also conducting an investigation. The injured were reported somewhat improved.

Eye-witnesses claim that both train and 'bus were proceeding slowly at the time, but that no warning was given of the approaching train.

Below will be found a brief synopsis of telegraphic reports received at the head office of the Bank of Montreal from its branches. The branch managers have complete and intimate knowledge of each local situation and are in close touch with crop conditions in all sections of the districts mentioned.

General — The present week should see wheat seeding, in the Prairie Provinces practically completed, with some increase in acreage as compared with last year. The seed bed generally is in good condition, but many districts report soil drifting owing to lack of surface moisture. In Ontario, the season is three weeks later than last year, and but little cultivating has been done. In Quebec and the Maritime Provinces the season is also late and cultivation has not commenced. In British Columbia, on the other hand, the season is from two to four weeks earlier than usual, and spring work is well advanced. Details follow:

Prairie Provinces.

Alberta—Soil conditions generally satisfactory with ample moisture for germination. Wheat acreage will probably show 10 per cent. increase. High winds prevalent last week, may cause some reseeding. In the western area, wheat seeding is 60 to 90 per cent. completed in the northern portion, and 40 to 60 per cent. in the southern portion. Sugar beet acreage about same as last year. In the northeastern area, wheat seeding is 10 to 50 per cent. completed. Conditions favorable. In the southeastern area, moisture is needed. Saskatchewan—Surface soil dry in places, but no immediate lack of moisture. Conditions generally favorable. About 5 per cent. increase in wheat acreage. In the northern area, wheat seeding is general, and about 50 per cent. completed. Ample moisture and seedbeds in good condition. In the southern area, 75 per cent. of the wheat is sown. Although there have been high winds, and some soil drifting, little damage is reported. Manitoba—Wheat seeding practically completed in the south, with 70 to 80 per cent. in the centre and well under way in the northern portion. Soil drifting general, and rain would be welcome, although the subsoil condition is satisfactory.

Province of Quebec.

In all sections, work on the land is about two weeks later than usual, and in several districts frost is not yet out of the ground. Spring plowing has not been started and seeding will be late. Meadows and pastures wintered well. Maple syrup and sugar production was below the average.

Province of Ontario.

The season is very backward, being three weeks late. The land is too wet for cultivation, and only a limited amount of ploughing has been done on light, high soil. Some seeding has been started on early land, but operations will not be general for another week. Fall wheat and pastures have wintered well, but so far there has been little growth and warmer weather is needed. Live stock are in good condition, but feed is becoming scarce.

Maritime Provinces.

The season is about two weeks behind the average, and work has not yet begun. There is little frost in the ground, which is in good condition. Fertilizer in some parts is being bought freely and it is expected that a larger potato acreage will be planted this year. Apple trees have wintered well.

Province of British Columbia.

Following a mild winter, the season is from two to four weeks earlier than usual. Seeding of grain is well advanced, and hay is in excellent condition. Grasshoppers are causing anxiety in interior. A good acreage of potatoes is being planted. All tree fruits give promise of a heavy yield. Small fruits will probably be below average. There is a large increase in the acreage planted to tomatoes. Hops are making an excellent showing. Pasturage fair to excellent. The spring has been unusually dry.

Blood impurities cause rash, pimples and sallowness. The regular use of ENO brings a clear and healthy skin, because ENO assists nature to expel impurities and poisons. For a good complexion try a dash of ENO each morning in a glass of water.

A Severe Illness Caused Constipation

Mrs. Wm. Hill, Wapella, Sask., writes:—"Three years ago I had a very severe illness, and ever since I have suffered with constipation.

A few months ago a friend advised me to use

which I did, although not expecting any results, but I am pleased to say that since using them I have had perfect use of my bowels without any trouble or pain, and have never had bleeding piles since. Now, I never fail to recommend 'Laxa-Liver Pills' to all my friends."

Two accidents occurred during the past week which though not serious, resulted in many bruises and cuts to the victims. Mr. Robert Comerford had the misfortune of falling from a scaffold, while repairing a roof on St. Lawrence street. Mr. Comerford was just leaving the scaffold, which was about twelve feet above the ground, when it gave way, throwing him to the ground. The other unfortunate man was George Hill, who was kicked by one of his cows while milking, the animals becoming frightened by a dog which had come into the barn.

The huarizo is a recently developed animal, a cross between the llama and the alpaca of Peru.

Cocoanut Oil Fine For Washing Hair

If you want to keep your hair in good condition, be careful what you wash it with.

Do not use prepared shampoos or anything else that contains too much free alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and is very harmful. Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo (which is pure and entirely greaseless), is much better than anything else you can use for shampooing, as this can not possibly injure the hair.

BETTY COMPSON
Whose growing popularity and beautiful hair are movie topics

Simply moisten your hair with water and rub it in. Two or three teaspoonfuls of Mulsified will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily, and removes every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excess oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy, wavy, and easy to manage.

You can get Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo at any drug store. It is inexpensive, and a few ounces will last everyone in the family for months. Be sure your druggist gives you Mulsified. Beware of imitations. Look for the name Watkins on the package.

MOTHERS' DAY SERVICES

AT KEENE.

KEENE, May 12.—Mothers' Day and Go-to-Sunday-School day were observed in all churches on the Keene circuit Sunday, large congregations attending all services.

A pageant entitled "The Spirit of Motherhood" was presented at Bethel in the morning also at the former Presbyterian church in the morning.

At United Methodist church the pageant was portrayed both at the morning and evening services.

The pageant at night depicted the Mothers of the Bible and the characters were all in costume with lighted candles which mingled with the floral decorations made a most pleasing sight.

The fololwing were the characters and the theme they represented:

The Spirit of Motherhood—Mrs. Andrew McLauchlin.
Eve—Miss Mabel Braden—Life.
Rachel—Mrs. Bertha Wilson—Loyalty.
Jocebed—Miss Florence Wedlock—Courage.
Ruth—Miss Dorothy Chapman—Love.
Hannah—Miss Constance Passey—Devotion.
Mother of David—Miss Maragaret Dinsdale—Service.
Mother of Jonathan—Miss Ada Melling—Friendship.
Salome—Miss Alice Chapman—Faith.
Mary—Miss Eva Taylor—Sacrifice

At the entry of Mary the hymn, "O Litte Town of Bethlehem" was played very softly which added greatly to the effect of the pageant.

Great praise is due to Mrs. Andrew McLauchlin for her untiring efforts in getting up these pageants and also to the members of the flower committee who decorated so tastefully.

AT NORWOOD.

NORWOOD, May 11. — "Mother's Day" was very fittingly observed on Sunday morning in the United Church. The pupils of the Sunday school occupied the choir loft. The seven piece Sunday school orchestra, composed of Miss Mary Stewart, piano, Miss Mildred Gray, mandolin, Mr. Wesley Wildman, autoharp, Messrs. Clarke Fife and Hamblin, violins; Mr. W. Weindt, sa aphone, played "Onward Christian Soldiers," while the pupils took their places.

Miss Anna Brethen presided at the pipe organ for the opening number of the programme, after which Mrs. A. McNeil read "An Ode to Mother." The prescribed program was used with a few variations. Master Wilson Small gave a recitation entitled "Only One Mother." A chorus was rendered by the Primary class, and "My Mother's Prayer" by a class of ten girls." That beautiful song, "Tell Mother I'll be There" was given by ten young men, Mr. Jack Duffield and Mr. Roger McMillan each took a verse as a solo, and delighted the large congregation with their singing. Mr. Ralph Elliott accompanied them on the pipe organ. The pastor, Rev. R. F. Stillman, gave a very appropriate address and during the service bantized four children. Mr. G. A. Brethen, Superintendent of the Sunday school, presided.

AT MARMORA.

MARMORA, May 12.—Mother's Day was duly observed in the United Church with the specially appointed service at the morning Sunday School and a befitting service in the evening. Beautiful geranium and hydrangea adorned the pulpit, while more flowers were worn on the coats and blouses of those attending than were seen in any previous year. The attendance was exceptionally good and the offering for the Ontario Religious Education Council amounted to nearly ten dollars, being greater than last year.

Through arrangements for an address failing, the lesson study for the day was resorted to. In the course of his announcements, the superintendent, Mr. F. S. Pearce, read a letter of thanks from Mr. W. L. Linton of Timmins, a former teacher, for a Duofold set recently presented him by the school and Young People's League,

AT WELOME.

WELOME, May 12. — Mother's Day service was held in the Welcome Sunday school on Sunday. The "Pollyanna" class put on a pageant entitled "The Mothers of the Bible," in a very satisfactory manner. Special music was also given.

At the Zion Mothers' Day service Mrs. Clare gave an address on "Our Mothers."

AT TRENT RIVER.

TRENT RIVER, May 12. — Mother's Day service was observed at the United Church on Sunday afternoon, with the pastor, Rev. E. O. Seymour in charge. The church was prettily decorated with potted plants and cut flowers. The offering was for the Ontario Religious Education Council. There was a large attendance.

AT BURNBRAE.

BURNBRAE, May 12.—Special music by a mothers' choir and a special address featured Mothers' Day services at St. Andrew's on Sunday. The charges of the Seymour circuit observed the special day of remembrance in a similar manner, the Rev. Chas. Daniel delivering a splendid address on "Our Mothers."

The evening service at St. Andrew's was withdrawn on account of the funeral service in the afternoon.

Miss Gertrude Nelson, nurse-in training at Cobourg Hospital, has been at home for a few days.

KEENE NEWS

KEENE, May 12.—Congregational meetings will be held in both the United, Methodist and Presbyterian churches on Wednesday evening at seven o'clock.

Miss Mina Henderson was a week end visitor to Keene.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Newman returned home on Monday after spending a few days at the home of the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Burley.

Mrs. Robert Nelson left last week for New York to attend the graduation of her daughter, Marion, at the Presbyterian Hospital there.

Mrs. McCann is improving somewhat from her serious illness.

Mr. and Mrs. Byers and family spent the week end at the home of Mrs. Byer's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Howson.

Rev. Andrew McLauchlin left for Lindsay on Monday on business in connection with the Presbytery held there last week.

The play "I Can't Afford It" given by the Dramatic Club of Mark street church, Peterboro, in Keene on Friday night was a decided success, the Hall being well filled with an appreciative audience.

The Lenten season was originally only forty hours—from Good Friday until Easter Day morning. Additional days were gradually perfixed until the present number—based on the forty days' temptation in the wilderness—became the rule.

"THESE WOMEN"

By MALCOLM DUART

COPYRIGHT 1926

The Characters and Situations in this Story are entirely fictional.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Audrey Morton is wildly in love with her guardian, Harry Morton. He is rich, unmarried, middle-aged, highly attractive to women. For 15 years he has lived in Peterborough, since Audrey was a child, without the gossips there learning of his past or of his business. He also maintains a costly apartment in Toronto.

Nona, a stage girl, also is in love with Morton. To divert Audrey's attention from him, Morton has ordered his secretary, John Parrish, a good young man, to be her companion. Also he has let her see him with Nona and other girls.

Just before this chapter opens, Parrish has left Morton's office with Audrey, who is starting to seek a career on the stage, so she can learn how stage girls manage to fascinate her guardian. Morton has rung up a theatrical agency, saying he will arrive in half an hour to ask a favor.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXIV

The theatrical offices which Morton entered were marked by an elaborate simplicity.

On the window were the words, in faded gilt: "A. Sunshine, Producer." On the door was nailed a placard, bearing the inscription:

"Sunshine Productions, Always Bright and Snappy."

There was an outer room, covered with pictures of girls in tights, and girls without tights, and supple young men in dancing poses, and various designs in which the word "Sunshine" appeared with interesting frequency.

Young people sat around the walls, chattering, and watching the door to the inner office with some anxiety.

Morton passed through this room, and without knocking, entered the next.

This was occupied by an old-young man, sallow-checked, black-eyed, slender, wearing a pin-striped suit and a striking tie. Beside his desk another door opened into a larger room, from which came the sounds of a piano. Morton, looking into the other apartment, could see two girls, tripping along the floor in the beginning of an elaborate dance step.

"Choke it off!" ordered the old-young man, as Morton came in.

The music ceased, and the two girls, panting, came to the door and looked curiously at Morton. One of them wore rompers, such as little children are invested with at play time. The other wore her skirts drawn up above her knees, held there by a cord that passed around her waist and between her legs. The top of her stockings and a strip of white flesh were exposed.

"Shall we wait, Abe?" asked the girl in rompers.

"Yeh," said he. "Hello, Harry!"

He extended his hand without getting up. The girls, with another stare at Morton, retired into the room where they had been dancing. The patter of their conversation with the pianist could be heard as Morton shook hands with the old-young man, and sat down.

"What's on your chest?" asked Abe. "Haven't seen you in a devil of a while."

"Still getting rich?" asked Morton, jocularly.

"Just keeping ahead of the sheriff," said Abe. "Every time they padlock one of these places, it puts one of my shows out of work, and then I lose all the money I put in the costumes, and everything. Then I've got to stake the girls until I can put on a new production. I wish sometimes I'd gone in the second-hand clothes business. What do you want, Harry?"

Morton arose, took off his overcoat, laid it on a chair, closed the door into the inner room, and sat down again.

"I've got an adopted daughter, Sunshine," he said.

Mr. Sunshine favored him with an elaborate wink. "They all have," said he.

Morton was undisturbed. "This is a real one," he said. "She really is my adopted daughter—been with me since she was a baby. She's taken it into her head that she wants to go into a show—cabaret show, or revue, or something like that."

Abe, whose derby hat had been hanging on the back of his head, took that garment and tilted it forward.

"Society dames are no good in the show business," he pronounced. "Don't show up for rehearsals, and about two nights after the revue opens, they get tired and quit. Nix on 'em!"

Morton leaned forward confidentially.

"Do I understand that you are well financed?" he asked.

The other surveyed him with interest.

"Sounds as if you were talking money. Am I right?"

"You are," said Morton.

Abe made a sweeping motion with his hands.

"In that case—shoot. I'm listening. What do you want, and how much do I get?"

Morton reached into an inner pocket, produced a bill-fold, and from it drew a packet of $500 bills. Counting them carefully out on the desk, he made them into a neat roll, held them a moment before Mr. Sunshine's eyes, and restored them to his pocket.

"Hey! Don't put 'em away!" cried Abe. "I like to look at 'em!"

"I'll exhibit them again, if we come to an agreement," said Morton. "Here is what I want. I want Miss Morton to be placed in one of your shows, as soon as she can be rehearsed in a few steps, and maybe a song or two."

"Done!" said Mr. Sunshine, heartily, holding out his hand. "Give me the roll!"

Morton shook his head. "That's a fat roll. I want something more."

Abe leaned back and waited.

"Miss Morton never has seen much of life. She never has heard any rough talk, nor seen any wild doings," Morton went on. "I want you to select the rest of the cast for this revue carefully. I want it to be made up of good girls, and decent, clean-talking fellows."

Mr. Sunshine lifted his shoulders high.

"What do you think this business is?" he wanted to know. "The girls are all good girls, you understand, but they cuss a lot, some of them, and they like a funny story once in a while. I do myself. We can't act as censors over the way they behave, except on the stage, and sometimes in the dressing-room if they raise a rough house, maybe. They will fight, you know. You can't help girls fighting."

Morton drew forth his roll of bills, and looked at it thoughtfully. Mr. Sunshine's own eyes were focused upon the yellow and green slips.

"Of course," Abe went on, "I might see what I could do. How much is in that wad?"

Morton passed it to him, and Abe counted it. There was pleasure in his face as he rolled it again, and thrust it in his own pocket.

"I'll go out right away, and hire a church choir and a couple of Sunday school superintendents," he proposed, cheerfully.

Morton laughed. "You can keep the money, Abe—I know you'll play ball. But I guess I'd like to help you pick that cast. I want to be sure. And Abe—when this thing goes into rehearsal, you'll keep an eye on Miss Morton, won't you—see that nobody starts anything?"

"Sure," said the other. "I'll have a bouncer right on the job. He'll crown 'em at the first crack they make!"

It was two days later that Morton came again to the Sunshine offices.

From the innermost room there emerged the clatter of many voices, most of them feminine.

"Here comes the angel," roared Abe, espying his visitor. "Here's your sugar papa!"

There was a rush to the door. Girls shoved against one another in an effort to see. A male head or two appeared in the background.

"Hello, Harry!" called a voice. "Why, it's Harry Morton. I know him!" cried another.

"Come on inside and look 'em over," suggested Abe, taking Morton by the arm.

They entered the room where the piano stood. It was larger than the other offices, and the center of the pine floor had been relaid with polished hardwood. Morton found a chair, as thirty or forty girls, and half a dozen young men, ranged themselves around the old upright piano. Abe shouted for silence.

"Mr. Morton, he's backing this show," he said, "and there's one thing he wants. He wants girls and fellows that don't swear, or make any rough cracks, and the girls mustn't be gold-diggers. Are you all that kind of folks?"

"Sure," chorused the girls, laughing loudly.

One slender girl, not yet out of her 'teens, sidled toward Morton and leaned against his shoulder. He paid no attention. Thus guided, another ranged herself on his other side, closely.

"He's mine! I saw him first!"

A plump, merry-faced, tousled girl—she showed the effects of recent exertion on the dance floor—pushed through the crowd and plumped herself on Morton's knee.

"You're my sugar-daddy, aren't you?" she cooed.

"Get up off him!" Abe ordered. "Want to hear 'em sing?" he asked, turning to Morton.

The latter nodded as the girls pulled away from him.

Abe seated himself at the piano.

"You first," he said to the nearest girl. "Whadda you sing?"

She named a popular song and he swept into the opening strains of the chorus. Her voice followed the syncopated rhythm and Abe showed approval.

"Not so fierce," he said. "Next girl."

He turned to speak to Morton over his shoulder.

"You take their names and addresses will you?" he said, winking.

Morton drew out a pen and on the back of an envelope wrote the names the girls gave him, as one by one they moved away from the piano.

It was more than an hour before the last of the girls had undergone her test and disappeared.

"Those're for the chorus," Abe explained. "I can't do anything about the principals until I've heard Miss Morton and seen what she can do. Don't want to get some Jane with her same type, you know—spoil the effect. These fellows here sing and dance."

Morton sat silent while the youths, all slim and supple, all sleek as to hair and pale as to color, sang their songs and executed steps for Abe's and Morton's approval. Finally they were gone, too.

"Well, how about it?" asked Mr. Sunshine, swinging around on his stool. "Will any of them do?"

Morton tapped his pen on his teeth as he looked at the list of names on his envelope.

"I seem to have set a job for myself," he confessed. "I've seen a good deal of stage girls, you know. I counted on picking them out at sight. But I don't know. There are half a dozen here that will do, perhaps. But I don't think much of those sheiks."

Abe wagged his head. "Nobody ever does," he said. "But I picked out a bunch I thought was harmless. All you have to do with these birds is to pass the word they'll get a crack on the conk if they start anything and they'll behave all right. None of 'em is prize-fighters, exactly, you know. The girls knock 'em about pretty rough sometimes."

Morton arose.

"I suppose they'll have to do. I've checked the girls I think may be all right. You'll need about four more. Can you get them?"

"Get them?" Abe's hands went out comprehensively. "There's thousands waiting for a chance."

When Morton returned to his office he was halted by the sound of high voices within. He listened a moment, and then, turning, he entered the room where his senior clerks were at work. He seated himself on a desk there and waited.

Presently the door to his private office swung open and Parrish came out. Audrey's voice, from within, pursued him in denunciation.

The young man stopped as he saw his employer.

He was scowling.

"Do you know what Miss Morton has done now?" he demanded.

RECREATION CLUB TAKES BALL TEAM

Will Operate Havelock Baseball Team for Coming Season.

HAVELOCK, May 11 — At the May meeting of the Havelock C. P. Recreation Club a vote of thanks was tendered the members of the entertainment committee for their efforts in connection with the entertainment and dance held on the evening of May 3rd.

Mr. James Hooper spoke in connection with the advisability of the club operating a baseball team the coming season. He stated he had been delegated by the Havelock Amateur Athletic Association to ascertain if the Recreation Club would operate a team, using the present H.A.A.A. equipment and in the event of it doing so the H.A.A.A. would not operate a team This was thoroughly discussed and on motion of Messrs. F. Hooper and W. Bullied it was decided to operate a baseball team, accepting the offer of the H.A.A.A. to use the equipment and to have the Canadian Pacific Recreation Club crest attached to the uniforms, it being thoroughly understood, however, the club is not to enter this team in any local league but to confine themselves to competition with C.P.R. Recreation Club teams. The team, however, is at liberty to arrange games with any other teams it wishes in dependent of the Recreation Club.

Mr. P. Pincombe advised the members there was a possibility of a request coming from the committee in charge of the field day being held on June 3rd, for the co-operation of the club.

On motion of Messrs. J. Evans and F. Hooper the secretary was instructed to carry out any necessary arrangements in the event of any request coming from this committee. Mr. J. Evans asked the consent of the executive that the tennis committee be allowed to go ahead and get one or more tennis courts ready, this in event of the grounds being made ready before the next meeting. The request was granted.

New York City. Mr. Victor Stein writes:—"I never realized why I went around with a doped, dizzy feeling most of the time. My head would swim and hurt, my stomach easily became upset and food had no appeal. My whole body felt wrong. All this must have been due to the poisons of constipation getting into my system, for after taking your wonderful Carter's Little Liver Pills these troubles have disappeared."

HOME-MAKING HELPS

HINTS ON THE CARE OF SASH CURTAINS.

In city houses and apartments sash curtains are an absolute necessity.

Of all material used, perhaps, madras is the most popular, in cream, or natural color. If the curtains are fastened by a rod or limber spring to the sash, they keep cleaner if fastened to the window jamb.

In making curtains, the hem at the bottom should be deep enough to allow them to be let down to half their width if the material shrinks badly and the casing at the top should be wide enough to allow for shrinkage. Some women make the wide hem with a double turn, then pull out the thread and let it down before the first laundering.

Intelligent care lengthens the life of all washable materials. Rubbing on the board wears them out, and even in a washing machine they are more roughly handled than they should be.

If we wish to have the curtains retain a deep tan color, we can dip them, after they are clean and rinsed, in a little very strong, clear coffee which will color them. The odor will blow out as they dry. If, on cleaning days, the curtains are lightly shaken right on the window, it will remove the light dust and make them stay fresh a longer time.

FATHER'S HELP.

Wee Dick came home from school one day and sulked around the house. He didn't usually act that way—as quiet as a mouse. 'Course mother couldn't understand and, when it got her goat, she asked him what the matter was, and Dick produced a note.

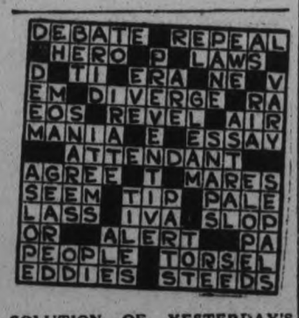
'Twas just a line from teacher, saying marks were way down low, and Dicky wasn't learnin' all the things he oughta know. The youngster's mind, so teacher said, was much inclined to roam—he'd hafta start in catchin' up by takin' school work home.

That night mom called on father: "You have got to help your son. He needs someone to jack him up, to get his problems done." So dad and Dick got busy, and they sailed into the mass of problems Dick had worked before, but simply failed to pass.

Ten problems soon were tackled and the answers jotted down. Dad made Dick think them easy—but they really made him frown. It's fun to make your youngster think that, in his work, you're bright. Dick took them off to school next day—and two of them were right.

REMOVES SPOTS.

The spots that will manifest themselves on ivory-handled knives and forks may be removed by rubbing with powdered pumice stone and water.



SOLUTION OF YESTERDAY'S CROSSWORD PUZZLE

Evening Examiner "IDEAL Fashions" by Jean Belle Hamilton

A Charming Version of The New Mode

One glance at this chic little frock is sufficient for us to conclude that it had its origin in Paris. It is conceived of flat crêpe in a soft bois-de-rose shade, and shows the effectiveness of many rows of shirring in yoke fashion over the shoulders and across each front, also making a finish at the bottom of the full sleeves and top of pockets. A narrow belt girdles the hips, tying in loops at center back. What more charming frock could be conceived for the miss or slight little woman, than No. 1328, which is in sizes 16, 18 and 20 years? Size 18 years (36 bust) requires 3¾ yards 39-inch material. Price 20 cents.

The secret of distinctive dress lies in good taste rather than a lavish expenditure of money. Every woman should want to make her own clothes, and the home dressmaker will find the designs illustrated in our new Fashion Book to be practical and simple, yet maintaining the spirit of the mode of the moment. Price of the book 10 cents the copy.

Tomorrow's HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble

THURSDAY MAY 13.

Adverse conditions predominate on this day in all that pertains to business activities, although better configurations bear rule in social, domestic and affectional affiliations. There is a sinister aspect between Sol and Nept ne, which warns against all manner of subtle attacks, duplicity and possible fraud. Also the evil lunar transit of Mars presages disagreeable situations born of impetuosity, quarrels or litigations. Shun these and be alert.

Those whose birthday it is should fortify themselves against all manner of treachery, fraud and subtle attacks as well as underhand methods in business. They should also control their own tendency to rash and quarrelsome conduct and litigation. Personal affairs may be better, but be discreet. A child born on this day may be disposed to be impetuous and fond of strife and may invite disagreeable situations for itself, as well as treachery and double-dealing, unless given rigorous early training and discipline.

A Fashion Model's Diary

By Grace Thorncliffe

SHE DESCRIBES A CREPE SPORTS FROCK.

Gaby is one of the most industrious manikins at Madame's. She spends every spare moment, when she isn't busy modeling, in doing some odd job.

Usually it's sewing, and just now she is very busy making clothes for herself.

Gaby follows the plan of most women who are always well-dressed. That is, she considers carefully the frock she contemplates. She chooses a model that will serve best for the occasion for which she wants it, and she considers the accessories as carefully as the frock.

Today she was working on a new sports frock for warm weather. She told me that she had chosen rose color because it was becoming, and because she could wear it nicely with her navy blue coat and rose straw hat.

The frock is such an effective and simple one that I am saving a sketch of it here in my diary, as typical of the simple sports dress of Summer, 1926.

The material is lovely soft crepe, and the shade is rose. Gaby explained that she chose a real rose instead of ashes of roses or bois de rose, both more subdued rose tints, because she was tired of seeing the two latter shades, and wanted something a bit different.

For the skirt, Gaby simply measured off her straight lengths, sewed up one side seam, put in the hem by hand, and took it to the pleater's to be pleated.

She is going to join it to a bodice when she finishes it, as Madame joins most of her skirts to bodices because she thinks they hang much better this way.

Then the top is finished with shallow scallops, and there's a fresh looking vestee of crepe roma in a very pale cream tint. This is lovely with the rose color, and Gaby is finishing the sleeves with narrow turn-back cuffs of the same thing.

That hat she likes so much is ravishingly becoming. It's made of horizontal strips of rose grosgrain ribbon in two shades, with a fold caught through the back of the crown.

This Two-Piece Model of Rose Crepe Exploits the Scalloped Edge.

GOOD NIGHT STORIES

By Blanche Silver

A QUEER PLACE TO PITCH A TENT.

Bobby sat down upon a stone and watched the queer antics of the great big spider.

She bobbed upon the surface of the water right near the edge of the pond, and began moving all her legs as if she were trying to crawl out of the water.

"I'll bet that poor spider is drowning," mused Bobby. Then he jumped up, cut down one of the weeds on the bank and tried to reach the spider. "Hop on, little fellow, I'll pull you out."

"No, thanks," laughed the spider kicking her legs all the harder. "I am too busy to play now. Did you see those wonderful kicks?"

"Certainly I saw you kicking," replied Bobby. "That's why I got the weed to help you."

"Thanks just the same," laughed the spider. "I don't need any help. You couldn't help me if you wanted to. You don't know how to build an under-water tent, do you?"

"Goodness, no," laughed Bobby, throwing the weed away. "What's an under-water tent?"

"Come along with me and I'll show you a real tent pitched in a strange place."

Bobby felt a queer sensation and when he glanced down at his feet he was no larger than the little spider herself. With a merry laugh he jumped into the water beside her.

"I'm Mrs. Water Spider," she said

"What's an Under-water Tent?"

come along and I'll show you something you've never seen before." Then catching hold of Bobby's hand, she drew him with her down under the water.

Bobby could hardly believe his eyes when he saw the wonderful silver bubble clinging to Mrs. Water Spider's hind legs.

Bobby sat on a pebble down on the bottom of the pond and watched Mrs. Spider.

She never said a word until the leaves above them were strung with silken threads. Then she began kicking and squirming until the silver bubble of air she had carried down with her became loosened from her hind egs and flew up to join the silken web among the leaves.

Mrs. Water Spider went into the opening which she had been careful to place on the bottom, then carefully, one by one, she hung her eggs in the very ceiling of the bubble tent, and swam back to the pebble beside Bobby.

Now how's that for a tent?" she laughed.

Wonderful," repled Bobby. "Such a queer place to pitch a tent."

"The only place for a water spider," she laughed. "I draped a lovely webby covering over the eggs and swung a nice webby hammock under them. So when they hatch, they won't fall out of the air tent until they're ready to. Come along, Bobby. I'll have to have some more air." Then taking Bobby's hand she swam back to the surface of the water. Bobby climbed out on the bank just as the old school bell clanged. Shaking himself back into his own size Bobby thanked Mrs. Water Spider and hurried off to school.

The Shirred Cape Shows the Soft Side of a New Fashion

The first capes of the Spring were cut on circular lines and were swung from a neat and fitted shoulder. But as the season advances, the French dressmakers have admitted the straight cape to the mode. It is shirred to a tie collar and its lower edge is straight, so that it can be made from bordered wide fabrics. It is often unlined, and for the country it is gay and charming made in flowered English prints, in chintz or in terry cloth. For urban life it is made of satin crêpe, soft satin or taffeta. It makes a perfectly delightful ensemble in printed silk to match a Summer frock.

The Examiner does not sell these patterns.

St. Catharines, Ont.—"During my first expectant period I was in very poor health, was very nervous, suffered from morning sickness, had backache and abdominal pains. I was as miserable as could be. Thru a friend I learned of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, and after I began taking it I got along fine; it relieved me of the morning sickness, pains and distress thru my back and sides and I grew well and strong. Was able to do my own work the remainder of the time. I experienced very little suffering and had a fine healthy baby, who has never had a day's sickness except slight colds. I was very glad to know of a medicine so valuable as the 'Prescription' proved to be."—Mrs. Reginald Stone, 68 Haynes Ave. All dealers.

SAVE YOUR TEETH

TARTAR.

You are faithful in your mouth toilet, brushing your teeth at least daily, but you still find deposits forming back of your lower front teeth, to which the tongue continually goes because of their roughness, and which you cannot remove by brushing, try as you will.

Now, what is this?

'Tartar,' so called, is salivary culculus, and as it's name implies, it enters the mouth through the saliva.

The fresh deposit is soft and can be washed or brushed away when first it settles. This brushing must be done, however, within from five to twelve hours of its appearance, since remaining longer it begins to 'set.'

The calculus increases in bulk through more or less repeated accumulations, until often large and thick masses of it are formed; these, pressing upon the soft gum tissues, cause them to become inflamed, which inflammation progressing, may lead to the ultimate loss of the teeth.

Now, three 'words' more—

These deposits do not appear in every mouth, nor where calculus does occur, is it found constantly.

'Tartar' is found generally on the 'inside' of the lower incisors and cuspids and on the 'outside' of the upper first and second molar teeth, the reason for this being that these localities are opposite the mouths of the salivary ducts.

Lastly—once calculus has formed its removal can be accomplished only through the medium of special instruments in the hands of the dentist.

But if you are subject to tartar, a faithful brushing following each meal, especially of these areas, will do much towards keeping the deposits down to a minimum.

(By Allene Sumner)

"SINGING IN THE RAIN"

That's the name, up above, of a new volume of essays for the most part on modern woman problems, by Anne Shannon Monroe. Chapters called "The Woman Who Should Marry," "Shall I Marry This Man?" "When Shall a Woman Divorce?" and "Self-Bound," give an inkling of the scope.

"DOING DOUBLE DUTY."

The little essay titled the above seems to me the most poignantly necessary, in view of the modern business woman's problems, of all the sane, clear-thinking chapters. Listen to a little of it.

MYRA IRONING.

"I ran into a neighbor's kitchen on a sunny Saturday morning, and I found there, standing at an ironing board, a young woman who on other days taught school and maintained the small bungalow she and her mother occupied. 'Why in the world isn't Myra at the picnic?' I asked. And Myra's mother, at her late breakfast replied, 'Because, I suppose, she knew the ironing was to be done.'

BUT HAL!

"Then, the irony and comedy of it, Myra's mother poured out on me her wrath at her new daughter-in-law who hadn't the faintest idea of a man's need of recreation. 'Think of it,' she flared out, 'expecting Hal to help her about the house on Saturdays, his one day off, when she knows I never asked anything of Hal Saturday afternoons!' And Myra, the earning daughter, ironed right on!"

WHY IT IS!

"Myra's mother is only one of many mothers who have not rallied to changed economic conditions. They cling to that ancestral slant—women for domestic routine, men for freedom. The slant of mind traces back to a time when all the females who could, got married, and all the others lived on them. And all that greatly concerned the female mind was the upholding of the male in his effort to support his numerous females."

BREADWINNING FEMALE.

"This early-feminine mind readily acknowledges the unwritten law that the bread-winner is entitled to personal care from those whom he supports' when the bread-winner is a male. But when the breadwinner is a female, what then? Daughter always, as she grew up, stepped in under and carried the domestic load, leaving Mother to a sitting sort of life that contributed to an early old age.

NOT SO BAD THEN.

"This wasn't so bad for Daughter when she married. But there came the economic change, and Daughter stepped out into an office. But while she changed her ancestral slant, the mother, as a rule, didn't change hers. She thought it was fine for Daughter to have her own spending money, but she still continued to regard Daughter as belonging to the domestic side of the household. No conception of her as needing the same up-keep as any male breadwinner.

THE ULTIMATUM.

"Until the earning woman is as free of domestic details as the earning man, she will never be his equal in business. Earning women must fight for perhaps this last un-won right of a woman, the right to be a business woman without the burden of domesticity!"

ADVENTURES of the TWINS

by OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

THE SWORD-FISH AND THE BALLOON FISH.

At last the Whiffet and the Twins reached the corner of Sand avenue and Shell boulevard on their seahorses. And there stood Cap'n Pennywinkle at the corner with a Stop-and-Go signal beside him.

They rode right up to him and the little policeman started to shut, "Hey, there! Don't you see the sign It says 'stop' and when it says 'stop' you're supposed to—Why, hello here! If it isn't my friends Nancy and Nick. What can I do for you?"

The Twins introduced the Whiffet and told all about his losing his shadow. "The stork said he saw a shadow run into the sea," said Nancy, "so we decided to follow it. Did you see a strange shadow about?"

Before Cap'n Pennywinkle had time to answer, there was a loud bang and everybody jumped. "Oh, dear! There's been a collision!" cried the fairy policeman. "I forgot to watch my signs."

The sword-fish had run into the balloon-fish and punctured him.

"I'll have to take your number," said Cap'n Pennywinkle to the sword-fish, writing in a little book. "You must appear at court in the morning and pay the costs."

"It was his fault as well as mine," said the sword-fish. "We both started across the corner at the same time."

"Anything you say will be used against you," said Cap'n Pennywinkle. "And if you keep on talking, I shall have to put you in jail."

The sword-fish swam away and Cap'n Pennywinkle went to the corner telephone. "Give me Shadroe 9876," he said. "Hello! Is that the repair shop? Send someone over at once to help move a wreck. It's causing a traffic jam. Tell them to bring a tire-pump along."

"What's all this got to do with shadows?" said the Whiffet. "I'm getting pretty wet, too, I tell you. Not that my beautiful purple bombazine suit can shrink any more, but the salt may fade it. And then what'll I do? My shadow gone, my suit spoiled, and half my buttons spent!"

"Well," said Nick, "we're doing the best we can, Whiffet. And it's all our fault the wreck happened. Here comes the repair truck now."

The repair truck stopped and a fairy merman got out and swam over to the punctured baloon fish with his tire pump. Then he pumped the balloon fish full of air and put a patch over the hole. "There you are! Good as new," he said. "Ten shells, please."

"Send my bill to the sword fish," said the baloon fish, swimming away.

"Come along here, everybody," said Cap'n Perrywinkle, turning his "Stop and Go" sign again.

A big whale who was the bus and carried forty passengers on top, went whizzing by. Then a shark and a black fish and a porpoise swam past. The porpoise had to turn a somersault every now and then, which held things up a bit, but what could you do?

Really there were so many fish passing that corner that the sunlight was shut from the white sandy bottom of the sea entirely. It was as bad as a rainy day when clouds cover the sky.

"There are no shadows here," said the Whiffet with a pout. I mean it's all a shadow. I'll never be able to find mine."

HER OWN WAY

by A GIRL of TODAY

JERRY PROPOSES.

"Does it make any difference, Judy darling, that we haven't known each other very long? I knew the minute that Jimmie Costello introduced us the other night that you were the girl I was going to marry. I love you. I never knew what love meant before."

The car gave a lunge, for the man beside me had taken one hand off of the wheel and had pulled me up closer and was bending his face to kiss my lips.

"Here, you guy, can't you see where you are going? Wait until you get her home and then you can kiss her without killing all the rest of the people on the street."

"Oh, you go to hell," said Jerry, as he promptly hugged me closer to him.

"I shall not let you send me there if I can help it," answered the man, as he swung his car around from the sidewalk where he had had to turn it to keep Jerry from running into him.

"Good Lord! It's Jerry," said the man.

I looked up and saw Jimmie Costello and Mamie.

"Come on back home, Mamie, and I will tell you all about it."

"If you ever do get there," yelled Jimmie as we raced out of hearing.

"You haven't answered me, sweetheart," said Jerry.

"Yes, I have. I cannot marry a stranger."

And then, although I had come so near a tragedy or perhaps because I was so hysterical that I could not dwell upon the strange episodes of the evening, I giggled.

Jerry looked surprised.

"Where are you laughing at, dearest?" he asked.

"A story Mamie told me this morning."

Again Jerry looked surprised at this serious juncture in our lives I should think of a funny story. However, I determined to tell it to him. At the rate we were going I knew we would be home by the time I had finished.

"Mamie has a story which absolutely illustrates this stranger complex. We were talking of something this morning and I remarked that we were all strangers in this world and Mamie laughed, saying she had a friend whose colored cook had been in the family for many years. The woman had given her husband all her money to invest. One day Mammy Liza came to my friend and said that she would like to go away for a week on a little vacation.

"'You see, Miss Annie, I'se goin' to get ma'rid, and I want about twenty-five dollas—jes about twenty-five dollas, Miss Annie.'

"'But Mammy Liza, you had better take a hundred dollars on your wedding trip.'

"'Now, Miss Annie, what you all thinkin' 'bout. Don' you know I ain't goin' travelin' with no strange man nowhere with all that cash money?'"

BRITISH REACT TO GOOD NEWS

Sport Authorities Resume Their Plans—Incredulity in Wales.

CHEERS IN GLASGOW.

LONDON, May 12.— (Canadian Press.)—The stock exchange reacted quickly to news of the termination of the general strike, prices increasing all along the line.

Within an hour after the announcement, British sport authorities took action to resume the programme of sports scheduled for the season.

In Glasgow the streets rang with cheers as news became known, while in Swansea, the centre of the South Wales coal industry, the announcement was received with a great deal of incredulity.

In Downing street and Eccleston Square, headquarters of the Trades Union Congress, the news was received by cheering crowds.

GAS IN THE STOMACH IS DANGEROUS

Recommends Daily Use of Magnesia to Overcome Trouble, Caused by Fermenting Food and Acid Indigestion.

Gas and wind in the stomach accompanied by that full, bloated-feeling after eating are almost certain evidence of the presence of excessive hydrochloric acid in the stomach, creating so-called "acid" indigestion.

Acid stomachs are dangerous because too much acid irritates the delicate lining of the stomach, often leading to gastritis, accompanied by serious stomach ulcers. Food ferments and sours, creating the distressing gas which distends the stomach and hampers the normal functions of the vital organs, often affecting the heart.

It is the worst of folly to neglect such a serious condition or to treat with ordinary digestive aids which have no neutralizing effect on the stomach acids. Instead get from any druggist a few ounces of Bisurated Magnesia and take a teaspoonful in a quarter glass of water right after eating. This will drive the gas, wind and bloat right out of the body, sweeten the stomach, neutralize the excess acid and prevent its formation and there is no sourness or pain. Bisurated Magnesia (in powder or tablet form—never liquid or milk) is harmless to the stomach, inexpensive to take and the best form of magnesia for stomach purposes. It is used by thousands of people who enjoy their meals with no more fear of indigestion.

ESCAPE OF TWO AMERICANS OFF RUM SHIP TOLD

Disappeared When Federal Customs Officers Took Charge of Barge.

CUSTOMS PROBE.

Only Two Men Sent To Seize Large Liquor Consignment.

OTTAWA, Ont., May 12 (Canadian Press).—William Routledge, formerly an inspector for the Quebec Liquor Commission, gave the Customs Inquiry Committee a little further information yesterday about the two mysterious Americans arrested on the barge Tremblay when it was seized. Former Inspector Routledge told of having been sent to the barge on the night of the seizure to relieve the Liquor Commission inspector who was in charge. During the time that he was there, the two Americans tried to get away from the vessel.

"I told them to get back," the witness said. He was asked if either of the Americans, who were known as Campbell and Stewart, had said anything to him. He replied that one of them had told him that "he thought Bisaillon had double-crossed him." Later, said Routledge, he was told that "the Federals" were taking over the barge and so he left. On leaving he told Customs Officer Duval, who had taken charge of the vessel, to look after the two Americans. Duval had replied, "Oh, they're all right."

Mysterious Message.

Questioned by Hon. H. M. Stevens, witness told of having gone out to examine a car of lumber at the plant of the Dominion Mahogany Company. The car had proved to be laden with beer and other liquor. Its seizure by the officers of the Liquor Commission was stopped by a mysterious telephone message, which said it had come "through the regular channels."

Mr. Routledge told the committee that the plant of the Dominion Mahogany Company was located at Lachine. "When you are there you can smell nothing but beer," the witness remarked.

Bisaillon's Recital.

J. E. A. Bisaillon was on the stand at the end of the day. He travelled up from Rock Island to Montreal with Officer Duval on November 20, 1924, on information that a cargo of liquor was being brought in. He did not know the name of the boat. Committee Counsel Calder said that he surely knew that it was the Tremblay he was after. He might refresh his memory if he saw the file.

Mr. Calder said that he should remember without that. "I suggest that the seizure of the Tremblay and what came out of it was the big event of your life."

Mr. Bisaillon: "Exactly."

Duval did not tell him that it was the Tremblay he was after until late that night. He also did not hear that Inspector Masson was ill. He did not expect "anybody would be so crazy as to bring in a shipment as big as that." He expected a seizure of about 50 to 100 cases, and he did not think it necessary to take a bigger squad to make the seizure. Nearly all his Montreal staff were down at Rock Island on special duty at the time. He did not know where to find Hicklin and Kearney, the only other officers there at the time. He told Duval to 'phone Masson to go out and find the smugglers along the north shore of the St. Lawrence, which was the locale indicated in the informer's tip. Witness said he had not been told by Duval that Brien (formerly Bisaillon's partner) was the informer he was taking along, as well as Madame Duval, on the errand. Only when Duval arrived at St. Sulpice did Duval telephone him these facts.

Sceptical of Report.

The report which was signed by Duval on the Tremblay affair, Bisaillon said, he might have heard dictated. Mr. Calder said that there was a strong assumption that Duval did not write that report. The latter was not able to write English as well as that.

Mr. Calder emphasized one passage in the report. In this Duval said that "while on the way down to Montreal," from Rock Island, Bisaillon told Duval that they were going to seize a large consignment of liquor on the barge Tremblay. Witness was asked to reconcile this with his statement that he did not know he was after the Tremblay or such a large consignment. It was a matter of hours, said witness. Duval may have recollected wrongly when he heard that statement.

Why did he only send two men to seize the barge? witness was asked.

Bisaillon said one man should have been enough. Captain Tremblay was "quite tame." He had never heard of any violent opposition to Customs seizing officers in Quebec Province.

"I think we saved your life by suspending you," commented Mr. Calder. "If you proceeded like that you would have been bumped off by now."

People sometimes fought for their liquor, and Inspector Gauthier had had to draw a gun when he seized the Tremblay on behalf of the Liquor Commission, counsel added.

Mr. Bisaillon said he had not heard that.

Clearing Baggage.

Methods of clearing certain kinds of baggage in Montreal came up shortly before adjournment. E. Baltahasar, Customs officer in Montreal, was asked why he had not submitted to the committee certain orders signed by Customs Collector Weldon, authorizing Baltahasar to clear baggage in certain cases. The witness said these were not orders. They were rough memoranda which he considered his own property and which he was keeping for his protection. A. J. Doucet of Kent, N.B., thought they should be produced. They were important as authorizing a minor official to clear goods on his own initiative.

It was finally agreed to leave the matter over until to-day.

South African Government Adopts New Flag For Union

Union Jack Will Also Be Flown On State Occasions

CAPETOWN, May 12 (Canadian Press) — The Hertzog government has accepted a design for a new flag for the Union of South Africa. The design for the flag shows a vertical red bar next the staff and horizontal bars in green, yellow and blue. The Union Jack will be flown in addition to the new flag on state occasions. Early in the year a commission representative of all parties in South Africa was appointed to select a flag for the Union of South Africa. This step was the outcome of a friendly arrangement between General J. B. M. Hertzog, premier and Nationalist leader, and General Jan Christian Smuts, former premier and leader of the South African Party in the House of Assembly. Over 3,000 designs for the new flag were submitted to the Commission.

BUDGET VOTE NEXT TUESDAY

Discussion Yesterday Follows Customary Course—Both Sides Heard.

ATTENDANCE SMALL.

OTTAWA, May 12.—(Canadian Press.)—The division on the budget goes over for another week. Planned originally for to-day, the vote, if present arrangements are followed, will come on Tuesday next. Yesterday there was a meagre attendance which has characterized the debate almost since the opening day. Discussion followed the customary course with speeches both for and against the budget proposals. J. D. Chaplin, Conservative of Lincoln, asserted that the income tax proposal would lighten the burden of those most able to pay. Peter Heenan, Liberal of Kenora-Rainy River, urged in reference to the British strike that all classes of Canadians should refrain from heated expressions.

ROYAL FAMILY STAYS IN LONDON

During the present crisis in England the king and queen are spending most of their time in Buckingham Palace. The king is in close touch with events, holding frequent audiences with his privy councillors and members of the cabinet, while the queen is devoting her time to the direction of social service work. Since the general strike began the Prince of Wales and the Duke of York are frequent visitors to the members' gallery at the House of Commons where they follow with great interest the debates on the present industrial dispute. In the photograph are shown: Front row, the queen, the Prince of Wales, the king and Princess Mary. Back row, Prince Henry, the Duke of York and Viscount Lascelles.

quotient of 42. (An intelligence quotient below 50 is rated as the imbecile class). The doctor recommended that the girl be sent to the institution at Orillia which deals with such cases.

Speaking of the parents and the family of this child, several of the members reported both father and mother as being sub-normal, and two of the other younger children as showing traces of imbecility already. "Some steps should be taken with regard to parents like this," said one member. "You may have legislation to deal with these cases in twenty years' time," said another, "but there is no law affecting such people at the present time."

On motion, the secretary was instructed to take up with city officials the matter of the child's removal to the Orillia Institution.

Mr. Edgar read a letter from the Peterborough Humane Society, thanking the Board for the loan of boxes during the recent tag day. He also brought up the question of equipping outbuildings at the Shelter in such a way as to turn them into garages for the storage of automobiles, saying that $216 might be realized annually for rented space to provide for six cars, with an extra insurance premium of about $37. Several of the members thought that this would involve much extra expense in fitting up the buildings and the returns would not justify the outlay. The matter was left in the hands of the Property Committee for consideration.

Large Hospital Bill.

Mr. Edgar reported on the case of a ward of the society who was treated at the Western Hospital in Toronto, during her stay in that city, and laid before the members a bill from the hospital for $208.60 in connection with the case, the charge for 137 days' stay being $1.50 per day. After some discussion, the bill was ordered paid.

Six applications were reported for the child, a ward of the society, whose picture was recently placed in The Examiner, headed "for adoption."

Filthy Homes.

Mr. Edgar also brought to the attention of the members the case of a woman who is at present charged with having a still on her premises. The Inland Revenue officers, said Mr. Edgar, paid a surprise visit to the home and found the woman in charge. Her husband was apprised of their visit in some way and left for parts unknown. The woman, mother of nine children, the eldest of whom is fourteen years of age, was taken to the Police Station for the night, being later released until the case comes up for trial, when, unless her husband is apprehended in the meantime, she will be given a jail sentence. Mr. Edgar reported having great difficulty in procuring someone to stay with the children at night, finally having recourse to the aid of a sixteen-year-old girl who is at present at the Shelter. It is impossible to get anyone to go into the home, which is in a filthy condition.

The case of a family in which living conditions are on a very low scale also came up for consideration. Three of the six children are constantly being sent home from school, on account of dirty clothing and physical condition which makes them undesirable companions for the other pupils, and, although the father is employed steadily at good wages, and the parents have been assisted from time to time by the Big Sisters, the Kiwanis Club and the Home and School Association of the district, the home is kept in a very undesirable state. A visit of the parents to the Chief of Police or the Magistrate was advocated by the members.

M'CARTHY HAS CUBS CLAWING

Mediocre Athletes Imbued With Spirit of Former Minor Leaguer.

MAY CRACK, BUT—

CHICAGO. May 12. — A veteran of the minor leagues has come to Chicago, taken a group of mediocre athletes, fired them with a spirit that will not be beaten, and produced the greatest upset of the first month of big league baseball.

The minor laegue veteran is Joe McCarthy, pilot of the championship Louisville club in the American association. The team he has built is the 1926 Chicago Cubs—not very much unlike the tail end 1925 Cubs so far as personnel goes, but now resting in third place.

These Chicago Cubs just one month ago were mentioned as likely candidates for the cellar position. With few exceptions they presented the same line up that got no place at all in 1925.

But one of those few exceptions was Joe McCarthy, taking the first fling at big league baseball. Joe took up the job of managing the same club veterans like Bill Killefer and Rabbit Maranville, had been unable to handle. Out of a bunch of discards he has organized a ball club which is now a serious threat despite the fact the season is so young.

Had Good Run.

Spring, mid-summer or autumn, a team that wins eight out of nine games is a team to be reckoned with. The Cubs took four straight from the St. Louis Cards, three out of four from the Giants and upset the aged Jess Petty of Brooklyn Tuesday in the first game of a series that is to determine who heads the league. A vistory over Brooklyn yesterday would have put the Cubs on top.

Like College Team.

Watching the Cubs play ball is much like watching a college team. They boot the ball quite consistently, their headwork is not always of big league class, and their base running frequently smacks of the comic. But Joe McCarthy apparently doesn't mind so long as his pitchers perform well and his sluggers pound the ball—because the Cubs are winning ball games. And the most encouraging thing from McCarthy's standpoint is that they refuse to accept defeat, coming from behind in the late innings frequently to overcome difficult leads.

Slugging Hard.

Five of the Cub regulars are hitting over .300 but it's the slugging of some of the others when base hits are needed that is winning many games. And its the fact that a castoff like Hack Wilson and a mediocre outfielder like Cliff Heathcole, are leading the attack that makes the Cubs dangerous.

They may be playing over their heads. They may crack in a week or a month. But they have been winning too consistently to be passed up without some serious thought.

JACK DELANEY AT HOME IN QUEBEC

Chapdelaine Is Real Name of Light Heavyweight Aspirant.

FIGHTS TO-NIGHT.

MONTREAL, Que., May 12 (Canadian Press). — Jack Chapdelaine, known throughout the sporting world as Jack Delaney, foremost contender for the light-heavyweight boxing crown of Paul Berlenbach, is in Montreal for his initial appearance before an audience of his kinsfolk. He arrived Tuesday after stopping off at Sorel for a brief visit to the small French-Canadian town in which he was born. Tonight he is scheduled for a ten-round fight against Martin O'Grady, the "Pacific Coast mawler."

The French-Canadian boxer is pitted against Berlenbach at New York next month, and his engagement here is a part of his training campaign for the titular bout. He stepped through a light limbering up practice at a local gymnasium last night.

Nothing definite has been announced as to whether a semi-final bout on the Delaney card between Leo Kid Roy, Canadian featherweight champion, and Bert Brown, of Australia, would be gone through with. Brown declared yesterday it was necessary for him to undergo an immediate operation on his nose, but in the event of his withdrawing, it is planned to have Spencer Gardner, of New York, clash with Roy.

Berlenbach and Stribbling Meet June 10.

NEW YORK, May 12 (Canadian Press).—Approval of the world's light - heavyweight championship match between Paul Berlenbach, title-holder, and Young Stribling, challenger, at the Yankee Stadium June 10, was given yesterday by the State Athletic Commission, despite objection by Humbert J. Fugazy, Ebbet's field promoter. Formal contracts for the match were signed just a few hours before application for sanction was filed by Tex Rickard.

Billy Gibson, manager of Gene Tunney, attempted to file a challenge in behalf of Tunney for a match with any heavyweight in the world, Dempsey preferred. Neither the challenge nor its accompanying cheque for $2,500 were accepted because Tunney is not licensed in this State.

PLAY AT MARMORA IS VERY SUCCESSFUL

Bashful Mr. Bobbs Provokes Much Laughter From Audience.

MARMORA, May 11.—The Town Hall, Marmora, was comfortably filled on the evening of the 7th, when the three act farce comedy, entitled "Bashful Mr. Bobbs," was presented under the auspices of the Cheerful Workers' Class of the United Church Sunday school. Warden G. B. Airhart was allotted the pleasant duty of introducing the budding young artists. Musical interludes of the highest order were given by the Deloro orchestra (Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Wright, Mr. A. V. Yates and Mr. W. L. Riggs. Miss Rose Hart rendered a vocal solo with pleasing effect. Miss Sarah Hart gave a splendid exhibition of the Scotch sword dance, being specially attired in tartan. For these two numbers Mrs. W. Litt ably accompanied at the piano. The play centres around Major Robert Bobbs, a very bashful man. His cousin, Marston Bobbs, of a totally opposite disposition, while engaged to Miss Celesta Vanderpool, a movie star, toys with the affections of Jean Graham, an Ontario peach till a second engagement is effected. Complications ensuing the bashful cousin is utilized by the other to effect a release from his predicament. The drama closes with Marston marrying Celesta to save her from suicide, whilst the bashful one yields to the ultimate blandishments of Jean.

Norman Narrie, as the hero, had a part which he accomplished with ease, his bashful manner conforming to that associated with "Bashful Mr. Bobbs." Gerald Potts impersonated the cousin in dashing style, being anything but bashful. In the part of Celesta Vanderpool, Lorraine Bell was seen to great advantage. Her rival for the affections of Marston was forthcoming in the part played by Jennie Connor, who gave of her usual good talent. Gertie Potts gave a faithful delineation of the daily routine and complexities of a boarding house proprietress. Her main assistant was a fresh country product, Obadiah Stump. In taking this part, special mention should be made of Jack Grant, a mirth provoker of no mean order. Kathleen Henderson (Myrtle Nayler) and her henpecked husband, Fred (Douglas Sanderson) brought the house down with their division of opinion over Jean Graham's love affairs. Jennie Sweet showed good acting in her part as an athletic girl, whilst Marjorie Colster as a society bud and Berniece Bonter as the French maid, also carried off honours.

The entire cast of characters was trained by the pastor, Rev. F. J. Horwood. The proceeds of the evening totalled approximately eighty dollars. Splendid order prevailed throughout and contrasted with plays of the past, "Bashful Mr. Bobbs" was voted as unexcelled.

HELPFUL HINTS BY GOLFING STARS

BY SPECIAL ARRANGEMENT WITH GOLFERS MAGAZINE, CHICAGO.

JOYCE WETHERED—OVERCOMING SLICE

Of all the faults that one can acquire at golf, there is not one which is so depressing as "slicing." The least bit of a slice on a ball gives one a feeling of dissatisfaction, and the habit must not be allowed to grow. It is caused by the face of the club cutting across the ball, and the faulty action which causes this must be sought. As a rule failure to pivot from the waist, and a general constraining of the necessary movements, are the causes of a slice. The club-head is drawn across the ball (instead of being hurled at it and after it) by the body coming through too soon. If the club-head is allowed to lead, slicing is almost impossible.

The player who is suffering from an attack of slicing would be well advised to take a dozen balls to an open space and slash at them with perfect freedom.

I do not hesitate to say that she would hit the majority of them as straight as a die and regain lost confidence. Slicing is the most difficult fault to cure, mainly because it is the most unpleasant.

If the player cannot overcome the slice it is because of a fault. Better see the professional at once.

SHOT EXECUTIVE KILLED HIMSELF

Vice-President of Company Was Witness of Shooting.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, May 12. — For ften minues Charles A. Daltton lisened to arguments why he should not shoot his successor as president of the Dalton Adding Machine Company.

Then he picked u pa pistol, and shot him.

The fifth shot from his pistol pierced his own heart and killed him instantly.

Story of Eye-witness.

The tragedy was described by H. C. Grubbs, vice-president, who was forced to hit helplessly and await the shooting.

"Landsiedel came to the door and called me into his office about ten minutes to four," Grubbs said. "As I entered I saw Dalton standing on the other side of the room.

"'I'm going to shoot Landsiedel,' he said, 'and then kill myself.'

"'I've been thinking over this a long time. I'm practically out of this business that my father founded. There is no use in arguing.'

"For ten minutes I pointed out the consequences of his act, the disgrace, the grief of his and Landsiedel's families.

"Dalton listened with a smile.

"While I was in the midst of a sentence Dalton abruptly picked up the gun.

"'That's enough,' he said, and fired at Landsiedel.

Ran for Help.

"I leaped toward him and he thrust the gun at me. I leaped behind a door; ran for the police. Behind me four shots rang out.

"When we got back Landsiedel was slumped down in his chair. Dalton was lying on the floor dead."

Landsiedel was shot twice, once in the right knee an donce in the right lung.

Balloon Tire Comfort With Longer Wear

Low-Pressure Treads of Dominion Royal Cord Balloons solve a vexatious problem.

Engineering Science gave to the world the riding comfort of Low-Pressure Balloon Tires.

Royal Cord engineers gave to Canada Low-Pressure Treads, which assure to Balloon Tire users all the riding comfort of low inflation without undue wear on the tires.

Dominion Royal Cord Low-Pressure Treads, with six protecting rows of tread blocks, make a continuous flat "footing" for the tire, which not only takes all the road friction—thus protecting the side walls of the tire—but gives greater traction, less liability to skid, longer wear and all the comfort of true low-pressure inflation.

Dominion Royal Cord Balloons are built with Latex-Treated Web Cords, giving extra mileage without adding to your cost.

Latex-Treated Web Cords

Patented and used exclusively in Dominion Royal Cord Tires. Each cord is saturated with pure Latex (milk of rubber) and the cords are held together flat and evenly in a web of Latex without cross-tie threads. Friction and internal heat, the greatest enemies of tires, are eliminated.

OSHAWA LOSES GOOD PLAYERS TO PETERBORO

Hockey Prospects in Motor City Given Setback By Defection.

HOUCK AND LOTT.

Next Season's Local Team To Be Strengthened on Friday.

Hockey prospects in Oshawa were given somewhat of a setback, says the Oshawa Reformer, when it was learned that Carl Houck and Harry Lott will leave for Peterboro on Friday of this week and line up with the Lift Lock seniors for the season of 1926-27.

It is understood that both players have secured good positions in Peterboro and hope to catch a place with the 1925-26 Senior O.H.A. champions.

Both Houck and Lott were valuable men on the Oshawa team last year in landing the Motor City into the semi-finals of the intermediate series losing the championship by the narrowest of margins. Houck's speed was one of the features of last season's representatives, while Lott was one of the most effective centre men who ever wore a local uniform.

The manager of the Peterboro team was in Oshawa and it is understood, was in conference with the local players.

Oshawa hockey followers will regret the loss of these players even though there is sufficient material to build up an even stronger team than that which represented this city during the past year.

BELL COMPANY APPEAL ENDED

Counsel Asserts That Company is Actually Operating at Loss.

BOARD ADJOURNS.

OTTAWA, Ont., May 12 (Canadian Press)—In the hearing of the application of the Bell Telephone Co. of Canada for authority to increase its service rates in Ontario and Quebec, Tuesday before the Board of Railway Commissioners, the company concluded submission of evidence and rested its case. The Board adjourned the hearing sine die. The board will announce shortly when the hearing will be resumed.

The adjournment was granted on the motion of counsel for the municipalities contesting the application, who through Mr. R. Geary, (Toronto) asked for at least three months in which to digest the mass of data filed by the company, embraced in no less than 360 exhibits, and prepare rebuttal testimony.

Judge Phippen for the Company opposed the application, but submitted that if it were granted the increased rate asked for be allowed to go into effect in the meantime with the understanding it should be subsequently adjusted in accordance with the final decision reached by the Board when the case concluded. Mr. Geary protested against such a concession as "preposterous" declaring that he would sooner go ahead at once, unprepared though he was, than agree to the granting of the increased rate which he contended it would be difficult, it not impossible to rescind, if once made operative.

Working At Loss

In his argument for allowing the new interim rate Judge Phippen declared that the company was actually working at a loss; that after paying the 8 per cent dividend which had been accepted as equitable they would run behind $1,500,000 on the year's business whereas, with the increase, they could not more than recover the $400,000 already behind since January 1, and pay the dividend. Mr. Geary's reply was that the estimated shortage was based upon a number of items in the system of bookkeeping such as amount charged to depreciation, etc., which his clients claimed were erroneous and he asserted that when the company's figures were analysed and their witnesses cross-examined the alleged shortage would more than disappear.

Stock Value Up

It was further alleged by opposition counsel that on the last application made to the board — some three years ago—to increase rates similar statements of loss were made, but in spite of the failure at that time to secure such increase the company's stock had increased in value, and their subsequent annual statements had shown surpluses even after all dividends had been paid in full.

In adjourning the hearing sine die the board reserved decision on Judge Phippen's application, the chairman promising that a ruling should be announced as quickly as possible.

THEATRE

AT THE CAPITOL.

"SUNNY FRANCE" PICTURED IN SCREAMING COMEDY.

Beery, Hatton, Mary Brian, Featured in Wiley's "Behind the Front"

"Sunny France!"

"It may be so, we do not know. It sounds so—queer!"

Just about two million ex-doughboys who got "over there" during the late unpleasantness in France are going to be poignantly taken back to their soldier days when they see "Sunny France" as it is pictured in "Behind the Front," which Director Edward Sutherland has filmed for Paramount.

And the words of the cynical old song are going to rise to their lips when they mentally jog along with Wallace Beery and Raymond Hatton, as wild a pair of doughboys as ever shovelled rock in the S.O.S. and looks out at the French scenery, mournful in a heavy rain, from the side of a dinky box-car suitable for "40 men or 8 horses."

No more realistic or humorous scenes have been filmed in pictures than those in this side-splitting comedy of life in the belated A.E.F. which Paramount has contributed to the cause of keeping alive the laughter of the doughboys—and all others.

They Meet French Mud.

Beery and Hatton descend in the mud—and it's real French mud, the kind that slips, and sticks, an bogs down. And no sooner do they get off the train than they are assigned to carry the captain's trunk up to his lodgings in the French village.

Life in a small French town wasn't exciting, but it did have diverting moments—such as a sudden inspection by visiting officers. Hatton and Beery out for dress parade is one of the comedy riots of the year. Who hasn't—like Hatton—had a spiral puttee slip and come unwound just at the moment when he couldn't possibly bend over to fix it? Who hasn't found a vital article of his equipment at the fatal moment? That is, who hasn't, if he was in the A.E.F.?

Soldiers Are Street-Cleaners.

Possibly one of the biggest laughs of the picture is the scene where Beery and Hatton are assigned to clean up a street in a French village. That was some job, as any one knows. They got it done—just as a regiment of cavalry came along!

Of course, it didn't take a bungling pair like Beery, the former detective, or Hatton, the ex-burglar—vamped into joining the army by beautiful Mary Brian, who was trying to enlist enough men to be allowed to go to France as a war worker—very long to get themselves into the guardhouse.

But at that moment Beery found Hatton a very handy man, for he soon picked the lock and they found their way to freedom, and into a French buvette. That was where the fun began, for they both of them became a little too enthusiastic in the way the ordered vin rouge and vin "blink," and, presto! all by accident they woke up with something of a hangover to find themselves no longer with the S.O.S. in rear, but right up at the front.

"Behind the Front" is a ripping comedy, which will be doubly enjoyed by ex-soldiers. It was adapted by Monty Brice from Hugh Wiley's "Saturday Evening Post" story, "The Spoils of War," and will be shown at the Capitol starting tomorrow.

GREAT FILM SPECTACLE, "THE JOHNSTOWN FLOOD," HERE TOMORROW (THURSDAY)

Mighty Photodrama, Based on the Terrible Catastrophe of 1889, Is Acclaimed As Remarkable Screen Masterpiece—Cast Is Distinguished One.

Regarded by all, by reason of its greatness and originality, as one of the most powerful film spectacles yet produced, Fox Films picturization of "The Johnstown Flood," ranked with the greatest disasters of the world, comes to local picture devotees to-morrow as the feature attraction of the Regent Theatre.

"The Johnstown Flood," filmed under the direction of Irving Cummings, is rich with dramatic value and swift action. It has, as a background, the events attending the awful calamity of 1889 when on May 31, the dam a few miles above Johnstown, Penn., holding an overloaded capacity of water caused by torrential rains, gave way and the unleashed water swept the entire Conemaugh Valley, carrying cities and human beings to destruction.

George O'Brien heads the large cast of film stars who are seen in the strong dramatic roles of the production. Florence Gilbert, charming heroine of the popular Van Bibber stories, serves as a foil for the athletic star. Janet Gaynor, new screen sensation and 1926 Wampas Baby Star, is seen in a feature role with Anders Randolf, Paul Nicholson, Paul Panzer, Walter Perry and Georgie Harris in the chief supporting roles.

The count is two balls and two strikes on the hitter, when the team at bat discovers he is the improper batsman. What can be done about it?

It is always possible to correct a batting-out-of-order situation if the mistake is discovered before the batsman has been retired or becomes a baserunner.

When the team at bat realizes the man hitting is the improper batsman it has the right to remove him and substitute the proper player.

In such a situation the proper batsman simply takes the count that was on the improper hitter. In this case it was two balls and two strikes.

The only penalty of the proper batter is that he takes the handicap of balls and strikes placed upon him by the improper hitter.

BILLY EVANS SAYS

MURDERER'S ROW.

Murderer's Row was a rather appropriate name given to four or five sluggers on the New York Americans a few years back.

American League pitchers certainly regarded them in that light as one after another of these much-feared sluggers faced them.

The passing of Wally Pipp, and the slump experienced by Ruth and Ward, caused the title to be abandoned last season. The old punch was missing.

Looks as if it would be revived again this year from the way the Yankees are hitting the ball.

Ruth is doing a comeback, while Lazzeri and Koenig have been added to the combination. These three, plus Lou Gehrig and Bob Meusel, provide some thing for a pitcher to worry about.

RUDE RECEPTION

Nine runs and nine hits in one inning is an experience entirely new to the great Dazzy Vance, star pitcher of the National League.

The speed ball king was treated to such a happening in one of the spring games between the Yankees and the Dodgers.

Seven of the hits were singles, two were doubles and one error was mixed in for a total of nine runs.

Never in all his career has Vance been so rudely handled in a single session and it is doubtful if it ever happens again.

NO-HIT GAME

Most of the star pitchers of the majors have at some time during their career turned in a no-hit game. Grover Alexander is one of the few exceptions.

Walter Johnson has one to his credit and on another occasion held the St. Louis Browns hitless for seven innings, only to have rain end the game and spoil his chance of adding another hitless affair to his record.

On one occasion Alexander had two strikes on the batter and two out in the ninth, only to have him scratch a hit, a pop fly back of second, to spoil the big chance.

Now that the ball has been toned down a bit, Alex has hopes.

MOST VALUABLE

Received a query the other day as to whom I regarded as the best southpaw in the American League.

While there are several left-handers in the American League who have more stuff than Herbie Pennock, to my way of thinking he is the most valuable.

Pennock has a good assortment of stuff, a particularly good curve, fine control and a world of courage.

In addition, he has perfect poise, which means nothing bothers him: no situation is too difficult for him to tackle and, when hardest pressed, he seemingly does his best work.

Yes sir! Herb Pennock could pitch on my big league ball club if I owned one.

PROMISING ROOKIE

Of the young pitchers I saw in the south, none impressed me more than Elmer "Dutch" Levsen of the Cleveland club.

Levsen is a right-hander who, aside from having good speed, boasts a mighty fine curve ball.

Last season he was with George Stallings at Rochester in the International League. Stallings has a habit of developing good pitchers. He says Levsen is one of the best that ever worked under him.

If Levsen is able to win for Cleveland the Indians' hopes of finishing better than sixth, last year's position, will have been given quite a boost.

TWELVE TEAMS ENTER LEAGUE

Five Entries For Bantam Series of City Baseball League.

ONLY TWO JUNIORS.

There was a very good attendance at the City League meeting last night, held at the Chamber of Commerce, and plenty of enthusiasm was evidenced. Many points were discussed, among them being ground facilities, the adoption of the Spalding ball and the question of entrance fees, etc. It was decided that teams in the Junior, Juvenile and Midget series pay an entry fee of $5, but clubs could enter other teams in the different series with the initial fee being charged.

Certificates were distributed and same are to be handed to the secretary, with birth certificates and entrance fee, not later than Friday, May 21. It is intended that the first games will be scheduled for May 24th.

There were plenty of entrants in the Juvenile and Bantam series, but it is hoped that more teams for the Junior and Midget will express their intention of entering the League. This must be done before Tuesday, May 18th. Certificates can be secured from the secretary.

East City and the Peterborough Canoe Co. were the only representatives for the Junior series, but it was mentioned that another team would come forth to furnish plenty of opposition. There is certainly no doubt that there is no lack of material.

At present the Kiwanis, Orioles, and Rotary comprise the Juvenile series. There will be at least five teams in the Bantam, the Royals, Seals, Kiwanis, Colts and a team from East City. So far the Royals and Kiwanis are the entrants in the Midget series.

After a discussion of protest fees, which will be $5.00 if protest is not sustained, and other topics, the meeting was adjourned.

MOVIGRAPHS

HOLLYWOOD, May 10.—With tragic vividness and powerful emotional appeal, H. B. Warner has brought to the screen the role which he developed in the stage play "Silence." No vestige of dramatic force has been lost in the DeMille production, under direction of Rupert Julian.

The story, necessarily elaborated, has been remarkably direct and fluent. And Warner's characterization of "Gentleman Jim," the crook who was moved by so many conflicting mean and magnificent impulses to the verge of the gallows, will delight the critical as well as the usual movie patron.

As a portrait, in its measure of acting and for genuine absorption in the role, Warner's performance stands second to none in the current films. It tugs irresistibly at the heart.

Stoicism.

Done somewhat in the mood of "Alias Jimmy Valentine," which Warner also played, "Silence" is the story of a man whose misdeeds prevented marriage to the girl he loved, and who, to save his daughter by this woman from disgrace when she herself is about to be married, elects to maintain a fatal silence.

The daughter, played by Vera Reynolds (who also capably plays the earlier role of the mother) shoots an underworld character who threatens blackmail and exposure of her mother. "Gentleman Jim" assumes the guilt and is saved from his sacrifice after he has mounted the gibbet.

Tenderness.

In the contrasting scenes of terror at "Jim's" impending execution and the tender passages of the man with his daughter, Warner displays the wide range of his abilities.

Raymond Hatton contributes an outstanding role as a petty crook and a striking scene when he is baffled of blackmail.

Virginia Pearson gives a surprise performance as a brazen amazon, who rules her political ward from a saloon—excellent, indeed, and certain to create much comment.

"Silence," which rises far above the ordinary crook belodrama, is also notable for its unflagging suspense and swift development, and, by no means least, its excellent camera work, comparable in spots with the best German technique.

Grover Cleveland Alexander, the star twirler of the Chicago Cubs, has won 315 of the 564 games he has pitched since he entered the major leagues in 1911.

LOCAL CRICKETERS BEAT GROVE SCHOOL

Opening Game of Season Produces Some Good Cricket.

The local cricket club opened its season with a match with the Lakefield School at the Exhibition Grounds on Saturday afternoon, winnings handily by 28 runs. The Peterborough team batted first, opening with Stuart and Thorpe, and runs came steadily until the total reached 39 before Stuart was bowled by Young for a well played 18. The next four wickets fell for the addition of only nine runs. Thorpe was seventh out for 29 runs to his credit. Monkman and Elliot made a stand for the eighth wicket, the final score reaching 73. Peck, quite a youngster, bowled extremely well, clean bowling five of the Peterborough players and taking 6 wickets in all for 16 runs.

The Lakefield batsmen could not score very quickly against the good bowling of F. Dyer. The only batsmen to give the bowlers any trouble were Loosemore and Peck. The former playing very careful cricket for 23. F. Dyer took 7 wickets for 15 runs.

Next Saturday the Peterborough team plays the Trinity College School at Port Hope. All members and those wishing to join the club are requested to be out to practice on Friday evening from 6 to 8.

Mr. Ferguson Holds Up High Standard of Citizenship.

WELL RECEIVED.

LONDON, Ont., May 12. Canadian Press. — Before the Anglican Synod of Huron and many visitors in Cronyn Hall last night, Hon. Howard Ferguson, Premier of Ontario, delivered an address in which he held up a high standard of public service as the most praiseworthy ideal of citizenship, and in the words of the Lord Bishop of Huron, 'presented a wonderful vision of the way in which the church can co-operate."

The Prime Minister (who remarked with humor that he was not often invited to address a church gathering) spoke for about an hour, chiefly upon certain aspects of Canadian citizenship.

He was given a magnificent reception. Large numbers of the delegates were presented to him when the meeting concluded.

IN POLICE COURT

The case against R. J. Eyers, who last week pleaded not guilty to a charge of selling liquor contrary to the provisions of the Ontario Temperance Act, and who was remanded until this morning was dismissed, and a new charge substituted. J. A. O'Brien appeared for the accused and Joseph Wearing represented the Crown. He will now be tried on a charge of brewing beer without a permit from the Department of Inland Revenue. When this charge was read out, Joseph Wearing, who was to have prosecuted if the charge had been laid under the O.T.A., left the court, saying that he was not the prosecutor for the Department of Inland Revenue. Crown Attorney G. W. Hatton appeared on the scene, and at the request of Mr. O'Brien, counsel for the accused, the hearing was postponed for one week to enable him to investigate the new charge.

On condition that the accused make restitution to the amount of $20.30, pay the court costs amounting to $10, and furnish a bond of two sufficient sureties of $200 each, the man who yesterday pleaded guilty to a charge of stealing a quantity of sheet lead from the Canadian Woollens was allowed to go on suspended sentence.

F. D. Kerr, K.C., made a strong plea for mercy on account of the man's wife and family. Mr. Kerr stated that he was acting without fee in the matter and produced a letter from the superintendent of the Auburn Woollen Mills and another from a foreman employed in the Bonner-Worth plant, testifying to the previous character of the accused. He submitted that the case was of the nature that warranted the Crown venturing a suspended sentence.

Charged with procuring drugs and giving them to a girl, a local man was allowed to go on suspended sentence on condition that he pay the cost of the proceedings, pay the sum of $150 to the Salvation Army authorities for the care of the girl, under whose care she will be, and, in addition, furnish one surety for his good behaviour.

Pleading guilty to a charge of vagrancy, a woman was remanded for one week in order that her case might be investigated.

SPEARING FISH.
A visitor in the city to-day stated he feared there was a great deal of illegal fishing going on between Rice Lake and Hastings. Possibly on their next attempt those out of season fishermen might not be so lucky in getting away with their catch.

LUTHER CABINET RESIGNS OFFICE

Action Follows Vote of Non-Confidence From Reichstag.

ON FLAG INCIDENT.

BERLIN, May 12 (Canadian Press).—The German Reichstag today adopted a non-confidence motion against Chancellor Luther, introduced by the Democrats, by a vote of 176 to 146. The Cabinet resigned later.

The Parliamentary situation reached a critical stage by reason of a midnight caucus by the Democrats, who adopted a resolution that further co-operation with Chancellor Luther was impossible because of his procedure in the flag issue. With the exception of Dr. Gessler, Minister of Finance, the Democrats will withdraw their Ministers from the Cabinet to-day, it is announced in protest against the Chancellor's failure to withdraw his flag order. The Democrats' defection will force the Centrists to follow suit which would make Dr. Luther's continuance in office impossible. The Government insisted in the face of a hostile Reichstag that the merchant flag containing the old Monarchist colors should be flown over Embassies abroad in addition to the flag of the Republic.

ESCAPED LUNATIC IS FOUND HANGED

Search Party Discovers Remains Near His Home.

ORANGEVILLE, May 12 (Canadian Press)—Hanging by a rope from a tree the lifeless body of Samuel Bonner, declared to be insane, was discovered by searchers yesterday in a bush about three miles south of his former home at Lisle, in Mulmur township. Twice before Bonner had been confined in private hospitals for treatment of mental trouble. Both times he escaped and returned home. A month ago, while being brought here Bonner repeatedly stated that rather than be committed to an asylum he would commit suicide.

No inquest will be held.

CUSTOMS AGENTS SEIZE U. S. SHIRTS

Claim Non-Payment of Duty on Prison Made Goods.

WINNIPEG, May 12 (Canadian Press). — Investigations conducted locally during the past ten days by secret service agents of the Federal Department of Customs have resulted in the seizure of large quantities of shirts alleged to have been made in United States prisons. The agents claim that no duty was paid on these shipments. The shirts, which are said to have been stored in a number of distributing plants in Winnipeg, are being held pending instructions from Ottawa. The value of the seizure has not been revealed.

Absolutely Unconditional

LONDON, May 12 (Canadian Press)—It is authoritatively stated that the termination of the strike was absolutely unconditional. It is understood neither the miners' attitude nor the effect on the miners' strike was mentioned in the thirty minute interview between the general council of the Trades' Union Congress and the cabinet in Downing street.

Small Advance In Wheat Is Soon Wiped Out Again

CHICAGO, May 12 (Canadian Press).—An advance of only 1-4c to 1-2c a bushel in wheat followed today's announcement of the settlement of the British strike. Even that small gain was soon more than wiped out by selling to realize profits. Uncertainty over the outcome of May wheat dealings here was a restraining influence. The fact that the Liverpool wheat market gave no evidence that the calling off of the general strike had resulted in any immediate large demand was disappointing to those traders here who were optimistic as to a sharp advance. The continuance of the British coal strike was suggested in some quarters as the reason for the relative apathy shown by the action of the Liverpool market. Besides, a forecast of enlarged shipments of Argentine wheat to Europe was current.

Prices Move Up On News From England—Volume Large

TORONTO, May 12 (Canadian Press). — The settlement of the British general strike was responsible for a strong upturn and a great increase in volume of trading on the Toronto Stock Exchange this morning, in strong contrast to the dull sessions of the past week or so. Brazilian, the dominating stock of the market, was sold up to a high of 92 3-4. The noon close at 91 7-8 was an advance of 7-8. Consolidated Smelters reached 195 but likewise receded to just a half point above yesterday's close at 191. Atlantic sugar advanced 1 1-2 at 23. Bell Telephone 1-2 at 132, Canada Bread 1-4 at 65 3-4, and Noranda Mines 16 cents at 15.80. International Nickel lost 1-8 at 33 3-4.

Gains Follow Strike News But Reaction Soon Follows

NEW YORK, May 12. — (Canadian Press.)—Inspired by the termination of the British general strike, opening gains ranged from 1 to 5 points on the stock exchange to-day. But these were materially reduced or cancelled before noon with the market displaying considerable irregularity late in the day. Total sales up to 1 p.m. fell below 750,000 shares.

Persistent selling of motors reflected the growing speculative belief that the industry could not maintain the high record of sales in the first four months of the year. New 1926 low prices were established by Dodge Bros. Reports of a slump in the building industry in certain sections of the country probably accounted for the weakness of International Cement, which dropped 1 3-4 to a new low at 55 1-4. Baldwin dropped 3 1-2. The lowering of the call money rate to 3 1-2 per cent. in the early afternoon checked selling in some quarters.

NEW YORK SUMMARY.

British general strike called off. President Coolidge signs Agriculture Appropriation Bill carrying $127,924,573. Watson-Parkerhill Bill abolishing R. R. Labor Board passed by Senate. American Smelting and Refining reduced price of lead ten points to 7.75. Tenn. Copper and Chem. declared regular quarterly dividend of 25 cents. Car loadings week ending May 1 totalled 995,641, against 973,304 preceding week and 984,073 same week last year. Pan. American Western Petroleum and subs quarter ending March 31 net profit after expenses, interest, etc., but before depletion and depreciation 8810,036.

Demand sterling 4.85 13-16, francs 314, lire 397 3-4, new low for the year.

Quebec District.

NORANDA—Are still operating three machines underground, two on the 100 ft. level and one on the 300 ft. level. The 5-compartment shaft, which is being raised on the 300 ft. level to connect with the No. 2 shaft, some 400 ft. north of present No. 1 working shaft, is up 35 ft. above the 300 ft. level. Diamond drilling is being carried on, on the 300 ft. level, bounding known ore lenses and exploring for others. There will be no serious attempt made at mining on a larger scale until the railway arrives, when supplies can be landed at a resonable cost. The plans for the coming summer call for an extensive diamond drilling campaign and the completion of the 5-compartment shaft to the 300 ft. level, with preparations and probably a start made for sinking to lower levels. From what is at present known of orebodies down to the 300 ft. level, it is apparent that the "Glory Hole" method of mining will be adopted, at least to that level. This, of course, will make mining costs very low.

AMULET—A short crosscut was driven from the shaft in No. 3 area at a depth of 75 feet, and two machines are at work drifting on ore. The program for the Summer consists of extensive diamond drilling, development of ore from shaft in No. 3 area, and the possible sinking of a second shaft in No. 2 area.

This property will not advance rapidly until the railroad has arrived. Cost of supplies is far too high when brought in over present routes. Amulet displays the general sentiment prevailing in Northern Quebec, i.e. waiting for the rail. Intensive development can be looked for at that time.

General Note On Quebec.

The situation in Quebec at present is in general one of intensive expectation as to results which will be obtained during the next few months by surface stripping, trenching and diamond drilling. We look for great activity along this line and also in the acquiring of properties having merit. There will undoubtedly be numerous discoveries made when the snow goes and surface exploration work will be rushed in order to prove or disprove ground before the snow comes again. Interested parties are anxious to make showings this summer that will warrant the start of mining operations next Fall when the railroad comes in. Recent discoveries made during the winter under most difficult conditions cause us to believe that the summer's work will show many valuable finds being made. Arrangements have been made for an aeroplane service from Haileybury to Rouyn, to go into effect as soon as the ice is out of the lakes.

Red Lake.

Early reports which have been circulated as to the results of the first diamond drilling on Dome holdings must be discredited, as no information is available up to date. The drills are operating and a few weeks should give some results. We have every reason to believe that these results will be favorable and on the strength of them we look for intense activity in Red Lake.

Syndicates will be starting work as soon as the route in is navigable. One of the first which we likely be in operation is the Cockeram Syndicate, which has splendidly located ground adjoining Red Lake Prospectors. The latter propetty is under option to Dome and is highly thought of.

The Noranda, Coniagas and Nipissing Mines are now arranging for supplies to go in at the first opportunity, and will push exploration work rapidly. The Dunlop Syndicate, which is extremely well located as to geology and strike of main ore zone, will energetically prospect their ground. Their Syndicate is backed by thoroughly reliable people from whom we can look for a real honest effort to develop their property rapidly and intelligently. Red Lake Metals have well located ground on the main strike. This property also is in excellent hands and we look for important results from the work which they will do.

There will likely be many Red Lake issues put on the market when good news comes out on Dome and McIntyre work. Such issues will require careful scrutiny, particularly as Red Lake has had such wide advertising throughout America.

General Upturn In Mines With Teck Hughes Leading

TORONTO, May 12. Canadian Press. Press. — A general upturn in prices with increased trading ensued on the Standard mining exchange this morning, following the announcement of the strike settlement. Teck Hughes gained 7 at 338 and Kirkland Lake, advanced 4 at 110, and were noticeably strong stocks. Argonaut firmed at 1 7-8 at 25; Tough Oakes 1 at 43, McIntyre 5 at 25.25, and Noranda 15 at 15.85. La Rose coming into demand improved 2 7-8 at 14 7-8, and Castle Tretheway gained four at 141.

Senator Introduces Bill Aimed at Revolvers—Referred To Committee.

OTTAWA, May 12 (Canadian Press)—Senator Belcourt introduced a bill in the Senate yesterday to amend the criminal code respecting the possession of weapons. He pointed out that the crime wave was due, in a great measure, to the freedom with which a revolver could be obtained. There was an almost universal demand for restrictive measures dealing with the possession of fire arms. He proposed to amend the criminal code to prohibit the importation, manufacture, and sale of revolvers and similar weapons, except under government authorization and supervision. The bill received its second reading and was referred to a committee.

SPANISH AIRMEN COMPLETE FLIGHT

Expected To Reach Manila This Afternoon.

APARRI, Island of Luzon, P. I., May 12. — Captains Loriga and Gallarza, Spanish aviators flying from Madrid to Manilla, landed here at 2.20 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

Flying from Macao, China, the airmen were first sighted at 2.15.

Great Reception.

Hailing the aviators as pioneers of an international air mail, Director Topacio, of the Philippines postal service, congratulated them and asked them to transport mail to Manilo on their next hop.

Tentative plans of the aviators contemplate departure from here for Manila to-day.

Bands Paraded.

Town bands paraded the streets here long before the fliers arrived. Flags were everywhere. Hundreds gathered along the beach and cheered the appearance of the plane on the northwest horizon.

Twelve Spanish women sang the Balmoris hymn.

Big Banquet.

A banquet was arranged for the airmen last night. Two hundred Spanish residents raised $3000 for the entertainment.

At Camp Nichols, Manila, 60 beautiful girls 20 of them Spanish, 20 Filipinos and 20 Americans, plan to receive the aviators. All will be dressed in the Spanish national costume. Three hundred voices will join in the Te Deum at the Cathedral.

The funeral took place yesterday morning at the Church of the Immaculate Conception, of the late Mr. Maurice O'Heron, who passed away on Saturday afternoon, May 8th, at St. Joseph's Hospital, after a brief illness. The deceased was in his 70th year, was a faithful member of the Church of the Immaculate Conception and Holy Name Society.

Mr. O'Heron had spent his life in this vicinity, and was a trusted and faithful employee of the Auburn Mills, later Canadian Woollens, Ltd., for over fifty-three years, and was one of Peterboro's most honored and respected citizens.

Faithful to the last, Mr. O'Heron was at his post up to the time of his illness, and left with his intimates and fellow-workmen, sunny and happy memories in which premonition of death or separation had no part.

It was Mr. O'Heron's privilege to lead a life unselfishly useful and to enjoy relations with personal associations as well as with countless acquaintances at once so honorable, cordial and generous.

The community has lost a life that has ever been a fitting example of faithful service, and the family a loving husband and father.

There are left to mourn his loss, one son, Herbert of this city, Misses Daisy and Madeline at home, Mrs. Geo. Hynes, Mrs. Stephen O'Connor, Mrs. Fred Lajoie, all of this city, and Mrs. Fred Derocher of St. Catharines; one sister, Mrs. Dan. Hennessy, of this city.

Requiem Mass was celebrated by Rev. Monsignor McColl. In the sanctuary were the Rev. Fathers McGuire, Guiry, Butler. Interment took place in St. Peter's Cemetery, at which Father Guiry officiated.

The pall-bearers were Messrs. Harry Thompson, Ed. Vinette, W. Leahy, C. Theobald, T. Tobin and W. Perdue. Many old friends and acquaintances gathered to pay their last tribute of respect.

MINERS REJECTED PEACE TERMS ACCEPTED BY TRADES CONGRESS; HOLDING CONFERENCE ON FRIDAY

Coal Strike May Continue Indefintely, A. J. Cook Comments on Situation.

LEADER DEPRESSED.

Re-engagement of Men in Various Trades a Consequent Problem.

LONDON, May 13 (Canadian Press). — The decision to call off the general strike was made without consulting the Miners' Federation, A. J. Cook, secretary of that organization, declared last night; the miners were not party to it in any shape or form.

"The Trades Union Congress decision has nothing to do with us," said Mr. Cook. "Our men will have to decide what to do in the light of circumstances. Our stoppage may continue for an indefinite period."

When the proposals of Sir Herbert L. Samuel were submitted to the miners early Wednesday morning the miners rejected them. Nevertheless, the Trades Union Congress used them as a basis for its later action in calling off the strike.

Cook yesterday declared with emphasis that only the miners themselves, through their accredited delegates, can send the men back to work in the coal mines on the terms suggested, and that decision on this point will not be reached until the delegates consider the full report at their conference on Friday.

Cook Is Depressed.

Whether Cook will have the courage to arraign the whole Trades Union Council on this issue, is still uncertain, but it is evident that he is nervous and depressed over the situation, and that the whole miners' organization regard the outlook gloomily. Cook's expressed fear that the miners' case will be submerged in the issues arising from the general strike, has come true.

Full of Fight.

The miners, however, are still full of fight, and are thinking along new lines for the reorganizing of the coal industry and the prevention of the threatened reduction in wages and the lengthening of working hours.

Private Mediation.

Great Britain's gigantic industrial strike, a test of endurance which lasted nine days, is ended. The general council of the Trades Union Conference, heeding the efforts of Sir Herbert Samuel, chairman of the Royal Coal Commission, as private mediator, yesterday withdrew its order for a sympathetic strike of the trades unions in support of the coal miners.

The coal miners remain out, but with the assurance of Premier Baldwin that no stone will be left unturned to bring the interrupted negotiations between the miners and mine owners to a conclusion satisfactory to all.

Now the nation, that has borne with good humor and Spartan fortitude the inconveniences and annoyances inevitable to any general stoppage of industry, is preparing to pick up the pieces and count the cost.

Work was being slowly resumed throughout the country last night. There are still many differences to

WORKERS SOLD AND BETRAYED SAYS ZINOVIEV

General Strike Was Dress Rehearsal of Future Great Fights.

DENOUNCES THOMAS.

Tragedy Will Strengthen Revolutionaries To Break With Corpse of Past.

MOSCOW, May 13 (United Press)—"The British workers have been sold and betrayed," Gregory Zinoviev, secretary of the Third Internationale, told newspapermen here today, commenting on the collapse of the general strike.

J. H. Thomas, Ramsay MacDonald, and Arthur Henderson, all moderates in the Labor group, were condemned by Zinovieve as the betrayers of labor. He declared, however, that the strike would play a gigantic role in his dubbing it the "dress rehearsal of future great fights."

Karl Radek, the Communist writer, ascribed the end of the strike to "unexampled treachery" on the part of the Conservative trade unionists. "The new treachery of Thomas," he said, "will create a deep crisis in the British workers movement. This crisis will end with the creation of a mass communist party in England.

"This tragedy will strengthen the revolutionary nucleus in the English proletariat, which can convince the masses that it is necessary to break quickly and decisively with the corpse of the past which poisons the live fighting organism of the British proletariate."

"Greatest Treason"

MOSCOW, May 13 (Canadian Press)—"News that the British Trades Union Congress has ordered the end of the general strike will hit the International Proletariat with the force of thunder," writes Karl Radek, leading Russian journalist, in today's Pravada. Declaring the English proletariats' fight has been 'our fight as well as that of the world's proletariat,' Radek says "Let us face the truth squarely. The English workmen's defeat is the result of the world's greatest treason."

The Pravada says in an editorial, "Even the blind can now see that the refusal by the Trades Union Congress to accept brotherly Russian aid was a prelude to capitulation."

Body Of Lindsay Woman Is Taken From Scugog River

LINDSAY, May 13.—The body of Mrs. John Lake was recovered from the river Scugog yesterday afternoon shortly after three o'clock by Mr. F. Barnett. It was found about ten rods from the spot where her hat and coat was found by Chief of Police Umphrey. Coroner Dr. Logan, after investigating the circumstances, decided that an inquest was unnecessary.

Persons saw the unfortunate woman walking up and down the C.P.R. tracks during the morning as if she was in distress. Her hat and coat was found on the pier near where the C.P.R. line passes under the C.N.R. bridge.

KNOX MEMBERS BURN MORTGAGE

Manse Is Now Free From Encumbrance—Joyful Ceremony.

GOOD PROGRAMME.

The school-room attached to Knox United Church was well filled last evening by a crowd of sympathisers who had foregathered to witness, what to them was a very interesting piece of ritual, viz., the burning of the mortgage on the official minister's abode. The house, it appears, had been purchased some few years ago partly for cash, the balance remaining on mortgage. And as this legal mill-stone around the necks of the attendants at Knox has been removed, joy and happiness seemed to be the keynotes of the meeting in question.

Naturally Mr. McKinnon, the minister, was the chairman of the evening, and he opened the proceedings in a humorous manner—indeed good humor seemed to be the order of the day, or rather evening. In fact two of the songs on the programme were topical, as regards the Ladies' Aid, viz., "How do ye do?" and "The Ladies' Aiders," which were written by two of the prominent members of the management.

The following is the programme offered:

"O Canada," All sing.
Chairman's opening remarks.
Men's chorus—"How d'you do."
Piano duet—Tom and Bob Allen.
Solo—Mrs. Ross Williamson.
Men's chorus—"The Ladies' Aiders."
Solo—Mr. William Thompson.
Piano duet—Jean and Marion McCannan.
Historical sketch—J. T. Morrison
Song—Mr. Sydney Willis.
Violin solo—Mr. Robertson.
Speech—Mr. John Byers.
Piano solo—Mrs. McKinnon.
Speech—H. J. McCannan.
Recitation—Jack Allin.
Burning of Mortgage.
Doxology.
Eats.
Finale—"Blessed be the tie that binds."
God Save the King.

Taken on the whole the programme was excellently given. More especially may credit be given to the Misses Jean and Marion McCannan, Mrs. Ross Williamson, Mrs. McKinnon, Mr. Robertson (who was accompanied by Miss Buchanan), and the pianoforte duet by two small boys, really excellent.

ALDERMEN PICK FIREMEN'S SUITS

Tenders For Overcoats, Suits, and Shirts Are Accepted By Committees.

Three committees of the City Council held meetings last night.

First on the programme was the manufacturers committee which considered ways and means of getting in touch with possible industries for the city.

The Parks committee came next and left the matter of fixing the stand in Victoria park and of obtaining prices on the bathing house in Inverlea park and the memorial gates at Jackson park to the chairman.

The Fire, Water, and Light Committee decided on letting the contracts for the firemen's uniforms and overcoats. The samples submitted were gone over and price and wearing qualities carefully considered. The Cressman Company was given the order for the suits and for the shirts, while the Grafton Company was the successful bidder for the overcoats.

ANIMALS ARE FOUND CROWDED INTO PITCH DARK BARE STABLE

Seven Cows, Five Horses and a Calf Found in Ramshackle Building.

NO FOOD FOUND.

Animals Forced To Sleep on Bare Floors—Owner Often Warned.

Seven cows, five horses, and one calf, all crowded into a ramschackle building into which it is doubtful if the light of day ever penetrates, not a vestige of anything in the nature of feed for the animals to be found, and just the bare floors for them to sleep upon, were some of the conditions uncovered by Sanitary Inspector C. S. Stapleton on one of his official visits to some premises located in the northwest portion of the city and situated well within the city boundary line. Upon opening a small door, and after waiting a few minutes until his eyes had become accustomed to the gloomy interior, Mr. Stapleton discovered a dog which fortunately proved to be quiet, the animal simply lying on the floor and paying no attention to him. In one compartment of the building Mr. Stapleton found three cows and one horse; in another he found one cow, one calf, and one horse; while in another he found three cows and two horses. Another horse was discovered standing in an alley way leading from one compartment to the other, the place where it was, being so dark that the inspector bumped against the animal before he realized its presence. The animals were all in a forlorn condition, Mr. Stapleton said, some of them looking pitifully thin, apparently due to the lack of proper feed. He said that this was the third occasion on which he had inspected the premises and despite his warnings to the occupant to have the premises cleaned out, today's visit showed very little, if any, improvement. As the occupant of the premises was not at home at the time, Mr. Stapleton was unable to interview him.

"Some of these animals never see the light of day," Mr. Stapleton said, "and furthermore," he added, "this man has been in the habit of keeping his stock in this manner."

NO BLOODSHED.

LONDON, May 13 (Canadian Press).—The last authentic news of the Polish military revolt received in London declared that President Wojciechowski, with the idea of preserving peace, had offered to relinquish the presidency in favor of Marshal Joseph Pilsudski, head of the disaffected troops. The offer was refused after consideration by Pilsudski's followers including the Leftists or Radicals. The present situation in the Polish capital is not clear owing to the interruption of wire communications which, according to last accounts, were in the hands of the Government and guarded by loyal troops.

PREMIER ANNOUNCES INTENTION TO GO TO PROVINCE ONLY WHEN HE THINKS RIGHT TIME HAS COME

Mr. Ferguson Asks Western Conservatives To Trust His Judgment.

NO LIQUOR POLICY.

Makes No Direct Reference To Ontario Temperance Act.

LONDON, May 13 (Canadian Press).—Premier Howard Ferguson of Ontario did not add to the burden of a two-days' round of addresses in London the task of announcing an early election or policy when he addressed the members of the Western Ontario Liberal-Conservative Association here last night.

After reviewing the record of his government at great length, the Premier referred briefly to rumors of an impending election in the following words:

great leaders of the past, MacDonald, Whitney, and others, and

"This Government has upward of a year to complete its full term but nevertheless, as we live under British institutions, it is the privilege of the Government to go to the Lieutenant Governor at any time it thinks the people of the country sould be consulted, and ask for dissolution. And that is the proceeding I am going to follow. When you trust me to lead the party under the government, you must accept my judgment as to the time that seems best to go to the country.

"I have read the history of the that is the policy those leaders adopted. The people trusted them and in the same manner I must ask you to trust me."

The Premier's announcement was received with mixed laughter and applause, but with no manifestation of dissatisfaction. The statement eliminates the prospect of a general election next month as had been predicted in some quarters. Following the breaking up of the meeting the opinion was heard that the impending appeal to the country would come in October.

No direct reference was made by the Premier to the Ontario Temperance Act or to any possible change in the Government's liquor policy.

The Premier dealt with the election rumor at the close of his address, which was heard by seven or eight hundred persons, in the Masonic Temple, at a banquet given by the Conservative Association in his honor.

Mrs. Ferguson was also present and both the Premier and his wife were the recipients of gifts, the Premier of a set of silver candlesticks from the Western Ontario Association and Mrs. Ferguson of a basket of beautiful roses from the ladies of the Conservative party. The banquet wound up the meeting of the Western Ontario Conservative Association here yesterday, and it was said that every riding in Western Ontario was represented. Andrew Ingram, of St. Thomas, President of the Association, presided, and besides the Premier the gathering was addressed by Hon. John S. Martin, Minister of Agriculture; E. B. Wigle, M.L.A. for Centre Huron, made the presentation to the Premier on behalf of the Association.

Addressing the conference of Western Ontario Liberal Conservatives in the afternoon the Premier declared that he saw ahead no rock upon which the party was likely to founder nor any pitfall which was likely to cause it difficulty.

Pride in the record of government up to the present time, the Prime Minister said, impelled him to assure the return of the government when it should appeal to the people, in so far as such assurance lay within his power. The membership which had entrusted him with the leadership, accordingly should trust to his judgment for the opportune time for holding a general election.

Mr. Ferguson took the delegates briefly but comprehensively into his confidence with regard to the responsibilities which he conceived to be attached to his position as party leader.

"While I may have made up my mind as to what would be the best course to take," he said, "or while I may be pressed from one group or one section to take a certain course upon an issue or upon a variety of issues, I have to take that course and plot it upon the map of the province of Ontario and see if it will carry through the province as a whole. To follow a course which appeals to only one section would be only to wreck the Conservative party."

With reference to the expectation that he would make an election announcement, the Prime Minister declared that he was going to have an election when he felt sure that the Conservative party would go back into power with a majority of 75 in the house.

The Prime Minister's statement of the Government's position carried the full concurrence of the gathering of Western Ontario members and party executives.

GERMAN ENTRY TO LEAGUE SURE

Re-organization Commission Issues Warning To Spain and Brazil.

ASSEMBLY SUPREME.

GENEVA, May 13. Canadian Press. — German admission to the League of Nations in September, is a practical certainty.

The council reorganization commission yesterday approved the assembly's supremacy over the council and a warning was given to Spain and Brazil, who prevented the German entrance before, that if they threaten to veto again, the assembly would adopt the suggestion advanced by Little Albania in March, and re-elect all the non-permanent members of the council for the new members to take their seats at once.

The Brazilian delegate, Senor Montorroyas, who is substituting for Afrance Mellofranco, protested vainly but Spain's spokesman was silent. Neither voted.

BRITAIN'S LOSS IN STRIKE SET AT $125,000,000

Board of Trade Official Makes Conservative Estimate For Press.

HOTELS HIT.

Better Class Accommodation Unused When Tourists Go To Continent.

LONDON, May 13 (United Press)—The cost of Great Britain's general strike was estimated today for the United Press as $125,000,000.

A board of trade official made the estimate, which is admittedly conservative.

It does not include the cost of the coal stoppage which is now in its thirteenth day. The estimate was computed on three bases, which exclude other sources of cost.

1—Internal and foreign trade loss $9,000,000.

2—Labors wage loss $10,000,000.

3—Government's loss in customs and mine taxes $5,000,000.

The strike will not affect major taxes such as the income tax and the tax on property this year, it is explained, as they will be levied on last year's estimate. The strike was said not to have been long enough to seriously damage the country but further damage depends on the length of the coal negotiations.

C. B. Bich, manager of the Savoy hotel, told the United Press the strike "did disastrous damage to the first class hotel trade." "Many Americans," he said, "cancelled British hotel reservations and went to the continent.

"We estimate the loss to first class hotels at $5,000,000. For instance of the 486 first class passengers aboard the Leviathan on her last trip only 70 arrived in London, most of the others went to the continent because of the strike."

Seven Intruders Boiled Sap And Carried Off Maple Syrup

LINDSAY, May 13.—Provincial Officer Storey has been investigating a theft at Reaboro during the past few days, and as a result has fastened the offence on seven residents of the vicinity. It appears that the boiling house on Mr. W. I. Reid's sugar bush was entered. Finding no maple syrup on hand, the thieves proceeded to boil down the sap, and afterwards carried away several gallons of the finished product. Damage was also done to the property as well as the apparatus in the boiling house. Four of the accused will be charged with breaking into the house and stealing and the three others with concealing stolen syrup.

Calling Off Strike Was A Fatal Mistake Says Secretary Cook

Labor Regards Developments as Widespread Lockout—Employers Refuse Old Status to Workers Seeking Reinstatement—Dramatic Developments All Over the Country.

EMERGENCY SERVICES CONTINUE AND ARMED MEN STILL GUARD FOOD CONVOYS

Three Railway Unions Order Men To Remain Out Until Employers Give Assurances—'Resist the Humiliating Terms,' Says Trades Union Congress in Statement.

LONDON, May 13 (Canadian Press)—Great Britain's nine day general strike, called off yesterday, switched today to what Labor regarded as a widespread lockout against union men seeking to return to work on the old status by employers. The development came as one of the most dramatic of all those in the disturbed days since the industrial upheaval began. What it amounted to, according to Labor men, was a disposition on the part of employers to smash union influence as far as possible.

Thus the battle which the country last night thought had been settled, continues. But instead of massed fighting which proceeded during the nine days of the general strike, it has developed for the time being into a hand to hand conflict to determine whether organized Labor of the employers shall rule.

Instead of the resumption of normal conditions, an announcement came from the Government that the emergency food services would be maintained. Food convoys, with armed escorts, continued to pour through London today and the scenes of yesterday were repeated throughout the country, with the populace still walking.

A Fatal Mistake.

LONDON, May 13 (Canadian Press).—"The Trades Union Congress made a fatal mistake in calling off the general strike," Secretary A. J. Cook, of the Miners' Federation, said to-day.

"We knew nothing about reasons. There was no weakening of men. We have seen hundreds of telegrams from all parts of the country to the effect that the men refuse to return to work."

Asked whether he thought Sir Herbert Samuel's memorandum furnished a reasonable basis for reopening negotiations for the settlement of the miners' strike, Secretary Cook replied: "Frankly, my opinion is that it furnishes a very good basis. There is much in it that I thoroughly approve, and it contains many points for useful discussion, but I doubt whether the miners will accept it."

Continue Railway Strike.

LONDON, May 13 (Canadian Press). — An official of the Railwaymen's Union to-day asserted that in view of the difficulty surrounding the reinstatement of the strikers, the executives of three of the railway unions have called upon all railwaymen to continue the strike until they received assurances from their employers.

Resist Humiliating Terms.

The trades unions have no alternative but to resist to the utmost "any attempts to impose humiliating terms on the workers." A statement to this effect was issued by the Trades Union Congress to-day, after a special meeting, called to consider the failure of the employers to re-engage workers throughout the country. From many sections of the country reports indicate that strike conditions still prevail to a large extent owing to the failure of union men to return to work for various reasons. In some instances it is stated to be the men's desire to take advantage of the strike to exact better terms of employment, but the main reason for the continued tie-up apparently lies in the fact that workers are resisting attempts by employers to get them to cast off their union affiliations. The authorities to-day predicted that the return to normal conditions would probably be slow.

The Congress statement says: 'Our resisting power is unimpaired. We cannot tolerate the imposition of conditions designed to destroy trades unionism. Peace without vindictiveness is impossible unless the attacks are stopped immediately. The workers will not surrender their hard-earned gains."

MOBS DISPERSED.

DONCASTER, England, May 13. —(Canadian Press.) — Settlement of the general strike in the British Isles has had an aftermath in the nearby coal fields, where mobs of miners held up road traffic and were dispersed only when the police charged and arrested eighty men. A procession of women marching on Doncaster was dispersed by a strong force of mounted police before they reached the city.

BLAME THE EMPLOYERS.

LONDON, May 13.— (Canadian Press.)—Much agitation was shown at Trades Union Congress headquarters this morning on account of the men not returning to work, and it was admitted that the situation was serious, though not alarming. Ramsay MacDonald, J. H. Thomas, Arthur Pugh, Ernest Bevan and other leaders were at headquarters early and after a conference proceeded away in different directions. The Trades Union Congress spokesman said:

"The situation confronting the country just at this time is not brought about so much by the unwillingness of the men to return to work as by the obstinate, defiant attitude of employers who in so many instances, according to our reports this morning, have refused point blank to take them back."

Give Two Days' Pay.

Sir William Joynson-Hicks, Home Secretary, broadcast a message saying:

"The Government feels sure that all employers who have been assisted in meeting the requirements of the emergency by volunteer labor will recognize the great civic services those men performed and will desire to deal generously with them. It is suggested that employers dispensing without notice with the services of any paid voluntary workers, should follow the practice which the Government proposes to pursue and grant a gratuity of at least two days' pay."

May Be Labor Split.

There is feeling in Labor circles that the happenings since the calling off of the general strike may cause a split between the Trades Union Congress and the miners and that when the miners' delegates meet in Kingsway Hall to-morrow it will be another "black Friday," similar to that in 1921, when railway and transport workers agreed to back the miners, but the railwaymen suddenly withdrew.

At the moment the feeling is that the position is serious enough for the General Council of the T.U.C. to convene an extra special session at which the T.U.C. may be compelled to take control of the situation again and ask the Government to explain its policy. Union officials say employers are insisting that strikers sign on as new men and forego many benefits. They declare this cannot be allowed.

Lord Reading, former Viceroy of India, may be chosen neutral chairman of the suggested advisory committee for the re-organization of the mining industry.

Londoners Disappointed.

Londoners flocked this morning to the railway stations and tramway depots expecting to obtain transportation, only to be confronted with such notices as "Not enough strikers have returned to resume normal service" and "Strike service trains still operating."

DUDLEY, May 13 (Canadian Press).—Oliver Baldwin, Socialist son of the Prime Minister, addressing a meeting here to-day, said that after the King's appeal for settlement without malice, the attitude of the railway companies towards the union labor was "monstrous and intolerable."

THE WEATHER.

It was a little warmer yesterday, the thermometer going up to 66 degrees. Last night the temperature went down to 34 degrees, and some white frost was again to be seen. The straw hat season is scheduled to open in ten days.—W. P.

MANITOBA BEER LEFT NO TRACE

Disposed of Without Being Accounted For By Commission.

WINNIPEG, Man., May 13. — More than 60 per cent. of the beer manufactured in Manitoba upon which a gallonage tax was paid in 1925, appears to have been disposed of without being accounted for to the Government Liquor Control Commission according to a return filed with the clerk of the Manitoba Legislature yesterday, by Hon. R. W. Craig, Attorney-General.

The information was brought down pursuant to an inquiry by W. B. Bayley, M.L.A., for Assiniboia, arising from evidence given before the United States Senate sub-committee investigating prohibition conditions.

News despatches rrom Washington credited F. W. Russell, president oh the Manitoba Moderation League with saying that western Canaad had never experienced such a crime wave as during the last two years if prohibition.

The returns show that with the exceptiin of 1922, infractions of the liquor act had not varied greatly during the past nine years.

SECESSION TALK IS DEPRECATED

Maritime Questions Investigated By Railway Board Says Senator.

OTTAWA, Ont., May 13 (Canadian Press)—A protest against any re-opening of secession propaganda in the Maritime provinces on the question of "Maritime rights" was made in the Senate yesterday by Senator Tanner.

Senator Tanner referred to a statement recently issued to the press by Hon. F. H. McCurdy, a former Conservative cabinet minister. He did not regard Mr. McCurdy's statement in any way as pronouncement of the Conservative party, as Mr. McCurdy had not actively engaged in the last recent general election on behalf of the Conservative party. "In my opinion it is unfortunate that Mr. McCurdy should choose the present moment to re-introduce what is construed in places to be a threat or secession in Maritime questions," said Senator Tanner. "To do that I think is likely to prejudice Maritime interests," he added. The Board of Railway Commissioners was engaged in investigation of Maritime complaints in regard to freight rates, he pointed out. Furthermore, the recently appointed tariff board was said to be engaged in inquiry into coal and steel tariffs.

"There is no reason why the interests of the Maritime provinces should not be fairly and satisfactorily adjusted and grievances be redressed by the Federal parliament," Senator Tanner said. "Without calling up the old phantom of secession which played its political part in Nova Scotia, between 1867 and 1887, but was subsequently relegated to the grave by the politicians who made use of it."

SWIMMING PARTY.

Senior Classes of Y.W.C.A. Gymnasium Enjoy Evening in Pool.

The Senior Gymnasium classes at the Young Women's Christian Association held a jolly swimming party in the "Y" pool last evening. About fifty of the members were present for a swim, with stunts and races, followed by refreshments later. Small prizes were given for various events. Viola Harvey winning the award for diving; Marjorie Perks for the special stunt race, and Miss L. Bacon for the Beginners' race.

The "Y" pool, which had its official opening for the season yesterday, promises to be well patronized this year, with special interest shown in the classes for life saving work. Considerable repairing and improving has been done to the pool, including installation of new hairdryers, swimming suits and towels, re-painting of the benches, roof and skylights, re-tinting of the walls, and provision made for an extra supply of hot water for the showers.

PUBLIC PAYING PIPER FOR JAZZ DANCE OF RAILWAY COMPETITION

Consolidation of Canadian Lines Would Mean $300,000,000 a Year, W. F. Maclean, of South York, Estimates in Annual Exhortation.

SEES PUBLIC OWNERSHIP SUCCESS.

OTTAWA, Ont., May 13. (By Canadian Press.)—"The public has to pay the piper," said M. F. MacLean, conservative of South York, in the House yesterday, referring to the results of competition between the Canadian Pacific and Canadian National Railways. Mr. MacLean urged consolidation of the two systems. He thought the Canadian people would never stand for acquisition of the Canadian National by the C.P.R.

T. Gervais, Liberal, of Berthier-Maskinonge, said that while Quebec was rather Protectionist in sentiment, the people of the province were satisfied with the Government.

Mr. MacLean declared that the Government in disregarding its promise to refer tariff matters to the Board, had, in this instance done so "at the instigation of the Progressives."

The two great railway systems in Canada should be consolidated, he continued, by "the consolidation of the Canadian Pacific into the National lines." The elimination of such duplication of railways would save $300,000,000 annually. At present there was a "mad race" between two trains on almost every competing main and branch line of the two systems. "The public has to pay the piper," said Mr. MacLean. There was absolutely no necessity for the two rival organizations.

Dividends for Both.

If all the lines in Canada, including lake and river boats of the C.P.R., were under one management, Mr. MacLean believed that such an economy in operation would be affected that a dividend of 6 per cent. could be paid on the C.P.R. stock and about 3 per cent. could be paid on the Canadian National stock, which now was only a part of the public debt, paying no dividends. In addition, he thought, that a bonus of at least $1000 a year could be paid to the railway employees who were thrown out of work through the amalgamation, until they were absorbed again into industry.

Advocates Public Ownership.

The greatest experiment in National banking in America was being carried out by the Province of Ontario today. Mr. MacLean invited members of the House, who were opposed to public ownership to go to Toronto and see the branches of this bank in operation.

Mr. MacLean predicted that within five or seven years the United States would probably control its railways and that England would eventually operate its own mines and the result would be that the men would receive better pay and the mines would be better operated.

Unless Montreal's attitude towards public ownership changed it might be necessary to move the headquarters of the Canadian National railway from Montreal to Ottawa or Winnipeg, Mr. MacLean said.

T. Gervais (Liberal, Berthier-Maskinonge) said, in French, that Quebec was not free trade, but rather protectionist in temperament, nevertheless, people of that province were satisfied with the Government.

Conservatives said that Providence had been with the Government. "I will say, like Sir Wilfred Laurier, that if Providence is with us why are not the Conservatives with us?"

Help Mail Order Houses.

T.G. Murphy (Con.-Neepawa) said that the Government's tax cuts were long overdue. Its reductions in direct taxation were all, except for the postage, stamp change, in taxes either introduced or increased by the Government itself. The sales tax had not been out because it was more spectacular and made better headlines in the newspapers to change the income tax, but nevertheless, it should be done away with, or at least reduced. Mr. Murphy estimated that the change in the postal tax would mean a saving of about 50 cents per year to each householder. It was the large mail order houses and wholesale business that would profit the most. He hoped it would mean an increased revenue as rural mail services were much needed and the Department had had a large deficit in 1925.

UNANIMITY OF LEAGUE SHOULD HAVE BEEN DETERMINED PRIOR TO MEETING, DANDURAND'S VIEW

Report of Canadian Delegates To Geneva Presented To Senators.

REVIEWS INCIDENTS.

False Press Propaganda Detrimental To Pacts of Locarno.

OTTAWA, Ont., May 13.—(Canadian Press.)— Senator Dandurand yesterday tabled the report of the Canadian delegates to the sixth assembly of the League of Nations and made an exhaustive review of the failure to secure the admission of Germany to the League.

He thought it proper, on account of the wrong impression made by press reports, to tell what really took place at Geneva. The British Government at the time was not ready to enter into a treaty to bind itself to unlimited and unknown obligations. The Assembly was very axious that there should be some additional guarantee of peace and the Powers interested in the Rhine and Central Europe met at Locarno where agreements were signed which were hailed by the world as a guarantee of peace in Europe. By this agreement Great Britain was practically made the umpire in the settlement of any difficulty that would arise on the Rhine. This agreement was to become operative only when Germany became a member of the League, and Germany subscribed to the obligation of entering the League on condition that she was granted a permanent seat on the Council of the League.

The February Session.

Senator Dandurand then explained in detail the work of the League and the authority of the various divisions—the Secretariat, the Assembly and the Council. While the Assembly meets only once a year the Council meets four times and practically dominates the situation. The Council is composed of ten members, of which four are permanent members, Great Britain, France, Italy and Japan, while the other six are elected from year to year by the Assembly. The Council which has been given great powers, can only exercise them by unanimity. It needed unanimity to give Germany a permanent seat. The Council met February 13, 1925, to consider the request of Germany.

"To the mind of those who look back upon these proceedings," said Senator Dandurand, "there now appears a strange situation. Unanimity was essential in the Council for the granting to Germany of a permanent seat. When the Council met on February 13 to consider the application of Germany it knew of the condition precedent that was required by Germany and with that knowledge it proceeded to call the Assembly. The query in my mind is why certainty of unanimity was not secured before the Assembly was called."

The Council took it for granted there would be unanimity, though Brazil approved only with reservations. Because of the evasive answer from that country, Senator Dandurand was inclined to believe that the Council had no mandate to call the Assembly. Brazil had aspired for years to a permanent seat on the Council. When the test came, Brazil would not vote a permanent seat to Germany unless the Council was enlarged to include Brazil.

Sweden's Threat.

Then Poland demanded a seat on the Council, fearful that German influence would be used against them. The Polish representatives also saw a likelihood that if Germany entered the Council, and the unanmity rule prevailed, all hope of Poland getting a permanent seat was gone. Sweden favored the admission of Germany, but declared it would put its veto on any further enlargement of the Council.

Sweden was assailed as being the mouthpiece of Germany and to show disinterestedness offered to resign its seat in the Council in order to make a vacancy for Poland. Germany refused this offer. There was considerable bad blood between Germany and Poland. Sympathy turned against Germany. Germany then made the proposal that if some friend of Poland would resign with Sweden these two seats to be allocated, one to Poland and one to Holland, Norway or Denmark. Czecho - Slovakia's representative agreed to resign. The Assembly then thought that all difficulties were over.

At this stage Senator Dandurand went on, Spain demanded as an important European country that they be given a seat on the Council. The Spanish delegation was asked if they would oppose by veto Germany's seat on the Council if Spain was not granted one. "We cannot do that because our country answered Germany in the affirmative. We shall vote for the entry of Germany but we give you notice it will mean our withdrawal from the Assembly," the Spanish delegates had said.

Spain and Brazil.

The German delegation said, "If we are the cause of breaking up the Assembly we will withdraw altogether." Immediately the Great Powers sought to find some solution of the Spanish trouble and it was felt that this danger could be removed, when Brazil emphatically refused to consent to Germany's admission to a permanent seat on the Council unless Brazil was given one. Every effort was made to secure a change in the Brazilian attitude without avail. Sir Austen Chamberlain then did not propose the admission of Germany. He believed that this difficulty would be solved in the near future.

Senator Dandurand spoke strongly of the injury done the Locarno pact and the admission of Germany by the "fantastic stories" of press correspondents. "The war correspondents on the war path," he said, "spread dangerous propaganda which had been spread abroad to arouse suspicions on racial and religious lines." He closed with a statement of his firm belief that this failure had not injured the League but would eventually redound to its credit.

Sir George Foster congratulated Senator Dandurand on the statement he had made. He also felt that false news had retarded the work of the League. There had been no permanent injury to the league. He felt that if the Assembly had been called immediately after the signing of the Locarno pact that there might have been a different result.

The Senate adjourned until Tuesday.

ROLE OF MEDIATOR SOUGHT BY MARTIN

Montreal's Mayor Offers Services in Quebec Dispute.

QUEBEC, May 13 (Canadian Press). — The only development in the local boot and shoe industrial dispute over wage rates yesterday was the offering of his services as mediator between manufacturers and the unions by His Worship, Mayor Martin. He informed the newspapers that he had discussed the situation with Pierre Beaule, head of the National and Catholic unions, and offered that official his services as mediator in any attempt which might be made to arrive at a solution of the industry's wage troubles.

"It is a matter of vital interest to the commercial welfare of Quebec and I would be only too happy if I could be of assistance in dealing with it," he declared.

CHEQUE FOR $40,000 ENDORSED BY MONTREAL CUSTOMS OFFICER

Witness at Customs Enquiry Said He Saw Bisaillon's Name on Cheques.

SMUGGLERS ESCAPE.

OTTAWA, May 13 (By Canadian Press).—The mysterious Mr. Neal, reputed to be the power behind the Barge Tremblay liquor shipment, was referred to in evidence before the customs inquiry committee Wednesday afternoon. Captain D. J. Perreault, formerly an employee of the Montreal Harbor Commission, told of having met Mr. Neal on a number of occasions. He had gathered the impression that this gentleman was a wealthy shipping man, presumably residing in New York.

Captain Perreault told how Neal and another man had asked to be put in touch with some one who could bring a cargo up the St. Lawrence for them. He described the circumstances which led him to bring the men to Captain Tremblay, master of the now-famous barge. He told how, at a later date, he had taken a pleasure yacht owned by Mr. Neal from Sorel down to Quebec and how his suspicions had been aroused while on this vessel by the fact that the cabins were fitted for carrying cargo instead of for passengers. He mentioned a visit which he made to St. Sulpice where he met Neal Brien and a man called Hearn. This was before the Tremblay had come up the river.

Seized Second Barge.

Captain Perreault followed Major Braun Langelier, assistant inspector of the Quebec Liquor Commission for Quebec district. Major Langelier informed the committee that he had seized another barge called the St. George on Lake St. Peter after receiving word that the Tremblay had unloaded a portion of her cargo onto the St. George. As in the case of the Tremblay, customs officers had descended upon him and taken the cargo away before he had removed all the cases.

Captain Perreault told of a conversation which he had with Brien in which the latter produced a number of cheques bearing the endorsation of Bisaillon and claimed that they could be used as evidence against Bisaillon. One of these cheques was for $40,000, he thought. Witness said that Bisaillon could be "fixed up" for a comparatively small sum—$2,000 or $3,000. Captain Perreault was certain that the endorsement on the cheques was that of the former chief preventive officer.

Bisaillon Recalled.

The early part of the sitting was occupied with further examination of J. E. A. Bisaillon, former chief customs preventive officer at the port of Montreal. Mr. Bisaillon was asked a number of questions in regard to the two Americans supposed to have escaped from the barge. The witness told the committee that he could arrest only the master of the ship in seizures such as the Barge Tremblay. Later, after a members of the committee had quoted a section of the act to him, he admitted that it would have been possible to arrest the two Americans under that section.

After some hesitation Bisaillon admitted that he had discussed the taking over of the seized boat with General Panet of the Quebec Liquor Commission. He had assumed that the Quebec Liquor Commission officers would have questioned their men, and therefore he had not tried to find out details of the smuggling from them.

"You told General Panet you would take charge, didn't you?" asked R X. Calder, K.C., counsel for the committee.

"I told him that I would take charge of the liquor," replied the witness. He had not taken responsibility of seeing that the two Americans remained on board.

Leprosy was common in England up to the days of Queen Elizabeth, but now has practically vanished.

FATHER'S APPEAL FOR SON REFUSED

Crown Had Revoked Parole of Prisoner.

MONTREAL, May 13 (Canadian Press).—The courts have not the power to interfere with the exercise of a royal prerogative and for this reason Justice Bruneau yesterday quashed a writ of habeas corpus whereby Henri Brouilette sought to liberate his son, Joseph, from the St. Vincent de Paul Penitentiary.

Found guilty in 1921 of fraud and sentenced to serve four years, Joseph was released in September, 1923, on a ticket-of-leave granted by order of the Governor General. In November 1924, however, the order was revoked and Brouilette returned to the penitentiary.

His father yesterday told the court that Joseph had conducted himself in exemplary fashion after his liberation, but the Justice "threw out" the proceedings as, he said, "No one but the Crown had the power to act."

THE SHORT-CUT NUISANCE.

A resident of the city who is interested in Clean-Up Week all the year round and is endeavoring to make his place tidy, his lawn level and keep his flowers in full bloom, complains bitterly of the action of many of the men and boys who make up the delivery service of the city.

The coal man, the grocery boy, the paper boy, and apparently every one who leaves anything at his house seems to take a delight in walking over everything in sight, and within the last day or two a truck drove in and cut up his lawn six inches deep, and he is consequently quite upset with the manners of these men and boys.

He thinks a little more thought and consideration should be given by those responsible for the unnecessary abusing of lawns and gardens than is now practiced.

OVER THE TOP OF THE WORLD.

History is being made so fast these days that the newspapers are being kept busy recording the outstanding developments.

Hardly had the world learned that the North Pole had been conquered over the aerial route by Commander Byrd of the United States navy than the news arrived yesterday that the Amunsden-Ellsworth-Nobile expedition in the dirigible Norge had passed over the Pole en route from Spitzbergen to Nome.

There will be widespread satisfaction that Amunsden has succeeded in completing a feat that almost cost him his life last year, even although some of the glory of the achievement was taken away by the fact that another flyer had beaten him in the race to the Pole.

The historic air voyage of the Norge, carrying a crew of seventeen men in a 2,750-mile journey over the top of the world, adds a new and glowing page to the record of aerial navigation.

Italy, Norway and the United States divide the honour of this great feat, which might not have been accomplished had it not been for the assistance of Premier Mussolini in permitting the use of the Norge.

The great airship was built in Italy and is piloted by Colonel Umberto Nobile, an Italian aviation officer.

PREVENTING ACCIDENTS.

Four hundred and sixty-seven members of the Industrial Accident Prevention Association, meeting in convention at Toronto, solemnly passed the following resolution:

"That the Industrial Accident Prevention Association pledge their individual members to make every effort to reduce the accident toll in this Province so that employer and employee may both be benefitted by the effort put forth."

The convention was wise in insisting that the individual members be urged to do their part.

A safety first campaign depends upon the individual rather than the organizations for success.

No matter how carefully an effort to reduce accidents may be planned it cannot produce the desired results until not only every employer of labour but every employee makes himself a committee of one to act along safety first lines.

An employer can do his part by installing safety first appliances and safeguards, but these will not serve unless the individual worker does his part by being careful at all times.

The majority of industrial accidents might be prevented if a general interest were created in safety work, and thus the enthusiasm shown at the Toronto convention is most encouraging.

A BRITISH VICTORY.

The collapse of the British general strike proved inevitable, just as Premier Baldwin declared it would in his statement to the United Press.

While an attempt was being made to "hold up" the people of Britain there could be no peace negotiations, and the Government by its firmness in adhering to this position and backed by millions of loyal citizens compelled the Trades Union Congress to ultimately acknowledge defeat and call off the general strike.

The importance of the Government victory cannot be over-estimated.

Its effect will be felt in every country on the face of the earth.

"When the strike is over," said Premier Baldwin, "the British nation will, by defeating it, have done much to protect political institutions throughout the world.

One has only to read the speeches made by Socialistic speakers at the Toronto mass meeting the other night to realize how truly the British Premier spoke.

For instance, John Macdonald, leader of the Communist party in Canada, declared that if the strike were successful "capitalism will be short-lived. There will be nothing that can keep back the surge of labour in Europe. Three hundred millions in India will rise and the heel of Imperialism will be lifted from the necks of girls in Shanghai. A fire will spread over Europe and out of it will come the Socialist republic of Europe."

These are the views of Reds the world over, and can any one doubt that in every Communist headquarters the British strike was regarded as a big step toward a revolution?

The great mass of the British people have shown that they are not going to be taken by the throat by any organization, and the effect of that attitude will be lasting.

And now that the general strike is over, let us hope that the difficulties existent in the coal industry can be successfully ironed out.

While the poison of a general strike remained in the industrial system it was idle to think of curing the original wound, but now that the infection has been taken care of it should be possible to heal the sore.

STICKING TOGETHER.

(From the Montreal Star)

Amid all the gloom and apprehension caused by the strike in England, one fact stands out like a gleam of sunshine. It is the way in which the English are sticking together. A party of prominent English women spending their holidays near St. Cloud, playing tennis, stopped their game immediately news of the impending strike arrived in the afternoon, held a meeting in the club-house, and left in a body for London to volunteer as motor truck drivers, in which work nearly all of them had experience during the war. Another body of English women, prominent in the British colony of Paris, planned to follow them as soon as possible. H. R. H. the Prince of Wales, hurrying home from Biarritz, found the last boat had left so chartered a special areoplane to carry him across the Channel, and landed safely two hours later. Volunteers to carry on the transportation of supplies essential to life have been so numerous that it has been impossible to enroll them all yet.

In this there is no inevitable antagonism to the miners. It is the English clan spirit which draws English men and English women together from all quarters of the earth when anything seriously threatens the peace and safety of the Homeland. Those among the strikers who declare themselves to be sturdy patriots will doubtless be the first to admire the manifestation of this same spirit. It is not a threatening spirit. But it is a spirit of indomitable resolution to defend law and order and to protect those who, unable to protect themselves, are made the unwilling and innocent sufferers through the action of others, and who cannot but suffer by reason of the sympathetic strike of all the trade unions. It is a spirit with which both parties to the present condition will have to reckon, and which none can afford—safely—to disregard.

THE POWER OF THE PRESS.

The British Government has settled for itself the question whether the publication of the newspaper is an essential industry or is a parasite on the public by starting a daily British Gazette to print the news of the country.

The general strike has brought about the suspension of the privately-owned newspapers. In the first number of the new Gazette it is explained that the paper is published because the organizers of the strike "have made it their first care to paralyze public opinion by breaking down and muzzling the newspapers on which the whole people have been accustomed to rely for information on what is going on."

It is further said that if the deliberate refusal of the unions to allow the newspapers to appear were allowed to continue, "the rumors would poison the air, raise panics and disorders, inflame fears and passions together and carry us all to the depths which no sane man of any party or class could care even to contemplate."

* * * *

Never has the value of the news-purveying function of the press been stated more clearly. Now and then an unthinking man will remark that it would be easy for the country to get along without newspapers; that if they should simultaneously suspend publication every one would adjust himself to the situation in a short time. Such a man assumes that a newspaper serves only to satisfy an idle curiosity. But in such a crisis as that on which Great Britain has entered, curiosity about what is happening is not idle. The people want to know what is happening, for the safety of their lives and property depends on it. Without this information a panic could be created within twenty-four hours by the circulation of unfounded reports about the flight of the King, for example, and the collapse of the monarchy. But with the official Gazette appearing every day, no such rumor could gain currency. If a wild story were circulated, the people would suspend judgment about it until they had read the newspaper.

But the official Gazette is a poor and unsatisfactory substitute for the privately-owned newspapers. These newspapers were forced to suspend because the unions objected to their comments on the strike. In place of them has appeared a paper managed by the Government, which is actively combating the general strike. The situation is worse for the unions than if they had allowed the regular newspapers to appear, for some of those newspapers would certainly have been critical of the methods of the Government, even though they opposed the strike. Through the free discussion of all the issues, the nation would have been able to get a better understanding of the situation than is possible when only the labor paper and the official organ are allowed to circulate. There are already indications that the union leaders have discovered their mistake, for some of the printers have gone back to work.

* * * *

Although the invaluable political and social service performed by the newspapers is well understood in newspaper offices, the action of the British Government is likely to call it to the attention of hundreds of thousands both in England and America who have given little thought to the matter. The newspaper has frequently been described as the eyes and ears of the people. Its representatives are in all centres of government watching the public officials and reporting to the rest of us what they say and do. The standard of conduct of these officials is not any too high at the best, yet without this watchfulness and the publicity that attends it some of them would get away with murder and the people be none the wiser.

Mr. Bryan, who always objected to the comments of the opposition press, used to urge the establishment of an official bulletin in Washington to report in a colorless way exactly what the National Government was doing, but he found few to agree that such a publication was necessary or that it would be read if it were issued. The great majority of public men preferred to have their activities reported by the privately-managed newspapers, for those of their party would usually defend them and their supporters seldom read the opposition press.

The right of free speech is guaranteed by our democratic constitutions. It is largely through the press that this right is exercised, for the public becomes vocal through the newspapers that it reads, and the newspapers conscientiously seek to represent their constituencies. The most grievous mistake made by the leaders of the general strike in England was the suppression of free speech.—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

The British Government may have won the general strike, but in the long run it will be found that everybody lost.

It is getting so that there is no privacy even at the North Pole these days.

STATE-OWNERSHIP—A MENACE.

Sir: State-ownership is founded on the principle of a joint-stock company. The whole province is treated as a series of interests or departments whose united expenses and profits are to be pooled and balanced. If a dozen other towns were to fall behind, Peterborough would have to make up the deficiency. That is to say, if our activity and constant use of Hydro power warranted our paying cheaper rates for that power we could not reap the advantage. The other places would cause us to pay the higher rates to balance their deficits. It is this that other places complain of regarding our street railway.

Then again just look where we would be if the city had not purchased and developed its own waterworks dam. There is no doubt but that we should now pay at least twice as much as we do for the use of power required for that service. We would have thrown away the advantages which lay at our own doors. Hydro is of great benefit to municipalities with no natural resources near them, but not to those which have. Why does one man or one company pull ahead of others in our daily experiences? Not by pooling interests and by incapables holding back the others, but by the freedom of the capables to manage their own business, and to control it.

State-ownership is a brake on private enterprise. It is popular with Socialists because it makes the active energetic capable ones work for the benefit of the others. The capables soon get tired of that and quit or go elsewhere. Business is then at a standstill and no one can tell why. If we were able to do a little more thinking we would soon see why. People are not equal, no matter how much we should like to think so, and any kind of policy that tries to make them so is bound to fail.

Mayor in his "Niagara in Politics" says: "Mr. Ferguson, Premier of Ontario, in criticizing a contract which had been entered into by the Hydro-Electric Commission, said: 'It was one of the most damnable contracts that was ever consummated.'" Two of the commissioners were compelled by the government to resign over it. Yet this is the sort of thing Peterborough gave up its own magnificent natural opportunities for! Is it any wonder we are at a standstill?

In order to make sure of Quebec's position regarding State-ownership, I wrote the Prime Minister of that province, who replied: "The only legislation in the Province of Quebec dealing with public ownership is in regard to the liquor trade, which is carried on by the province. The development of our water powers is left to private initiative. We have no system in our province similar to the Hydro-electric of the Province of Ontario."

THE EXHIBITION.

Campbellford.

The Editor of The Examiner:

Dear Sir,—I see by the paper that the Peterboro Exhibition Board is trying for a bigger fair, which I am very glad to hear, but they will have to change things and their ideas.

True, it takes a lot of money to run the Exhibition, but the board pays out more money for grandstand performance than they do for livestock prizes. They ask the breeders to pay $1.00 entry fee per head for cattle and $2.00 for horses, and if you take the cattle prizes, of which I know the fourth prize is usually $2.00 or $3.00, with a dollar out for entry fee and the railway fare and feed, which is usually high at that time of year, so if Peterboro wants a fair which they are intending to build up they have to raise the money of the 2nd, 3rd and 4th prizes and not make such a difference in the money, as all can't get the first prize, which is the only prize that is any good.

The breeders have to look at the show from the angle of expenses, and if they do not make enough they are not coming back. Where was the Shorthorn part of the show last year? There is too much money spent in some parts and not enough in others. Compare the poultry prizes with that of the cattle and the poultry are fed by the board.

One other point of great importance is the date of year of dairy cattle's age. The ages should be from the first of August in dairy cattle and the first of September in the case of beef cattle, the same as Toronto and many other places, and there should be a three-year class in dairy cattle. Hoping the board will take note of these last few lines and that I will be there this fall.

THE O.T.A.

To the Editor, Examiner.

Sir,—My attention has been called to your editorial of the 5th inst. wherein under the heading "Double Barrelled Punishment" you say in part, "One of the features that tend to bring the Ontario Temperance Act into disfavor is the double barrelled penalties that may be enacted for infraction of the measure." Your contention appears to be that when a party is charged before the magistrate with being drunk on the street or in a public place, and a fine is imposed (which is usually $10 for a first offence) that on the same information the magistrate may compel the party to state where and from whom he got the liquor and that he may then be liable for a much larger fine, for having liquor in his possession when not in a private residence. It can be readily understood and must be so conceded by any unprejudiced person that the O.T.A. can never be enforced unless the parties who illegally sell the liquor are punished as provided by the act in question.

The party who illegally sells the liquor merely for the sake of the profit there is in it, is infinitely worse in a moral sense than the poor inebriate who owing to his inability to keep from drink is ready to make any sacrifice of money or character and is as a consequence later found on the street drunk from the effects of what the liquor vender illegally supplied. The government having knowledge of these facts endeavored to guard the sale by placing the responsibility and authority for sale in the hands of responsible parties, and therefore having knowledge that the medical fraternity were of necessity men of education and good moral standing and having also regard for the fact they alone can intelligently decide as to who, under the provisions of the O.T.A., have a right to purchase liquor. The Government therefore have placed the M.D. of the Province in a position of trust, a very responsible position having regard to the welfare of a large number of people and the good order of society.

From the above it should be clear to all that to enforce the O.T.A. it is absolutely necessary that in every case the party who illegally sells the liquor should be punished. As in many cases, perhaps in the majority, the purchaser obtains the liquor to satisfy an appetite that he cannot control, while the vendor for the sake of the almighty dolar is read yand often too willing to accommodate.

Yours, etc.,
J. F. Lillicrap.

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY

YOUR INVISIBLE CHUM.

When you were a child you had an invisible chum. This chum of your chilhood was exactly your own age and you were together constantly.

Summer nights you would start for a field where the ripest melons were to be found, but you never thought of this trip without hearing the small voice of your invisible chum.

You would build a shack on the side of the hill and there entertain your playmates, but the closest friend that you had in the gang would be this invisible chum.

Then you grew older and, keeping pace with your years, your invisible chum grew older, and today this always - present chum is with you, praising you when right and condemning you when wrong.

You may escape the criticism or the censure of the world, but you can never evade the reproach of your invisible chum. And to this life-long companion—your conscience—your invisible chum, you owe all that you are.

In the turmoil of life and in the anarchy of appetite, the reclaiming "still small voice" always cries, and the man who disregards this invisible chum is sure to be a victim of his own defeat.

Dirty hog lots are liable to cause worms in small pigs.

BICHLORIDE PILLS GIVEN HIM IN MISTAKE BY PORT PERRY DOCTOR PATIENT ALLEGES IN COURT SUIT

Mariposa Farmer Five Weeks in Bed and Idle Three Months.

TAKEN FOR COLD.

Threw Pills in Dresser Drawer—Bichloride Tablets Also In It.

LINDSAY, May 13. — The non-jury session of the Supreme Court, presided over by Justice Grant, of Toronto, came to a close yesterday with one case unfinished. The remaining witness in this case is a student in Toronto, and his evidence will be taken in that city.

The charge was one of malpractice, preferred by Wm. Phillip, a farmer of Mariposa, against Dr. Archer, a practicing physician in Port Perry. According to Phillip's story while working on paving operations in that town he caught cold. This was in the summer of 1924. He went to the office of Dr. Archer. The physician gave him a pill, and told him to take at least two a night and a physic in the morning. He got a box of the pills and put them in his grip. He took one going to his boarding house and another when he fed his horses. He had another attack of illness about a month later, and a further attack in about two months. He went to a drawer and took out the pills. He noticed some different looking pills in the box—round with flattened sides. He did not take any for his trouble because of the different kinds in the box.

Turned Deathly Sick.

In December he was again unwell, and decided to take some of the pills—one of the two kinds in the box. He felt a burning sensation in his throat and stomach and he turned deathly sick. Dr. Stauffer of Manilla was consulted and was shown a sample of the pills he had taken. The doctor called in Dr. Henderson with a stomach pump. Phillip claimed that he was five weeks in bed and had lost three months' work owing to illness.

It turned out in the cross-examination of the witness that there were two Dr. Archer's in the village at the time he secured the pills. He had instituted action against one (Dr. David), which he had dropped and entered action against Dr. Robt. Archer. He also admitted that when he got home with the pills he threw them into a dresser drawer, one of the drawers containing a medicine box. Some bichloride tablets were in the top drawer.

Bichloride Tablets.

Dr. Stauffer, of Manilla, in his evidence, stated that when attending Phillip he concluded that he had taken bichloride tablets.

Alexander Vance, of Port Perry, who went with Phillip to see Dr. Archer, could not remember which Dr. Archer they saw. Their consulting rooms were in the same house and off the waiting-room.

Dr. David Archer, in his evidence, said that he did not recall Phillip ever consulting him. He had no record in his day book of ever being consulted by him.

Doctor's Denial.

Dr. Robert Archer said he recalled the night of August 7th, because there was a celebration in Port Perry. He had a call out of town that evening, and remained with the patient until about midnight. He did not remember ever being consulted by Phillip, and did not recollect ever seeing Vance in his office. He never had a supply of bichloride of mercury in his office since 1918.

This concluded the evidence, save that of the witness to be examined in Toronto. The outcome of the case is awaited with interest by the whole countryside.

$833,040 ON SURVEYS.

Spent By Canada in La Three Years.

OTTAWA, May 13 (Canadian Press).—Canada has spent $833,040 on geodetic surveys and reports in the last three years. Of this about half was spent on field parties and the rest on head office work, compilation and dissemination of data and maps. This information was given in the House of Commons yesterday, in answer to a question.

The expenditure by the topographical branch of the Department of the Interior in the last three years totalled $1,405,527. Of this about two-thirds was spent on the compilation, printing and dissemination of data and maps and the rest on field parties.

LIQUOR IN HOMES WHEN BARS CLOSE

United Church Denounces Government Control.

OTTAWA, Ont., May 13 (Canadian Press)—Unalterable opposition to the liquor traffic in all its forms was declared at a busy session this afternoon of the second annual meeting of the Montreal and Ottawa conference of the United Church of Canada. The session lasted for four hours, and a number of reports were received. Criticisms of conditions in Montreal under government sale of liquor were challenged by Rev. A. A. Runnells, of Westmount, who was told, however, that he lived in the millionaire section of the city. Rev. John Chisholm immigration chaplain, at Montreal maintained that conditions under government sale are worse than under the open bar system and that consumption of liquor has been transferred to many homes.

The committee's report urged concentration on Quebec conditions both in thought and energy in view of the fact, it was state, that the system in that province is being held up all over he world as the ideal one for dealing with the liquor traffic. The report declared that increased sale of alcoholic beverages has resulted from government control and declared that it is not government control, but government sale, with the word sale spelt in capital letters. It was urged in the report that a branch of the prohibition Federation of Canada should be maintained in Quebec and that the United Church should include in its financial budget amounts for the support of such a branch. As regards Ontario the conference was urged to maintain the Ontario Temperance Act, minus the four-point-four provisions which were regarded as weakening the Act.

MINERS REJECTED

First, there is the question of the re-engagement of the men who have been notified that their places were filled. Then, too, groups in various sections have announced their unwillingness to resume work until the Government emergency control is entirely removed.

But, on the whole, the nation has joyfully accepted the end of what the Trades Union Congress, with reason, has characterized as one of the most orderly stoppages in the history of industrial disputes.

Preceded By Rumors.

For the preceding twenty-four hours there had been much talk of peace; rumors were current that strong influences were at work to bring the Government and Labor leaders together, and Tuesday night there were important conferences between the representatives of the miners and the men highest in authority in the Trades Union Congress.

Premier Baldwin and his Ministers awaited a call from the union leaders until after midnight, but it was not until noon Wednesday that the delegation proceeded to No. 10 Downing Street, the Premier's official residence.

Here the proceedings were brief. In few words the Premier was informed that the Labor men were there to inform him of the termination of the general strike. At the same time they relied upon him putting into effect his previous promises of a square deal for all.

The termination of the strike was broadcast over the radio, announced in Parliament and spread rapidly to every corner of the country. It was received throughout England with mixed feelings, characteristic of the British, but mostly with cheers. Even then, however, the public did not give way to the delirium of the moment, but accepted with smiles and light heart the fact that things would soon begin to return to normal.

Miners Steadfast.

Upon just what basis the negotiations for the resumption of work will be taken up has not been revealed to the general public, even if already decided upon by the leaders and Government. The miners last night are steadfast in their position that they will not accept any proposals involving a reduction of wages. The mine owners have not been heard from.

It is the widespread opinion and hope of the country that the terms of Sir Herbert Samuel's memorandum submitted to the Trades Union Congress in the early hours of the morning and the Coal Commission's report would form the foundation for a final and lasting settlement.

In Premier Baldwin's words, the ending of the general strike represents "a victory of common sense," and each side feels that it has saved its face. Probably the greatest laurels go to the British public, who refused to be scared or stampeded and took what came with calm and fortitude, and most of the people are willing to pay their need of praise to the strikers, who for the most part acted with moderation and studiously refrained from incidents that might have produced grave results.

The Government emergency services remained in full force last night, but there is every assurance, should order continue, that they will be withdrawn at the earliest moment.

LEPER COLONY.

May Be Established at Gross Isle, Que.

OTTAWA, May 13 (Canadian Press).—A rumor that a concentration camp for all lepers in Canada will be established at Grosse Isle, Que., was brought up in the House of Commons yesterday by Georges Parent (Liberal, Quebec West).

Hon. J. C. Elliott, Minister of Health, said that "Certain negotiations have taken place between officials of departments of health, Federal and Provincial, but no decision has been arrived at.

Sir Henry Drayton: "Have the negotiations anything to do with the importation of lepers."

A machine has been invented with which a piece of cheese measuring one inch square can be cut in 12,000 slices.

SOUTH VICTORIA LIBERALS MEET

May Nominate Candidate But Seek To Avoid Three Cornered Fight.

"PROGS" OBJECT.

LINDSAY, May 13.—The Liberals of South Victoria are taking no chances on an early appeal being made to the country by Premier Ferguson. It is understood that word has been received from Provincial Liberal headquarters to the local Liberal Association to make preliminary arrangements for a convention to nominate a candidate. A few evenings ago the Liberal executive met in Lindsay and it was decided to nominate a candidate, provided the Progressives could be induced to leave the fight to the Liberals and Conservatives. A conference between representatives of the Liberals and Progressives was held Monday night, but no agreement was reached, and another conference was arranged for the village of Oakwood.

The Progressives, it is understood, are not inclined to submit meekly to the suggestions of the Liberals. They have a candidate, they point out in the person of Mr. F.G. Sandy, ex-M.P.P., whom they claim can redeem the riding for their party. He is a bone-dry temperance man, and advocates of prohibition in the Progressive camp are pulling strong for him.

The Liberals are not very enthusiastic over the prospects of a Progressive victory in the riding. The Conservatives won in a three-cornered fight in the last Provincial election, and many Liberals say that their party will put a candidate in the field in the coming contest rather than submit to Progressive dictation. The outcome of the parley is being awaited with interest, especially by the Conservatives.

ANXIOUS FOR PAYMENT.

B. C. Dairymen Loss T. B. Cattle.

OTTAWA, May 13 (Canadian Press).—In the House of Commons yesterday H. J. Barber (Conservative, Fraser Valley) complained that a number of small dairymen in his riding and elsewhere in British Columbia had not received compensation from the Department of Agriculture for the loss of parts of ther herds, following the recent establishment of a restricted tuberculosis area.

Hon. W. R. Motherwell, Minister of Agriculture, replied that these accounts would have to pursue the ordinary routine. Payment, he stated, sally took from 25 to 30 days.

OMEMEE W.M.S. HOLDS MEETING

Good Attendance in Spite of Bad Weather—Reports Read.

OMEMEE NEWS.

OMEMEE, May 13.—Notwithstanding the heavy downpour of rain, about twenty ladies braved the elements to attend the Women's Missionary meeting of Trinity Church on Thursday afternoon. The President, Mrs. Rowland, conducted the meeting, which opened with singing, followed by prayer by Mrs. William Brandon and the Scripture reading by one of the members.

Reports were given by the Secretary, Mrs. E. Bradburn, and Treasurer, Mrs. T. C. Ivory.

A communication was received from Mr. W. H. Kennedy, the contents of which made expression of Mr. Kennedy's feelings toward the society for the quilt which had been recently presented him.

Mrs. W. J. Kennedy kindly invited the society to meet at her home for the June meeting, which invitation was unanimously accepted.

Owing to the annual branch meeting being held on the regular day for meeting in June, thus causing the absence of the President, it was decided to change the date to Tuesday, June 8.

Mrs. William Brandon was appointed to be responsible for the missionary topic in the Sunday School the first Sunday in June.

The ladies decided to hold a quilting in the Sunday School room on Thursday afternoon; May 27, to complete the five quilts which are in readiness.

Mrs. W. Henderson and Mrs. J. Shields were appointed to be responsible for the programme for the next three months.

A suggestion from one of the members which met with approval was that each one drop a line to Miss Olive Feir, who is confined to the Mowatt Sanitarium, Kingston.

The devotional leaflet, entitled "Prayer as a Working Force," was given by Mrs. H. Lamb.

The heralds of the Watch Tower were heard from, as follows: Africa, Mrs. R. H. Williamson; India, Mrs. J. Bushnell; Italian, Mrs. S. T. Wilson; Japan, Miss A. Neill; new Canadians, Mrs. W. Brandon; temperance, Mrs. Widdis; Indian, Miss Lillian Race.

The report of the Presbyterial held at Lindsay was to have been given by the delegate, Miss Marjorie Connell, but owing to weather conditions, she was unable to be present, and it will be given at the June meeting. Mrs. Rowland, however, who also attended, referred briefly to some of the main features.

The meeting closed in the usual manner, after which refreshments were served from small tables laden with snowy linen and decorated with pussy willows and spring flowers. The hostesses were Mrs. J. Bushnell, Mrs. E. Bradburn and Miss A. Neill.

Young People's Union.

Monday night's meeting of the Young People's Union was under the able leadership of Miss Eva Race, who opened the meeting with a brief song service, followed by well-worded prayers, offered by Misses Mary Faulkner, Reta Kennedy, Eva Race and Mr. Gordon Bradley.

The Scripture lesson was the 92nd Psalm, led responsively by Miss Elda Overholt. A piano duet by the Misses Marjorie Connell and Winnifred Bradburn was received with hearty applause.

Mr. Fred. Johnson, former President of the society, addressed the gathering on the 92nd Psalm, comparing the Christian life to the palm tree. Mr. Johnson's talk was much enjoyed by all.

A solo, entitled "I Hear Thee Calling Me," by the Rev. E. W. Rowland, brought to a close another evening well spent by the young people of the United Church.

Farm Note.

The farmers will no doubt be the busiest class of people for a few weeks to come. This week sees many farmers on the fields, and wherever possible the land is under cultivation. A farmer, residing north of Omemee, has already sowed 20 acres of wheat, and all that is needed now is a period of sunshine. A few citizens have some early garden stuff planted and one lady boasts of a rhubarb pie; the contents of which were picked Tuesday from her garden.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG Man., May 12 (Canadian Press)—Heavy liquidation of "long" wheat featured the wheat market here today, and instead of bullishness developing, as expected, on the strike settlement prices turned reactionary and closed lower.

The close was weak, ranging from 1 5-8c to 2 7-8c lower, with May at $1.53 1-8; July at $1.31, and October at $1.32 3-8. October recorded the heaviest decline.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, May 12 (Canadian Press)—Simultaneous with news that a revolution in Poland had started, heavy selling of wheat today brought about a decided break in grain values here. Previously, ending of the British general strike had failed to stimulate any big advance in prices. The wheat market closed unsettled, 2 1-4c to 3 3-8c net lower, May (new) $1.61 1-4 and July $1.36 3-4 to $1.36 7-8; with corn 1-4 to 3-4c down; oats 1-4 to 5-8 and 3-4c off; and provisions at 12 to 30 cents decline.

The maximum fall of wheat prices today as compared with top figures early was just five cents a bushel, even. The most pronounced weakness was in the May delivery, which at the opening had led the upturn and had scored a gain of 1 3-4c. It quickly developed, however, that no important fresh buying power was in evidence, and the market soon began to sag, notice being taken that the coal strike in England continued, and that recent speculative purchases were being let go of freely to realize profits, notwithstanding that export business from Canada estimated at 1,000,000 bushels was noted.

MINNEAPOLIS GRAIN

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Que., May 12 (Canadian Press) — The Montreal Grain Exchange turned active today after experiencing a dull week, when demand from both the United Kingdom and the Continent increased largely. The foreign orders were for both Manitoba spring wheat and grains in nearby positions. Local demand was also brisk and sales of No. 1 Northern wheat were at around 15 cents per bushel above the Winnipeg May option. With a weaker market for spot varieties, prices were reduced 1 cent per bushel on all grades.

ages, against 145 the same day last week. The easier feeling of yesterday was again in eviednce and prices declined 1-2 cent per pound on a poor demand.

Receipts of butter were 168 packages as compared with 1,465 last Wednesday. Business was without stimulus of foreign demand and consequently dull.

Cheese receipts were 2,421 boxes as compared with 1,465 last Wednesday. Business was without stimulus of foreign demand and consequently dull.

Increased offerings of potatoes turned the market weaker and prices tumbled 25 to 40 cents per bag. A moderate trade was worked.

In sympathy with the recent strength at New York, prices for refined sugar here were generally marked up 10 cents per hundred pounds for all grades. Domestic and export business is satisfactory for this season of the year.

FISHERMAN TAKES SOME BIG PICKEREL

Trent River Man Very Successful One Recent Evening.

TRENT RIVER, May 13.—While fishing at the pier on Monday evening Mr. James Cook landed several fine pickerel, one weighing 9½ pounds. He shipped it to a friend in Toronto the same day.

A demonstration of aluminium goods was exhibited at Mrs. A. Wight's on Monday for the benefit of the ladies of this district.

DAYLIGHT SAVING FAILS.

Tannery Employees Find It Too Inconvenient Alone.

OMEMEE, May 13.—Daylight savink did not meet with much approval among tannery employees while other time remained unchanged. The busy housewife found it very inconvenient where there were children going to school to have to prepare two dinners. Another complaint was the Toronto papers did not reach Omemee in time to be scanned during the noon hour. At any rate there were more dislikes than those on the contrary and the tannery opened on Monday morning at 7 o'clock standard time, and closed at 5 o'clock, which is an advance of half an hour over the previous schedule.

Mr. John Thorne suffered the loss of his small hen-house containing a brooder and about seventy small chickens recently, when the lamp became too high and set fire to the brooder. The blaze soon spread and had it not been for the neighbors' help much greater damage might have resulted as several other building are nearby.

Easy to Gain With Yeast and Iron

New Combination of Yeast with Vegetable Iron Quick Way to Build Up Weight

This new combination of yeast vitamines with vegetable iron, renews the action of sluggish blood cells, drives out dangerous body poisons, increases energy and endurance and supplies the system with vitamines that build up weight.

For years yeast has been known as a rich vitamine food but not until we perfected "ironized yeast"—which comes in concentrated tablet form, was it possible to take yeast and iron in the right proportions to build up weight.

Vegetable "Iron when combined with yeast is quite easy to digest, therefore better for the system. And "yeast" when ironized, becomes twice as beneficial as ordinary fresh or cake yeast.

Ironized Yeast Tablets are composed of concentrated food elements, therefore, they are pleasant to take and free from drug-like effects. If you are under weight, do not enjoy good health, lacking in energy and force, "ironized yeast" tablets will pick you right up, and if they fail, you get your money back.

Sold by druggists, at $1.00 for a large 60-tablet package. Harold F. Ritchie & Co., Ltd., Toronto, Canada.

"THESE WOMEN"

By MALCOLM DUART

COPYRIGHT 1926

The Characters and Situations in this Story are entirely fictional.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Audrey Morton, 19 and fair-haired, is in love with her guardian, Harry Morton. So is Nona, a Toronto stage girl.

To avert Audrey's affections from him, he has thrown her into the company of his secretary, John Parrish, and also has let her see him flirting with Nona, and with other girls.

To learn the secret of how stage girls attract him, Audrey decides to become a cabaret dancer, and starts at a "stretching school" where girls are limbered for the stage. Morton tells Parrish to go with her, to guard her. Morton also goes to a producer of cabaret revues, and pays him to offer Audrey a position, and to surround her with girl and men performers who are not too rough in their mode of living. Returning from this errand, Morton meets Parrish, who just before this chapter opens wants to know if Morton has heard what Audrey "has done now."

Morton, rich, unmarried, attractive though middle-aged, has lived in Peterborough for 15 years, without the gossips learning the source of his wealth or anything about his past. He also maintains an expensive apartment in Toronto, where the characters in the story are when today's installment opens.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXV

"Shut the door," Morton directed.

Parrish obeyed, and came nearer so the clerks, alert in the background, could not hear him.

"She has gone and hired a shiny-haired fellow to be her dancing partner!" said Parrish, his voice filled with bitterness.

"That's due to lack of experience with the customs of the stage," Morton remarked.

"Sir?" There was bewilderment in Parrish's voice.

"It isn't customary for one partner to pay the other," Morton explained, pleasantly. "The money usually comes from the producer who hires them, and they divide the proceeds—if any."

"But that's not the idea!" cried Parrish. "What I'm objecting to is that she is associating with that fellow at all. He's no good!"

Morton perched on the corner of a desk, and swung his foot, tapping it rhythmically with his cane.

"How do you know he's no good?" he inquired.

"I could see it!" Parrish said, pounding the table with his fist. "His hair is too sleek, and his pants are too big at the bottom, and he's flashy, and sallow-cheeked, and smokes cigarets all the time. He's a—a lounge lizard!"

"Ah!" Morton was cheerfully indifferent.

"Don't you see, Mr. Morton, she mustn't know a fellow like that!"

"I understand," said Morton, "exactly how you feel. But you were supposed to be watching over her. How did you happen to let her make this arrangement?"

Parrish's face reflected misery, "I can't do anything with her," he said. "She does exactly what she pleases. She went to an agency where they have actors for rent, and made me wait in the car downstairs. Pretty soon I went up to the office, and she introduced me to this no-account dancer and said she'd hired him. And she wouldn't listen to anything I had to say!"

"Miss Morton has energy and enterprise," commented the older man. "How much did she pay this young gentleman?"

"Three hundred dollars, cash!" groaned Parish.

Morton laughed aloud. "Her knowledge of values has been warped," he said. "You run along now, and I'll talk to her."

Leaving the despondent Parrish, Morton opened the door of his office, and quietly greeted Audrey, who was sitting in his chair. She arose as he came in, and throwing his coat and hat on the table, he seated himself.

"That Parrish is a nuisance!" said Audrey, taking the offensive at once.

"Quite so," said her guardian, leafing over some letters that lay before him. "Quite so—but he may be useful, some day."

As if dismissing the subject, he leaned back and read a long type-written document. She remained silent, leaning against the edge of the table, until he was through.

"He's the smuggest, most self-righteous person I ever met in my life!" she said when Morton looked up. She spoke as if there had been no pause in the conversation. "I never met anybody that had such a holier-than-thou attitude."

"I've noticed it," said Morton. "But Audrey—"

His eyes were twinkling as he swung around in his chair.

"Have you noticed anything else about him?" He watched her face.

She considered a moment. "Nothing particular. Why?"

"Well," said Morton, "among other things, the young man is head over heels in love with you."

He tilted back, with a broad smile.

Audrey's cheeks reddened. "I'll never speak to him again!" she exclaimed, angrily.

"I have heard you say that once or twice before, with reference to John," said her guardian, much amused. "But I heard you speaking to him very forcibly, when I came in just now."

She drew herself upon the table with a vicious little jerk.

"The silly, soft thing!" She snapped her fingers, as if to express her contempt for Morton's secretary. "I wouldn't even look at him! Do you know what he did?

"Yesterday I went to the stretching school, and he insisted on coming along. He said you had told him to."

"Correct," interposed Morton.

"Well, he went upstairs, and some of the girls were there. You know how they dress when they're being limbered up?"

Morton indicated that he knew.

"He took one look at them," Audrey continued, with indignation, "and told me I had to come away from there! He said it wasn't a fit place for me to be in."

"Yes?" Morton encouraged her to proceed.

"I told him to go on home, and he wouldn't, and I got into my bathing suit and he sat there in the corner the whole time with his back to the room so he couldn't see!"

The veins in Morton's temples swelled with suppressed laughter. "Outrageous!" he remarked.

The girl's wrath subsided for a moment into a little giggle.

"Well, he was criticizing me when he did that!" she said defensively. "He was intimating that I was doing something horrible."

Morton tapped her on the arm. "Don't be unjust, dear," he said, more seriously. "That young man really is in love with you, and it shocked him when he saw you with those half-dressed girls, and in the same sort of outfit yourself. Men want the women they love to be beyond criticism."

"But what was wrong with that?" she asked. "He must have something wrong with his mind if he sees any wickedness in bathing suits."

Morton considered, his eyes half-closed. "I doubt if he thinks bathing suits are wrong. But a man just naturally doesn't want his own womankind exposed to the gaze of the world."

"I'm not his womankind!" Her anger had mounted again. "I don't care what he thinks, and I'm not going to have him censoring me!"

She slipped off the table, and leaned against his shoulder. "Daddy, it's all right with you if I go into a show, isn't it?"

"I'm not going to object," he told her. "And that reminds me—you rather like Nona, don't you?"

The girl thought before she answered. "Yes, I suppose I do. I ought to hate her—she's in love with you, and wants to take you away from me, but—yes, I like her. I think she's awfully kind-hearted."

Morton sank down in his chair, and thrust his hands into his pockets.

"Nona is an excellent singer, and she used to be one of the best dancers on the stage. She still dances a little." He hesitated. "She is rehearsing for an engagement now, but she might change her plans. Wouldn't you like to do a 'sister act' with her—dance with her, and sing with her, as a team?"

Audrey clapped her hands. "That would be wonderful! She could tell me things I don't know—and I'd be with her every day and keep her away from you!"

Morton laughed. "I'll call her up," he said.

The lights all were burning in Nona's apartment. She had thrown a strip of rose-colored silk over the lamp shade, and had drawn a wide, glistening shawl of Spanish woolens over the couch. This, too, showed rosy in the filtered light of the central lamp.

Nona herself wore a boudoir robe of pink silk, with lacy billows covering her wrists. Her hair was carefully in order, and she had freshly employed the rouge-pot, lipstick and eyebrow pencil. Now she sat waiting, listening.

At last Morton came.

With a little rush, she threw her arms around his neck.

"I was afraid you never were going to come to see me any more!" she said.

He disengaged her arms, and threw his overcoat and hat on a chair. She picked them up, and smoothing the silky collar of the coat, carefully placed it on a hanger in her closet. She laid the hat on a shelf. Morton was in evening dress, and his silk tile looked fantastically out of place among the feminine headgear that cluttered the shelf alongside.

"Have you seen my new costumes?" she asked. Reaching far into the closet, she withdrew a brief satin garment, consisting of short, silver-spangled trunks attached to a low-cut sleeveless bodice.

"I wear that in the first act," she said, "and then I change to this."

She drew forth another costume, containing even less material.

"Aren't they pretty?" she asked, tossing them into Morton's lap. He had seated himself on her piano stool.

Holding them up in one hand, he examined them. "I fear you will take cold, Nona," he said. "No arms, no legs, no back and not very much front—are you going in for interpretative dancing?"

"Poof!" said Nona. "Those people who dance 'Spring Songs' and things like that do it because they really don't know how to dance at all. Anybody can hop around in bare feet. I'm a dancer!"

She settled herself on the floor, at his feet, her knees drawn up and her arms around them.

"I'm glad you've come to see me," she went on. "I've been so blue! I thought you never wanted to see me any more."

He rolled the glistening garments into a ball, held them before him for inspection, and tossed them to the couch.

"Nona," he said, "how'd you like to quit that show you're in?"

"Quit it?" Her eyes were wondering. "Why?"

"Is there anybody who can conveniently take your place if you leave the cast now?"

Swinging her body to one side, she moved her clasped hands to his knee.

"Harry! What do you mean!" She spoke eagerly. "Do you want me to—what is it, Harry?"

"Don't misunderstand, Nona," he said. "But you can do me a great favor, if you will. I trust you—even if you do put up little games on me, and raise the dickens sometimes." Putting out his hand, he rumpled her hair.

"Nona," he continued, "you know that Audrey is bound and determined to go on the stage—into cabaret work. Will you quit your show and be her dancing partner, if I make it right with you?"

"Oh!" There was deep disappointment in Nona's "Oh."

She dropped her hands from his knee, and let them fall into her lap.

"Is that why you want me to quit the show?" Her voice had a weary note. "All right. I'll do anything for you, Harry—anything in the world! I'll find out—Oh, Harry!"

She rose to sudden animation. "I know! Wait a minute!"

She ran to the telephone, called another apartment in the building, and held a hurried conversation. As she hung up, she went to the door, and stood, waiting, smiling mischievously at Morton. Less than a minute later there came a knock, and Nona opened the door to a slender young woman.

It was the girl who had tried to blackmail Morton in that same apartment, a week or two before!

WOMEN'S SOCIETIES' REGULAR MEETINGS

Various Norwood Church Organizations Hold Gatherings.

NORWOOD, May 13. — The Young Woman's Auxiliary of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church held its regular monthly meeting on Thursday evening last at the home of Miss Rhoda Frost. The president, Miss Edith Tedford, presided.

The meeting opened by singing a hymn followed by the Scripture reading by Miss Lodemia Ferguson and a session of prayer led by Miss E Tedford and Miss Rhoda Frost. A chapter from the study book, "Prayer and Missions," was given by Miss Annie Ferguson and a reading by Miss Annie Davis from "Glad Tidings." A solo was rendered by Mrs. Harold McClue. Miss Mildred Gallaher gave a report of the Presbyterial held in Port Hope in April. An invitation was extended to the Auxiliary by Mrs. I. N. Ackerman to hold the meeting at her cottage at Stoney Lake, the same day as the W.M.S. This invitation was gladly accepted. It was decided by the society to sell roses for 'Mothers' Day." The meeting closed with a hymn and prayer.

The May meeting of the United Church Young Women's Auxiliary was held in the Sunday School room on Thursday evening, May 6th at 8 o'clock. The 1st vice president, Miss Laura Buck occupied the chair. The meeting opened with silent prayer, asking God's blessing on the meeting and also on all efforts that were being put forth for the furthering of His Knigdom. This was followed by the Lord's Prayer in unison. The Scripture reading was given by Miss Ruth Harper followed by a solo by Miss Ina Finlay.

The offering was taken up by Miss Blanche Stillman. The president then took the chair and introduced Mrs. (Rev.) M. C. Mackinnon of Peterborough, who had kindly consented to address the auxiliary. Mrs. Mackinnon, in her address, stressed the Brotherhood of Man and the value of the individual touch. She drew the attention of the audience to the fact that although the world was very large, yet it was small; so small that it took only a fraction of a minute for a message to be transmitted from the Old Land to this. "If we want to live the Christ life, we should take our standard from the New Testament," she concluded.

The address was greatly appreciated by all present and at the close a vote of thanks was moved by Mrs. (Rev.) T. M. Wesley and seconded by Mrs. Hugh Robb. This was heartily endorsed. A solo was then rendered by Miss Evelyn Scott.

Mrs. Wesley invited the girls to hold their June meeting at her home when a report of the Lindsay Presbyterial will be given by the delegates, Miss Laura Buck and Miss Lila Burgess.

The meeting closed with a hymn and prayer.

At the close of the meeting those present were invited to the home of Mrs. Weir to meet Mrs. Mackinnon. Quite a number availed themselves of the opportunity. A social time was spent. Instrumental numbers were rendered by Miss Olive Webster and Mrs. J. S. Weir, and vocal numbers by Miss A. Finlay, Miss E. Scott and Mr. J. Stan. Weir. Recitation were given by Miss Stella Burgess and Miss Ruth Harper. Refreshments were then served by the young ladies.

I.O.O.F. Service

About thirty members of the Norwood Lodge Independent Order of Oddfellows attended divine service in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church on Sunday morning, when Mr. George Bennette, pastor, gave a very inspiring address.

The Young Woman's Auxiliary of the United Church did a thriving business selling carnations on Saturday, and will have a nice sum for the work of the society as a result.

The Presbyterian Y.W.A. sold roses on Saturday and was successful in selling all on hand.

The Woman's Missionary Society of the United Church held its monthly meeting on Wednesday afternoon last in the Sunday School room, with Mrs. R. G. Lawlor, the president, presiding.

After the opening exercises, Mrs. W. E. Pakenham, convenor for the month of May, took charge. Short readings on some of the work of the society were given by Mrs. B. Howson and Mrs. T. M. Wesley and a full account of the Presbyterial held in Lindsay in April given by the delegates.

Mrs. E. C. Squire gave a report of the inaugural service, which took place at two o'clock on the first day. Mrs. G. A. Brethen reported for the evening service, giving a good report of the addresses of the two missionaries.

Mrs. H. Robb gave a report of the election of officers, which was conducted by Mrs. (Rev.) Langford of Trinity Church, Peterborough, in a very parliamentary way. Mrs. Claude Bongard gave an exceedingly interesting and full account of Rev. M. C. Mackinnon's address at the inaugural service and also of the closing address of the Presbyterial given by Mrs. Mackinnon.

A vote of thanks was tendered the delegates for the splendid reports they brought back.

An invitation was received from the Hastings society for the Norwood ladies to be their guests at their meeting in June, when it is expected that a report of the branch meeting to be held in Trenton in May will be given by one of the delegates. It was unanimously decided to accept the invitation. The meeting closed with the Mizpah Benediction.

Young People's Rally

A young people's rally under the auspices of the Young People's League of the United Church was held on Sunday evening. The service opened with the hymn "Oh Love Divine, How Sweet Thou Art," followed by prayer by Rev. R. F. Stillman. A trio was then sung by Miss U. Duffield, soprano, Miss L. Hugill, second soprano, and Mrs. A. G. McDermott, alto. Miss Dorothy Soye, B.A., for the Scripture lesson, read the story of the rich young ruler and Rev. T. M. Wesley took for the subject of his address some words from this parable, "What must I do." The offering was taken by six young men members of the league, namely Messrs. Ross McNaughton, Gerald Parker, Kenneth Montgomery, Norman Small, Edgar Clarke and Roger McMillan. The closing hymn was "O Love, That Wilt Not Let Me Go," and the closing prayer was offered by Rev. Mr. Wesley.

Mrs. R. H. Gray of Norwood, has announced the engagement of her younger daughter Mildred, to J. Harland Keefer, only son of Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Keefer of Norwood. The marriage will take place in the latter part of May.

Friends of Mr. and Mrs. George H. King, formerly of this city, will be glad to know that they are broadcasting to-night betweeen 8 and 9 o'clock, from W. C. Detroit Free Press, Mrs. King singing with a quartette and Mr. King at the piano.

VERSIFIED HASH.

When people ask a question, 'course an answer should come back. For instance, in a riddle, you can find a good wise crack. But someone, in a song one time, with this one came to bat: "Has Anyone Seen Kelly?" No one ever answered that.

We might get along without airships. We might do away with balloons. Perhaps we could do without autos, but golly, just think, if our tunes, of raggified music and waltzes were taken away, goodness knows, 'twould make us all lazy, and near drive us crazy. We can't get along without those.

I often take a chicken pie when eating with the bunch. I'm satisfied with ham and eggs when I go out to lunch. I've eaten heaps of kidney stew, and lots of other trash, but when I want them, all in one, the waiter brings me hash.

Party Frock of Simple Charm

Taffeta is a charming material for party frocks for the young girl from six to fourteen years of age, lending itself to movement and activity. This simple little frock was developed in changeable pastel-hued taffeta, and is cut to slip on over the head. It has kimono shoulders ending in short sleeves, and the foundation of the dress is quite plain. The side panels are in one piece, slightly circular, and finished with scallops. Narrow lace makes an effective combination with taffeta, and outlines the scallops on the panels, also the round neck and short sleeves. Clusters of flowers embodying the pastel hues of the frock are placed on the right shoulder and left hip. No. 1244 is in sizes 6, 8, 10, 12 and 14 years. Size 10 years requires 3 yards 36-inch material; narrow lace edging 5½ yards. Price 20 cents.

HER OWN WAY
A GIRL of TODAY

MAMIE SUSPECTS SELLERS.

Jerry grinned at my story, although I could see underneath he was very much in earnest.

"How long is it going to take for you to become well enough acquainted with me, Judy, so that you will feel perfectly secure in taking at least fifty dollars with you?"

"What a queer proposal," I said to myself, and yet someway it seemed to be all right.

"That will depend," I answered, however.

By this time we had arrived at Mamie's flat. To my surprise when I arose to my feet to leave the car, everything turned black.

I heard an exclamation from Jerry and knew no more until I found myself lying on the sofa in Mrs. Riley's sitting room with Jimmie, Mamie, and Jerry clustered about me.

"I never fainted before in my life," I exclaimed.

"Now that isn't the right thing to say at all, Judy," remonstrated Jimmy. "You should be saying, 'Where am I?'"

"I know where I am," I answered decidedly, "and it is right glad I am that I am here."

"Are you passing those around, Judy?" asked Jimmie Costello.

"Not so anyone would notice it."

"There, she is all right now," remarked Jerry.

"Are you able to tell us, Judy, what happened?"

"You bet I am. I am ready to tell everything."

And then I proceeded to explain about going out into the park.

"I'll have to get another twenty-five dollars out of the bank for you tomorrow, Mamie. And I guess after this I won't carry a bag of any kind. All of Toronto's thieves seem to pick on me."

"I think it was very foolish," I said turning to Jerry, "for you to give me such an expensive bag. Don't you ever do it again."

"I didn't give it to you," said Jerry staunchly. "I made those other fellows pay for it."

"That is probably the reason that one of the men came back to take it from me."

"Do you think, Judy, it was one of those thugs from my father's restaurant?" asked Jerry.

"I am almost sure of it," I answered.

Jerry gave a long low whistle.

TOOTH BUILDING FOODS.

You decide to build, so you approach an architect who draws up plans and specifications: then the contractor walks in and supplies the materials called for, and your house goes up according to plan and without a hitch.

Now your tooth! Here's a piece of masonry. Nature the architect, you the contractor.

The element of chief importance in the development of teeth and bones is the calcium content, such as is supplied in the lime of milk, in eggs, in cereals, in fresh fruits, vegetables, such as carrots, asparagus, cabbage, brussels sprouts and many others.

First the foundation must be well and truly laid so the diet of the expectant Mother should contain liberal amounts of these foods.

Now, as perhaps you may be aware, the teeth have been forming since before birth and their development continues throughout the early periods of childhood, until they erupt almost fully formed. So the diet of the child up to the fifteenth and sixteenth years should receive special care.

Also (it is also important to note—) in the period from the third to the sixth year there is present in the growing jaws the greatest number of teeth that they will ever contain. There are in eruption at this time twenty temporary teeth and in addition, the developing germs of twenty-eight permanent teeth, making a total of forty-eight fully or partially formed. Hence at this age and onward the demand for lime phosphorus and other inorganic salts, apart from the needs for these materials for the developing bones, is unusually high.

Then this: Calcium is necessary in the clotting of blood and in the digestion of fats, so that if there is an inadequate supply of this element in the diet, the most available source to meet this starvation is in the lime of the teeth and bones, and in consequence, when called upon to meet these requirements for vital purposes, the teeth are structurally weakened and are left more prone to disease.

Then your structure fails—and whose fault?

MEBBE SO!

If your little baby boy, all decked out in blue bootees, is destined to be a lawyer or a minister or a thug or a plumber or a teacher, science can foretell all this by examining baby boy almost as soon as he is born, according to Dr. Stewart Paton, lecturer of neyrobiology at Princeton University.

Proper vocational education can then be given the child from infancy on, explains the scientist. Which sounds most reasonable. If Johnny is taught from infancy on how to be a good attorney, quite probably he will be!

But why do parents need wait for science's findings on the subject? What is it but good common sense? In other words, can't any child be made by environment and education a certain vocationalist, regardless of the bent born in him?

GOOD-BYE, DOLLY!

Little girls no longer care a flip for dolls, according to cold and immovable commercial statistics. It seems that the doll trade declined about 50 per cent last year!

Well, there's so much more for little girls to do and see today than in the days when a corncob doll was their one priceless treasure! Maybe a good thing, maybe not!

KINGLY STEW!

Even kings, it seems, must consider, the high cost of pork tenderloin and decide that the royal family must occasionally partake of plain stew or hamburg! King George of England, f'r instance, opining that the royal family lives too high, declares that the royal household budget will be cut by $72,950 next year.

TRIPE FOR KINGS.

We advise Maggie, the kingly kitchen wench, to try tripe on the royal stomach. Cheap, nourishin' an' powerful fillin'!

Cut fresh tripe, Maggie, into pieces for serving, sprinkle with salt and pepper, dip in batter, fry and drain. Make batter by mixing 1 cup flour with 1-4 teaspoon of salt, slowly add 1-2 cup cold water, when smooth add 1 well-beaten egg, 1-2 teaspoon vinegar, 1 teaspoon melted butter or olive oil.

PINK PEARLS!

Pink pearls with that delicate rose flush, the strand carefully matched after years of workmanship. Price, $475,000."

I read this in a magazine and gasped. Almost half a million dollars for a string of pearls! The very casualness of the ad proved that women, some kinds of women buy them as a matter of course, and the fairy tales are not dead, after all!

PEARLS AND PROGENY.

Speaking of pearls, did you know that the mighty caesar, attempting to stop race suicide among the rich classes, ruled that no woman under 45 without children might wear pearls! Not so dumb at that!

President Coolidge might war on race suicide among our own upper classes by ultimating that no woman under 45 without children could play bridge or eat bon-bons!

CLASS BANQUET MENU.

Perhaps the well-known chicken patty is to vanish from the festive scene of the class banquet table. Comes a wail from Banquet Chairman" asking me to suggest a Junior-Senior banquet menu different from chicken patties.

How about strawberry cocktail, shrimps au gratin, French fried potatoes, parker house rolls, butter, tomato aspic salad, olives, chocolate sause sponge cake, coffee, mints and nuts?

Despite the crowded condition of the streets the Queen insisted upon taking her customary drive and in the language of the court circular "Noted with satisfaction the obvious relief of the public."

The Prince of Wales, too, was delighted at the news and went to Buckingham Palace to congratulate his father on the happy outcome of the trouble.

No One Really Wants Gray Hair

There are thousands today who, for reasons beyond their control, have hair streaked with gray. They realize, too, how this handicaps them both socially and in business. But these people will not resort to mussy "dyes" because of the embarrassment of such an instantaneous change.

They do not know, perhaps, that thousands of men and women like themselves use Kolor-Bak—a marvelously pleasant liquid which is so gradual in its action that the daily effects are impossible to detect. Yet results often appear in a week.

Kolor-Bak, while it has no color in itself, oddly has the power to restore gray hair to its natural shade. It also has the merits of a tonic, giving the hair an exquisite softness and lustre besides thoroughly routing dandruff. And it is as easy to use as water. Better still, the same bottle can be used for any gray hair. Make the test. If desired results do not appear, your money will be returned. Guarantee in each package.

The Young Girl Takes Naturally to Bows

It's wonderful to be young, to be in love with life, wear rose-colored taffetas and silver sandals, dance all night and carry on the eternal duel between the older and younger generations to the best of one's knowledge and beliefs. It can be done very effectively in shell-pink Georgette flowered with blue and mauve asters, or in old-ivory radium bound and bowed with apple green above slippers of the same delectable color. Organdy in the ice colors of lemon, raspberry, orange and absinthe makes a deliciously cool Summer frock. The skirt is straight and is shirred below the basque.

TOO LITTLE BLOOD.

The Cause of Nearly All the Everyday Ailments of Life.

Too little blood — that is what makes men and women look pale and sallow and feel languid. That is what makes them drag along, always tired, never real hungry, unable to digest their food, breathless after even slight exertion, and often feeling that life is scarcely worth living. The doctors tell them they are anaemic—the plain English being too little blood.

More weak, anaemic people have been made strong, energetic and cheerful by taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills than by any other means. The case of Mrs. A. P. Foster, Bowden, Alta., is excellent proof of this statement. Mrs. Foster says:—"Some years ago I was very badly run-down. My doctor attended me for several months and then told me I had better go South to spend the winter as my blood was so poor that he feared I would not stand the cold of our winter. I took his advice and went to my mother's, and as soon as she saw me she said, "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are what you need." She got the pills for me and I began taking them. I had intended staying three months, but at the end of the second month I came home a well woman. When the doctor saw me he said, "You are all right now, but don't let yourself run-down again or nothing will save you. Then last winter I had the influenza, which left me as weak and pale and miserable as before. Again I took Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and again they made me well and strong. I can gratefully recommend the pills for I feel that they have saved my life."

Weak, ailing men and women should begin taking Dr. Williams Pink Pills today and note the speedy improvement that follows. You can get these pills from medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box by writing The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Tomorrow's HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble.

FRIDAY, MAY 14.

Conflicting testimonies are again attributed to contradictory planetary operations. However the outlook is one that may be read as benefic if the opportunity for abrupt or radical change be postponed and the inclination to depression and melancholy be suppressed. Care for the health, consider only new prospects, cultivate new and powerful friendships and all may be well, since the major benefic, Jupiter, is most kindly disposed and the luminaries assist.

Those whose birthday it is may have a year calling for good judgment in order to assist difficult places and problems. Important change should be deferred. The mental outlook should be kept bright and the health given due attention. Take new ventures under advisement for future operation. Good friends should be cultivated and consulted. A child born on this day may have many fine qualities, despite a tendency to gloom and depression, as well as a restless and unsettled temperament. It should rise in life through the offices of powerful friends and should succeed in employment.

Throw away the Washboard—Use Rinso

THE old-fashioned wash-day is gone. With it has gone the everlasting rub-rub-rubbing and ugly hands, lame backs, frazzled nerves and short tempers and a soapy odour all through the house.

You change the hard work of washing to just rinsing.

Just soak the clothes a couple of hours or overnight in Rinso suds, rinse, and that's all. Simple. Efficient. Time saving. Labour saving.

THREE ESTATES WITHOUT HEIRS

Dominion and Alberta Contesting For Possession of the Properties.

BONA VACANTIA.

OTTAWA, Ont., May 13. — Canadian Press. — Do escheats and dona vacantia (abandoned properties) fail to the Dominion or to the Province or Alberta, or do they since 1921, fall to the University of Alberta by virtue of the provisions of the ultimate heir act of Alberta.

The recent death in Alberta of three men without leaving a will, and with no natural next of kin, has again brought to the fore the question of the respective rights of the Dominion, the province, and the University of Alberta to such escheats bona vacantia.

Judgment on this point was reserved by the Supreme Court of Canada yesterday, in an appeal listed as Attorney-General of Canada vs. Attorney-General of Alberta.

In a majority decision handed down by the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court of Alberta it was held that with the exception of the escheat of lands, the patent of which had been granted by the Dominion government subsequent to the coming into force of the act which made Alberta a province of the Dominion, all escheats and bona vacantia fell to the province or to the University of Alberta under the Ultimate Heir Act which was intra vires. From this judgment the Attorney General of Canada has appealed on the ground that the Ultimate Heir Act is an attempt on the part of Alberta to appropriate the Dominion prerogatives of escheats and bona vacantia under the guise of legislation as to inheritance, and is therefore ultra vires.

ly played by the brothers Allen. Mr. R. J. Devey, the organist of Knox Church, acted as musical director. Most of the numbers were encored and responded to.

The Ladies' Aid and their proceedings and success, naturally, formed the chief topic, for it was entirely through their indefatigable exertions that the money was raised to provide the manse, and, ultimately, clear off the debt.

Mr. J. Morrison made a lengthy statement on the financial question, which was illustrated by lantern slides, showing past and present ministers of Knox Church and figures relating to the financial position. Mr. McCannan also made a few terse remarks on this subject.

Of course the climax of the evening came when Mrs. Davis, the president of the Ladies' Aid, was called to the platform to perform the great function of the evening. This was the burning of the mortgage! Lights were extinguished and then the holocaust begun. In a few seconds the legal document was reduced to tinder, up went the lights and the Doxology was sung by all present. Then the chairman announced another very important item on the programme, viz., eats. So "Blessed be the tie that binds" was sung, and, as if by magic, circular tables seemed to spring up from the floor, chairs re-arranged themselves, and in less than no time everybody nearly was sitting down to enjoy sandwiches, cakes, biscuits, ice cream, coffee, with many other good things, and a very jolly social hour was passed, it being long after eleven before the proceedings terminated. The National Anthem, God Save the King, was fittingly played and heartily sung as an appropriate wind-up.—F. R.

HALIFAX, May 13. SEEKS RETURN OF INSURANCE

Mutual Life Co. Sure That Adelard Lebert is Alive.

CONFERENCE HELD.

SARNIA, May 13. Canadian Press. —Judge John Kay, chief legal counsellor of the Mutual Benefit Life Insurance Comany, Newark, N.J., was in the city yesterday, in connection with the Adelard Lebert case.

Money was collected by Mrs. Lebert on two policies carried on the life of her husband, Adelard Lebert, who Enoch Arden-like returned alive a few weeks ago after his body was presumed to be resting in the Sarnia cemetery.

Judge Kay stated that Adelard Lebert is alive and well, and that so far as his company is concerned there is no question but that the man now at Stoney Point, Ont., is Adelard Lebert, and the former husband of Mrs. Manley.

Negotiations are under way for the return of the insurance money by Mrs. Manley to the company, it was stated.

Another conference of the insurance officials, the prosecuting official, and Mrs. Lebert, is to be held on Thursday.

KILLS HIS WIFE THEN SUICIDES

Norman Bristow Cuts His Wife's and His Own Throat.

DAUGHTER ESCAPES.

WINDSOR, May 13 (Canadian Press).— Norman E. Bristow, 47, and his wife, Annie Howe Bristow, 40, of Ruthven, are dead this morning as the result of a frenzied outburst by Bristow at 11 o'clock last night. Bristow slashed his wife's throat after a quarrel. Then he turned on his 17-year-old daughter, Dana, who had come into the room to see what the trouble was about. She eluded him and slipped out into the street, to give the alarm. The girl's screams for help evidently frightened Bristow, who turned the razor on his own throat. He died in the Hotel Dieu shortly before noon today. Last evening, Bristow was seen crying on the main street of the little village. A woman asked him if he was in trouble. He replied that "She would know all about it in a few hours." Bristow was born at South Fredericksburg, Lennox County, Ontario.

MANY BILLBOARDS NOW ILLUMINATED

Hodgson and Willison Put Lights on Main Poster Panels.

"Brighten up the corner where you are," the excellent advice contained in the well-known song, might be the motto of the originators of the idea of illuminating what used to be known as the billboards, but are now more cleverly termed "poster panels." Hodgson and Willison, in line with a general illumination of such boards which marks a progressive advance in the larger centres, have made some of the city's dark corners very bright by their installation of electric lighting above the advertisements displayed on these panels.

At considerable cost, thirty panels in the city have been illuminated recently, giving a twenty-four service to the advertisers, with the lights turned on from five o'clock in the evening until seven in the morning, three lamps of one hundred watt power being placed above panels in six different locations in the city: near St. Peter's Cathedral on Rubidge Street; on Hunter Street, near the Bell Telephone Company's office; on George Street, opposite the Y.M.C.A.; on George Street, near the Peter Hamilton storehouse; on the corner of Mark and Hunter Streets, and at the corner of George and Charlotte Streets.

Besides giving an added attractiveness and air of brightness to the poster panels themselves, the illumination makes a considerable difference in the appearance of several of the streets. Every one of the locations has been benefited by the lighting, but the location near the Cathedral, formerly a very dark and dismal section, is splendidly lighted now. Nervous damsels journeying homeward at a late hour, unescorted, no longer need make a detour to avoid this dark street, the lighting from the panels making it as easily navigated as any down-town thoroughfare.

PIANO RECITAL.

Pupils of Miss Florence Saunders, A.C.A.M., Play at Conservatory.

An interesting and very well-attended recital by piano pupils of Miss Florence Saunders, A.C.A.M., was given in the hall of the Conservatory of Music last evening. The pupils, ranging in years from five to fifteen, gave an excellent account of themselves and of the careful training of their instructress, who was presented with a pretty bouquet of roses at the conclusion of the programme. Assisting at the recital was Jack Thackeray, who gave 'cello numbers, with accompaniment by Mrs. W. Thackeray. The following is the programme rendered:

Piano solos. — "Allegro" and "Carnival of Venice," played by Yvonne Follis'; "Tulip," by Roy McCabe; "Violet," by Dorothy Wallwork; "Red Rose," by Mary Edwards; "Narcissus," by Edith McLaren; "Tinker Bell," by John Watson; "Villagers' Waltz," by Gladys Henry; "In the Meadow," by Sybil Hall; "Invitation to the Dance," by Roy McFadden; "Sonatina," by Jean Black; "Sans Souci" and "March in C," by Clifford Cruickshanks; "A Tale," by Elsie Clarke: "First Violets," by Annie Kay; "Harvest Home," by Stanley Clarke; "Rondo," by Rosie Rogow; "Frolics," by Adeline Rogow; "Scherzo," by Norman Orbell: "La Jeunesse," by Viola Deline; "Rondo Villageois" and "L'Avalanche," by Alice Bradshaw; "Elfin's Dance," by Isabel Haylock; "Sonatine," by Linda Thompson; "Morceau Characteristique," by Albert Saunders; "At Evening," by Myrtle Jones; "Sonatine," by Irene Killingbeck; "Arielle," by Ray Tranter; "The Two Larks" and "Si Oiseau j'Etais," by Olive Prest. A duett number was played by Stanley and Elsie Clarke, in "Secret Wishes."

EXONERATE DRIVER IN MOTOR FATALITY

Judge in Lindsay Sessions Finds Him Not Guilty.

LINDSAY, May 13. — Vincent Wetherup, a thresher, lost out in his action for damages preferred against George Burk, of Lindsay, in the Supreme Court session.

Wetherup's wife was killed on Sept. 5th, 1925, while going to Toronto in a car belonging to the defendant.

When near the village of Seagrave on the boundary between Victoria and Ontario counties, the car struck a soft piece of road and overturned. Mrs. Wetherup was instantly killed, her head being almost severed from the body, while Mr. and Mrs. Burk and the little child escaped unhurt.

Evidence was given by the plaintiff and defendant, several residents of the locality in which the accident occurred, surveyors, one county road superintendent and two auto experts.

Justice Grant in a short review of the evidence, dismissed the action as he contended that Burk was in no way responsible for the accident. He made the suggestion that he refrain from seeking costs from the plaintiff.

Successful Trading On Standard Mine Exchange

TORONTO, May 13 (Canadian Press).—The price trend was distinctly uncertain on the Standard Exchange this morning, with trading light but on the whole more gains than losses were recorded. The firm features were Teck Hughes, gaining 3 at 338, Dome up 15 at 14.15, Hollinger up 25 at $19.00, and Noranda up 5 at 15.95. On the weak side, Premier eased 2 at 215, McIntyre 10 at 25.65, and Canadian Lorrain 1 1-2 at 84.

As Crops Improve Wheat Prices Fall

CHICAGO, May 13 (Canadian Press)—Wheat prices took an early downward course today influenced by reports of greatly improved crop conditions in the Northwest, and by the death of demand as well as by weakness at Liverpool. Wheat opened here 5-8c off to 1-8c up, and was followed by a decline of about 2 cents in some cases. Corn and oats showed firmness, starting about unchanged and later scoring slight gains. Provisions were variable. According to one trade authority the most important present factor in wheat is the breaking of the dry spell in the Spring crop area both north and south of the Canadian line. This has given crops in that section a much more favorable start than has recently appeared probable. The result may be to overcome what looked like a serious danger threatening later from heat and rust.

Attack On Nash Shares By Bear Traders Fails

NEW YORK, May 13 (Canadian Press).—The general list maintained a firm undertone with trading again lapsing into dullness, pending further light on the trend of domestic business. The only business news of importance was the report of a better demand for structural steel and the publication of another batch of favorable earnings reports.

Nearly 75,000 shares of Nash were offered at 52, and promptly taken to the amazement of bear traders, who quickly abandoned their attack and then bid the stock up to 55 1-2 in order to cover their commitments. The stock closed last night at 52 1-2. Other motors were inclined to heaviness, but losses in popular issues were held to fractions. Oils took on a new lease of life, and good buying support also was apparent for a number of specialties. Trading, however, was largely of a professional character.

Stock Exchange Firm Heavy Trading Continues

TORONTO, May 13 (Canadian Press)—The firmness which set in yesterday was well maintained on Toronto Stock Exchange today and the morning session was again marked by a fairly heavy trading. Brazilian, continuing the dominant stock advanced to 93 1-2 gain of a point and a half on turnover of more than thirteen hundred shares. Smelters was sold up 2 1-2 at 193 1-4 and Canada Bread advancing 1 3-4 at 66 3-4 was the third stock to gain substantially. British Empire Steel Second Preferred firmed eighth at 3 3-4. Kelvinator Common was one of the very few weak spots and declined seven eighths at 19. Dome Mines firmed five cents at 14.25 but McIntyre eased 10 at 25.75.

BELMONT CLUB ANNUAL DINNER

C. D. COOK SPEAKER.

That the Belmont Club still is a big factor in the life of the younger men in the city was evinced by the large number of members who attended the eighteenth annual banquet held in the Empress Hotel last night. Many tributes were paid to the calibre of the men who had been instrumental in forming the organization which since 1908 has continued to progress and keep pace with the growth of the city.

When R. S. Hall, a charter member of the club, presented a portrait of the late J. T. C. Laing, the first honorary vice-president and at the time of his death, honorary president of the club, to the members, everyone present stood in silence as a mark of respect to the departed members.

Dr. S. J. Graham sang two solos which were heartily encored by the gathering. He was accompanied on the piano by M. B. Chenhall, who presided during the entire evening for the vigorous community singing that was indulged in by the members.

C. S. Browne, president of the club, who was re-elected for another term, officiated as chairman for the meeting.

The following officers for the year were installed by Dr. A. W. McPherson, honorary president of the club:

R. S. Hall.

R. S. Hall, who has been a member of the Belmont Club since its inception in 1908, said that the one event in the year that he looked forward to was the annual banquet of the club. Many men, he said, had passed through the club since it had been organized, but no member endeared himself more to the memory of the members than the late J. T. C. Laing, who had been one of the stalwarts up to the time of his demise. It was with a feeling of pride, he said, that he was called upon to present a beautiful portrait of the late member, which had been purchased by the executive, and which would be placed in an honored position in the clubrooms, served to remind the newer members as well as the old, of the type of men that had placed the club where it was to-day.

C. D. Cook

C. D. Cook, in a brief and witty speech, congratulated the members on their good judgment on selecting a brother Kiwanian as their president for a second term. Things are good or bad by contrast, he said, and if you have a good president, you must in return have a poor speaker. No man can live to himself alone, he said, nor can any nation. A man can build a wall around himself, and let the rest of the world go by, but his nature will become warped and eventually he will become narrow. This is not possible, he said, in a club of this nature, as associating with the various members enhances friendship, fellowship and goodwill. Goodwill has a cash value, he said, but fellowship has a value that cannot be estimated in dollars and cents. It is the biggest word in the English language. If universal fellowship had prevailed in August, 1914, the world would have not been called upon to undergo four years of terrorism—if universal fellowship had prevailed the great strike in England would never have taken place. In a club of this nature, he said, a man can't be a quitter or a whiner. He learns to be a good loser—he learns to give and take—that there is no room in this world for whiners—that it is not the victory that counts, but the fight.

A vote of thanks to the speaker was proposed by G. W. Fitzgerald and W. E. Fanning.

GALLAGHER AGENTS AT ANNUAL MEETING

Prizes Awarded Successful Salesmen—Conference Held.

A number of salesmen of Gallagher Remedies, Limited, gathered on Monday, for their second annual meeting. A turkey dinner at the Empress Hotel was followed by a round table conference. The president, Walter Kidd, on behalf of hte management and directorate, welcomed the men to the meeting and spoke of the value of getting acquainted and working together as one big unit in building up an organization worthy of the remedies represented, of the work in which they were engaged, and of the splendid type of men being gathered around the company.

Following this the winners of the various contests were announced and prizes awarded. Joseph Wearing, in a humorous speech, addressed the winners of the senior salesmen's contest for the last quarter year, congratulating them on their success, telling them of the solidarity of the company, and emphasizing the fact that its future success depended on their sales and advising them if possible to secure a financial interest in the business. The winners were Paul F. Bilger, Stratford, Harry W. Jones, Peterboro, and W. S. Jones, Trenton.

The sales manager, W. Earle Kidd, made a similar presentation to the winners of the junior contest for the same period, these being W. F. Blackwell, Ottawa, Ernest H. Risto, Walkerville and R. H. Winter, Ottawa.

The presentation to the winners of the senior contest for the year ending March 31st last, was made by J. A. Dewart. He said it was most gratifying to know that the most remedies were sold where the products of the company were best and longest known, Peterboro County, and announced the winners as Harry W. Jones of this city, W. S. Jones of Trenton, the second longest salesman with the company, and Alex. R. Pilky of Orillia, another veteran. Each was given a substantial check.

B. D. Hall spoke to the winners of the junior contest for the year, stating that with such a splendid staff of enthusiastic, capable salesmen, he predicted a most satisfactory business for the company this year. The following winners were each presented with a check: Ernest H. Risto, W. F. Blackwell and R. H. Winter.

These presentations were followed by such an enthusiastic conference that it did not break up until nearly 2 o'clock a.m. Instead of the management having to pep up the salesmen, they were pouring enthusiasm into the management and this in face of the very bad weather and road conditions encountered this spring. Ex-Alderman Bilger of Stratford started the ball rolling by explaining different methods he employed in selling, stating he had thirty-two stores in his city alone handling the Gallagher products. He said he reserved a space in each store and allowed no other lines on this part of the shelf. He spoke of the use of literature and exhibited an unique business card he distributed freely. Difficult cases were also mentioned where the herb remedies of the company had had remarkable results.

A. R. Pilkey of Simcoe county related case after case of the most serious type of many different ailments where the Gallagher Remedies had achieved success when all others had failed, citing many cases including the treatment of diabetes ful tests after treatment showed no tests after treatment showed no trace of sugar, and the patients were able to eat anything they wished. This was corroborated by several of the other salesmen, among whom were Mr. Bilger and Mr. Winter, and the evidence submitted seemed conclusive. Mr. Pilkey stated that Gallagher's herbal remedies were the best in the world, and this was concurred in by the others present.

R. Zehr of Oxford county, said he was selling "Gallagher's" because some time ago he was given two hours to live, but Mr. Bilger, arriving in time with his herb remedies, restored him to health and he predicted big business from his territory.

Harry W. Jones told of how he had been five years with the Company and told the other salesmen of the very satisfactory results he was having with some of the newer lines, especially the veterinary ones. The Condition Powders, for horses, Sleek-O for cattle and hogs and the Crimson Comb for poultry, each having steady and a growing repeat sale. The Colic Remedy for horses was having a big sale for that ailment and besides was being largely used in the drinking water of poultry, farmers saving their young turkeys and chickens in this way. The Ringworm Remover was also popular for scratches in horses, scab on cattle, sore teats, as well as sore shoulders and harness chafing.

W. S. Jones, of Northumberland County, said when he started to sell "Gallagher's" some four years ago he wrote the company saying he could not sell their liniment in competition with the established lines and told by what means he was able to sell the Life Drops in practically every home in his territory at the present time. Quality he said was what counted. He also told what the Golden Drops had done and among other things had healed up a bad case of gangrene after doctors had given it up as incurable.

Mr. Blackwell said he became interested in "Gallagher's" because of what it had done for a relative and stated that other competitors were no opposition in his territory, Carleton county. He said he had the same remarkable results as related by the other speakers.

R. H. Winters, of Dundas county, gave a splendid address on salesmanship, especially as related to the Company's products. This talk was much appreciated by all present. He stated he was enthusiastic because there were no medicines on the market which would give such remarkable results as "Gallagher's."

Then followed E. H. Risto, who emphasized the value of stressing quality in selling and said this was easy to prove in the company's products. A. Schneider of Mitchell spoke on the efficacy of the Indian Lung Remedy in the treatment of asthma and other lung ailments. James Gallagher of Port Perry was jokingly introduced as the "Founder of the business," and in a crisp, witty speech, kept the rest in roars of laughter. He said he was very pleased to be present, and had no idea that "you were such a jolly bunch." Mr. Chatterton of Hastings County and Mr. Dunford of Kent County also spoke, the latter exhibiting a kidney stone of which one of his customers had been relieved.

J. E. Smith of the De Laval Co., who was to have given an address on salesmanship, was detained at Toronto, but in 'phoning his reason for not being present, said to tell the boys that the three main requisites for successful salesmanship are: "Know your products, be enthusiastic and be sincere." The men present seemed to have all these three in superabundance. Notes on the meeting:

Mr. J. Wells Fraser, city manager of the Bank of Nova Scotia, the company's banker, was present for part of the meeting.

"Keeping up with the Joneses" was said to be hard work, but it was predicted by the manager that one of last year's juniors in senior company this year would make them hustle, namely, E. H. Risto.

Due to bad roads and other causes a number of the men were unable to be present and sent their regrets.

"Two O'clocks in the Morning" saw the good night adieus.

MINOR HOCKEY LEAGUE RUMOR

Western Ontario Cities Talking of Breaking From O.H.A.

AWAIT STRATFORD.

HAMILTON, May 13.—That the mooted professional hockey league of Western Ontario is making rapid strides towards complete organization, is indicated somewhat clearly in the trend of activities by the representatives of various cities concerned, at recent meetings here, the latest of which was held at the Royal Connaught Hotel Tuesday. The artificial ice cities—Hamilton, London, Stratford, Windsor, Niagara Falls, and perhaps a team from Toronto—appear to be reconciled to the proposition of breaking away from the O.H.A. and forming an independent body, assured of protection from the National Hockey League, as far as players are concerned, and at least one representative who has been in conference here is confident that the group will be lined up into a solid body within a short time.

While the present situation between the Intercounty Baseball League and the Ontario Baseball Amateur Association may have had some effect on the stand taken by several representatives, it has been pointed out that practically every senior amateur hockey club in Western Ontario has been compelled in the past to resort to operation methods strictly unethical as far as the O.H.A. was concerned, to hold players together and to put strong teams on the ice, and the feeling seems to be now that it would be far better for such clubs to come out in the open and run teams without being compelled to disguise certain facts relating to financial considerations necessitated by present competition.

Inevitable Move.

Most important of all, however, is the attitude taken by various representatives which reveals a belief that the O.H.A. fully intends to meet the "tourist" problem with a firm hand, and any action against the players imported for next season by any of the cities concerned, would knock the bottom out of the teams. This, it is said, would make it impossible for the clubs concerned to compete in amateur hockey with any degree of success, as all would be affected more or less, some of them considerably, and the expectation of firm action of the O.H.A. is really strengthening the professional proposition. In other words, those behind the formation of the new league fully believe that the O.H.A. policy with regard to "tourists" will force the new league to operation, and that such a situation would be appreciated more or less by the amateur association as a means of solving the hardest problem in amateur hockey today.

With the exception of Stratford, it is said, every city represented at previous meetings here is ready to merge into a new professional circuit. Hesitation was encountered from both Stratford and London, and these cities are still a little doubtful, but London's delegates apparently made it plain that they would line up with the new group if Stratford could be induced to make the jump. And this appears very likely now.

Fight for Players

In view of the fact that the senior amateur champions of next season would be chosen to represent Canada at the Olympic games the scramble for star players has waged merrily throughout the last winter, with the result that almost every club is well provided for as far as playing material is concerned. This fact was taken into consideration at the meetings and used to emphasize the probable strength of the teams that would be lined up with the new league.

Players Now Here

Windsor is said to have seven new players lined up now with three from last year's team, as the base for a strong team capable of holding its own in minor professional league company. Two stories, one from Kitchener and another from Toronto, carry the information that several members of the New Hamburg Intermediate team are located in this city at the present time. Roter Roth, star centre player; Gamey Lederman, stalwart defence star, and Harry Hamel, flashy sub. are three players mentioned in the Kitchener story. Another story going the rounds is that the local promotetrs are planning to transfer the entire New Hamburg team here and use several other star players to round out a powerful aggregation.

Stratford and London have strengthened, as have Niagara Falls, and while the new players secured would not be eligible to play under the O.H.A. constitution, they would be perfectly legitimate with such an organization as intended.

Financial Inducements

There appears to be little doubt but that a new minor league would pay handsomely. Figures mentioned in connection with last season's operation in one city, approximated a total revenue of well over $100,000 and included a player expenditure of some $15,000. No appreciable change in operating costs would be found in the new organization.

Further developments may hinge considerably on the outcome of the hearing for the Intercounty Baseball League at Toronto on Friday night, but it would not me surprising to see the new hockey loop formed just as soon as Stratford can be forced to see eye to eye with others interested in the formation of the new circuit.

In a little more than a month the Eastern racing season will begin with the opening of the meeting at Bowie, Md., to be followed by Havre de Grace, leading up to the beginning of the New York season the latter part of April.

MANY MEN WILL PLAY SOFTBALL

League Will Provide Sport For 200 Men, Says President.

HAS TEN TEAMS.

"We will provide healthful recreation for 200 men, 95 percent of whom would not play hard ball," said Jack Sullivan, president of the Peterborough Softball Association yesterday, in discussing the organization recently launched. "It will interfere with neither the Central Ontario League team nor the City Baseball League," he added.

The league will be composed of ten teams, playing in two sections. A single schedule of home and home games will be played in each section. The first games will be played on Saturday, May 22, when a double header will be played in the afternoon. Other games will be played in the evenings and the first schedule will wind up with a playoff between the winning teams of the two sections about July 10 or 15. The winner of this series will receive the Taylor cup.

From July 15 to August 15 there will be a series of games between the top two teams of each series, and the winners of this will be entered in the Ontario Softball Association championship playdowns.

All games in the local series will be in charge of an efficient staff of umpires in charge of Alex Kay, who will get the teams away promptly at 6.30.

Arrangements have been made for the use of various grounds in the city. It is hoped that the opening double-header can be played in James Stevenson (Riverside) park. It is also expected that this park will be assigned to the league on every Wednesday evening. The Nicholls Oval has been obtained for Mondays and Thursdays, and the King Edward school grounds have been secured for Tuesdays and Thursdays. The league executive is also hopeful of getting Central park for Tuesdays and Fridays. This will provide for seven games a week and a schedule will be drawn up shortly, and will be published.

SNEAK THIEVES AT MILLBROOK

Barber Shop and C.N.R. Stations Robbed of Small Sums.

OTHERS NOTED.

MILLBROOK, May 13.—Sneak thieves were apparently at work on Sunday evening of this week, H. Nattrass' barber shop having been entered and the contents of the till cleaned out together with a quantity of cigarettes, tobaccos, etc. The amount secured was only about four dollars, part of this belonging to the Cosmos Club.

The C.N.R. station was also entered the same night, or possibly on Saturday, but except for a very small amount in the stamp box, no money was secured, none having been left in the cash drawer.

Petty thefts have also been noted lately by some of the storekeepers and it would appear to be good business to have some sort of watch kept; keys have apparently been duplicated and Mr. Nattrass replaced the lock on his door by a Yale lock the day after the theft.

Millbrook Cadet Corps No. 403, under Cadet Instructor, B.B. Dawson, attended divine worship in the United Church on Sunday evening. About thirty members, senior and junior, turned out for parade to the church, headed by the Millbrook band under the leadership of Mr. G. A. Duncan.

The pastor, Rev. F. H. Howard, delivered an inspiring message to the boys, his subject being, "She That Bare Thee Shall Rejoice."

The men's choir led in the singing the selections including "Stand up, Stand up for Jesus," "Remember Me, O Mighty One," and "Jesus, I Come."

There was a large congregation. The spirit of Mothers Day, which was emphasized in a special manner at the morning service, was also prominent throughout the evening worship.

The attendance at the Young Peoples' Society on Monday evening was encouraging, the Golden Links Mission Circle being in charge.

Mrs. J. McKnight, President of the Circle, occupied the chair and during the evening gave a most interesting and comprehensive report of the inaugural convention of the Womens Missionary Society of the Cobourg District which she attended as a delegate. The gathering was held in Trinity United Church, Cobourg, and was attended by 200 representatives of the 5,357 Auxiliary members throughout the Presbytery.

Mrs. V. C. Lambert, Superintendent of the Circle, read a devotional leaflet on "Prayer as a Working Force", in place of the usual Scripture lesson. "Thefts never enrich, alms never impoverish, and prayers hinder no work.

"Prayer is the creature's strength —his very breath and being; it is the golden key that can open the wicket of mercy; the slender nerve that can move the muscles of Omnipotence; the cure of all cares; the grand panacea of all pains; doubt's destroyer; ruin's remedy; and the antidote of all anxities."

"Lordship and Leadership" was the topic taken up, those having a part being: Misses Hazel and Flossie McMahon; Lila Whyte, Edith Sheppard, Marjorie Skitch, and Mrs. Lambert.

Mrs. D. Lunn expressed her warm personal thanks to the Circle for their wedding gift in making her a life member of the organization, and stated her appreciation of being connected with the work in this permanent manner.

The programme committee for the next meeting was appointed by the executive as follows: Misses Thelma Ball, Lottie Luxon, Lila Whyte, and Mrs. F. W. Smith.

The Tuxis Square is responsible for the meeting next Monday evening, Mr. Howard stating that a debate is being arranged for.

Mrs. J. C. Kells and daughter, Miss Anna, with Miss M. Christie, who have been spending the winter in Barrie with Mr. and Mrs. Henry Sims, returned here this week and have re-opened their home for the summer months.

Rev. J. Riddle, the new pastor of the Presbyterian churches at Millbrook and Centreville, is spending a few days in South Monaghan this week making the acquaintance of some of the members of his congregation in that locality.

Mrs. R. J. Doak, and Mrs. H. Mulligan were in Toronto last week, called to the city by the death of Mr. R. Dingman whose wife (Mary Kerr) is their niece. Mr. Dingman was stricken with heart failure while driving his car to attend a meeting of the Masonic Lodge with which he was connected. He managed to turn the car into the curb when his condition was noted and he was conveyed home, expiring shortly afterward. He was in his 73rd year. Besides his widow he leaves three grown-up children to mourn his loss. He was twice married, the present Mrs. Dingman having no family.

Mrs. Doak has returned home but Mrs. Mulligan is remaining for a more extended stay in the city.

A. J. Fallis, M.P.P. was a visitor to Toronto on Tuesday.

A Mild, Blended Cigarette

By Appointment to Their Excellencies
The LORD and LADY BYNG of VIMY

THERE is something very fine and distinctive about "Canada Dry"— a certain character and personality that are as inevitably a part of every outstanding product as of every outstanding man.

For this fine old ginger ale has a distinguished and an honored past. It has been served for years in the Houses of Parliament, and it is the ginger ale By Appointment to Their Excellencies, The Lord and Lady Byng of Vimy. Such patronage is not easily won nor freely given.

It is this prestige — this air of distinction—that has lifted "Canada Dry" above the commonplace and has helped to make it the most amazing beverage success of all time.

The story of the quality of this fine old ginger ale is known in every land and it has been translated into many tongues. It has probably done more than any other single thing to advertise the excellence and the leadership of "Made-in-Canada" goods.

The minute you taste it you will know why. It is so different from the ordinary ginger ale that it might almost be called by another name.

Special Hostess Package

A new way of packing "Canada Dry." Ideal for home use. Twelve bottles in a substantial carton. You will be especially glad to have it handy for your dinners at home or when friends drop in unexpectedly.

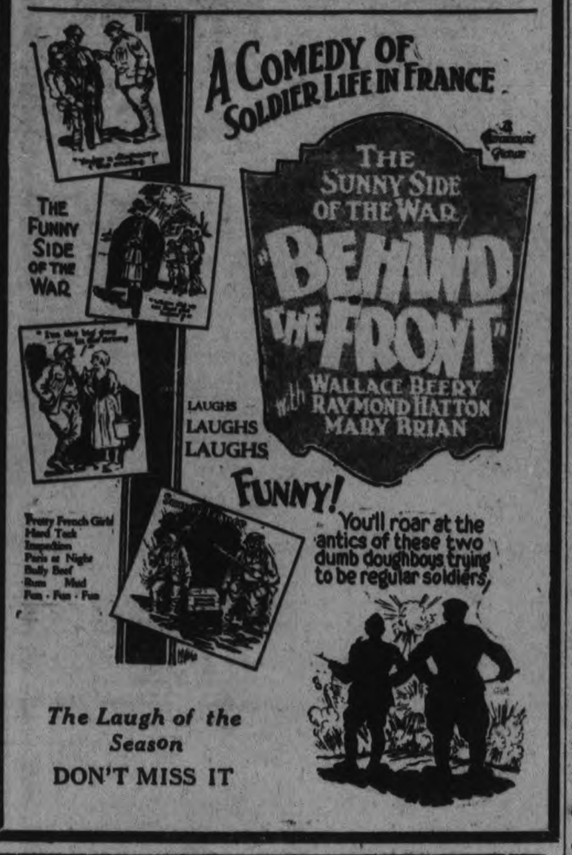
CAPITOL NOW PLAYING



HELPFUL HINTS by GOLFING STARS

BY SPECIAL ARRANGEMENT WITH GOLFERS MAGAZINE, CHICAGO

FRANCIS OUIMET—FORWARD SWING.

Allow the club to be taken back slowly, and then, when at the top of the swing, start it back with a throw of the right wrist. The left will follow closely after, and will not only guide the club but give added power and speed to the downward swing.

This speed will increase until at the time of impact the club-head will be traveling at a terrific rate of speed.

A fault which very often exists is that of starting the club down with the left hand. Bad slices are the result, because it prevents the right hand from doing its full share of the work and also has a tendency toward making the golfer cut across the ball.

After the ball has been hit, allow both hands to reach out as far as possible before the wrists break for the final time.

I always try to shoot my hands out as far as possible and figure that by doing so I must pay strict attention to my right hand. The palm of the right hand should be up and not over, because if it should be rolled over, a bad pull is apt to result

Never let the hands turn over until the ball is hit.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK?

By Edson R. Waite, Secretary Shawnee, Okla., Board of Commerce.

C. C. Howard, publisher of the Monrovia (California) Daily News, says:

THAT the man who is too modest to cry his wares to the public usually finds a sheriff who is not too modest to do so.

THAT the man who does not see any good in advertising probably does not see any good in his stock.

THAT the crowd follows the megaphone, and the man with the big voice at least secures attention and an opportunity to sell his wares. The crowd likes to be invited into your store and likes to hear you tell of the merit of your merchandise.

THAT the general public believes what it reads until it has learned to discredit the author, and the way to keep that credit is to tell the truth and tell it often.

THAT drops of advertising ink will wear away the stoniest opposition or indifference.

THAT nobody ever learned the multiplication table by reading it once, and no one will remember the many good things you have to say about your goods if you say it but once.

THAT no store is big enough to neglect the public, and if it does it will not be long until the public will neglect the store.

THAT constant repetition carries conviction.

THAT a statesman would not make progress if he were satisfied to state his position once in a campaign.

THAT a minister would not build up a church by one sermon a year.

THAT a merchant will not be long remembered who satisfied himself with an announcement of his opening and then quits.

THAT the soul of success is repetition in advertising.

THAT commercial prominence cannot be maintained or sustained without carrying the message of your service to the public often.

Advertising Pays Big Dividends—No Advertising Leads To Bankruptcy.

MOVIGRAPHS

HOLLYWOOD, May 12.—Nine years ago Kenneth Harlan was promoted to screen consequence as hero of T... as H. Ince's production of "The Flame of the Yukon," one of the great pictures of that time.

Today Arnold Gray, another unknown, bids fair to achieve similar promotion in the second filming of this story now under way by Producers Distributers under direction of George Melford.

Gray is unquestionably a find. Seen for the first time, he presents a striking and haunting similarity to the late Wallace Reid in physique, coloring, actions and ingratiating, frank youthfulness. Gray, however, will not rely upon this chance resemblance. He has plenty of individual appeal and manner, and performs like an old trouper.

Some years he came from Toledo, his native city, to crash the screen. He spent $120 for make-up accessories and equipment and got a job as an extra for one day, at $5. Net loss $115. That disillusionment sent him back into more remunerative, if less glamorous, pursuits.

Director Melford happened into a haberdashery a few weeks ago. Melford spotted Gray for just the man he wanted as romantic lead for "The Flame of the Yukon," opposite Seena Owen. In two days young Gray was performing like a veteran before the camera.

Six feet three, athletic, ruggedly handsome, and with his positive qualities nicely tempered by a genuine modesty, Gray has just the personality and talent always in keen demand by picture producers.

SENATORS WIN OPENING FIXTURE

Examiner Softball League Opens With Victory For Max Swanston's Nine.

A belated rally, during which they scored seven runs after two were down in the last innings, failed to save the day for George Johnson's Athletics, and Max Swanston's Senators won the game in the Examiner Soft Ball League at the Oval last evening 13 runs to 10. The Senators led from the first game and scored in every isning save the sixth. Dormer pitched great ball for the winners, and would have won by a much larger margin if his team mates had not staged a blow-up in the seventh, which threatened to wipe out the big lead they had been piling up throughout the game.

Tedford was the Athletics' initial pitching choice and he was consistently bumped by the Senators, while his support was wobbly. Scates relieved him in the fifth and put the brakes on sharply, but the damage had been done. A long home run by "Red" Franks and a pretty running catch by Scates, which robbed Stanley of a hit, were features of the interesting battle.

By innings:

Athletics .. ..1100017—10

Senators: Dormer p; Craig 1b; Zeihr ss; Dorrington m, Heron 3b; Beauclerc 2b; Swanston c; Pearson lf; Franks c; Stanley rf.

PILES GO QUICK

Without Salves or Cutting.

Thousands who have piles have not learned that quick and permanent relief can only be accomplished with internal medicine. Neither cutting nor any amount of treatment with ointments and suppositories will remove the cause.

Bad circulation causes piles. There is a complete stagnation of blood in the lower bowel and a weakening of the parts. Dr. J. S. Leonhardt was first to find the remedy and called his prescription HEM-ROID. Dr. Leonhardt tried it in 1000 cases with the marvelous record of success in 98 per cent. and then decided it should be sold by druggists everywhere under a rigid money-back guarantee.

Don't waste any more time with outside application. Get a package of HEM-ROID from McDermid & Jury to-day. It has given safe and lasting relief to thousands and will do the same for you.

Diamond Disputes Decided

BY EVANS

Is it possible for a batsman to hit the ball over the fence in fair territory and yet be deprived of the home run and be forced to bat over?

One of the ways such an situation can arise is through the calling of a balk on the pitcher.

With runners on the bases there are any number of infractions of the pitching rules that the umpire may construe as a balk.

When the umpire, for some reason, calls a balk on the pitcher, it immediately suspends play and the only action possible is the advancement of each runner one base.

Very often a pitcher, realizing the umpire has or is about to call a balk, hurriedly delivers the ball to the batsman with the hope that it may influence a different decision on the part of the official.

If the ball is over the batsman is almost certain to swing at it. If such a swing resulted in a home run it would simply be wasted effort. The ball became dead the moment the umpire ruled balk.

The batsman, despite his mighty drive, would be forced to bat over again.

This play has happened several times in the majors.

JACK DELANEY SCORES KNOCKOUT

Makes First Appearance in Canada at Montreal Last Night.

AN EASY VICTORY.

MONTREAL, May 13.— (Canadian Press.) —Jack Delaney rewarded 5,000 fans who turned up to see his premier appearance in Canada last night at the forum by scoring a knockout over Martin O'Grady in the seventh round of a bout which barely gave him a chance to show the paces which have enabled him to overcome such boxers at Berlenbach, McTigue and Tiger Flowers. Despite this, however, the fans were given a card offering a series of well balanced bouts, the semi-final of which saw Leo (Kid) Roy, featherweight champion of Canada, winning a decision over Spencer Garner. O'Grady although he weighed 175 1-2 pounds to Jack Delaney's 169 pounds, was no match.

THEATRE

AT THE REGENT

"THE JOHNSTOWN FLOOD" ONE OF WORLD'S WORST TRAGEDIES, REPRODUCED

Powerful Dramatic Narrative Interwoven With Historical Facts in Fox Films Production — George O'Brien Has Important Role as Heroic Woodsman.

"The Johnstown Flood" is coming to the Regent Theatre today.

To most of the older population today this greatest of American disasters means but a hazy memory of a calamity, and to the rising generation it means nothing but history, an event described by inadequate words.

It remained for Fox Films to weave a dramatic story for motion picture production around this shocking event to show realistically the ravaging horror created on May 31, 1889, when the dam above the City of Johnstown, Pennsylvania, broke and millions of gallons of water rushed madly through the valley destroying cities, homes and human beings.

There is nothing more dramatic than a calamity of this nature, and around this powerful theme has been woven a narrative that is filled to the utmost with action.

All the historical facts of the great disaster has been retained in a powerful dramatic story.

In a moment Johnstown was gone —destroyed.

In less than fifteen minutes the cruel, resistless destroying wave had come and passed, having leveled the busy mart which supplied the wants of 30,000 people; and in the same brief time, at the very lowest possible estimate over 3,000 humans perished.

This is the gigantic sweep of the story, which brings to the playgoers scenes never before printed on celluloid by a motion picture camera.

The dramatic parts of the spectacle are portrayed by George O'Brien, Janet Gaynor, Florence Gilbert, Anders Randolf, Max Davidson, Paul Nicholson; Paul Panzer and Walter Perry.

Thoroughly cleaned clover and alfalfa seed means not only fewer weeds, but lessen, likelihood of parasitic plant diseases.

LACK OF COAL WILL KEEP SOME BRITISH INDUSTRIES IDLE UNTIL MINERS DECIDE TO RESUME WORK

Railways Are Supplied But Steel Factories Are Rationing Coal.

NEWSPRINT LOW.

May Be Weeks Before Effects of General Strike Are Overcome.

LONDON, May 13 (Canadian Press Cable).—How long will it take Great Britain's industry to shake off the last nine days' nightmare and resume its halting convalesence is a question that is being gravely discussed. The date at the moment is insufficient for an exact estimate as to this.

At best no coal is likely to be raised at the mines until next week. Meanwhile factries and other industries throughout the Midlands and North of England are threatened with stoppage because of the lack of coal. At Middlesbrough, Yorkshire, 30,000 iron and steel workers are idle and the coal supplies are rationed.

In the shipyards, marine engineers and others were proceeding normally with their work until Tuesday night, when orders were received rom the council of the Trades Union Congress to cease work. With scarcely an exception, the ship workers refused to break their agreement and the boilermakers resolved to remain at work pending the taking of a strike ballot.

Flour millers who had not gone on strike earlier in the week decided Tuesday to stay on their jobs.

Revolt Against Strike

Only a comparatively few of the 700 employees in a certain Durham foundry obeyed the call sent out Tuesday night by the general council of the Trades Union Congress to join the strikers.

Cardiff and Newport ship repairers likewise refused to obey the call.

From all quarters there were reports of open revolt against the council's orders, besides which there were many strikers dribbling back to their regular employment.

As far as the heavy trades are concerned the resumption of work on the pre-stike basis depends almost entirely on a continuance of the fuel supply, although it is impossible to estimate the amount of new orders lost by the upheaval.

Railways Have Coal

With regard to the railway situation, the factor of the coal supply probably is not so acute. The companies were threatened some months ago with a strike as it was touch and go for a while whether the railwaymen's unions would accept the findings of the national wages board which, after considering the railway companies' application for wage reductions and the men's application for an increase in wages, left both parties pretty much as they were before.

The railway companies have accumulated large stocks of coal and the prolongation of the stoppage of work at the mines would not have inconvenienced them to any great extent, nevertheless a prominent strike leader said last night that the prediction that the railways would be working normally in 24 hours was too sanguine and that probably it would take a week for the railway companies to resume their full normal schedules.

Position of J. H. Thomas

Incidentally there was a good deal of comment last night on the position of J. H. Thomas, M.P., the general secretary of the National Union of Railwaymen, in connection with the general strike. He had insistently preached moderation up to the time the general council of the trades' union congress decided to call a general strike. The general impression is that he was overborne by the wilder spirits in the council. Many times Thomas has told the members of his own union that if they could find a fairer leader they should do so. Last Saturday he openly confessed that he disliked the principle of the general strike. Many observers therefore maintain that if he had spoken against a general strike earlier it might not have been called.

The newspaper situation is likely to be normal very quickly although the supply of newsprint in London through government commandeering is dangerously low. Much depends upon how quickly the docks and wharves can be cleared. The accumulations of goods of all kinds there are almost discouragingly large and it is prophesied that it will take at least three weeks to relieve the docks of their present congestion.

LONDON, May 12.—(Canadian Press Cable.) — The merchandise marks bill providing for manufactured products or farm produce being labelled with the name of the country of origin when placed on sale in Great Britain received second reading in the house of commons to-day by a vote of 221 tot 65.

Sir Philip Cunliffe-Lister, president of the board of trade, defined the merchandise marks bill as a measure to enable the purchaser of goods to know whether he was buying British produced or empire-produced goods or goods of foreign origin.

Sidney Webb, president of the board of trade in the late labor government, moved the rejection of the bill on the ground that it would create obstacles to the importation of certain classes of goods and increase the prices and encourage monopolies.

ADVENTURES of the TWINS

by OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

"I'm sorry you have lost your shadow, Whiffet!" said Cap'n Pennywinkle, when he had turned his traffic sign at the corner of Shell Avenue and Shell Boulevard at the bottom of the sea. "I'll help you to find it if I can, but the trouble is that when shadows jump into the water, they change their shapes and yours might look like anything from a plate of pancakes to a stick of candy. Just wait and I'll ask this whale."

The little traffic policeman turned his sign and the whale stopped. "Did you see a lost shadow anywhere on your travels?" asked Cap'n Pennywinkle.

The whale winked one eye at Nancy and the other eye at Nick and then he wiggled his tail. "No, you don't!" chuckled he. "I've heard many a queer story in my day, but nothing as silly as that. Ta, ta!";

And off he went laughing so hard that ten butter-fish and six mullets had to fly fairly out of his way. A sea-cucumber, sitting on the curbstone, laughed so hard at this that he got the hiccoughs dreadfully. Then along came a lobster and hit him on the back with his great claw.

The sea-cucumber choked and coughed, and what do you think, my dears! Out flew his stomach and rolled with a bounce along the sand! Bounce! Bounce! Bounce! like a ball. "You're arrested for assault and battery," shouted Cap'n Pennywinkle to the lobster. "Just see what you've done!"

"Please, sir," piped up the little sea-cucumber who had coughed, "I don't mind it. I never did like that stomach anyway. It was too little. I'll have a new one in ten minutes. Besides, just look! The lobster has lost his big claw."

"What's that?" cried the lobster, looking down. "Lost my claw? Why so I have, and I never noticed it! No harm done—I'll grow a new one in no time! But there! I have an appointment to meet some friends at the lobster-trap at two thirty. We like to go and watch the fisherman haul in his trap, without us. We always give three rousing cheers. Well, ta, ta! I must be going." The lobster waved his other claw, and he, too, was gone.

"I don't believe my shadow came here," said the Whiffet crossly. "The stork must have seen a cloud shadow or something come into the water."

"Cloud! Cloud! Who said 'cloud'?" cried an umbrella-fish, swimming up. "Everybody get under. I've lots of room."

"I should say so. In your head," said a squid, squeezing in.

"Gentlemen! Gentlemen! On your way, please," shouted Cap'n Pennywinkle. "This is no place for a discussion of brains. Please, move on. That was lucky," he remarked as they disappeared. "If Charley Squid starts ink-slinging around these parts, no one can see his nose before his face for a week. That's what he does if he gets mad, spits ink, and I don't dare arrest him."

"There's a shadow now on the sand. Perhaps that's yours, Whiffet," cried Nancy.

But Cap'n Pennywinkle said, "That's only Flatty Flounder having a nap, my dear."

"I wanta go home!" wailed the little Rag-bag Whiffet suddenly. "I wanta go home to my attic. I don't like this place."

"We'll have to take him, I guess," apologized Nancy. "Good-bye, Cap'n Pennywinkle. We're ever so much obliged."

FOREST FIRES ARE REPORTED IN NORTH WOODS

Rains Yesterday Aid Fire Fighters in Subduing Blazes.

WOODS VERY DRY.

Both Manitoba and Ontario Rangers Report Fire Under Control.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., May 13 (Canadian Press)—A report from Massey yesterday says that the first bush fire of the season started across the Sauble river and caused considerable alarm in that town, which was filled with smoke. The forestry department at Nairn was notified of the fire and a party of Rangers was sent out immediately to quench it. Three small bush fires have already been reported along the A.C.R., caused by trains, and rangers have had to extinguish two fires in Prince township, started by settlers.

The bush is very dry.

Near Fort William

FORT WILLIAM, May 13 (Canadian Press)—Several forest fires are raging near here, due to the long continued dry spell. The forestry department yesterday announced that all the forest fire are under control, but that rain and lots of it is badly needed. The day had been chilly and the sky overcast with clouds and last night there was a gentle rain.

In Manitoba

WINNIPEG, May 13 (Canadian Press)—Two seaplanes have been rushed to the scene of forest fires which menace wide areas in the Lac Du Bonnet and Grand Beach districts of Manitoba. Reports from the forest patrol indicate that the fires are being subdued. Rain, which was fairly general throughout the province, aided the fire fighters.

IMMODEST DANCE SAYS OMEMEE OF ENTERTAINMENT PRESENTED BY PETERBOROUGH YOUNG FOLK

Knox Church Minstrels Disclaim Responsibility For Addition to Programme.

AN APOLOGY.

Director Says Exactly Same Performance Given Here Without Shock.

OMEMEE, May 14. — Adverse comment is being passed in the village upon the second part of the programme given by Knox United Church Minstrels from Peterboro in Coronation Hall under the auspices of the Young People's Union of Omemee United Church.

No objection is taken to the first part of the programme, in which the young men presented a natty appearance, wearing white trousers, black coats, white collars and black bow ties. The six funny end men kept the audience in gales of laughter with their songs and jokes. The orchestra which accompanied the troupe was well received and thoroughly appreciated.

The trouble came with the second part of the programme, which was said by the audience to be a keen disappointment, especially to the members of the Young People's Union who had not bargained for the features presented. The dancing girls, who did not appear with the minstrels in Peterborough, were brought to Omemee, it is understood, without the knowledge of the entire troupe. The first dance given was most immodest, and called forth considerable adverse comment. It is reported, however, that an apology is forthcoming to the Young People's Union from the church in Peterborough, under whose auspices the Minstrels were organized. The serious position in which the local group has been placed is recognized by the authorities in Peterborough.

Smoking, Too!

In all fairness to the young ladies of Omemee, it must be pointed out that they were not guilty of cigarette smoking while strolling in the village, as has been reported. The girls indulge in this pre-eminently masculine vice were Peterborough girls, who accompanied the Minstrels here.

Given in Peterborough.

TO ADVERTISE CANDY

Canadian Industry to Spend $100,000.

MONTREAL, May 14 (Canadian Press).—A $100,000 campaign to advertise the Canadian confectionery industry, is to be put under way. At the convention in this city Thursday of representatives from the biscuit, chocolate and other confectionery trades of the Dominion, the advertising move, to be operated in a co-operative manner, was decided upon.

The subject came up for consideration, following an address by C. M. Mutch, of Toronto, Ont., during which it was said huge benefit was enjoyed when competitors joined forces to improve the general market for the commodities with which they are concerned.

THE WEATHER.

Weather conditions remain practically unchanged. Highest temperature yesterday 66 degrees. Lowest last night 34 degrees. Gentle showers to-night in some places will likely be followed by warmer weather for Saturday and Sunday.—W.P.

THINK IT OVER.

Canada's trade in 1925 (Calendar year) reached $2,161,000,000 — $295,000,000 more than in 1924; imports increasing by $82,000,000, and exports by $213,000,000. The favorable trade balance of $393,000,000 has only once been exceeded.

Dogs' Right To Bark Upheld By Court Order

WASHINGTON, May 14. — United Press. — Dogs have certain barking rights, Judge McMahon declared in the police court, when a neighborhood row over a noisy Airedale was brought to him.

'Unquestionably a dog has certain rights, and may be allowed to bark sometimes," the judge said. He siggested that the owner lock the dog in the cellar in the evening when his barking was most offensive to the neighbors.

PEACE RESTORED.

Warsaw Telegram Says City Is Now Orderly—Many Were Killed.

NEW YORK, May 14 (Canadian Press).—Neither side has yet gained the upper hand in the struggle for control in Poland. This conclusion is reached through a digest of the fragmentary cable despatches received up to late forenoon. The trouble is the outgrowth of a demand by Marshal Joseph Pilsudski and his adherents for the resignation of Premier Witos and the establishment of a Ministry to be drawn from the party of the Left. Street fighting in Warsaw continues, and it is reported that 450 persons have been killed.

Marshal Pilsudski holds the northern section of the capital and controls the bridges over the Vistula River. President Wojciechowski and the Cabinet remain in the Belvedere Palace, where they fled on the approach of the revolutionary troops. They refuse to heed Pilsudski's demands for their surrender.

Terror reigns in Warsaw, according to Berlin advices, bands of civilians shouting for Pilsudski and assaulting those who refuse to bare their heads. Foreigners, alarmed by the disorders, are fleeing the country. Berlin says that the Government officials are reported to have fled from Warsaw, but this is not confirmed from any other source. Another report, likewise unconfirmed, through Czecho-Slovakian channels, says Premier Witos has been taken prisoner by Pilsudski.

Negotiations Reported.

LONDON, May 14 (Canadian Press).—The Polish Legation has received a telegram from Warsaw, timed at noon, saying that peace and order have been restored in the city. The message said the Government and the insurgents had opened negotiations.

Possible Dictator.

PARIS, May 14 (Canadian Press) —Marshal Pilsudski of Poland, who in 1921 was received here by President Millerand, acclaimed as the saviour of Poland and honored by Paris municipality amid the plaudits of the Parisian crowd, has suddenly loomed before the French public as a possible fourth Dictator of Europe after Mussolini of Italy, Primo De Rivero of Spain, and Pangalos of Greece.

NEW YORK, May 14.—Eight persons were slightly injured when a bomb partially wrecked a five-storey tenement at 355 West 37th Street, early Thursday.

Eighty tenants were thrown into panic and their screams aroused the neighborhood.

The bomb was of dynamite with a time fuse. Police were unable to learn a motive.

Goldfish Swallowing Latest Hollywood Sport

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., May 14 (United Press).—Gold fish swallowing is the latest sport at fashionable Hollywood drinking parties, according to a divorce suit on file here today by Mrs. Ruth Newton against her millionaire husband, John K. Newton. In her suit, Mrs. Newton told of a party at her home last November while she was away. One of the guests, it was alleged, swallowed four of her pet goldfish.

Later, according to the suit, a dozen more goldfish were sent for and swallowed by another "highly intoxicated" guest. A physician with a stomach pump had to be summoned, Mrs. Newton said.

Huge Dirigible and Crew of Seventeen Are Silent Since Crossing North Pole And Indications Are That Storm Rages

Amundsen Again Missing—Lost For Days Last Year and Regained His Base By Heroic Measures—Relay Station at Point Barrow Quiet.

WORLD AWAITS NEWS OF SUCCESS OR GRIM TIDINGS OF DISASTER

Static-Garbled Messages From Unidentified Stations Are Impossible To Decipher—Radio Operators at Their Posts Night and Day To Pick Up Norge's Call.

SEATTLE, Washn, May 14 (Canadian Press).—The dawning of the fourth day since the dirigible Norge left King's Bay, Spitzbergen, to fly across the North Pole to Nome, Alaska, saw the world anxiously awaiting word from her. The chief operators of the Alaska naval radio stations spent another night listening for word of the great airship carrying Captain Roald Amundsen and his seventeen companions. A message sent from an unidentfied station was the only word of the Norge which broke through the veil of silence which has covered her whereabouts.

ROME, May 14 (Canadian Press). — Considerable anxiety over the fate of the Polar dirigible Nörge is felt throughout Italy in view of the lack of advices as to her whereabouts.

Last Year's Adventure.

"I am all right" was the word which reached the world last June from Amundsen after no word had been heard from him for 23 days. On the 21st of May last year Amundsen and Lincoln Ellsworth left King's Bay with two airplanes and four other men. The flight was abandoned within 150 miles of the North Pole as the party found that they had used so much gasoline on the flight so far that they had not a supply enough for the return trip. One plane was left behind and the party of six returned in the remaining plane.

SNOW ADDS TO DANGER.

NOME, Alaska, May 14.—(United Press.)—Snow flurries to-day added to the weather hazards facing the Amundsen-Ellsworth-Nobile dirigible Norge, which is presumed to be drifting somewhere over the Arctic ocean north of here.

At 11 a.m. eastern standard time, the snow was falling here with wind driven force, while heavily overcast skies increased the airship's possible peril.

Missing 30 Hours.

At the time of the filing of the dispatch, seventy-seven hours had passed since the Norge left Spitzbergen and approximately 30 hours since the radio station at St. Paul Island reported hearing the Norge calling. All wireless stations in Alaska were still attempting without result to locate the dirigible.

The barometer was falling steadily and registered 29.52 degrees at this hour.

Old timers predicted a severe storm blowing in from the ocean over which the Amundsen expedition was believed to be soaring.

NOME, Alaska, May 14 (Canadian Press)—Up to 3 a.m. today, eastern standard time, radio operators here had heard nothing from the dirigible Norge, in which 18 men headed by Captain Raold Amundsen are flying via the North Pole from King's Bay, Spitzbergen, to Nome.

All indications here pointed to a storm in the territory where the Amundsen - Ellsworth trans - Polar dirigible Norge was proceeding from Spitzbergen via Point Barrow, Alaska.

No Word Yet

NEW YORK, May 14 (Canadian Press)—Despite static-garbled radio messages believed to have been sent from the Norge no authentic word had been received up till midnight last night by the New York Times and St. Louis Globe-Democrat from the Amundsen - Ellsworth - Nobile expedition since shortly after it sailed over the Pole.

Relay Station Silent

NEW YORK, May 14 (Canadian Press)—The New York Times says no word had been received since April 18 from William C. Lyon, correspondent for the newspaper and Leo W. Bundy, United States Army radio operator, who were sent to establish a radio station at Point Barrow, Alaska, to relay messages from the Raold Amundsen party on the airship Norge.

SEATTLE, May 14 (Canadian Press)—Advices received by Associated Press this morning from the radio station at Hinchinbrook Island near Cordova, Alaska, said that the station had intercepted a message from an unknown station to the effect that the airship Norge had passed over Point Barrow at 9 a.m. yesterday. Naval radio stations in Alaska have redoubled their efforts to communicate with the Norge.

What has happened to Captain Amundsen and his seventeen companions aboard the airship was the question many were eagerly asking but which no one in the northwest was able to answer. It is known that Amundsen passed over the North Pole at 7 o'clock p.m. on Tuesday, Eastern standard time.

A wall of statis is thought to be the chief obstacle in preventing communication between the Norge and Alaskan radio stations. Numerous garbled messages have been reported since the North Pole message was received but it has been impossible to determine the origin.

The progress of the Norge in her flight across the North Pole en route from Spitzbergen to Alaska is indicated in the above map. Below, the big dirigible is shown attached to her mooring mast. The last heard of the airship and her crew was a message from an unidentified station saying she had been sighted at Point Barrow.

Ex-Lord Mayor Bower Is Special Traffic Cop

LONDON, May 14. United Press. — One of Dick Whittington's successors in the Lord Mayorship of London, is a traffic cop to-day. He is Sir Alfred Bower, former Lord Mayor. Sir Alfred stands in Fleet Street wearing a bowler hat and a raincoat, directing traffic, in the role of a special policeman.

CONTINUE WORK ON GRAVEL ROAD

Highway To Be Finished as Far as Bailieboro This Year;.

MACADAM ROAD.

According to the figures of the Department of Highways, which were made available recently by the Minister, the Hon. George S. Henry, enough money has been set aside to go on with the macadamizing of the Peterboro-Port Hope highway. It is expected that the road will be built this year between Fraserville and Bailieboro, which is a little over five miles. The cost is estimated at $16,430 per mile, and when the road is finished it will be the same type as the part already built to Fraserville.

Has Proposals.

Premier Baldwin announced in the House of Commons to-day that he has prepared proposals which, in his opinion, form a reasonable and fair basis for settlement of the coal dispute. The proposals would be handed to the miners and coal mine owners immediately for their consideration over the week-end, he said.

Daily Lessons In French Featured By Montreal Star

MONTREAL, May 14 (Canadian Press). — "A sincere and carefully considered effort on our part to popularize the study of the French language among English-speaking people," is how the Montreal Star comments on a new feature that it has introduced in the shape of daily lessons in "pure, simple and colloquial French" which that journal began with yesterday's issue.

The lessons are conducted by Hector Carneau, LL.B., the city librarian of Montreal. They take the form of a few English phrases, followed by their French equivalents, with the French pronunciation Anglicised.

The Star observes that "these short lessons will increase your capacity to earn wages and salaries and are likely to help you in your present occupation, whereby you will be able to earn more money."

STRIKE SITUATION IS EASIER WITH MANY AGREEMENTS FIXED AND TRANSPORTATION RESUMING

Railwaymen and Tramway Men To Re-open Traffic Immediately.

MORE NEWSPAPERS.

Baldwin Among Greatest British Prime Ministers Says The Mail.

LONDON, May 14. Canadian Press. — The British industrial crisis began to clear rapidly to-day. Railwaymen who had remained out notwithstanding the official termination of the general strike, signed an agreement with the companies. Traffic will be resumed as soon as possible.

The Trades Union Congress said there was a marked easement in the tenseness of the situation throughout the country, employers being increasingly inclined to discuss a reasonable basis for resumption of work. An arrangement was reached between the London Underground Electric Railway Company and its employees under which the underground and affiliated tram and bus lines will shortly resume normal service.

Hopeful Signs

A hopeful sign in the post-strike situation was seen this morning in an announcement from headquarters of the Underground Electric Railways of London, that a satisfactory strike settlement had been concluded between the companies and the unions and that it was hoped to have a normal service operating by Saturday on the underground railways, the London General Omnibus Company routes and the allied tramways.

A note was issued at Croydon Tram Company headquarters asking all men to resume work as "A strike settlement was reached at 2.30 o'clock this morning." London County Council trams, which operate over the greater part of the city, will function as soon as possible, it was stated this morning. The settlement of the strike affecting the London County Council Tramways was announced this afternoon by Ernest Bevan, Secretary of the Transport Workers' Federation. Other settlements in various districts are reported to have been effected.

Newspapers, although far below normal, were more abundant today than any day since the strike began. The British Gazette, the Government's strike organ, ceased to appear, having turned over The Morning Post's plant, where it had been printed, to the owners. The Morning Post came out with a four page paper today. Several other papers also got out four sheet editions.

Baldwin Lauded.

The Daily Mail, which issued a single sheet this morning, expressed high admiration of Premier Stanley Baldwin in an editorial. "In his (Premier Baldwin's) handling of the strike situation, he has shown steadfastness which has filled the country with respect for him," the Mail says.

"Indeed, the qualities he has revealed have established his position as one of the greatest of British Prime Ministers."

GERMAN FLEET SAILS FOR SPAIN

Four Battleships and Two Light Cruisers Making Trip.

CEMENT FRIENDSHIP.

(By Eric Keyser, United News Staff Correspondent.)

WILHELMSHAVEN., Germany, May 14. — The first German fleet unit to leave for foreign ports since the world war, sailed on Thursday on a Mediterranean cruise to Spain and the Balearic Islands.

trip are the flagship Schleswigs-Holers comprise the squadron.

The success of previous visits of detached German cruisers, especially those which visited South American countries, induced the German navy department to arrange this voyage to the shores of the Iberian Peninsula.

Officials of the navy hope the trip will do much toward cementing the already cordial friendship between Germany and Spain.

The four battleships making the trip are the flagship Schleswigs-Holstein, the Hanover, Elsass and Hessen. All are of the Deutschland type which was left to Germany by the Treaty of Versailles. The two light cruisers are the Nymph and the Amazone.

The German squadron will head through the channel, skirt the French coast in a wide circle, and cruise through the Bay of Biscay. It will then sail around the west coast of Spain, pass the Straits of Gibraltar, and make for the Balearic Islands.

There it will go into port while officers and men visit Mahon and Palma. Further visits to Spanish ports will include one to Barcelona and Malaga on the east coast and Vigo on the west.

No other foreign points will be touched on the cruise.

GERMAN FLEET SAILS FOR SPAIN

Four Battleships and Two Light Cruisers Making Trip.

CEMENT FRIENDSHIP.

(By Eric Keyser, United News Staff Correspondent.)

WILHELMSHAVEN, Germany, May 14. — The first German fleet unit to leave for foreign ports since the world war, sailed on Thursday on a Mediterranean cruise to Spain and the Balearic Islands.

trip are the flagship Schleswigs-Holers comprise the squadron.

The success of previous visits of detached German cruisers, especially those which visited South American countries, induced the German navy department to arrange this voyage to the shores of the Iberian Peninsula.

Officials of the navy hope the trip will do much toward cementing the already cordial friendship between Germany and Spain.

The four battleships making the trip are the flagship Schleswigs-Holstein, the Hanover, Elsass and Hessen. All are of the Deutschland type which was left to Germany by the Treaty of Versailles. The two light cruisers are the Nymph and the Amazone.

The German squadron will head through the channel, skirt the French coast in a wide circle, and cruise through the Bay of Biscay. It will then sail around the west coast of Spain, pass the Straits of Gibraltar and make for the Balearic Islands.

There it will go into port while officers and men visit Mahon and Palma. Further visits to Spanish ports will include one to Barcelona and Malaga on the east coast and Vigo on the west.

No other foreign points will be touched on the cruise.

WARSAW FARMERS WORKING ON LAND

Trying to Get Spring Crops in—Almost Too Late for Wheat.

WARSAW, May 14.—Sand is drying up nicely and farmers with their teams are on the land, to get their spring crops in as soon as possible.

It is almost too late for spring wheat and so farmers have altered the plans they had in the fall and will sow more buckwheat, hungarian or millet.

Much fall wheat has been drowned out in low places and alfalfa, second year, is winter-killed on the knolls.

Several have reported that the land is packed quite hard.

The roads are levelling. The stage can now go by Douro and return in time to let the mail carriers make their rounds in the evening. Never since the rural routes have been established have the couriers been unable to make their rounds in the evening, after the first of April, or within a few days of the time.

On account of the heavy rain on Thursday afternoon, the attendance at the missionary meeting was disappointingly small. Mrs. Robert Moore, the president, gave a report of the convention which she attended in Lindsay. She had the programme with her, and took it up, item by item. She was pleased to have attended the first Presbyterial Missionary convention.

On Sunday evening Rev. Mr. Smith of Toronto spoke in the interests of prohibition. His address perhaps necessarily was more of a political address than a sermon.

On Wednesday evening of last week Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Hamblin entertained the members of the U.F.O. and U.F.W.O. The two organizations held their business meetings separately. The U.F.W.O. did a lot of business and were through in good time. Then there was a social chat and music. The U.F.O. were much longer, indeed kept up their discussions while lunch was being served. It had been planned to take up some of the resolution passed by the convention last Fall, but there was not time.

Warminister cheese factory began operations for the season last week under the management of Ralph Selby.

Warsaw cheese factory reopened this week under the management of Charles Foster.

On Tuesday evening there was a meeting of all interested in the church services of this district in the United church. Rev. MacIntosh of Lindsay and Rev. Edminson were the committee appointed by the Presbytery to meet the people. Three propositions were before the people. One, to remain as they were; another, to take in Cottesloe with the four other charges and have Centre Dummer as a mission; the third, to have the present charges Cottesloe and South Dummer. With the latter two there would be one ordained minister and one student, also a morning service. Mr. James Hawthorne moved that they remain as they are. Mr. E. Hawthorne moved an amendment that the people have a chance to think things over before they be called upon to decide what they would do for all time. The amendment carried.

As things are there is no morning service. There is in the Baptist church and there is an afternoon service generally, in the Anglican church. There is a strong feeling that there should be two services regularly in Warsaw. Those who are getting up in years like to attend their own church and find it difficult in the winter evenings.

Centre Dummer is on the ninth line, nine miles east of Warsaw, and to get there Warsaw people have generally to go three miles south, and then three miles north, so that the idea of reaching it from Warsaw is quite impracticable. Even Carmel is nearer to Norwood than to Warsaw.

Though there are good teachers in Warsaw the school and grounds are far from what they should be. The children even have to have their games on the road. The little bit of level ground there is on the roadside is generally covered with piles of wood drying for the following Winter. Since little Alec Bowen was so badly injured the wood has been stowed in the school cellar. It is pretty hard for parents, who do not wish their children on the road, to pay taxes and send them to school, where they must either stay inside or play on the street. The very fact of having to play on the street inculcates bad principles, let alone the danger of injury from passing vehicles.

Wesley Bullock is on a visit to relatives and old friends. He is seriously contemplating bringing his wife and children back to Ontario.

Mr. and Mrs. William Selkirk moved to Norwood on Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs Clifford Selkirk, Miss Myra Thompson, and Cecil Wasson were in the village Monday evening.

Mr. David Miller spent the week end in Burnbrae.

Miss Gow spent a couple of weeks visiting friends in Peterboro and Lakefield.

Mrs. John Tucker left on Wednesday, May 12, to visit friends in Dummer, Sask.

Mrs. Donald MacIntosh was prepared to leave for her home in Zelandia, Sask., but was taken ill suddenly.

Mrs. John Butzer, Oshkosh, Wis., recently gave birth to her fourth set of twins.

A Chicago building of brick weighing 8,000 tons was recently moved 35 feet.

Don't Neglect The Children's Coughs and Colds

Mrs. Wm. W. Card, Bancroft, Ont., writes:—"Last winter my three children had very bad colds, and they would cough all night long, which was very annoying to the rest of the family.

I could get nothing to help them until one night, a friend who was staying with me, advised me to give them

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup

I immediately got some, and after I had used four bottles of it my children became quite well again, thanks to Dr. Wood's."

This preparation has been on the market for the past 37 years; you don't experiment when you buy it; put up only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

PEMMICAN RATION FOR NORGE'S CREW

Amunsden Received 24-Lb Bag From Alberta.

WINNIPEG, Man., May 14 (Canadian Press).—Pemmican, a concentrated food, which was the original foundation of the Canadian West, soared high over the "top of the world" with the Amundsen-Ellsworth Polar expedition.

Last summer when Captain Amundsen was passing through Western Canada, he was presented with a twenty-pound bag of pemmican, obtained at Wainwright, Alta., at the time, the explorer intimated that he would take the emergency ration with him on his Polar cruise.

Pemmican, according to old-timers, has an exceptionally rich food value. It is obtained by pounding the lean meat of the Buffalo until it is about as fine as dust. The fat of the meat is then rendered and poured over the meat dust, and the mixture packed in a bag made of buffalo hide.

Commenting on the value of this food, the Free Press says:

"The early buffalo hunters, trappers, voyageurs and Red River cart chauffeurs in pioneer days of Western Canada made history with pemmican. Starting out in the morning with a couple of ounces of pemmican for their day's sustenance, they could do fifty miles in twelve hours, shoot a couple of hundred buffalo, fight Indians, drink a barrel of slough water, and get home that night in time to hook up for 43 hours of Red River jigging. Properly made, it will last for a century. The older it gets the better it is, which makes it like something else not found at the North Pole."

FOUR MEN FACE THEFT CHARGE

Accused of Stealing From House of Baltimore Citizen.

COBOURG, May 14.—Coming before Magistrate Floyd here on Tuesday four men, who were charged with being implicated in the robbery at Capt. A. F. Wilson's residence near the village of Baltimore, were remanded for trial. The charge against a fifth man was dismissed. Capt. Wilson went to British Columbia last November, and the family were away from their home all winter. He is alleged to have given the key of his house to a man named Watson, who had formerly been in his employ and who was then engaged with a farmer residing near Baltimore. Capt. Wilson is alleged to have received a letter from Watson saying that some person had broken into the house and barn, and that things were lying all over the house. Capt. Wilson was asked to state what he wanted saved and these articles would be stored for him.

He got back from B.C. about April 20 and Watson told him he had stored a number of things where he was employed for safety, but did not tell him where other goods were.

Capt. Wilson accompanied the police to four Cobourg homes. At one he identified goods valued at about $500 as his property, at another place $100 worth, at the third place $50 worth, and at a fourth $20 worth.

Watson elected not to be tried by the magistrate and was remanded for trial before the County Judge, with or without jury as he may elect.

Three other men were remanded for trial on two charges. The fifth man was allowed to go. Bail was not accepted.

W. F. Kerr, K.C., represented the Crown, and for the defendants, F. M. Field, K.C., T. F. Hall, K.C., and F. D. Boggs, K.C., were present.

Magistrate Floyd presided at the Court.

MOTHERS' DAY SERVICES

AT OMEMEE.

OMEMEE, May 14.—Mothers' Day was fittingly observed in Trinity United church on Sunday, not only by the wearing of a white flower for a mother departed and a colored one in honor of the mothers still living, but also in church decoration, sermon and song. A profusion of beautiful pink roses, the gift of a far-away son to his mother and a memorial wreath, the tribute of another son and his family to a mother recently deceased, graced the table in front of the pulpit, along with numerous beautiful plants, which were placed within the altar rail.

The children of the Sunday school who occupied the central pews, were addressed in the morning on the commandment, "Honor thy father and mother."

A feature of the service, quite in keeping with the day, was the baptism of Garnet Roger Pogue, the little son of Mr. and Mrs. Burton Pogue.

At the morning service the choir rendered two appropriate selections, "Mothers Faith", and "My Mother's Old Bible is True" with solo by Mr. Roy Marshall.

The evening sermon dealt with the companionship and confidence of mother and daughter and father and son. The selections by the choir were, chorus "Mothers Songs" and a duet "My Mother's Voice" by the Misses Mary and Vera Lowe.

United (Presbyterian) Church

LAKEFIELD, May 14.—The Mothers' Day service was held in the school room for the children, but the theme was carried through the morning service also. The choir rendered special music suitable to the day, and the pastor, Rev. P. L. Jull, took his text from the words of the Lord on the Cross, spoken to the beloved disciple, "Behold thy Mother," spoken by the dying Lord, who in the hours of agony thought of His Mother. Mother's place all through the ages has been a definite one, although not always as much honored as it should be. The word "Mater" has been used by many, and one sees the one who measures out, making a little go a long way. The Mother is the companion, the adviser, and the comforter, and is usually the one who gives the child its first religious instruction.

"In these days, when a special day is set apart to honor the Mother," said the speaker, would it not be fitting if one would endeavor in every way in our power to make the world safe for mothers? The heaviest cost of war is borne by the Mother; Mother feels the burden of intemperance, vice and poverty more than any one else, so let it be our part not only to honor the Mother with our lips on Mothers' Day, but to bend every energy to making the world safe for Mother."

Regent Street Church

On Sunday morning the service was especially for the children and the church was decorated with flowers and birds in cages suspended, and the discourse was on "Our Birds," pointing a useful lesson to the young on the value of birds and that they should protect and treasure them rather than trying to destroy them.

In the evening, the theme of the discourse was taken from I. Samuel 1, and two last verses, dealing with the Mother, man's best earthly friend. The choir was made up of married ladies, who rendered music appropriate to the day.

There was a large attendance at both services.

The floors and the bathtub—in short we maintain
That for all household cleaning, no equal has Jane.

LAWN BOWLERS DESERVE CONSIDERATION.

The advent of softball, a form of baseball that is attaining wide popularity because it is much more adapted for general use than regulation baseball and involves only very light expenditure in equipment, may undoubtedly lead to a demand upon the city fathers for more accommodation along the line of playing grounds, and this development is one that will have to be taken into consideration, if not by this year's Council, at least by the city fathers of other years.

At the same time there is a plea from citizens who want a certain amount of healthful and not too strenuous recreation that facilities for lawn bowling be not forgotten.

Its admirers point out that while accommodation is provided for various forms of sport appealing more particularly to the young and vigorous, there is really no civic provision for more mature citizens who want an opportunity to exercise in a less vigorous fashion.

Lawn bowling offers a type of recreation that is ideal for such citizens, and the claims of its devotees for consideration should not be lost sight of by the City Council when matters of this kind are to the fore.

UNNECESSARY RISKS.

Dr. McLean, Assistant Chief Commissioner of the Dominion Railway Board, addressing the safety convention in Toronto this week, said some things that should be heeded by motorists.

"There is no escaping the conclusion that the change in method of travel on the highways has brought about changes in risk," declared Dr. McLean, who dealt chiefly with the menace of level crossings.

The figures he quoted in this connection are arresting.

There were 257 highway crossing accidents in Canada last year, 54 1-2 per cent. of these occurring in the Province of Ontario.

And here is something that throws a light on the number of such accidents.

From records supplied by the C.P.R., the C.N.R. and the T. H. and B. railways from September, 1923, to November, 1924, it was found that 636 cases were reported where people took chances at level crossings, disregarding warnings.

That is, at crossings where protection was supplied 636 people refused to play safe in the face of warnings.

Dr. McLean's estimate that 60 per cent. of the level crossing accidents are due to the carelessness of motorists or conditions of weather, is a conservative one, but it should cause automobilists to do some quiet thinking as to the need of care, especially in view of the fact that on Canada's 40,000 miles of railway it is estimated that there is an intersecting highway crossing at every three-quarters of a mile.

THE MYSTERY REMAINS.

The long awaited Ferguson London speech has been delivered, and the people of Ontario are quite as much in the dark as to the Government's attitude toward the liquor question or as to the date of a general Provincial election as they were before Wednesday.

All they know about the election is that Mr. Ferguson says that he will hold it whenever he considers it most opportune for the Province and for the Conservative party.

That statement was hardly necessary, although in the minds of some people there will be natural wonder at the order in which the Premier placed the two, they not unreasonably expecting that the party would have been put before the Province in any calculation of the kind.

As to his Government's liquor policy, Mr. Ferguson had nothing to say whatever.

If there is any change contemplated, if Ontario is soon to try a system of Government control, there was no intimation of it in the London address.

Mr. Ferguson indeed sheered widely away from the whole subject, and instead of receiving enlightenment upon a question over which there has been much speculation, Ontario is left in a position of complete darkness.

Nor was any sign vouchsafed that by-elections are to be held in the seven vacant ridings in the near future.

In short, Mr. Ferguson's London speech was remarkable not for what it said but for what it left unsaid.

INTERESTING FIGURES.

A. W. Campbell, Commissioner of Highways in the Dominion Department of Railways and Canals, has issued a circular dealing with the question of the highway, the motor vehicle and the tourist in Canada that is full of timely and interesting information.

In view of the prominence given the motor industry by reason of the proposed tariff changes announced by Hon. J. A. Robb, it is interesting to note that the figures quoted by the Commissioner of Highways show that the value of primary production in the Canadian automotive industry in 1925 amounted to nearly $88,500,000, and the value of importations of vehicles and parts totalled almost $29,000,000.

It may be news to most people, too, to know that last year 124 different makes of automobiles were in use on the highways of Canada, and that the average total revenue collected from owners of these Canadian cars in the form of licenses, gasoline tax, etc., was $24.13, the average in Ontario falling slightly lower than this(inasmuch as this Province collected from a total registration of 344,112 motor vehicles, a total revenue of $7,684,434, which figures out at the rate of $22.03 per car.

Dealing with the tourist question, the Commissioner's figures show that motor tourists from the United States spent $188,554,400 in this country last year, Ontario getting the lion's share of this with $97,973,400. These totals are arrived at by assuming an outlay of $5 daily per head for supplies and exportable purchases, and also assuming that each American car carries four people.

Of course, some of this outlay on the part of United States visitors is matched by the spending of Canadian money across the border by Canadian tourists in the United States.

Canadians are visiting the Republic in largely increasing numbers. While in 1923 the number of permits granted Canadians for entry into the United States for touring purposes was 126,628, this had jumped to 162,475 in 1924 and last year to 223,079.

Assuming, as Mr. Campbell does, that on the same basis these Canadian tourists spent $60,000,000 in the United States, the balance in favour of the Dominion is over $128,000,000.

BRITISH LABOR'S BLUNDER.

Among the blunders which history will lay at the door of the Labor leaders responsible for the precipitation of the general strike in Britain none was more incalculably stupid than the attempt to silence the press of the country. Contrary to the impression created by earlier despatches from the scene of conflict, it was no wild impulse on the part of a few hot-headed printers and compositors carried away by the excitement of the moment in a certain well-known London newspaper establishment that started the movement to suppress the newspapers and stifle the organs of public opinion throughout the length and breadth of the land.

Happening, as it did, at the very moment when the Government and the Trade Union Council seemed in a fair way of reaching a basis of settlement, the strike of the mechanical staff of the Daily Mail, ostensibly because they objected to certain sentiments expressed in an editorial, was in itself a supremely foolish proceeding impossible to justify on any ground.

In the first place, it was an intolerable attempt to set at defiance the well established principle that the direction and control of the policy and opinions of a newspaper rest exclusively in the hands of its proprietors and editors. In no trade or profession are the services of a staff more valued than are those of the printers and compositors of a newspaper by the owners who employ them, or by the journalists associated with them. In none are their rights and privileges better safeguarded and more faithfully respected. But these certainly do not include the right to dictate what shall, or shall not, be published either editorially or in the news columns.

Utterly unjustifiable from a journalistic and, indeed, common-sense point of view, the action of the Daily Mail men was no less insensate in its untimeliness. There is the authority not only of Premier Baldwin, but of the Labor leaders who were in conference with members of the Government at the eleventh hour, for the statement that was the immediate cause of the collapse of negotiations carried almost to the point of a favorable issue. If the assurance of Mr. J. H. Thomas that he and his colleagues knew nothing of the Daily Mail incident is to be accepted, the conclusion is inescapable that either the Trade Union Council had lost command of the situation, or that the organization of the general strike was in other and less responsible hands.

The truth would seem to be, however, that though the sudden suspension of publication of the Daily Mail was, as the Prime Minister characterized it, "the first overt move" in the industrial revolution, it was only one of many similar acts deliberately planned by the forces of anarchy to assist, as they foolishly thought, their cause. This view is confirmed by the statement published in the first number of the British Gazette, issued by the Government, that "nearly all the newspapers have been silenced by violent concerted action," as well as by the early boasts of the strike leaders that they had effectively strangled what they choose to describe as the capitalistic press.

The result was, for a few days, a situation unparalleled in the history of journalism since the days of its infancy. Its presses stopped, and its traffic of news suspended, Fleet Street, the hub of the newspaper universe, became overnight the scene and centre of a new battle for the freedom of the press, a battle waged with fierce intensity and not a little ingenuity between those determined to ensure a supply of news, however crude, in spite of the terrorist tactics of the strikers, and the forces that had made it part of their revolutionary programme to stifle public opinion and prevent the people from knowing the developments of a grave industrial crisis.

John Le Sage, one of the greatest journalists of the Victorian epoch once declared that "the British public hates lies, and lies do not pay." It was a forcible way of saying that the British public hates the suppression of truth, of which an untrammelled press is the surest guardian. In attempting to silence the newspapers, the strike leaders displayed an ignorance of history and of their own interests, as well as of the character of the British people, for it was in the conflict with an autocracy more stringent and reactionary than capitalism that the freedom of the press was won, and it is only by a free press that democracy will continue to prevail. No greater blunder has ever been perpetrated in the name of British Labor than its misguided and futile resort to the suppressive methods of the Russian Soviet and the Italian Mussolini.—Ottawa Journal.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

The mystery has been solved. Ontario is to have a general election when Premier Ferguson decides to hold one.

Meanwhile the seven vacant seats in the Legislature will continue to remain vacant.

The British strike at least accomplished one feat of some merit inasmuch as it supplied an opportunity for the Mail and Empire and the Globe to agree upon something. Both papers in their leaders yesterday pronounced the end of the strike as a victory for British common sense.

The Canadian labour unions get credit for offering assistance to the British strikers, and at the same time save their cash.

It is not as easy to start the wheels of industry after a big strike as it is to put the strike itself in motion.

As the Ottawa Journal pertinently reminds us, there's always a chance that the garden seeds will come up to scratch if the neighboring cats don't.

A general strike has been fought out in Great Britain, the North Pole has twice been located via the aerial route, but the Budget debate still goes on at Ottawa.

The worst atrocity of the British strike occurred not in London, England, but in London, Ontario, where the Advertiser published the following: "Lady Mountbatten, frying sausages in Hyde Park for voluntary workers, will no doubt prompt Punch to remark that Londoners never sausage a spectacle before."

HEALTH AND ALCOHOL.

To the Editor of The Examiner:
Sir:

Some one signing himself "In Earnest" in your paper quotes Dr. McCullough, the Provincial Health Officer, against alcohol. Now alcohol may be all wrong and mostly everything is, but I was in the trenches and I know that if it hadn't been for rum, double strength rum, the soldiers couldn't have stood the cold and the wet. We didn't want food, we wanted fire. Someone else who wasn't there will say beef tea is as good. Beef tea has to be doctored up with red pepper to be any good at all and while it loads the stomach and makes a man feel heavy it doesn't stay with him as heat like rum. Rum makes a fellow feel that there's life in him. Now we are all sick and tired of hearing people who couldn't drive a cow, and would be unfit if the regimental doctor had to examine them, to carry a musket, but are all the great army doctors wrong and all the millions of men.

A few wouldn't take rum or any stimulant. So far as I saw they were soon on the sick list. Then why on earth did women object to cigarettes? It was the only consolation the dying soldiers had; the men who died that the objectors might live. If the war was to be fought over again do you think there would be prohibition in the army. Not if the war was to be won.

Drinking is another thing. I don't drink except when I feel I need it. But though I class myself for decency always I say that surely God gave man a blessing when He gave him rum. Why should the world stand still for a few bad ones. Take it easy ladies! If the soldiers were all like you, and what you want, the Boche would have had you before this.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Que., May 13 (Canadian Press)—The holiday had little effect on the wheat demands of the United Kingdom today and another active session was put in on the Montreal grain exchange. Manitoba spring wheats and oats in nearby positions moved freely at firm rates. Cash grain on spot was relatively quiet but the market for oats was steady at unchanged prices.

There was an abundance of small orders for spring wheat grade flour from across the Atlantic but lack of domestic demand held the market quiet and prices were without change. Winter wheat flour was slow.

Butter receipts were 2,346 packages, compared with 2,985 the same day last week. No improvement was evident in the demand and prices held at their low level.

Receipts of cheese were 3,418 boxes, against 2,242 last Thursday. Demand was a little better and a fair trade was worked for No. 1 colored. A 1-4 cents premium per pound was registered.

WINNIPEG LIVESTOCK

WINIPEG, Man., May 13 (Canadian Press) — Receipts 620 cattle and calves; 725 hogs.

A fair demand prevailed for butcher females at steady prices. Other classes were inactive.

Hogs advanced 10 cents, with thick smooths at $13.60 and select bacon $14.95. The sheep and lamb market were at a standstill.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, May 13 — Notwithstanding a late rally, wheat prices displayed a downward trend at the finish today and throughout most of the board of trade session. Moisture relief for the spring wheat crop over large areas both north and south of the Canadian line had a noticeable bearish effect. Wheat closed unsettled, 1-8 to 3-4c net lower; corn at 1-8 to 1-4c advance; oats varying from 1-8 decline to 3-8c gain, and provisions a shade to 27 cents off.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG, Man., May 13 (Canadian Press)—A break in the last hour of trading when profit-taking developed, brought losses to the wheat market here today. The close was at the low points for the day, ranging from 3-8c to 3-4c below Wednesday at $1.52 5-8 for May, $1.50 5-8 for July and $1.31 5-8 for October.

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY

FAITH IN MEN.

Never lose your faith in men. Lack of faith in men will be reflected in your face.

Faith in men is the obedience of common sense.

There is sure to be a man or two who will prove false, but do not brand all men for the faults of the few.

Occasionally I get a "raw deal," but this experience does not cause me to discount my confidence in men generally. On the contrary, it contrasts men of my acquaintance; and out of this, one can organize a system of sifting the good from the bad.

The greatest heroism of human intellect is faith in men.

It is the inspiration of integrity and the strength that backs up business.

What would we do without confidence in men?

When I begin to lose faith in my fellows, put me down as a man that you should shun.

FABLES IN FACT.

CLOTHING WORKERS PLAN CO-OPERATIVE APARTMENT OF 1,000 ROOMS IN NEW YORK

Will Include Laundry and Assembly Room—Decide on on Housing Scheme—Union's Bank Prospering—Meet in Montreal.

MONTREAL, May 14 (Canadian Press). — Some 150,000 workers throughout the continent, through their representatives sitting in at the seventh biennial convention of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America, yesterday entered into a co-operative housing plan. A co-operative banking scheme which the union inaugurated some years ago, showed increasing prosperity in an annual report presented at the convention here.

As an instance of the new housing plans, it was pointed out that a large area in upper New York City purchased by the union is soon to be developed into "clothing workers' paradise." An apartment of 1,000 rooms is to be erected, it was said, together with a general laundry, co-operatively managed, an assembly room, a playground and a music room for the children. Only one half of the land owned is to be utilized for the structure, the remainder to be turned into courts and gardens.

In the only address of Thursday's session, Dr. William Leiserson, of Antioch College, Ohio, called the attention of the delegates to the success of arbitration machinery. He preferred to call it adjudication machinery, he said.

150 WITNESSES APPEAR BEFORE CUSTOMS PROBE

Enquiry Has Already Extended Over 47 Days at Ottawa.

NOT FINISHED

Total Cost May Reach Quarter of Million Dollars.

OTTAWA, May 14.—Speculation is rife here as to what is to become of the Customs investigation. There is the suggestion in some quarters that the committee may pursue its dawdling course until after the House has risen and that pursuant to revelations which have been made the Government will make a wholesale clean-up of the entire preventive service. There are others, probably the better advised ones, who hold that the committee must hustle up and do something more than merely put in five hours a day. The idea of the latter group is that the committee do well to speed up a little, and that would be no great task, and have a report ready before the House adjourns, which report will undoubtedly contain recommendations for drastic changes in the Customs service.

The inquiry has jogged along for 47 days and 150 witnesses have had a chance to say how much, or how little, they know.

Let no person think that the inquiry is an inexpensive affair. Up to date $6,725 has been paid to witnesses for expenses while fees paid to them total $1,936. On top of all this R. L. Calder, K.C., plods along serving a grateful country for a pittance of $250 a day, while Mr. Tighe, representative of the independent forces in the House, is said to be drawing $100. Over and above all this must be considered auditors' expenses, which will be heavy, reporting expenses and cost of printing. All told the cost of the inquiry will possibly reach a quarter of a million dollars before it is through.

PREMIER AND MACDONALD PLEAD FOR SPIRIT OF CONCILIATION IN RESTORING HARMONY IN INDUSTRY

Government Faces Its Promise of Reward to Strike-Breakers.

NO BITTERNESS

Government's Claim of Surrender by Labor Protested by Thomas.

LONDON, May 14 (Canadian Press).—Avoidance of vindictiveness and a conciliatory spirit in settling the greatest industrial conflict ever known in the United Kingdom was urged by Premier Baldwin in the House of Commons Thursday, when the subject of the general strike was up for debate. At the same time he pointed out the extreme difficulty of reconciling the Government's pledges that no harm would come to the volunteers who had aided the nation in the crisis with the need of reinstating every striker.

Ramsay MacDonald, former Labor Premier, in opening the debate, deplored the fact that bitterness had been infused into the relations between employers and men since Wednesday. He earnestly appealed for efforts so that advantage could be taken of the present position to establish good relations on a broader and firmer foundation than existed before. He hoped it was the desire of Parliament primarily to declare to the whole nation that it wanted no crushing or humiliation, and that it lifted its voice in behalf of healing, restoration and restitution.

Like Post-War Problem.

Premier Baldwin compared the situation with that after the Great War, when the problems of the first few months were far more difficult than those they had to face during the war. The problem to be threshed out between the trades unions and employers' associations of reinstating the men, while doing no injustice to the men who helped the nation in its time of need, called for real statesmanship. He argued that the very present dislocation of the country's trade alone required that there should be no bitterness or delay in getting the industries started again.

"There are some who like fishing in troubled waters," he said. "Let us get the waters calm as soon as we can, lest the work of half a century be spoiled."

Humiliating Heading.

J. H. Thomas, the chief Labor leader in the strike, like Mr. MacDonald, strongly protested the attitude of the British Gazette, the Government's official newspaper, which used as the caption of its announcement of the calling off of the strike, "Total surrender."

"Imagine the bitterness of that," Mr. Thomas exclaimed, "to two millions of men who had refused to surrender to the Germans."

The Labor leader, detailing many cases of employers refusing to reinstate the men except under penalizing terms, begged the employers in the House and elsewhere to give effect to the Premier's broadcast speech.

GENERAL STRIKE CONTINUES AS RAILWAY AND TRANSPORTATION WORKERS REFUSE TO SURRENDER

Industrial Peace Delayed by Employers' Attempt to Penalize Strikers.

PRINTERS NOT BACK

Miners' Executive Confers With Premier Baldwin—Public's Hopes Deferred.

LONDON, May 14. — Canadian Press. — How Great Britain will come through her great industrial upheaval was if anything more an enigma last night than it had been at anytime previously since the strike began. The country woke up on Thursday to find the rosy hopes of Wednesday night completely dashed—partly it would seem, through discontent of the strikers at the way the strike had been called off, but more through the disposition of many of the big employers to insist on making new arrangements with the workers before permitting resumption of work.

It is even asserted that some of the big railways and other concerns contemplated a reduction in wages, although, according to the statement of Premier Baldwin in the House of Commons, who warned the nation to be suspicious of propaganda and misleading rumours, some of these reports, especially regarding the railways, were unfounded.

Not Penalizing Men.

One big railway group last night officially denied the rumors that they intended to reduce wages or otherwise penalize the men.

Notwithstanding the fact that the general strike has been called off, it in reality still persists in as great force as before. The miners never have consented to resume, and because of the attitude of the employers and by reason of other circumstances, the two big industries, the railwaymen and the transportation workers, are ordered to remain out until further instructions.

The situation in the newspaper field is without change, most of the papers still issuing in skeleton form.

No agreement has yet been reached by the railway managers and executives of the railway unions on the question of the re-employment of the strikers. A conference on this subject adjourned at a late hour without a decision, and will be resumed to-day.

Miners Meet Premier.

The miners' executive, after conferring for an hour last evening went to Downing street, and were closeted with Premier Baldwin for a considerable time. The members of the executive returned to headquarters and refused to divulge anything but it was officially announced that there had been a general discussion on the present situation. No mention was made of any possible plans for adjusting the dispute between the miners and the mine owners which participated the general strike.

Premier Baldwin in the House of Commons made a strong appeal for conciliation and avoidance of vindictiveness, and reiterated his intention to fulfill all his promises. One of the interesting aspects of the situation is whether this conciliatory stand on the part of the prime minister will prevail against the known tendencies of some of his colleagues to make it a fight to a finish.

Sir John Herschel thought it probable that the sun was inhabited by strange organisms which were the source of light.

SERIOUS CRIME WAS ABSENT IN DAYS OF STRIKE

Fewer Convictions for Drunkenness in Many Places—No Looting.

MINOR OFFENCES

Police Court Cases Diminished After Strike Was Called.

LONDON, May 14 (Canadian Press Cable).—The absence of serious crime during the general strike was reflected in the number of police court cases which in many districts actually diminished after the strike was called. There were fewer convictions for drunkenness than usual in many places.

With reference to disturbances while the general strike was on, many of the police magistrates commented on the fact that these were created largely by irresponsible men, the majority of whom were foreigners. Three months' imprisonment was the usual sentence in these cases.

Councillor Fined.

In Birmingham a member of the City Council was fined £10 for making speeches calculated to create hostility against the Government. The magistrate who imposed the fine remarked that he would have sentenced the accused to prison only that in his speeches he had urged the crowd to remain orderly.

A driver of a motor car was sentenced to jail for a month because he had chalked on the pavement words to the effect that the workers in the United States were coming out in sympathy with the British strikers.

No Looting During Strike.

Another man was sentenced to jail for a month for having walked around with a placard on him announcing that the Government had unconditionally surrendered to the Trades Union Congress.

Probably not more than a score of police court cases were sufficiently serious for the accused to be sent up for trial.

There was not a single important instances of looting during the strike. Scotland Yard's special arrangements to protect the jewelry shops were entirely effective.

Housebreaking was negligible in the nine days of the strike.

BOY SCOUT GIVEN BADGES ON LEAVING

Thanks Badge and Rank Insignia For Lynden Russell,

MILLBROOK, May 14.—A special meeting of the Millbrook Troop of Boy Scouts was held in St. Thomas' Sunday School Hall on Sunday night after the evening service. The object of the meeting was to say farewell to Troop-Leader Lynden Russell, before his departure to Brighton.

The meeting was opened by Scoutmaster A. H. Barnes, who having explained the object of the special gathering on so short a notice, called upon Assistant Scoutmaster H. Jordan to take the next part of the programme. Mr. Jordan referred to the conditions a young man finds when he enters a town a stranger among strangers; how a Scout badge, always a badge of brotherhood, would make the strangeness less and the lonesomeness shorter, for fellow Scouts, on seeing a badge, would act on the Scout law, "A Scout is brother to every other Scout", and would make himself acquainted and do what he could for the stranger. Mr. Jordan then presented Lynden with a badge denoting his rank in the troop.

Mr. Robert Stone, on behalf of the troop committee, then expressed the approval of the committee with the manner in which Troop-Leader Russell had acted as a Scout, of his work in connection with the troop, and especially of his help in the Scout work as one of the junior officers.

Rev. D. R. Dewdney, on behalf of the clergy of the church, next addressed the meeting. He managed to strike the right key for he at once had the boys and their officers smiling by the pleasant manner in which he opened his address. He spoke of the need of young men looking for suitable employment, leaving home because, in the smaller centres, the local demand never seems to cover the need. Reference to the possibility of slackness in church attendance, and the feeling that a good Scout would be less inclined to such a course, brought out very nicely the attitude of Scout work as it should be—a help to good citizenship and Christianity.

Scoutmaster Barnes then took the floor again. He stated that two people present, but mentioned no names, had on different occasions accused him of being long-winded—he hoped that such an accusation tonight would be in order since the occasion required not lengthy remarks, but rather a marked sincerity.

Mr. Barnes referred to a few of his own experiences as a bank clerk when entering strange places, and expressed the hope that the departing Troop Leader would receive the same kindly attentions as he had personally known. He then stated that while the badge denoting a scout's rank was always a help in the making of friends and associates, there was another badge for those who, by their help to scouts personally, or to a troop, deserved such appreciation, and that was the "Thanks Badge", which he presented to Lynden on behalf of the Troop. A Scout, on seeing a person wearing this badge, must if he observes the Scout regulations address the person using the Scout salute, and inquire if there is any way in which he can be of assistance.

Mr. Barnes expressed his personal appreciation of Troop Leader Russell's work in connection with the local Scouts, also his appreciation of him as a Sunday school scholar and as a friend, and closed his remarks with the earnest wish that God's blessing would go with the lad.

Lynden replied briefly, stating first of all his pleasure in being connected with the Troop, and his hope that he would from time to time be able to be with them for a meeting. He voiced his warm appreciation of the friendly and Scoutly attitude of the members of the Troop toward each other, and the hope that it would continue its good work. With a tone of genuine sincerity he thanked the Troop for its expression of appreciation and stated that the possession of the Scout badges would enable him to keep in mind the standards of a good Scout.

Piercy Pitt, speaking on behalf of the Patrol-Leaders, stated that these officers probably knew Lynden more intimately than any other members of the Troop, and would consequently miss him so much the more.

Henry Raper, speaking on behalf of the Scouts, said he felt sure that the rest of the Troop, like himself, had always found Lynden to be a good friend, and a good Scout, and he, with the rest of the boys, wished him every success, adding the hope that it would not be long before they would have the pleasure of seeing Lynden at one of the meetings while home on a visit.

Three hearty cheers for Troop-Leader Russel brought a pleasant gathering to a close.

JURY IS UNABLE TO PLACE BLAME

Finds That Thorold Man Died of Strychnine Poisoning.

MUCH EVIDENCE.

THOROLD, Ont., May 14 (Canadian Press).—The jury's verdict at the inquest into the death of George Wills, held in Thorold by Coroner Herod yesterday afternoon, was "that George Wills died at Thorold on Sunday, April 18, of strychnine poisoning, but from the evidence we are unable to determine by whom administered." Evidence was given by Mrs. Wills, wife of the deceased, Mrs. Ryckman, her sister, Fred. Grenville, a friend, and others. According to the evidence, Wills, accompanied by Grenville, visited the house of Mrs. Melnyk on the fatal Sunday morning and secured a drink of liquor, and on their return to the Wills home they had another. Later in the day Wills complained of an acute pain in the jaw and soon went into convulsions, dying about seven o'clock that evening.

ENGINEERS HOLD ANNUAL MEETING

Wind Up Season's Program With Ladies' Night—Panatrope Demonstrated.

SPLENDID REPORTS

The annual meeting of the Peterborough Branch of the Engineering Institute of Canada was held last night at the Paragon hall, and took the form of a ladies' night. The Brunswick Panatrope was demonstrated and this new method of sound reproduction was the subject of much approving comment, being used to provide music for an informal dance.

Reports of the season's activities were given by different officials of the branch. Paul Manning, the secretary, reported on the membership, their being now 131 members of the various classes connected with the local branch. A. B. Gates, as treasurer, reported on the branch finances and showed that there was a substantial balance in the bank. Reporting for the meetings and papers committee, R. C. Flitton gave a list of the speakers and subjects of the papers at the twelve meetings held by the branch. These papers covered a wide range of subjects and were both interesting and instructive.

The election of officers was held and resulted as follows: For the Council of the Institute the local branch endorses Ross L. Dobbin. The executive of the local branch is composed of Messrs. B. L. Barns, A. E. Caddy, W. M. Cruthers, R. C. Flitton, A. B. Gates, J. A. G. Goulet, P. Manning, and W. E. Ross. These eight will, due to a recent change in the by-laws of the local branch, choose the chairman, vice-chairman, and other officers.

The Panatrope, which was explained and demonstrated at last night's meeting, might be described as a radio that takes its music, not from the air, but from a phonograph record. Its reproductors mechanism consists of a magnetic pick-up, a power amplifier, and a cone loud speaker. Power is derived from the ordinary electric light circuit, and their are two rectifier tubes to change it to D.C. current. There are three amplifying tubes. The records are turned by a motor, eliminating the constant necessity of winding.

Mr. Bender of the Brunswick Company was the demonstrator. He played the new electrically- made records and the old mechanical product, and both sounded as if the singer and accompanist were right in the room, there being a total absence of the usual noise of a phonograph. He played a number of classical and song records, and then provided music for the dance which wound up the evening.

Moving pictures from the Government studios were exhibited by R. C. Flitton, and formed a pleasing addition to the evening's programme. Light refreshments were served, Coleman brothers being the caterers.

A number of citizens took advantage of an invitation to join the engineers in their final meeting, among them representatives of other professions. The ladies were out in full force and the retiring chairman, A. L. Killaly, expressed the hope that they would attend more of the meetings in future, assuring them that many of the meetings would prove most interesting.

SEARCHING RIVER FOR LIGHTBOAT MEN

Two Sailors Missing Since Saturday—Left in Rowboat.

QUEBEC, May 14 (Canadian Press).—A lonely stretch of the St. Lawrence River at L'Islet Traverse, in front of St. Roch des Aulnais, is being scanned for some trace of two sailors of the Government lightboat missing since last Saturday, when they set out in a row boat to bring supplies for their mates. The mishap became known only yesterday when the local agent of the Marine Department ordered the Government steamer Loos to aid in the search. Napoleon Leclerc of L'Islet County and J. Bergeron of Murray Bay, Que., first officer and shipman respectively of lightboat No. 20, are the missing men.

Officials of the Marine Agency declared last night, after they had received no reassuring news from the steamer Loos, that the men probably had been lost.

BOTNICK'S 378 GEORGE STREET FORMERLY JEFFRIES'

"THESE WOMEN"

By MALCOLM DUART

COPYRIGHT 1926

The Characters and Situations in this Story are entirely fictional.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Harry Morton, wealthy, unmarried, middle-aged, immensely attractive to women, has a problem in his adopted daughter, Audrey. She is madly in love with him. To divert her attention from himself, he throws her into the company of his secretary, John Parrish, whose ideas are prim. He also lets her see him in company with Nona, Toronto stage girl, who also is in love with him.

Audrey makes preparations to dance in cabaret revues, so she can learn how stage girls manage to attract Morton. Parrish disapproves. She hires a young man to be her dancing partner. Morton goes to Nona, to ask her to drop her own engagement and herself be Audrey's stage partner. Nona, consenting, sends for another girl, who had tried to blackmail Morton earlier in the story.

Morton has lived for 15 years in Peterborough, without gossips there ever learning his past or the source of his wealth. He maintains also an expensive apartment in Toronto.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXVI

"Come on in, you little fool!" called Nona, and reaching out the door, seized her visitor by the arm.

The girl, at sight of Morton, had started to retreat. Now, yielding to Nona's steady pull upon her arm, she entered, reluctantly, her eyes fixed in fright upon Morton.

He watched as Nona propelled her to a chair, shutting the door behind her.

With a touch of irony he asked "Back from London so soon? The last I remember about you, I sent you the money to take you and that dancing partner of yours abroad."

She hung her head.

"She's not a bad kid," interposed Nona. "I got her into that mess, when she played the 'badger game' on you. She never did anything like that before."

Morton looked understandingly at the newcomer's face. Her eyes were hollow, and her neck sank in tiny hollows behind her jaws. Blue veins showed in her temples.

"Been hungry lately, haven't you?" he asked. "Haven't paid the rent: landlord wants you to move: that partner of yours borrowed your last piece of jewelry and pawned it, and didn't give you any of the money?"

The girl looked up in surprise. "How did you know?"

Nona patted the girl on the shoulder. "He knows things like that without being told," she explained.

"I've seen you, and I've seen your dancing partner," Morton supplemented. "What did he do with that money I sent you?"

"Lost it all shooting craps," she said, dropping her head again. "But it wasn't his fault—they trimmed him."

Morton leaned back with his arm upon the piano keys, and waited for her to go on. She did so, after a moment. "He just has hard luck. He's nice to me, though—he bought my dinner yesterday, and he had hardly any money himself."

"And," asked Morton, easily, what did he borrow from you when he bought your dinner?"

"He borrowed her ring—the only one she had left, and hocked it," snorted Nona, indignantly.

The girl began to cry.

"Did you call me down here just to razz me?" she sobbed.

Repentantly Nona patted her shoulder again. "Don't cry, babe," she soothed. "Listen, do you want a job?"

"Yes," said the girl, dabbing at her nose with a handkerchief, woefully. "Of course I do."

"Well, maybe we've got you one."

Nona frowned and bobbed her head at Morton. "We can frame it so she can take my place in the show, can't we?"

The girl looked up, profoundly interested. The tears still were streaking the powder on her cheeks, but she had ceased sobbing.

"I think that if you have to quit," said Morton, slowly, looking at Nona, "that I could speak to the manager about this young woman."

"So can I," said Nona. "Maybe we can slide her in right away. We'll try, honey," she added to the girl.

"Let me tell Joe," cried the young woman, and ran to the telephone. In a few moments she had the number she sought. "Oh Joe! I'm up in Nona's room and she has a job all framed up for us! We can go to work right away!"

There was a bit more excited babble, and she hung up. Her eyes were alight, and her form had lost its pathetic droop.

"Joe'll be so happy to get to work again," she said. "This long lay-off has been terrible for him!"

Morton glanced at Nona, who had turned her face away. Then he said, gently "I'm afraid there isn't any place for him in the show. I only thought I might be able to place you in it."

The happy light fled from her eyes. "But I can't work if Joe don't work! We're partners! But—but—" She fingered her handkerchief, uncertainly —"maybe if I work, I can lend him money to get along on."

She opened the door and started out. "I'll think about it," she said, as she went away.

"Poor little darned fool!" sighed Nona. "She's struck on that bum—and he'd ditch her in a minute! She gets a little money hostessing sometimes. One of these big companies has her on the list to entertain out-of-town men, and generally they tip her pretty well. Joe takes it all away from her.

"Nice chap, this Joe," observed Morton. "Charming character."

He felt in his pocket, and drew out a check-book and pen.

"Take this and use it for her," he said, filling out one of the check blanks. "See that she gets some regular meals, and buy her a dress—she ought to look well when she sees your manager. But don't give her any of the money."

He handed the check to Nona, who stowed it in the top of her stocking. "And if Joe horns in on any of those meals," she said, "I'll feed him rat-poison! I'd like to, at that."

She settled herself once more on the floor at Morton's feet.

"Let's talk about you and me," she said, dropping her flippant air. "Harry, would you rather I'd just drop out of your life, so you wouldn't have to see me any more?"

He did not answer, but looked at her, smiling a little.

"I know you don't love me," she went on. "You never say you love me! Why don't you, Harry?"

"I never tell any woman I love her, except Audrey," he answered.

She leaned her head against his knee. "But you don't love Audrey the way I mean. You love her all right, but I've watched you—you love her like you would some little child.

"Harry, even if you don't love me, can't you say you do?" She raised her eyes, anxiously. "It wouldn't hurt you just to say it!"

He shook his head and dropped his fingers on her dark hair. "Were you thinking of getting out of my life?" he asked.

"I thought maybe you wanted me to," she told him. "It must be an awful nuisance having a woman crazy in love with you, and following you around all the time, when you don't give a snap for her!"

She breathed a deep sigh, and lifted her head.

"But I'm just boring you. I wish I were a good woman, like Audrey is! You'd love me then. Wouldn't you, Harry?"

She arose, and stepping to his side, kissed him on the thick hair that bushed above his forehead. He looked up at her.

"You are a good woman, Nona," he said, soberly. "You're a sweet, affectionate, good-hearted girl—even if you do trot out a crap-shooting cabaret dancer once in a while to make it hot for me."

"Now I've got to run along."

He arose, but she clung to him.

"You're always going away!" she wailed. "Can't you every stay, just a little while, and talk to me?"

He chuckled.

"You're not the only woman I have on my hands, you know, Nona," he said.

Her face fell. "Are you going to see some other girl?"

"Audrey," he explained. "She's making life miserable for that secretary of mine. I think she's waiting up for me, at home, and it's getting late. I sent Parrish to the theater with her this evening so she could see how that new Spanish dancer stages her act, but by this time I suppose she's sent him away with a sore ear. She slapped him, the other day." He laughed at the recollection.

Nona thrust her forefinger through the loop of his coat button.

"Harry," she said, thoughtfully, "you want to watch out. She'll be marrying that fellow, yet."

"She could do a good deal worse," he said. "He's honest, and industrious, and intelligent. But the way she treats him is terrific."

Nona's eyes held an absent look, as if behind them an idea was dawning. "There are ways to cure her of that," she said, slowly.

The task of placing Nona's substitute proved a difficult one. It was the following afternoon that Nona called Morton on the telephone.

"I've been talking to the producer, and he just gave me—he raised the roof," she said. "He said I couldn't quit, and if I did, he'd see I never get another engagement in this town. And besides, he said he wouldn't take that other girl on a bet. He says she's too skinny. What will I do?"

"Guess I'll have to come and see him," Morton said. "When does the show open?"

"It's less than a week now," she told him.

He whistled. "I'll have to hurry," he told her, as he hung up the receiver.

Parrish was away from the office, and Morton set a clerk to calling the various haunts of the theatrical producer, in an effort to locate him. The effort was a tedious one. The afternoon passed, and Morton went home to dinner. Audrey was gone—"out with young Mr. Parrish," the butler explained — and Morton settled himself for an evening with his books.

It was almost bedtime when the clerk called, and said he had located his man. Morton took the telephone number, and finally got connection with Nona's employer.

"Yes, I'll be here," the manager told him, shortly, in answer to his query.

"I'll come right away," Morton promised.

It was a warm spring night, and Morton wore no overcoat as he left the building and hailed a taxicab. As he rode, he glanced over a little batch of business and personal cards that he had taken from his desk in the apartment.

The manager, sitting in a small, smoky office off the lobby of one of the theatres, grunted when Morton introduced himself.

"Here," said Morton. He laid his collection of cards one by one before the manager. Each had a brief inscription on it, in ink or pencil. These folks are friends of yours. They're friends of mine, too. I brought these to introduce myself."

"In the profession?" asked the man, glancing over the pasteboards.

"No—just kind of a broker," Morton said.

"Bicking some girl?" pursued the other.

"Morton chuckled. "Yes—in a way."

"No use for that sort of thing," growled the manager, shoving the cards back to Morton. "I don't need any angels in my game."

"Wait a minute," Morton said. "Nona came in today and told you she wanted to quit?"

Instant wrath showed in the producer's face. Half rising in his chair, he thundered: "Yes, she did! She had some scrawny girl she wanted to take her place. Do you know what happened?"

He glared an instant. "That girl's dance partner came in and tried to hold me up for a hundred bucks advance money!"

(To be continued.)

MR. MOTORIST—meet the Train Calendar. This gigantic machine performs one small operation in the building of your Goodyear Tires—but performs it better and more economically than any other method yet devised. It applies the rubber which surrounds and protects every thread in the fabric of Goodyear Tires. It applies this rubber evenly—thoroughly—with unbelievable precision.

Only the tremendous production of the Goodyear plant at New Toronto could keep the Train Calendar busy. Only this large production makes it practical to invest nearly $100,000.00 in one machine to do this work. But because Goodyear can spread over millions of tires the cost of the Train Calendar, you enjoy, in Goodyear Tires, higher quality without higher price.

And the Train Calendar is but one example of the methods and machines which are possible with Goodyear's great production and which improve the quality and keep down the cost of the Goodyear Tires which are waiting for you at your nearest Goodyear Selected Dealer's store.

UNITED CHURCH FACES DANGER OF A REACTION, SAYS SPEAKER

Principal Gandier Challenges Church To Stand Firm.

FILL WASTE PLACES.

Rev. J. W. Pedley is Chosen President of Toronto Conference.

TORONTO, May 14 (Canadian Press).—With a grave warning that the United Church of Canada was facing danger in serious re-action and a challenge to the organization to stand firm against possible retrogression, Rev. Alfred Gandier, D.D., Principal of Knox College, concluded his address which marked the opening session of the Toronto conference of the United Church yesterday. Unless, he declared, the United Church of Canada was able to occupy the waste territories of this country and to minister to the crying needs of its people, it had no right to its name.

Rev. James W. Pedley, president of the Toronto Ministerial Association, was elected president of the Conference. Rev. J. R. Patterson of Orillia, the retiring president, declared that the great adventure of union had proved a success. On the whole the new Church had done better than they had dared to expect. The union, he was convinced, was real, not formal; spiritual, not mechanical; permanent, not passing.

"This is a day of ecclesiastical fussiness," Mr. Patterson continued, striking a more personal note and appealing to the Conference members to spend a longer time in thoughtful prayer.

SLAYER OF WOMAN SOUGHT BY POLICE

Look For Husband Also in Connection With Murder.

GENESEE, N.Y., May 14 (Canadian Press).—Two men were being sought to-day in connection with the murder of Mrs. Vivian Thompson Jennings, of St. Morris, whose nude body was found last April in Lake Ontario, near Henderson, Jefferson County. One was her estranged husband, Frederick A. Jennings, a chemist. The other is a man, apparently skilled in surgery, who murdered the 32-year-old mother of two children, drew the blood from her body, and threw the nude corpse into Lake Ontario or its tributaries.

QUEEN'S ALUMNI HOLD RE-UNION

Local Graduates Hold Banquet and Hear Speech About Throne.

APPEAL MADE.

There was an atmosphere of real good cheer and pleasure in the Re-Union of Queen's University Alumni which was held at the Empress Hotel last evening, commencing with a banquet enlivened by college yells and community singing and vocal numbers, and followed by the showing of lantern slides of "Queen's, Past and Present," and an address by Professor D. McArthur, head of the Department of History at Queen's University, Kingston, and chairman of the Endowment Committee of the University. Professor McArthur's address dealt mainly with the financial needs of the University, as embodied in the appeal which is at present being made for funds for various educational uses of the Kingston educational institution. The speaker took the place of Principal Taylor, scheduled to appear last evening, but unavoidably prevented from being present.

Mr. R. F. Downey, president of the Peterborough Branch of the Queen's Alumni Association, which was formed here recently, filled the chair in very capable fashion, and community singing during the service of the banquet, was led by Dr. J. C. Smith of Lakefield, and Mr. V. R. Henry, of the staff of the Collegiate Institute. Mr. John Crane and Mr. Trevor Miller played accompaniments for the vocal numbers, which included some songs in very fine voice by soloists in Mr. Maurice Park, who sang "Draw the Sword, Scotland," with an encore in "The Minstrel Boy," Dr. J. C. Smith of Lakefield, who sang a "Queen's" song, with a stirring encore in "Nancy Lee," and quartette composed of Messrs. Kerr, Downey, Steer and Park, who announced that they had brought along three numbers, and were given ample opportunity to sing them all, doing their stunt in excellent style. The various little boys who sit under these amiable gentlemen in school classes would doubtless be vastly entertained, had they the opportunity to hear them discourse in song about the little boy and the unfortunately-placed tack.

The banquet was served in the Empress' usual very efficient style at tables decorated with narcissus and crossed with the blue, red and yellow, Queen's colors, which also decorated the menu cards.

Organization Perfected.

The minutes of the meeting at which Provisional officers of the Queen's Alumni Association were named, were read by the secretary-treasurer, Mrs. H. R. H. Kenner, and the officers were duly declared elected, after several names had been added to the list. The following are the officials of the organization: Honorary president, Mr. Richard Lees; President, Mr. R. F. Downey; Vice-Presidents, Dr. C. H. Amys, Mr. E. R. Shirley, Dr. J. V. Galvin, Mr. R. G. Lawlor, Norwood, Dr. J. C. Smith, Lakefield, Dr. C. B. Waite, Mr. C. E. Jamieson; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. H. R. H. Kenner; assistant secretary, Mr. J. E. R. Munro; executive, Mrs. A. Cameron of Keene, the Misses A. Howson and T. Paxman, Messrs. R. M. Waddell and F. E. Kerr.

A series of slides, operated by Mr. Alex. Edmondson, of Toronto, formerly of Peterboro, were then shown, depicting in interesting fashion "Queen's, Past and Present," with many phases of college life flashed before the eyes of former scholars.

The address by Professor McArthur, delivered in terse, eloquent style, was the concluding item on the evening's programme.

Queen's Endowment Fund

The speaker opened his address with an allusion to the Campaign Fund which is at present under way. Owing to the rapid growth of the University, he said, to the erection of several new buildings and the very great increase in the annual maintenance accounts of the University, the authorities have found it necessary to appeal to the graduates and the larger public of the Dominion, for financial support.

Some months ago, plans were completed for a nation-wide appeal for a further endowment of two and one-half millions for Queen's. The professor, who has just recently returned from a tour of the Western Provinces, and British Columbia, in the interests of the Endowment Campaign, referred to the organizations which have been created in different Western cities, and brought back to the Peterborough alumni information regarding many of their old friends of University days who are taking their place in the business and professional life of the Western Provinces. He took occasion to point out the differences in viewpoint with respect to Canadian public issues, in the various Western provinces, emphasizing the importance of the opening of the Panama Canal and the development of the Port of Vancouver, in their influence on Western trade and on the relations between Eastern and Western Canada. Citing this as one of the problems complicating the most important issue of the development of a strong Canadian national sentiment, he pointed out that, while the differences separating East and West and tending towards disintegration were mainly material in character, that these differences would be harmonized only through the operation of higher sentiments of spiritual consideration tending to bind the Canadian people together.

The preservation of the union of the Canadian provinces will, he said, ultimately be justified through the development of a distinctive Canadian national life and of a distinctive Canadian intellectual attitude, and, in that connection, he stressed the importance of the work which the Canadian nation has a right to expect should be done by the Universities. In this work of nation-building in its highest sense, Professor McArthur pointed out that Queen's University had a special responsibility. Its traditions, the growth of nearly a century, had given it a background which tended to emphasize the importance of national service in the life of the University and of its graduates. Men such as Grant, Dupuis, Cappon, Watson and Short had given and were giving leadership to the intellectual life of the Dominion, but, in order that these worthy traditions of national service might be worthily preserved, it was necessary that the University be put in a position financially to meet the demands of its ever-increasing student body. Queen's was not ambitious of becoming a large University, but it did covet a place as a great University. Its success in the past had been due largely to the intimate contact between students and professors and in order that that condition might be preserved, it was necessary that the increase in students should be met with an increase in the teaching staff. Because of competition by American and other universities, many of the most promising professors brought to Queen's were being enticed away, so that, in order to retain these men, it was necessary to increase the scale of the salaries of the teaching staff.

But Queen's must depend for its ultimate success upon the superior quality of its work and the superior training of the men who left its halls.

In conclusion, Professor McArthur appealed to the graduates with regard to the raising of the endowment of a great Canadian national service.

Among Those Present

Among the Alumni and their guests present at the banquet last evening were Mr. and Mrs. Richard Lees, Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Downey, Mr. and Mrs. A. Mowat, Mr. and Mrs. H. R. H. Kenner, Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Waddell, Dr. and Mrs. J. C. Smith of Lakefield, Mr. and Mrs. V. R. Henry, Mr. and Mrs. Simpson of Lakefield, Mr. and Mrs. O. M. Steer, Dr. and Mrs. D. Carmichael, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. R. Munro, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Jamieson, Dr. and Mrs. C. B. Waite and Mrs. C. A. Waite, Mrs. Arthur Cameron of Keene, and Miss Nelson of Keene, Mayor and Mrs. W. T. Holloway, Dr. and Mrs. E. H. Wood, the Misses A. Howson, M. Lees, T. Paxman, Eakins, E. Murphy, M. Baird, Eva Outram; Messrs. Trevor Miller, D. Munro, E. Sloan, Fred Allen, John Allen, John Ritchie, John Crane, M. H. Park, F. E. Kerr, S. T. Medd, Dr. G. S. Cameron, and Dr. H. Munro of Warsaw.

At the conclusion, a vote of thanks was moved by Mr. R. Lees and seconded by Mayor Hollway to Professor McArthur and Mr. Alex. Edmondson. Earlier in the evening, musicians assisting the Alumni with their programme, Messrs. Jno. Crane, M. H. Park and O. Steer, were also accorded a vote of thanks by the chairman, Mr. R. F. Downey.

HAWAIIAN CONCERT.

Pupils of Harry Wagner Show Skill in Playing Ukulele.

(By Jeanette).

There was a good attendance in the hall of the Conservatory of Music last evening, for the Hawaiian concert, "A Night in Honolulu," presented by Harry Wagner, teacher of Hawaiian music at the Conservatory, and his pupils, a number of whom came from Lindsay to swell the Peterboro quota. About thirty of the young people were on the stage, which was extremely effective in its simulation of a Hawaiian scene. The background was arranged with tall screens of red paper in a latticed effect, there were festoons and garlands of flowers and foliage, a carpet of artificial grass and painted flowers in tall colored vases. The performers wore Hawaiian "leis" around their necks and gave several of their selections on a darkened stage under dim blue lights. The whole effect was decidedly unique and well adapted to the character of the dreamy Hawaiian music played on guitars and ukuleles. The ensemble choruses were particularly good and were received with hearty applause, while much appreciation was also manifested over the efforts of the solo performers in the group. The haunting music of the South Sea Isles is always exceptionally interesting, and the attractive nature of the selections on the programme last night and the fine style in which they were presented, combined to make "A Night in Honolulu" quite out of the ordinary in the musical line, and very entertaining. Mr. Wagner gave several solo numbers in his usual expert fashion and an original composition of his own was illustrative of his keen interest in the music of the Islands and his skill in compositions of this type.

The players were assisted by Mr. Wilburt Harris, of Toronto; Mr. Hubert Lowes, bass singer; Mr. Harry Northrupp, pianist, and Roy Rome, violinist, all of whose numbers were greeted with demands for encores. The programme, which was of a pleasing length, and interesting from start to finish, was as follows:

"Mauna Kea," a hula song from "The Bird of Paradise," played by the pupils; "Yaka Hickey Hula Dula," a medley in duett form, played by Mr. Wagner and his chief assistant of the evening, Mr. Wilburt Harris of Toronto; "Kilima Waltz," a trio played by Messrs. Wagner and Harris, and Miss Birdie Dawson; piano solo, "Danse Nigre" (Cyril Scott), played by Mr. Harry Northrupp, with an encore in "Valse Lucille"; the "Missouri Waltz," by the Misses Ivy and Mae Petrie; the "Hilo" March, by Messrs. Wagner and Harris; "The Rosary," a solo number on the guitar, played by Mr. Wagner, in beautiful tone; a vocal solo in fine voice by Mr. Hubert Lowes, with accompaniment by Mrs. Greenslade, "Give a Man a Horse he can Ride"; the "One, Two, Three, Four" Medley by the assembled players; an original composition by Mr. Wagner, played by himself, and entitled "Delight," a very dainty, sweet love song of the isles, with an encore in "The Prisoner's Song"; a vocal solo by Mr. Lowes, "The Big Bass Viol"; a number by the members from Lindsay, "I Never Knew"; "On the Beach at Waikiki," played by Messrs. Wagner and Harris, with an encore in a guitar and ukulele arrangement of "Drowsy Waters"; 'Burning Love,' a Hawaiian love song from the third act of "The Bird of Paradise," played by the Misses Cairns and Doig, with Mr. Wagner; a violin solo by Roy Rome, with accompaniment by Miss Margaret Rome, in Chopin's "Polonaise Militaire," followed later by a rendition on the violin of "The World is Waiting for the Sunrise," which called forth a hearty encore and a repetition of the pretty song; "Silver Threads among the Gold," with Mr. Wagner accompanying the guitar solo of a small member of the group, little Osborne Wells; a piano solo by Harry Northrupp, "The Glow-worm," which was very tunefully rendered; a Hawaiian waltz solo by Mr. Wagner, playing the guitar, with encore in a ukulele number, "The Hula Hula Girl," with soft whistling accompaniment; and two numbers, "I don't care what you used to be" and the famous "Aloha Oe" number from "The Bird of Paradise," played by the ensemble.

Players from Lindsay included: Mrs. Bryson, Mrs. Hill, the Misses Webster, Cherrie, Ferguson, and Messrs. Ward Begley and Carl Babcock. Peterboro pupils who assisted in last evening's concert were the Misses Pearl, Ivy and Mae Petrie, Doig, Cairns, B. Dawson, Gentille, Martin, Hamilton, Rogers, Panter, Messrs. Bertram, Smith, Woodford, Veenman, Chadwick, Bacon, Killingbeck, Masters Weldon, Wells, Gammell and Shepherd.

An interesting and popular conclusion to an entertainment which reflected great credit on Mr. Wagner's ability as a teacher and the efforts of his pupils was a dance, followed by the service of refreshments. Excellent music was provided by Mr. Wagner's "Hawaiian Melody Orchestra," composed of Messrs. P. O'Keefe, A. Clark, P. Mowry and Roy Rome.

WHAT IS HERB JUICE?

Long centuries ago primitive man cured his ills and ailments with simple roots, leaves and barks which nature generously provided for him. These medicines were crude and some of them far from pleasant to take but they were effective. The best proof of their merit is the fact that after years of progress, study and learning, man has never found any better medicines than those which came from Nature's bosom. MILLER'S HERB JUICE as the name implies, is composed of the juices of leaves, roots and barks extracted in such a manner by the largest pharmaceutical house in Canada, that the greatest strength and value are obtained. It acts upon the human system in a natural way—its effect is mild but sure. It is safe for young and old as it is nature's own best medicine. What HERB JUICE will do is best judged by the results it has already accomplished for many others who will tell you they owe their present good health to the restorative powers of HERB JUICE.

HERB JUICE will relieve indigestion, constipation, stomach, liver and bowel disorders and similar ailments.

LARGER GRANTS FROM DOMINION FOR GOOD HIGHWAYS ARE URGED

Resolution by Canadian Good Roads Association at Convention in Montreal—Ask for Larger Share of Motor Duty.

PROVINCES MAY SEND DEPUTATION

MONTREAL, May 14 (Canadian Press).—Further Federal aid for the provinces in the matter of road construction and further consideration of level crossing adjustments were considered by the executive of the Canadian Good Roads' Association in session at the Windsor Hotel Thursday.

Dealing with the issue of Federal aid the following resolution was passed:

"Resolved: That since highway development and improvement is today of national importance, and since the Federal Government benefits directly and indirectly by the expenditure on roads which is being made by the Province, and since the customs duties which have been collected by the Federal Government on automobile accessories and parts has totalled over one hundred millions of dollars, and, since it is our firm conviction that those who benefit should contribute; that the Canadian Good Roads' Association in convention assembled re-affirm its belief in the principle of Federal aid to the Provinces for road purposes; and that the executive committee be commissioned to arrange for the presentation of the claims of the Provinces by a strong deputation of Provincial representatives before the Cabinet in Ottawa, that Federal aid may be re-established in Canada, and that a copy of this resolution be forwarded to the Minister of Public Works and Highways of every province.

Protect Crossings

In the matter of giving greater protection to life, limb and property at level crossings, the following resolution, adopted at the Interprovincial conference are now being acted upon and representation is being made to the Minister of Railroads and Canals in the matter of granting further aid in connection with the elimination of grade crossings out of the grade crossing fund.

Aid is also desired where the main highway has been deviated. In this way no grade separation would be required but consideration is desired in the matter of the construction of the road so deviated.

"It is recommended that the Board of Railway Commissioners Act be so amended in connection with the apportionment granted from the railway grade crossing fund as to allow aid to the extent of 50 per cent of the cost in the matter of grade separation as against 25 per cent as at present.

"It is also recommended that the Railway Act be amended in the matter of our railway grade crossing fund so as to allow a maximum amount of the cost for any one work up to $30,000 instead of $15,000 as at present."

Highway Deviation

"Where a main highway is deviated from a railway crossing for the purpose of reducing traffic at that railway crossing, it is recommended that the Board of Railway Commissioners hear such a case and grant such apportionment of cost for the material reduction of traffic crossing, between railway company, the municipality and the railway crossing fund in proportion to the benefit obtained by the parties concerned."

In the matter of the annual convention of the Canadian Good Roads' Association, while the exact place and date has not as yet been decided upon, the meeting will no doubt this year be held in the West, some time during the month of September.

S. L. Squire, Deputy Minister of Highways, in the Ontario Government, presided. Directors present were W. Findley, Hon. P. J. Veniot, George A. McNamee, and J. L. Boulanger, Deputy Minister of Highways, Quebec.

Any interior surface can be finished or re-finished with FLO-GLAZE ENAMELS—floors, woodwork, furniture, plumbing, toys. You don't have to stretch your pocket book buying a lot of different specialties for different uses. FLO-GLAZE ENAMEL covers them all. Your only variation will be in selecting different colors.

Oh yes! floors and everything! It stands to reason that if an enamel will stand the racket of floor wear it will stand up on any other surface.

The gloss of FLO-GLAZE ENAMEL won't exactly put your mirrors out of business, but it has a gloss that gives the clearest reflection of anything in the enamel line. And it holds that gloss. FLO-GLAZE ENAMEL throws in a lot of other uses just for good measure. Veranda furniture, garden tools, and a lot of other semi-outdoor implements that receive more or less indoor protection can be enamelled with FLO-GLAZE.

Now then—positively no! When it comes to using this enamel for the outside of your house or veranda floor. We might as well put you straight on this now. FLO-GLAZE PAINT and FLOOR PAINT are intended for that purpose.

You may wonder then why we recommend FLO-GLAZE ENAMEL for boats, canoes, automobiles, buggies, and farm implements, but we do, and sell a lot of it for that purpose. In this connection, however, you must consider that all of these articles, while in use, are continually changing direction. Their exposure is not fixed as with a house, and when not in use are usually cleaned and housed for protection.

Now, we've only told you a little of what we know about FLO-GLAZE. What you are interested in is knowing what it will do for you. That's fair enough. Just call up your nearest FLO-GLAZE dealer (there's lots of them through the country) and get him to send over a quart or pint or half-pint. Try it out, keeping in mind the fact that we guarantee it to please you. Just read over the directions on the label, start in, and see if we haven't been rather modest in our claims.

FARMERS RUSH TO FINISH WORK

Season About Three Weeks Behind at Burnbrae—Ground Works Badly.

MILK TESTS LOW.

BURNBRAE, May 13.—With the season about three weeks behind time and with the additional handicap of unsettled weather, Burnbrae farmers are rushing in their spring crop in a frenzied attempt to be finished by the 24th. While some seed went into the ground last week, the majority of farmers were busy cultivating and harrowing over their land to promote drying and prevent baking. Several local farmers have adopted the practice in recent years of going over their land as soon as it will carry the horses and then when they commence seeding one stroke of the cultivator is often sufficient to prepare a good seed bed. This system is especially good in this district, where the clay land bakes in dry weather and becomes very hard unless it is kept stirred often.

Many complaints are heard this spring about the way in which the land is working up. Clay and clay loam flats are so badly run together in some cass that a cultivator will hardly make an impression. This fact coupled with the rush of the late season may result in much grain being sown on ill-prepared seedbeds. It would be regrettable, indeed, if this takes place, as five acres with a mellow seed bed well finished will produce almost as much as ten acres put in with the soil in a rough condition.

With fair weather during this week, the middle of the month should see most local farmers well over the half-way mark. Much of the very wet land will be left for later crops as corn and buckwheat. A spring of this kind is very hard on crop rotations as it is often impossible to get a spring grain crop on the fields which one wishes to seed to clover and as the later grain crops as buckwheat do not make good nurse crops for clover, the rotation on the average farm is often upset.

Inspector Murray has recently tested the April samples at local cheese factories. While a few show good to high tests, the great majority of the herds are very low, a strange condition at this time of year as several of these low-testing herds are composed of cows that freshened in the pink of conditions and should be now putting that fat into the pail.

LAKEFIELD FIRE BRIGADE'S EUCHRE

Successful Party In Memorial Hall Largely Attended.

LAKEFIELD, May 14 — The euchre party given under the auspices of the Lakefield Volunteer Fire Brigade on Tuesday evening in the Memorial Hall was very successful. Twenty-six tables of euchre were played and twelve games were played, games counting. The tables were arranged in rows and the large hall afforded plenty of room for the players and for the committee. Refreshments were served by the members of the brigade at about eleven o'clock after which the prizes were presented by the Fire Chief, A. H. Clarke. The ladies' prize was won by Miss Hazel Crawford and the gentlemen's prize by Mr. J. S. Montgomery. The special prize donated by Mr. Eddie Wright of Peterboro was given as the second prize for ladies and was won by Miss Mary Hampton. The ladies' consolation prize was won by Miss F. Ray and the gentlemen's consolation prize by Mr. Walter Chappell.

The purpose of these card parties is twofold, first to provide a pleasant social gathering of a community nature and secondly to raise funds to supply small but very important items of equipment. Every fire reveals the need of something which would increase the efficiency of the brigade and the men take this means of providing them. As the brigade is a village asset with a record which is something every ratepayer should be proud of, it is a matter of good citizenship to show appreciation of their work past and present by standing behind every effort they make to increase their equipment.

BRITISH WOMEN WHO TOOK PART IN STRIKE

Britain's women mobilized to carry on in the face of the devastating general strike. Wives of both Government and Labor leaders enlisted their services to advance the work their husbands undertook. Top left, Mrs. Stanley Baldwin, wife of the premier, who surrendered home cares of number 10 Downing street to her housekeeper to devote entire days and parts of night to the enrollment of private cars. Top centre, Mrs. Winston Churchill, wife of the chancellor of the exchequer, was similarly interested in the most immediate major problem, local transportation. Mrs. J. H. Thomas (top right) and Mrs. J. Clynes (bottom right), wives of Laborite leaders, organized economical Sunday dinners. Ramsay MacDonald, former Labor premier, advised his young and attractive daughter, Ishbel (bottom centre), that perhaps her best service would be performed if she stuck to her baby clinic at Kensington. Miss Betty Cattor (bottom right), who was a bridesmaid of the Duchess of York, had charge of the London branch, caring for the horses of the striking transport workers.

Mrs. H. P. Adams and son Billie, of Detroit, are visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Bate, 654 Stewart Street.

TOOTH CLEANSING FOODS.

The most highly civilized people of to-day and, in particular, those living upon the North American continent, buy more tooth brushes and dentifrices, and pay more attention to mouth toilet than any other peoples of this or any previous age. But yet, among them, tooth decay is universal and rampant.

In contrast, it appears that primitive man suffered little if at all from decayed teeth.

Investigators after having examined several hundred skulls of Indians, from the South American continent, who lived between two and three hundred years ago, report that only a single tooth in the entire collection showed dental caries.

In proof that this is not merely a racial factor, they have found that where savage people and others have modified their diet in a manner similar to the European or American, there has resulted a rapid deterioration of the teeth with tooth decay becoming very prevalent.

Now, undoubtedly much of this deterioration of tooth structure has been due to a lack of inorganic salts, which are the essential "building stones" of tooth tissue. But, on the other hand, with the adoption of softer foods with their modern methods of preparation, much less masticatory effort is required on the part of the teeth, and they lose the beneficial effects of scouring and cleansing such as were secured when grains, roots, and raw fruits formed the chief articles of diet.

The habitual use of some of the harder foods such as toast, crusts, shredded-wheat and nuts, along with certain of the raw and dried fruits and vegetables would prove most beneficial as tooth cleansing foods apart from their nutrient values.

'An apple a day' might, indeed, keep he dentist away as well as the doctor.

We should avoid the excessive use of sweets and sweet foods, particularly of the pastry type, which adheres to the teeth.

IRREGULAR HEMLINE.

The scalloped hemline is not only smart for evening in pastel colors, but for day in black or navy blue frocks that have simple lines.

FOR DAY FROCKS.

The combination of taffeta and georgette crepe becomes daily more popular, particularly in black and navy blue for day frocks.

Evening Examiner "Ideal Fashions" by Jean Dale Mountain

Sports Frocks Feature Tub Silks

As the season progresses, more and more charming frocks of wash silks are ushered in, as the model featured above attests. Here we have one of the striped silk broadcloths, utilizing a plain harmonising tone for the semi-mannish collar, and patch pockets that feature an inverted plait and buttoned-down tab. One of the distinguishing features of this trim little frock for morning or sports wear, is the long narrow tab-like strip of plain material, embellished with buttons, that holds in place the inverted plait at center front, required to give necessary fulness. There are gathers at each shoulder and the set-in sleeves may be finished short or long. No. 1336 is in sizes 16, 18 and 20 years. Size 18 requires 3¼ yards 36-inch striped material; ¼ yard plain contrasting. Price 20 cents.

The designs illustrated in our new Fashion Book are advance styles for the home dressmaker, and the woman or girl who desires to wear garments dependable for taste, simplicity and economy will find her desires fulfilled in our patterns. Price of the book 10 cents the copy.

Tomorrow's HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble

SATURDAY, MAY 15.

Excepting that the day may be one of unusual activity and possible turmoil, the stellar influences must be interpreted as fraught with hostility, agitation and adversity. Although Mars, the precipitator, incites to bold initiative and courageous moves, the other major influences are portentous. The best advice is to center the activities on those lines of endeavor that may best rout enmities and overcome disaster. The mind should be well equipped for this.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a year in which the native tendency to large and courageous moves may be utilized for overcoming difficulties and vanquishing hostile forces. The initiative and mental qualities may be found rampant and eager to annihilate opposing forces. A child born on this day may be resourceful, bold, aggressive and full of initiative, which is well, as it may meet many factors in life calling for just this mental and spiritual, as well as physical endowment.

A TOUCH OF GREEN.

If you cannot afford to keep fresh flowers in your house—and few of us can always have them—do not neglect to have a few pots of growing ivy or ferns about to give that pleasant home-like touch. They are much more decorative than most pictures.

Throat Trouble

Toronto, Ont.—"For about eight years I was subject to laryngitis, my throat would get very sore and I would lose my voice. I would have a spell of this kind a couple of times a year, especially in the winter when the weather was cold and disagreeable. It would be a couple of months each time before I would fully recover from these spells and get my voice back. I doctored and took medicine with little relief until I began taking Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and it has so completely relieved me of this trouble that I scarcely ever have a sore throat or suffer in any way from my former trouble."—Mrs. A. McDonald, 28 McMurrich St.

Golden Medical Discovery is put up in Dr. Pierce's Laboratory in Bridgeburg, Ont., and sold by all druggists in both tablets and liquid. Send Dr. Pierce 10c if you wish a trial pkg.

The Woman's Day

Written by a Woman for Women.

Touching brightly on woman's every major interest in life from books and babies to politics and psycho analysis.

(By Allene Sumner)

NAME IT.

Naming babies, yachts, private cars, camps, dogs, cats, canoes, has been made into a profitable business by a Miss Laura Lee Rogers, whose official title is "nomenclator." Which only proves that it's getting an idea that counts! In every town and on every city street is at least one woman who "has a knack for thinking up fancy names for twins and things." But it remained for one woman to capitalize this "knack." The thousands of women who want to be business successes can start in no better way than taking inventory of self, then hanging out the shingle about their own special talent.

THE NEST.

"If only we could forget a little about so much loving!" So wails the husband in a new story called "The Nest" by Anne Sedgeewick, author of "The Little French Girl." Tale of a husband told he has but one month to live, and of the wife who surfeits him with love and attention in that month, until he wants to die. The specialist is wrong and life looks not so black when the wife lets life resume its normal tenor.

SHE SAYS.

"When public opinion shut up every woman in the walls of her own house and home, it thwarted and deformed and embittered many strong and vigorous personalities, and turned many homes into hells. What was thoroughly objectionable in that state of things was not the dictum that married women should always stay home, but the idea that public opinion should presume to lay down the law indiscriminately about that detail."

"ETTYKET."

In Cairo, friends meeting one another, bow and say "How do you sweat?," successful sweating meaning well-being in Cairo. The Dutch idea of inquiring about the real joy of their friends is to say "May you eat a hearty dinner!" But in this land, the correct response to an introduction is a bow, smile, handshake, perhaps, and the one phrase of "How do you do?"

CAN'T SEE EVERYTHING!

The modern child, warned that if she is not good she will not go to heaven, is very apt to answer calmly, "Well, I've been to the zoo and the circus and can't go everywhere!" This according to a warning issued by Dr. C. W. Kimmins, child authority, who tells modern parents that children are smarter than they are, and that deceit, exaggeration, and funny stuff gets a parent nowhere with a child!

HOME SWEET HOME!

A frameless Venetian panel mirror between the second and third window of a series of three front apartment windows is very pleasing. Small rugs in living rooms are rather dangerous, breaking up the effect of spaciousness. They are best between rooms, in halls, and to accentuate special pieces of furniture by being placed in front of them.

In Early Life Coats are Rose-Colored and Very Fetching

The first walk in life begins gaily in flower shades of rose, larkspur blue, mignonette green or poppy scarlet. There are other diverting colors that are quite lovely in broadcloth or light-weight flannel, such as carrot, grasshopper green, cooky beige, taffy, tapioca or biscuit. Apple-green albatross with a frock of apple-blossom-pink cotton Georgette underneath to match the same pink in the coat lining would be adorable for a blonde. A brunette in amber-colored crepe de Chine would be irresistible. The coat can be made without the smocking, but it's smarter with it.

The Examiner does not sell these patterns.

HER OWN WAY by A GIRL of TODAY

WORKING OUT THE CASE.

Involuntarily I drew a long sigh. I was beginning to feel very, very tired. Mamie saw this and said to Jim and Jerry: "Now you two men get out of here. Do you know it is after one o'clock? It is time you are going home, and certainly Judy has had enough excitement for one day."

With this she fairly pushed them out of the door, handed their coats and hats to them in the hall and banging the outside door after them came back to me.

"You said something, Mamie, when you remarked that I have had enough excitement for one day," I told her. "No wonder girls leave home. I used to think that when taking an automobile ride if we drew up to the side of the road and the man with me began a petting party it was most exciting, and I felt I was living the life as I walked home. But look what has happened to me here."

"This morning I got my money back and that wonderful bag from Jerry. Then I saw Mr. Hathaway, Senior, himself and told him a few things and he certainly is going to give the Beaux Arts restaurant a shaking up."

"He probably has done it already," remarked Mamie, "and that is why you were nearly choked to death. Those thugs over there are not going to give up their soft berth without a struggle. They are not going to let a little girl like you stand in the way."

"I expect you may be right at that," I told Mamie, "for as I left Mr. Hathaways' office this morning I ran into Sellers at the elevator, and if looks could kill or he hadn't been afraid of being found out I probably would have been choked before I got to the park bench."

"But surely, Mamie, you don't think that the manager of the Beaux Arts restaurant would stoop to such a thing as robbing and choking a defenseless girl?"

"No, I don't think Sellers would do it himself. But he might just pass the word along to one of those henchmen of his and he would not feel badly if you turned up missing some day."

"Well, whether it was Sellers or somebody else, I got mine. And, Mamie, I got a job right off the bat at Mortons Department Store. It was Robinson himself that gave it to me. I am beginning to think that I am some little old vamp."

I stopped. I felt myself blushing.

"And then—?" prodded Mamie.

Cook in a cool Kitchen this Summer

IT'S good-bye to the hot, stuffy kitchen when a Canadian Beauty Rangette is used. Just as the Electric light routed the coal oil lamp, the Canadian Beauty Rangettes make the old fashioned stoves a memory, so far as summer cooking is concerned.

With the Canadian Beauty Rangette, electrically generated heat is placed where you want it and nowhere else. The quantity of heat used can be regulated as well. You turn a switch; that's all—no fumes, no flames, no smoke, no ashes, no fuel to prepare or carry, no dangers. Cooking labors do not trespass on summer's leisure. You do not work over meals at blast furnace temperatures.

Canadian Beauty Rangettes have knocked the bottom out of Electric cooking costs. The expenditure for the largest Rangette is about half that for the ordinary Electric range, including installation. Prices for the other Rangettes and hot plates pictured here are in proportion.

Besides solving the entire summer cooking problem, the Canadian Beauty Rangettes are making friends with apartment and small home dwellers for year round cooking.

Every Rangette is strongly built, and all parts thoroughly tested. The Rangettes, though smaller than the large cabinet ranges, have cooking elements of the same style and capacity. Each element is equipped with the latest improved reciprocating switch. The top or cooking surface is of genuine, pearl-grey vitreous porcelain. Let the dealer show you the complete line.

ADVENTURES of the TWINS

by OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

THE MIXED-UP BALLOON MAN.

The next person the Twins and the Whiffet met was the Balloon Man.

"Balloons, balloons, a bunch of balloons,
They all go a-popping the loveliest tunes."

he sang. "Six times two and four more make seven. I've sold nineteen today."

"Say," said Nick. "That's not the way to count. You're all mixed. Six times two and four make sixteen."

"They didn't have that in my room," said the Balloon Man. "One a penny, two a penny, hot cross buns!"

Here he jerked his head and snapped his fingers. "I mean, 'Balloons, balloons, a bunch of balloons.' You see, I worked for the Muffin Man at Easter time and now I'm working for the Circus Man. I get my speeches all mixed up."

"Say," said the little Rag-bag fairy. "No one seems to notice me at all, and I'm the most important. Mister Balloon Man, did you see my shadow? I lost it crossing the stile."

"Let me see," said the Balloon Man, looking at the Whiffet closely. "Did your shadow have a necktie, and big pockets, and ears that stuck out?"

"Yes, yes, yes!" said the Whiffet. "That's mine. Did you see it, sir?"

"No, I didn't," said the Balloon Man. "I was just asking," and he started to call out at the top of his lungs:

"Water cresses! Water cresses!
Who'll buy cresses today?"

He snapped his fingers again impatiently. "There I go again!" he said. "I worked for the Huckster once and I called out cresses every spring. If I don't watch out, the Circus Man will hear me and I'll lose my job. By the way, has anyone a lead pencil?"

"I think I have a little one," said Nick, searching in all his pockets. "Yes, sir, here it is. It's pretty short but it has a point and a rubber." He held it out to the Balloon Man who looked at it in surprise.

"Why, I don't want it," he said. "I only asked you if you had one. I'm curious, that way, you know." And the queer fellow started to call out balloons again:

"Balloons! Balloons! A bunch of balloons!
They all go a-popping the loveliest tunes."

"I'll buy one," said someone. "I'll have a purple one lined with pink."

But, although the Balloon Man looked and the Twins looked and the Whiffet looked, no one was in sight.

"Ha, ha, ha, ha, ha! I fooled you that time," said the voice. "Isn't it the LOVELIEST day! Do you dance the Charleston? I BEG your pardon, my dear, I never take more than three u mps in my tea."

Then they spied a green poll-parrot on top of a post, looking at them.

"Where did you come from?" said Nancy.

"Out of the everywhere into the here," chuckled the parrot.

"Did you see my shadow? I lost it crossing the stile," said the little Rag-bag Whiffet, not to be kept down.

"Don't cross stiles. Keep in style," said the silly parrot. "It's more expensive but not so likely to fade."

"That was a foolish remark," said Nancy sternly.

"It's a foolish world, m' dear," said the parrot. "It's a foolish world." And he blinked his cold little eyes very hard at them.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK?

(By Edson R. Waite, Secy., Shawnee, Okla., Board of Commerce.)

Harry A. Stroud, president of the News Writers of Oklahoma, says:

That the news writer is the stage hand who pulls aside the curtain in order that the masses may see what a few are doing.

That no civic club, chamber of commerce or any other worth while organization could function at its best without the hearty co-operation of the newspaper and the man who writes the news.

That at a public gathering the news writer is the most important guest because he is seeing for thousands of people who are not in attendance.

That the news writer is condemned sometimes fired, if he makes a mistake but day in and day out he is a friend to public men and officials, few of whom ever realize the important role he plays or give him a word of thanks.

That the news writer usually has one of the broadest viewpoints of any man in town, because he has developed his power of observation to where he can see both sides from an unprejudiced viewpoint.

The news writer can do more for your city than your banker, your lawyers or your physicians and his service costs the community nothing. And remember that appreciation is so seldom shown the news writer that a word of encouragement or appreciation can buy more publicity than a dollar substituted for that word.

YOUR HEALTH

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M.D.,
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

A Philadelphia lady asks for an article about goitre. Will iodine salt cure it? she inquires.

There are two forms of goitre. One is called exophthalmic goitre because pushing forward of the eyes is a prominent symptom.

This form is founded upon a nervous disturbance of some sort. It is not clearly understood what its causes are, although its signs and symptoms are well known.

Simple goitre is a different thing. This is an enlargement of the thyroid gland and the symptoms are those caused by pressure on the near-by parts. The gland may be so slightly increased in size at first that it is extremely difficult to make out for certain whether it is actually swollen.

The prominence on the front of the neck is popularly known as "Adam's Apple." It is remarkable how big this is in some old persons.

On each side of the Adam's apple are the parts of what we call the thyroid or thyroid gland. In most persons this gland is so inconspicuous that it serves merely to fill in and round out the contour of the neck.

But, unfortunately, there is an occasional person who finds that the glandular tissues are growing and thickening. It may not be uniform growth, or it may be confined to one side of the neck. One part or "lobe" of the gland is involved in such a case.

Another person may find all the parts of the gland gradually but steadily growing. The organ becomes so big that it cannot be hidden by the dress.

The relationship of iodine to the development of goitre is very interesting. It is a disease common in sections of Switzerland. For years the authorities have called attention to the presence in the drinking waters there, of excessive quantities of iodine.

Now there is a widespread belief that the lack of iodine in the drinking water may be responsible for goitre. This appears like a direct contradiction of the Switzerland idea.

The thyroid is what we call a "ductless gland." That is, it has no passageway, permitting its products to escape from it. The secretion of the gland is imprisoned in the gland, or it is absorbed by the blood.

If it is dammed up, the pressure and irritation are not unlike the presence somewhere of a foreign body. The tissues become congested and swollen. If the congestion continues the structures begin to thicken.

There is no doubt that iodine has an important part in the operation of this organ. It has a positive effect on the secretion and activity of the thyroid gland. An excessive intake of the chemical will cause the organ to work overtime and may result in goitre.

When there is no intake of iodine the thyroid is like an engine without a governor. It just runs on in its own way, and in some persons there will be a gradual increase in the size of the gland.

This sounds contradictory but there is a relationship which cannot be denied.

Many enthusiastic advocates of the idea think every child should be fed a minute quantity of iodine to make sure it is in the system to perform its regulatory work. There is a reasonable probability that this theory has some scientific foundation.

But in the cure of goitre of long standing I doubt if iodine is of value.

GOOD NIGHT STORIES

By Blanche Silver

DOTTY MEETS A REAL CANNIBAL

Dotty heard a queer buzzing noise and stopped to find out what it was.

"Sounds as if some bee was in distress," she mused. "Oh, dear I wish Squeedee was here! I'm sure someone is in trouble."

"Then I'm the one you want," laughed a merry voice and Squeedee, the wee elfin from Joyland hopped up beside Dotty. "Who is in trouble?"

"I don't know, Squeedee," replied Dotty, shaking his little hand. "That's why I wanted you. Hear that terrible buzzing?"

Squeedee heard, and together they searched among the grasses until they found where it was coming from.

A poor little blue-fly had tried to steal some of the honey juices from the leaves of the Sundew plant and Miss Sundew had just folded her pretty leaf over Mr. Blue-fly and held him a prisoner.

"Oh, Squeedee, can't we help Mr. Fly?" Dotty asked, but the wee elfin shook his head.

"Not this time, my dear," he replied, "You see Miss Sundew is a cannibal and gets her living by devouring wayward flies and insects that come to steal."

"I'm sorry if I displease you," said the little plant sadly. "but that is the only way Mother Nature has given me to get my living. I guess Squeedee is right, I'm what you call a real-for-sure cannibal, for I eat things alive."

"But don't the flies and insects know that?" asked Dotty. "Why don't they stay away from you?"

"Well, you see, I set a trap for them in a way," she mused, tossing her leaves around so Dotty could see them quite plainly. "See those fine red hairs on my leaves? See the drops of sparkling honey?"

"Oh, Squeedee, Can't We Help?"

"I certainly do," laughed Dotty. "They look like bright jewels dangling in the sun. I thought it was dew."

"No, those tiny drops are the sweetened juices I send out to coax the hungry creatures onto my leaves," replied Miss Sundew. "Once they step on my leaves, those red hairs all become alive. Slowly they begin to pull, until every one of them flood the intruder with sticky juices. So sticky is the fluid that once a fly gets his feet on my leaf, he is doomed to be devoured. The leaf soon closes over him and the juices soon cover his body and close up the breathing pores. You don't hear Mr. Fly buzzing now do you?"

Dotty listened then shook her head.

"Yes," Miss Sundew continued, "to see me growing in the sunlight decked with these lovely clusters of white flowers, once would never think me a cannibal would he?"

"Goodness, no," laughed Peggy. "But I don't like flies myself, so I don't care how many you eat," and catching hold of Squeedee's hand they ran on through the woods in search of new adventures.

STATUTORY HOLIDAYS SHOULD FALL ON SATURDAY OR MONDAY

Advantages of Two-Day Rest Sketched by Montreal Lawyer.

PUBLIC ECONOMY

MONTREAL, Que., May 14. — (Canadian Press.) — "There is no doubt," said Andrew R. MacMaster, K.C., Senior Crown Prosecutor, in discussing the matter of calendar reform as it affects the courts, yesterday, 'that the best ends of justice would be served were all holdays, religious or otherwise, to be celebrated on a Monday, or perhaps better, on a Saturday. The Monday celebration might cause a congestion in work, but celebrations on Saturday would allow the business man to have periodical two-day holidays, and, at the same time, would not interfere with business as does the present system of isolated days of rest. To-day is Ascension Day, and all courts are closed. The Crown perforce was compelled to take up unimportant and trivial matters yesterday to avoid starting on a case which might result in a petit jury being locked up over to-day. The entire panel of 120 jurors must be called together again to-morrow, and only a short case can be considered then in order to avoid the same difficulty with regard to Saturday and Sunday.

"There is no doubt that the present promiscuity of holdays, falling as they do on any and every day of the week, costs the Government and the taxpayers an immense amount of money which could easily be avoided were holidays fixed for Mondays or Saturdays permanently throughout the year.

The Cotsworth Calendar.

"Within the next six weeks the courts and all their dependencies will be forced to close down on four separate occasions, to-day being Ascension Day, May 24 Victoria Day, June 24 St. Jean Baptiste Day, and July 1 Dominion Day, the project laid before the League of Nations by M. B. Cotsworth of Vancouver, B.C., seems to be the plan best suited in the view of local practitioners to meet the difficulty.

"I have not," siad Mr. McMaster, "seen the details of the Cotsworth plan which was a Canadian contribution to the deliberations of the League of Nations. I understand he proposes that the nations adopt a thirteen 28-day month year, accomplished by the insertion of the month 'Sol' between the months of June and July, the creation of 'Year Day' as an International Sabbath every December 29, and the shifting of February 29 to a 'Leap Day' every four years. The words 'Calendar' and 'Almanac' are to disappear from the dictionary and to be replaced by the single word 'Yearal.'

"I do not know that he advocates changing the celebrations of patriotic and religious holidays to Saturdays or Mondays, but his scheme does imply that all holidays shall be celebrated on a certain fixed day each year. Even this would be an improvement, as the dates would be known years beforehand and proper arrangements could be made to cope with these vacations. It would be easy, I would think, to gain the co-operation of the Governmental and religious authorities to shift their celebrations to the beginning or the end of the secular week."

LOCAL KIWANIANS GOING TO MONTREAL

Big Party Being Made Up Here for International Convention.

Dr. John J. Craig and Isaac P. McNabb, members of the Peterboro Kiwanis Club, announced as delegates to the 10th annual convention of Kiwanis International which convenes at Montreal, Canada, on Monday evening, June 7, are making ready for their departure.

The local members, who will carry to the convention sessions the banner of representation of the Peterborough club, will be but two of seven thousand Kiwanians from Canada and the United States who will take part in the annual business of the continent wide service organization and also in the entertainment features that have been prepared.

Both will vote in the election for the International president of Kiwanis for 1927 and help determine the convention city for next year.

For entertainment of Peterboro representatives the Montreal club has arranged a number of special occasions. One of the features is to be a pageant depicting Canadian life. Commencing with a French-Canadian rural scene, the life-pictorial procession will engage historical sketches and character representations that have made up Canada's fascinating history through the centuries. The annual reception and president's ball, to be held this year in honor of John H. Moss, of Milwaukee, Wisconsin, International president, is scheduled the second night of the convention. Both delegates will attend the occasion.

"We both anticipate attending the biggest and most important convention held so far by our International organization," said the two local delegates today. Others from Peterboro who will attend the convention are:

Mr. R. A. Irwin and friend, Mr. C. D. Cook and wife, Mr. R. A. Carman and wife, Mr. J. Chadwick and wife, Mr. W. Oke and wife, Mr. H. McCannon and wife, Mr. J. Allen and wife, Dr. J. J. MINERS DECIDE TO RECONSIDER PROPOSAL MADE Important Developments Since Executive Rejected Samuel's Scheme.

DELEGATES MEET.

Discuss Settlement Plan and Adjourn—Executive To Call on Premier.

LONDON, May 14 (Canadian Press)—A national conference of miners' delegates, convened by the Miners' Federation, met in Kingsway Hall today to consider the strike position. When the conference met it was understood important developments had occurred since the executive adopted its resolution opposing the settlement proposal of Sir Herbert Samuel, chairman of the Royal Coal Commission, and that the delegates' conference might possibly adjourn to allow the executive to continue conversations already started with the object of reaching a settlement basis. The session adjourned at 1 p.m. until 4 p.m. after discussing Sir Herbert's memorandum. Members of the miners' executive were expected to go to the premier's official residence before the conference was resumed.

MANY FINE DOGS IN LOCAL SHOW

Matinee Dog Show is Complete Success—Entry List Large.

ATTENDANCE GOOD.

The annual matinee dog show of the Peterborough Kennel Club was held last night in the market hall. Some twenty classes of dogs were represented and, according to the statement of the judge, Norman K. Swire, of Toronto, the Peterborough dog show last night was one of the best matinee dog shows in the country. The class of dogs on the whole was excellent, especially the Springer Spaniels, owned by Herbert Routley. It was Mr. Routley's "Trent Valley Cutie" that was the best dog in the show, with a Boston terrier, owned by W. Welsh, second, and a large Collie owned by K. N. Sine, third. These three dogs were picked out of a class of some twenty-five dogs which competed for the best dog in the show, male or female.

Some 125 dogs were entered in the different classes with the Boston Terriers being the largest individual class. The class of Pekingese was also large with a very nice collection. The three Russian Wolf Hounds were worthy of special mention, stated the judge. The dogs ranged in size from the huge Wolf Hound to the small Pomeranians which a man could very nearly put in his waistcoat pocket.

There was very little noise while the judging was going on, and with Jimmie McMartin acting as announcer things ran very smoothly. The crowd was fairly good as people were coming and going all the time as the judging progressed. Some of the classes of dogs present were: Russian Wolf Hounds, Fox Hounds, Springer Spaniels, Water Spaniels, Collies, Airedales, Irish Terriers, Boston Terriers, Fox Terriers, Wiry Haired Fox Terriers, Pomeranians, Pekingese, Beagles, Mastiffs and Poodles.

The officials of the Kennel Club are thoroughly satisfied with the dog show and expect to have a bigger and better show next year for the citizens of Peterborough to attend. The prize list will be published within a few days.

EVANGELIST SPEAKS AT CAMPBELLFORD

W. H. Hunter Conducts Services in Gospel Hall—Lecture on Bird Life.

CAMPBELLFORD, May 14. — Evangelist W. H. Hunter of New Bedford, Mass., who is conducting a series of special services in Gospel Hall on Rear street, preached on Thursday evening on "The Eight Favorite Sins of the Day," enumerating them as procrastination, extravagance, spiritual indifference, gluttony, pleasurable inventions that make people forget God, drunkenness, vanity and the lack of grieving for past offences.

The chief sin among the people of Campbellford and in other places, the speaker regards as spiritual indifference or lethargy. It required an earthquake to awaken the Philippian jailer to a sense of his danger and to cause him to ask what he would have to do to be saved, and a similar cataclysm, r some other great catastrophe, may be needed to arouse the people of Campbellford from their spiritual slumber.

The sin of vanity is chiefly manifested in the tendency of women—and men, too—to seek to add to their personal appearance by the lavish use of cosmetics.

Mr. Hunter is an eloquent speaker and a good singer, taking the lead in the musical services. Friday night he will preach on the "Cups of Scripture, and who shall Drink Them?" The services will conclude on Sunday evening. All are invited.

Lecture on "Bird Life."

The Boy Scouts and their friends were entertained last night with an interesting and instructive lecture on Canadian bird life, the lantern being operated by Dr. F. de F. Free, while Scoutmaster Hylton Beatty delivered the lecture, describing the habits of every bird shown on the screen. Among the pictures was one of the famous bird sanctuary of Jack Miner at Kingsville. The entertainment was thoroughly enjoyed by a large audience and was but one of many that are regularly held in the parish hall for the instruction of the young people of the town.

Examiner subscribers reod of the calling off of the general strike in England 24 hours before the Toronto morning papers brought the news to Campbellford and at least six hours before the same news reached here through the medium of other evening papers.

Crop Conditions Improve So Wheat Price Drops

CHICAGO, May 11.—(Canadian Press.)—With indications at hand that the rains had allayed the fear as to at least the immediate outlook for the spring crop, the wheat prices turned downward to-day in the early dealings. Wheat opening prices, 1-2c. off to 1-4c. up were followed by a moderate general setback. Corn and oats showed relative firmness owing to the cool weather, corn opening unchanged to 3-8c. higher and scoring a further advance. Provisions reflected higher hog values.

Announcement of terms of settlement had been reached in British railway walkout tends somewhat to act as a deterrent to bearish sentiment regarding wheat. It was also pointed out that United States' wheat is selling at unusual discount under Europe, that reserves of old and that fresh wheat premiums are well maintained in every direction.

Winnipeg opening prices—Wheat May 5-8c. lower to unchanged at 1.52 to 1.52 5-8, July 5-8c. to 1-8c. lower at 1.50 1-2, October 3-8 to 1-8c. lower at 1.31 1-4 to 1-2. Oats May 1-8c. to 1-4c. lower at 48 5-8 to 1-2, July 1-8c. lower at 48 3-4.

Stock Market Firm With Brazilian Stronger

TORONTO, May 14 (Canadian Press). — Some signs of weakness were shown on the Toronto Stock Exchange this morning, but the general tone of the market continued firm, with Brazilian again the dominating stock. Outside of Brazilian, in fact, the trading was comparatively light to-day. Brazilian climbed still further to a high of 94 3-8, easing only an eighth, the morning close of 94¼ being a point advance. C.P.R. was marked up a point and a quarter at 157, and Kelvinator firmed seven-eighths at 19 7-8. Twin City firmed a half at 69½. Consolidated Smelters eased seven-eighths at 190 1-8, and F. N. Burt Common was a point lower at 63. Canada Bread was active but unchanged.

General Motors Dividend Gets No Market Response

NEW YORK, May 14 (Canadian Press). — Mixed price movements characterized to-day's dull stock market with the main tendency again downward. Failure of the market to respond to the declaration of an extra cash dividend of four dollars by General Motors was a disappointment to those working for higher prices and led to renewal of selling pressure against motor shares. General Motors opened a point higher at 126½, and then fell back over 2 points on liquidation of stock apparently bought on expectation of a sharp rally. Hudson and Willys Overland each yielded at least a point and several of the low-priced issues collapsed to new low levels for the year. Rubbers again showed signs of weakness.

A sporadic rally took place in oil shares under the leadership of Pan-American B and Colorado Fuel, but it quickly petered out. Marked heaviness also was shown by General Electric, Commercial Solvents B, Postum Cereal and Republic Steel.

Noranda Drops Thirty On Listless Exchange

TORONTO, May 14. — Canadian Press. — This morning's session of Standard Mining Exchange was a listless affair of light trading with price changes for the most part small and the general tone weak, despite a number of small advances. Noranda was the weakest issue, losing 30c at 15.60. Mining Corporation lost 6 at 342 and Teck-Hughes 4 at 334. Beaver eased 2 at 73 and Tough Oakes one at 41. Firmer issues were Hollinger, gaining 10 at 18.95, McIntyre up 5 at 25.55 and Canadian Lorrain up 1½ at 86.

IMMODEST DANCE SAYS OMEMEE

ing the "immodest" dancing said to have been given at Omemee, the director of the Knox Minstrels told The Examiner there was nothing objectionable in the dancing put on during the intermissions in the minstrel show. "The act was exactly the same, both to costume and otherwise, as was put on at the Rotary concert held at the Grand Opera House in Peterborough and at The Examiner Club's dance," he said.

"It was possibly a slightly different attraction than Omemee is used to having presented in Coronation Hall," added the director, who said in regard to smoking: "We are responsible only for the morals of those connected with the entertainment."

Not Part of Show.

The minister of Knox Church told The Examiner the dances were not given as part of the Minstrel show in Peterborough. As the show was presented in Knox Church Hall and in other places there was nothing objectionable in it. He regretted very much that such a thing should have occurred in Omemee.

Troupe Not Responsible.

The president of the A.S.K. Bible Class of Knox Church, under the auspices of which the Minstrel show was originally formed, said the troupe knew nothing of the acts to be put on by the girls until they were given. It was not by authority or request of the members of the Minstrel cast that the objectionable part of the programme was presented, he said.

Alright In Its Place.

"The programme was quite alright for the Grand Opera House," an interested citizen told The Examiner, "but was out of place in a church organization."

$1,000,000

Will Your Trademark Ever Be Worth $1,000,000?

MANY trademarks are worth that and more.

The Coca Cola name and trademark is stated by its owners to be worth $5,000,000. Royal Baking Powder's is valued at $8,000,000. Mennen's at $10,000,000. Bull Durham's at between $10,000,000 and $20,000,000. We could cite a score of other examples.

The tremendous value of these famous trade names and trademarks is due to the millions of people who are familiar with them and have confidence in them.

The larger the number of people who are acquainted with a trade name or trademark and the more confidence they have in it, the greater its value.

The first step then to make your trademark worth a million or more is to make a good product.

The second, to make as large a number of people as possible acquainted with it.

The third, to secure the confidence of these people in the integrity of your trademark.

To accomplish the second and third steps, national advertising is essential. Without advertising, the trademarks mentioned could never have attained their present value. Nothing but advertising could have won the confidence of such hosts of people in these trademarks, and made them worth millions to their owners.

If you would like to make your trade name or trademark more valuable we would appreciate an interview with you. We have collected some information on the values of famous trademarks that we are sure would interest you.

Hampshire, their opponents, followed on and were retired for the meagre count of 152 in the initial innings. Continuing, Hampshire staged a better show in the second frame, and at the close of the day's play their side had two wickets down for 167 runs.

Gregory and Mailey commenced the proceedings, batting for the tourists, and each had contributed two runs before Mailey was run out. Byes and wides added another three to the aggregate. Gregory was the hero of the Antipodeans, exceeding the century mark for the second time in the tour with his wicket still standing. His previous performance was against Leicester in the second game of the trip, when he reached 120 not out. As a heavy hitter, Gregory has been bettered only by Macartney and Woodfull. The latter reached the 201 mark and Macartney 148 in the abandoned game against Essex at Leyton. In the present encounter, however, the redoubtable Macartney was dismissed at zero by Kennedy, while Woodfull was not engaged.

Lack Confidence

Taking the bat Thursday, the Hampshire players put up a poor show against the bowling of Mailey and Macartney. With the exception of Bowell, who was retired at four short of the half century, the home team exhibited a lack of confidence. Bowell was at bat for an hour and thirty-five minutes and his 46 runs included a quartette of boundaries.

Hampshire were totally unable in their first innings to solve the bowling of Mailey and Macartney. The latter's average showed him taking a wicket each seven runs, while Mailey had an average of a wicket for each seven and a fraction. Gregory was not quite so effective, and the home batsmen found him for some hard clouts.

At that however, Macartney had done better, his remarkable showing against Leicestershire still recalled a feature. On that occasion he had taken five wickets for eleven runs.

Hampshire Recover

It was not until the second innings that Hampshire regained something of their composure and when Newman and Brown again took the field they displayed considerably more confidence. They batted steadily and looked like staging a strong comeback when Newman was dismissed l.g-before-wicket to Mailey's delivery. He had bettered his first innings score by a good deal, however. Aird came on and once more was unlucky. The fate that befell him in the first frame was reproduced in the second when once more he was caught out. Mead then started a stout rally in partnership with Brown and their batting grew more vigorous with each succeeding over. Mead had fallen to Everett previously, the only wicket Everett had taken, but he faced Macartney and Mailey with confidence. When time was called, Brown and Mead were still going strong, and they will continue for Hampshire [illegible]

DE LAVAL VERSUS THISTLE AT OVAL

Masseys Travel To Omemee To Play a League Match.

Saturday's soccer bill includes two very important league games in which the Thistle and the DeLaval meet for the first time this season at the Nicholls Oval. Kick-off at 3 o'clock. Referee, J. C. Russell, who has been "knight of the whistle" the last three seasons.

No definite line-up is announced from the Thistle F. C., who request the following players to be present no later than 2.45 prompt, viz.: B. Hutton, Anderson, Griffine, Scott, Warde, Bromley, Mayette, Gore, Lamb, P. Hutton, H. Richmond, and McPheat.

DeLaval will in all probability put out a strong eleven so as to make the "Jags" travel all the way. It is always a nice game to watch when these two elevens play.

Definite arrangements have been made by the Massey F.C. to travel to Omemee when they meet the village boys in a league match. A number of the local fans have intimated that they will go with them, and the bus is scheduled to leave White's Cycle and Sports Limited Store at 2.00 o'clock sharp. Please note the time.

The selection of the Massey eleven will not be made until they arrive at Omemee, but all signed players take note: T. Hotson, Wag. Hotson, F. Wade, S. Laidler, W. James, Westlake, Halliday, Clark, D. Grant, Mann, Blowers, Jack Montgomery, S. Willis and Tom Foster.

Tom Montgomery will be unable to play in goal but is making rapid progress towards recovery since he sprained his ankle while playing ball.

CROWD OF 125,000 EXPECTED FOR THE KENTUCKY DERBY SATURDAY

Cream of American Three-Year-Olds and Riders Entered.

FIELD OF FIFTEEN

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 14.—Kentucky already is Derby mad, with the running of the colorful turf classic still two days off.

There may be something besides race horses in and around Louisville, but the citizenry talks of nothing else as the hour of the big race, which carries a purse of $50,000 added, approaches.

Every one turns an attentive ear to the "clockers" and "railbirds" who have stood in the early morning out at the Churchill Downs course and watched the thoroughbreds in time trials over part or all of the full Derby distance—1 1-4 miles.

Fifteen or sixteen sleek, three-year-olds probably will go to the post Saturday afternoon.

W. R. Coe's Pompey and Col. Edward R. Bradley's Bubbling Over figure largely in the advance forecasts of the big race, which is the 52nd renewal of the classic.

Bubbling Over's trial when he was timed in 2.09 for the mile and a quarter, was not impressive, but he probably will remain a favorite. Col. Bradley's horses always are backed in Kentucky.

Special trains from New York, St. Louis, Pittsburgh, Baltimore and other eastern cities were beginning to arrive.

Probably the largest crowds in the history of the Derby will be on hand when the field thunders down the stretch. Preparations have been made to handle 125,000.

The field will be divided about equally between the east and the west, eight from the east and seven from the west.

Eastern representatives are Pompey, Display, Light Carbine, Blondin, Espino, Rockman, Color Sergeant and Canter.

The west's hopes are Bubbling Over, Bagenbaggage, Rhinock, Recollection, Roycrofter, Champ de Mars and American Son.

American Son and Recollection are doubtful starters. Both have worked well, but Recollection hardly could be called a Derby quality.

Battle of Riders

The Derby will be a battle of America's best riders, no less than a struggle between the best three-year-olds.

Sande, Munden, L. Fator, M. Garner, Maiben, A. Johnson and other famous riders will have mounts. Sande may ride Champ de Mars.

Here is the probable Derby field, with weights and riders:

Horse.	Jockey.	Weight.
xBubbling Over,	A. Johnson	126
Pompey,	L. Fator	126
xBagenbaggage,	E. Legere	126

HELPFUL HINTS GOLFING STARS

BY SPECIAL ARRANGEMENT WITH GOLFERS MAGAZINE, CHICAGO.

JIM BARNES — GRIPPING WOOD AND IRON CLUBS.

There is no difference in the method of gripping, except that there may be a few minor changes between the grip for a full stroke and for a very short chip shot or the like. But I do recommend a somewhat tighter grip with the fingers for long iron shots than for a swing with wooden clubs. The reason for this is: A player generally uses an iron club where distance is any consideration, largely because the ball is lying a bit too closely for a woodeh club. And in such a case a rather tight grip is needed to carry the club-head through.

Don't confuse this, however, with any tightening up that will result in making the wrists stiff, which will be sure to spoil the stroke.

Then, of course, the grip for a niblick shot from a sandtrap or even from heavy rough needs to be tighter. Here the need is more urgent. It is necessary either to plow through the sand or else drive the club-head through thick, neavy grass.

Diamond Disputes Decided

How can a batsman hit a ball over the fence and yet receive credit for only a single?

* * *

Freak baserunning is very necessary to make such a thing possible, yet it has happened several times in both major leagues.

A few years ago Toporcer of the St. Louis Cardinals was the victim of such a tough break at the Philadelphia park.

With a runner on first he hit a drive to right field that eventually cleared the fence.

The runner on first was of the opinion that the ball wouldn't carry over the fence, that there was a chance the fielder might catch it.

Working on that supposition, he played it safe by going only half way to second and watching the course of the ball.

The batsman, confident the ball would clear the fence, gave no thought to the other runner. He passed him on the baselines between first and second.

This automatically retired the man who had hit the ball over the fence and in the box score he received credit for only a single.

MOVIGRAPHS

HOLLYWOOD May. 14—The unique "Bearded Men's Club" of Hollywood, comprised mostly of former gold-miners and adventurers now contributing "atmosphere" to pictures, is in a state of unstable equilibrium as a result of gold strikes in Ontario and the California desert.

Thus far, however, only a few of the more restless spirits have followed the stampede call. The majority prefer the assured $7.50 and $10 per day as movie extras to uncertain prospects afield.

Studio pay-dirt, depending chiefly upon a beard, with very little competition to disturb the constant demand, has provided comforts such as few of the old timers had hitherto known. They are unwilling to surrender their polished flivvers for burro or dogteam.

Fond of boxing, football, baseball and other he-man diversions, Johnny under the influence of Spring sank so low as to write a poem. He dedicated it to Mary, queen of the Gang. Furthermore, he set it to music on his mouth-organ. Yeah—it had a lot o' mush in it! All 'at ole stuff about love ansoforth! The kids are giving poor Johnny the razz.

SOCCER PLAYER HAS LEFT CITY

Hugh Richmond, Thistle Player, Gone to Take Up New Position.

AT WEST PORCUPINE.

To many soccer sports, the news that Hugh Richmond has left the city for West Porcupine, this afternoon, to take up a new position, will be much regretted because of his very creditable performance in the scoring list of the various competitions.

"Hughie," as he was more familiarly known, has always acted as a gentleman on the field of sport, and never did he once retaliate unfairly, in spite of the fact that a pivot man generally comes in for more than his share when leading an attack upon goal. He was known as a clean, fast and sportsmanlike player, whether his team won or lost.

Two seasons ago, the Thistle player headed the goal-scoring list with the total of 38 goals in every game he played, and last season he scored 25 goals in the season.

The local Thistle will be without his services to-morrow afternoon, when they meet the DeLaval.

BILLY EVANS SAYS

Debut of Nevers.

"The Babe looks good at the bat even when he strikes out."

That remark is often made as Ruth, after taking three healthy swings in vain, retires to the bench for the customary drink.

There is something inspiring in the cut Ruth takes at a ball whether he hits a home run or misses it a mile.

Ernie Nevers, famous Stanford athlete, made his major league debut in a recent game against Cleveland. Southpaw Joe Shaute struck him out, yet Nevers impressed you with his batting power despite his failure to hit safely.

He didn't give the umpire a chance to call any. The first swing resulted in a long foul to left. On his next effort he sent a long fly to right that just failed to drop into the stands but it was also foul.

The third pitch was a fast ball, high and inside. He took a terrific wallop but missed and was out. He reminded you of the Babe, except that he bats right-handed.

Subway Delivery.

At college, Nevers was Stanford's star pitcher as well as half-back. He also was as proficient a batsman as pitcher. He won many of his important games through his hitting as much as his pitching.

Nevers is the ideal athlete, as far as physique is concerned, to be a successful pitcher. A six-footer, the possessor of a powerful pair of shoulders, he gets plenty on the ball.

In college, and at present, Nevers is an underhand pitcher. His style is somewhat similar to that of Carl Mays, except that he doesn't get as low with his arm and body before delivering the ball.

During spring training the St. Louis club had him experiment with a sidearm delivery, believing that he might prove more effectiev, due largely to the thought that he would develop better control.

Nevers still sticks to the underhand style and is a good prospect, his greatest fault, of course, being lack of experience.

Hornsby Logic.

Manager Rogers Hornsby of the St. Louis Cardinals is generally considered baseball's greatest batter at the present time. A pitcher who can trouble Hornsby certainly must have something on the ball.

Recently while discussing the pennant chances of his club with me, he dwelled on the fact that he expected Vic Keen and Walter Huntzinger to win for him.

Last season Huntzinger was used almost exclusively as relief pitcher by the New York Giants, while the best Keen could do with the Chicago Cubs was win two games while suffering six defeats. He worked in parts of 30 games.

While Hornsby is mighty modest about his hitting ability, I appreciated the logic of his remarks whc he explained to me why he made the deals for Keen and Huntzinger.

Both these birds were mighty tough for me to make base hits on so I figured them worth a chance as regulars."

Both pitchers have already justified Hornsby's confidence. In the first 10 days of play, Keen had won his first two starts, as many victories as he hung up all last season.

* * *

Strange but True.

Would you be surprised at the statement that more base hits are made on bad balls, strikes that are just over or balls that just miss the plate, than on strikes that cut the heart.

While I have noted that fact during my many years of umpiring, it was forcibly brought to my attention recently by the conversation of two mightyr good batters.

Catcher Hargraves of the St. Louis club had —Mst po eped up to theldfi club had just popped up to the infield on a perfect strike, right over the plate, waist high. Just such a ball you would expect to be hit out of the lot.

As Hargraves resumed his place back of the bat at the close of the inning he remarked to Tris Speaker, the first man up for Cleveland:

"How do you pop 'em up that way when they are right over?"

"That's always the way with those perfect strikes," replied Speaker. "I get more hits on bad balls than good ones and hit 'em harder."

HEWITT WARNS HOCKEY PLAYERS

Certificates Will Not Be Granted If Players Players Move.

OSHAWA, May 14. — The Oshawa hockey players who contemplated moving to other fields were given a rather rude jolt this morning when President E. Bradley of the Oshawa Amateur Atheltic Association received a wire from Secretary W. A. Hewitt of the O.H.A., requesting him to notify the players that they would not be granted certificates if they changed their post office addresses.

Toronto, May 12.

Mr. E. Bradley:

Notice in press reports to-day that several Oshawa hockey players contemplate leaving town. Kindly notify them if they change their place of residence they will not be granted certificates next winter by the O.H.A. This is the final decision of the O.H.A. executive. W. A. Hewitt.

What effect this action of the O.H.A. will have on Oshawa players who wish to move, is not known, but it is likely that their decisions will be reconsidered. Should they decide to remain with the Motor City Intermediates next year prospects for a team of championship calibre will be indeed bright.

IN POLICE COURT

Magistrate O. A. Langley was the recipient of congratulations from Crown Attorney G. W. Hatton this morning on account of to-day being his birthday.

Mr. Hatton said, on behalf of the members of the bar who were present, and the members of the police department, he congratulated His Worship on attaining another milestone in life. He assured His Worship of his best wishes for his continued success in his important capacity.

Verna Clark appeared before His Worship on remand on a charge of attempted suicide by drinking carbolic acid, and was allowed to go on suspended sentence.

Police Matron Amy Wood of the Salvation Army, stated that she had found a place for the girl and asked His Worship to give her another chance. His Worship acceded to the request, provided that a bond would be given, and which was forthcoming from the family who would be responsible for her in future.

The hearing of the case against a local man who is charged with cruelty to animals was adjourned for the third time to-day on account of the Crown not being able to produce a material witness in the case. J. A. O'Brien, counsel for the accused, asked for a dismissal of the charge on the grounds that his client was being greatly inconvenienced in having to come to court. It was a month ago, he said, since his first appearance, and there has already been two adjournments. In his opinion it was simply a case of spite as the man who gave the information had been dismissed by the accused.

Magistrate O. A. Langley stated that unless strong affidavits were filed showing the missing man to be be a material witness there would be little or no chance of the case being enlarged. The hearing was adjourned until May 28.

THEATRE AT THE CAPITOL

"BEHIND THE FRONT."

Anyone who has become rather fed up on the screening of the sights and sounds of glorious war, as imaged by an enterprising producer of the "flying flickers" or by someone who has propaganda of some sort or other tucked away in the back of his mind, should go to see "Behind the Front." It hasn't a particularly intriguing title, but it is one of the funniest pictures seen here in many moons. Not, perhaps, the real out and out laughing style of comedy, but the sort that sets the audience chuckling and keeps them that way from beginning to end of an amusing picture that can't be termed either a burlesque or a farce. It has enough of the reality of grim war in its presentations to recall the days when just such unlucky doughboys as the two "buddies" who decorate the screen for the main portion of the picture must have gone through when they marched away from the land of hope and glory to see just what inspired, Sherman's famous phrase.

Wallace Beery has been the hero of many an unlikeable episode in his screen characterizations, but he redeems himself entirely as the big, slow-thinking Swede, Riff Swenson, the pal in war-time days of Shorty Ray (Raymond Hatton), a gentleman of the light-fingered variety, who makes Riff's acquaintance as a lifter of the big Swede's watch. In the chase that ensues, they land in the home of Betty Rankin (Mary Brian), who is inspired with a burning desire to enlist twenty-five gentlemen before four o'clock that afternoon. The arrival of the thief and his pursuer, seeking cover, gives her the opportunity, and she presents each one separately with her photo and sends him off to war as "my hero."

Then the fun begins, and, as before mentioned, there is just enough of the reality, the mud and the bully ing sergeants and the wire-crowned trenches of the sunny France of war days, to make the whole thing interesting. The two "straw soldiers," thick-witted and eternally getting into trouble, have a wonderful time as pals, the big Swede constantly troubling his mind, through all their friendly war days, as to the familiar look of his "buddy's" countenance. The way in which they swarm into a German trench, the fashion in which they manipulate a tank and take all the credit for ending the war, their adventures with French demoiselles and wrathful sergeants and 'Brown's Biscuits,' all make for a picture that is comedy, pure and simple, and has an added mirth in its clever sub-titles. The ending carries out the general atmosphere. They realize their lady's perfidy, discover the creator of the hated Brown's Biscuits and get even with their sergeant, all about the same time, and then comes the grand culmination of all for Riff Swenson and his little white Pomeranian dog, introduced into the final scene as a last whimsical touch to the ridiculous whole.

It is a giggling picture, from start to finish, and very worth while.—Jeanette.

AT THE REGENT

"JOHNSTOWN FLOOD" ON SCREEN MAKES GREAT MELODRAMA

Fox Films Production, Based on Tragedy of 1889, is Powerful Photoplay

Melodrama with excitement and suspense crammed into every scene, with romance running high and culminating in a momentous climax—that is "The Johnstown Flood," an epic drama based on the great disaster of 1889. The picture is a Fox Film production and opened to an enthusiastic audience at the Regent Theatre yesterday.

Aside from being the most spectacular picture we can ever recall seeing, a charming and appealing human interest story unfolds as the film progresses. This has been cast with popular and capable personalities such as George O'Brien, Florence Gilbert, Paul Nicholson, Anders Randolf, Walter Perry, Janet Gaynor and Paul Panzer.

But the outstanding feature of the production is, of course, the breathlessly exciting effect which has been achieved in reproducing the details of the terrible devastation that resulted when the uncontrolled currents of water swept through Johnstown and its environs. The audience is shown houses and buildings for miles around torn from their foundations, their inhabitants drowning in the whirling floods or clinging desperately to some floating bit of debris.

Thousands of extras were employed in these climax scenes. The semblance of reality that the director has created is nothing short of miraculous. Yesterday's audience was held at a high pitch of suspense and at the rescue the spectators burst into a storm of applause.

We will not divulge the whole story of "The Johnstown Flood" but we urge you to see it yourself. It is a tremendously effective, highly thrilling spectacle that is the finest thing of its kind ever done on the screen.

BALDWIN OFFERS NEW SUBSIDY OF $15,000,000 AS FIRST STEP IN HEALING BREACH IN COAL STRIKE

Agreement Between Railway Managers and Men But Details Unsettled.

CLOUDS LIFTING.

Most Industries Affected By General Strike May Resume Monday.

LONDON, May 15 (Canadian Press).— The heavy clouds which lowered over Great Britain's industrial world Thursday night cleared yesterday, and the present prospect is that next Monday will see most of the industries compelled to suspend operations because of the general strike working again, with the possible exception of the mines. Likewise, there is a greater hopefulness that a satisfactory solution of the mining difficulty will be reached before long.

The outstanding event of the day was the announcement of the Government's decision that, as a mutual agreement between the miners and mine owners was impossible if they were permitted to come together of their own accord, it must act on its own responsibility if any solution was to be found. Premier Baldwin, therefore, reduced the recommendations of the Royal Coal Commission to succinct form and submitted them to the parties with an undertaking to help the industry to the extent of £3,000,000, and to pass, if possible, in the present session of Parliament, the necessary legislation to put the recommendations into effect.

Unions Make Concessions.

The general situation also improved rapidly. An agreement was reached between the railway managers and the railroad men's unions for reinstatement of the men, although the unions had to make certain broad concessions. Arrangements also were made for the resumption of work on the tramways, the underground tubes and the omnibuses. Here, doubtless, there will be considerable difficult details to settle about the disposition of volunteer workers who aided the Government and who have Premier Baldwin's pledge that they will not suffer for their loyalty.

Printers Still Out.

The only important industry still in an unsettled state is that of the printers. Prolonged conferences were held Friday between the printers' representatives and the newspaper owners. These meetings were adjourned until to-day, no agreement having been reached. Hence, the newspapers are still appearing in skeleton form.

No trouble is likely to develop in the engineering and shipbuilding trades, which were given orders to strike just before the general strike was called off. The men in these trades did not have time to leave their posts to any great extent. There still remains to be settled the terms for reinstatement of the men belonging to the General Transport Workers' Unions.

In the meantime the Government is continuing its emergency regulations in full force until there is a general return to work in all industries.

National Wages Board.

One feature of Mr. Baldwin's formula for the mining industry is the establishment of a National Wages Board, similar to the present Railway Labor Board. The proposals also include a subsidy, characterized as "further financial assistance to the industry to the amount of approximately £3,000,000."

While this subsidy is effective, the miners are to accept an unnamed reduction in minimum wages other than in subsidience rates, this amount to be determined in joint conference.

To Introduce Legislation.

Mr. Baldwin is willing to pledge the Government to introduce and endeavor to pass four bills during this session of Parliament as follows:

1. Effectuating the Royal Coal Commission's proposals regarding amalgamation within the coal industry.
2. Providing for a levy on the royalties accruing to the mine owners.
3. Restricting recruitment of additional miners.
4. To establish a National Wages Board similar to that governing railwaymen's wages.

Such a board would consist of three representatives of the owners, three miners and an independent chairman. This body will frame a national wages and hours agreement governing the principles on which wage rates ascertained for each district and also designating the minimum percentage of increase on the rates paid before the war. The board shall make its decisions within three weeks after acceptance of the proposals, and in case of disagreement the independent chairman will decide.

THINK IT OVER.

Northern Ontario Gold Mines output, Jan.-Sept., 1925, of $22,411,173, was 23.3 per cent. higher than in the same period of 1924. Silver was 7.9 per higher. The metalliferous production in Ontario for the same period showed a gain of $9,396,000.

NURSES' HOUSE FOR HOSPITAL

Contract For New Building Let To C. H. Huffman and Sons.

15 ROOM RESIDENCE.

Considerable building is going on in the city this month and the permits are well up with previous years. A contract has been let to C. H. The architects are W. and W. R. L. Blackwell.

POLICEMEN WERE FOUND MURDERED

KALGOORLIE, Australia, May 15.—The mutilated, headless bodies of Inspector Walsh and Sergt. Pitman, detectives attached to the gold theft investigation bureau of the police department, have been found in an abandoned mine shaft. They had been missing since April 28, when they set out to trap gold thieves operating in the western Australia fields.

Near the bodies was found a complete illicit gold treatment plant. Police said they had undoubtedly been surprised by the thieves. The discovery caused considerable excitement in the gold fields and the subsequent ugly mood of the miners indicated they might deal harshly with the murderers if apprehended.

Portions of the bodies, including the partially burned skulls, were found later in another part of the shaft.

(Kalgoorlie, a town of some 8,000 inhabitants, is the headquarters of the East Coolgrade gold fields.)

SMALL MARKET THIS MORNING

Some Small Brown Leghorn Chicks For Sale.

RHUBARB SCARCE.

The faint peep of tiny brown chicks made an undertone to the chorus of voices in the basket section of the farmers' market this morning. The soft downy little single-comb Brown Leghorns in the basket were 20 cents apiece.

Eggs were priced generally at 30 cents a dozen, and butter at 35 to 40 cents a pound. Fowl was scarce, the available supply of chickens selling from 30 to 35 cents a pound, while a lone turkey, weighing twelve and a half pounds, was priced at 35 cents a pound.

New rhubarb was a scarce commodity also, at 10 cents a bunch. Butter beans for planting were 5 cents a small measure.

A novelty on the market this morning was a collection of pieces in a plaster composition of dull cream color. Large statues were $2 each, with smaller samples at 70 cents. A pair of lovely little angels were 50 cents apiece, and $3 was the price of a tall ornamental clock.

Down on the open market, the fish men had a busy sale, with fresh salmon trout at 22 cents a pound, white fish at 25 cents and the lowly fish with the aristocratic name of "burbot," selling at a nickle a pound.

Potatoes were priced variously this morning. The eating variety ranged from small-size samples at $3 a bag to larger specimens at $3.75 and $4 a bag, with Early Buckeye seeders at $3.75 a bag.

Raspberry canes were 2 cents apiece and blueberry shoots 25 cents a bunch. Various growing plants in boxes were 20 cents.

Nothing of Importance Accomplished—Talk Liquor and Beer.

OTTAWA, May 14 (Canadian Press).—Gordon C. Edwards of Ottawa was re-elected president of the Eastern Ontario Liberal Association at the annual meeting in the Chateau Laurier Friday, attended by some 200 delegates from 23 ridings in Eastern Ontario, who spent a busy day making plans for the coming provincial election.

Federal support to the party in the coming fight was promised at the luncheon by Hon. J. C. Elliott, the new minister of Labor. He predicted a better time for the party in Ontario. W. E. N. Sinclair, the Liberal leader in the Ontario Legislature, was another speaker. His arraignment and indictment of the Ferguson Government's administration was particularly well received.

He made a slashing attack upon the administration of the Ferguson Government. "It's outstanding characteristic is that it feels the Government is not a servant of the people but the people are servants of the Government."

The attitude of Premier Ferguson on delaying the announcement of the next election was derided by the speaker. He pictured the gathering at London last Wednesday and its disappointment when no announcement of an election was made.

Lacks Decision

"The Prime Minister lacks decision," declared Mr. Sinclair. He then proceeded to read three different statements made by Mr. Ferguson regarding the next election, one of which said that the Government would go to the country when the time was best for the Government.

"Premier Ferguson is thinking only of himself and his party," asserted Mr. Sinclair. He then pointed out that there are seven vacant seats in the Ontario Legislature, declaring that members of the present Legislature would be known as the long Parliament.

"It is amusing what the Government has claimed to have done," asserted the Liberal leader. "In three years of office there has been a deficit declining, it is true, but the total deficit is $28,000,000.

Harold Fisher, M.L.A., for West Ottawa and financial critic of the Liberal party in Ontario, was another speaker who criticized the Ferguson Government severely. He charged that the Provincial Government's proposal to take two years off the University curriculum and add it to high schools of the province would unload the cost of the False Report That Norge Had Landed At Nome Led Many Newspapers In U. S. To Issue Extras

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif, May 15 (United Press).—False reports that the Amundsen-Ellsworth-Nobile dirigible had landed safe at Nome were sent from coast to coast and to many parts of the world last night by some news agencies.

It was a hoax, and the United Press, which had been in contact with Nome day and night, did not send the report over its wires.

Newspapers in different cities were led to issue extras on the strength of the rumor, only to withdraw them quickly from sale when the tale was repudiated.

WARSAW BURIES ITS 200 DEAD AFTER A TWO DAY REVOLUTION

President Flees in Airplane—Revolutionaries Capture Empty Palace.

THOUSANDS WOUNDED.

Violation of Corpses and Maltreatment of Patients Are Charged.

NEW YORK, May 15 (Canadian Press).—The military revolution in Poland appears to have succeeded, according to advices received by the Associated Press today. Marshal Pilsudski is not only in complete control of Warsaw, but advices received in the Polish capital indicate that the majority of the troops throughout Poland have gone over to his cause. Advices reaching Paris today were that 200 persons were killed and 1,000 wounded in Warsaw during the fighting of Thursday and yesterday.

Smoke Clears Away

The battle smoke cleared away today and Warsaw, enshrouded in mourning, buried uncounted dead who fell during the military revolt, in a great public funeral. Several hundred wounded in various hospitals swell the toll of casualties. A ghostly calm reigns over the city. All public utilities are working normally, however, except the street cars which are awaiting the repairing of torn up streets.

Fled in Planes

WARSAW, May 15 (United Press)—(Censored)—The departure of President Wojoiechowski and his ministers from the palace at Belvedere in the face of the revolutionary forces of Marshal Pilsudski has been described to the United Press by eye witnesses.

The President of Poland fled from his palace yesterday afternoon, leaving Pilsudski's forces to capture the empty building. The President and his cabinet escaped in six airplanes.

There was a sudden and bitter renewal of fighting in the heart of Warsaw as the palace was stormed.

Pilsudski's forces proceeded, virtually without bloodshed, to drive the contingents of the army of Premier Witos, which supports the President, into the Southern district of the city.

At 2 p.m. yesterday operations shifted into the section of the city containing the hospitals, museum and government buildings.

The use of artillery there was avoided, however. At 7 p.m. yesterday the situation clarified. Meanwhile Pulsudski issued a statement saying that military operations throughout the country were almost complete and that the army corps at Lemberg, Cracow, and Przemsyl had telegraphed him voicing enthusiastic solidarity.

Pilsudski ascribed the resumption of hostilities in Warsaw to "the enemy's atrocities including the maltreatment of patients in overfilled hospitals and violation of corpses."

When fighting was resumed in Warsaw yesterday, thousands of civilians watched from side streets awaiting the outcome like grand stand spectators at a football game.

All the troops of Warsaw except the second aviation squadron and the pupils of the military academy have joined Pilsudski who now controls all the important railroads and junction points.

JOHN BULL IS USING WHEELS IDLE 11 DAYS

Transportation Facilities Are Again Normal in Capital City.

WORK RESUMES.

Aftermath of Strike is Disruption in Unions—Leaders Criticized.

LONDON, May 15.— (Canadian Press.)—John Bull, having first had a good night to relieve his surplus energy, went back to work to-day with a grin, a somewhat rueful one. If he was sore in muscle and perhaps changed in spirit, still he tackled his duties with dogged British determination, resolved to do the best he could until his hurts disappeared.

John's offspring didn't walk to work this morning as they had been forced to do for the past eleven days while the head of the family was having his scrap. London's millions of wheels began turning again, trams, busses and tubes showing their paces in bringing people smartly to business.

While it is obvious the wheels of industry, brought to a stop by the general strike, cannot be set turning at the touch of the magician's wand and that full resumption will come only by degrees, nevertheless people are working hard to give effect to Premier Baldwin's statement in the House of Commons yesterday.

"The supreme necessity of the country requires that the largest body of men possible be brought back to work at the earliest possible moment," declared the Premier.

The first step toward normalization will be to get the assent of the trades unionists to the terms their leaders have made with the employers. There are signs that a section of both miners and mine owners and railway men resent the arrangements announced yesterday. Many of the miners are disgruntled over the prospect of a reduction in pay and an increase in the hours of work, even for the comparatively short periods foreshadowed in Premier Baldwin's proposal for a settlement of the lockout of miners. Numbers of railway men bitterly denounce what they regard as humiliating terms signed on their behalf by their union leaders.

Conference Disbands.

The conference of miners' delegates called for this morning adjourned shortly after gathering until next Thursday. No [illegible] reached concerning the Government's proposals for a [illegible] the dispute between the miners and mine owners. Between now and Thursday the Government proposal will be submitted to the various districts by delegates who are departing thither forthwith.

Unions Quarrel.

Among the individual trades unions the aftermath of the general strike promises to be serious and far reaching. Groups of members of several unions already are contemplating appealing to the law courts against the course of their executives in embarking on a strike unconstitutionally and thus expending union funds unlawfully. In times past such actions at law have been instituted with success. For months to come every union will have its own bitter domestic quarrel with possible dire effects upon the prestige of leading officials thereof.

Norge Reports Safety Through Alaska Radio Station This Morning

Communication Established But No Authentic News of Condition Received—Dirigible Was Over Teller, Alaska and Reported 'All Okeh.'

NOT KNOWN WHETHER SHE LANDED.

VANCOUVER, B.C., May 15 (Canadian Press).—The dirigible Norge from King's Bay, Spitzbergen, over the North Pole arrived at Teller, Alaska, at 2 o'clock this morning, Eastern time.

All aboard the Norge were well and everything else was said to be O.K. No indication of whether the Norge had been brought to earth was obtainable here.

WASHINGTON, May 15 (Canadian Press). — The United States War Department announced today that the dirigible Norge was at Teller, Alaska. "The office of the Chief Signal Officer," said the department's announcement, "is in receipt of a message from Nome, Alaska, to the effect that the Norge is at Teller, Alaska, about 75 miles northeast of Nome. Communication between Nome and the Norge was established at 11 p.m., May 14 Alaska time."

BREMERTON, Wash., May 15.—(Canadian Press).—At 6.25 this morning, eastern standard time, St. Paul Island Navy Radio Station heard the dirigible Norge talking to the army radio station at Nome, Alaska. The following message reached Puget Sound navy yard station here from the navy radio, Cordova, Alaska, reporting a message from St. Paul Island, which is in the Behring Strait, five hundred miles south of Nome:

"Following signal heard. LBT from WXY, received, all OK. Go ahead when you are ready."

LBT is the wireless call of the Norge and WXY is that of the radio station of the Signal Corps of the United States Army at Nome. The St. Paul-Cordova message was received here at 9.45 this morning, eastern standard time.

FAMILY REMAINS DESPITE ORDERS TO VACATE HOME

Sanitary Inspector Placarded Home on April 13, He Says.

LAW INADEQUATE.

Horse Back Into Kitchen After Being Once Removed.

Placarded on April 13th, by order of the city medical officer of health as being unfit for human habitation, the premises situated on Sherbrooke street, not twenty-five yards from the main thoroughfare, and in which a horse was found living at the time of the inspection, are still occupied by the same family, said Sanitary Inspector C. S. Stapleton this morning.

A family of five, he said, occupy the house, "and there is not enough furniture in the house to make a decent fire." He found the plaster had fallen from the walls and the ceilings on top of the beds, and the whole place was in such a bad state generally that it was almost impossible to try and describe the conditions as he found them, he said.

On looking into the kitchen he discovered that the horse had again been brought into the kitchen, despite his orders that it had to be removed.

Mayor W. T. Holloway was of the opinion that the law regarding the vacating of the premises was absolutely inadequate to deal with the situation. If the city authorities, he said, put the people out, they will leave them without a roof over their their heads, and it is not their wish to impose any more hardships than can be helped. The house is the property of a church and while they cannot be compelled to make the tenants vacate the premises, nor can the law make them tear it down unless it is in a dangerous condition, it is the opinion of those concerned that steps will have to be taken immediately to remedy the terrible conditions.

Mr. Stapleton said that he told the people again this morning that they would have to get out by Monday or he would be forced to act drastically in the matter. He was of the opinion that something should be done regarding the horse, which he said, "was in a very poor condition."

PRISONER ESCAPES.

Confidence Man Held For Deportation Gets Away at Millbrook.

WINNIPEG, May 15 (Canadian Press).—Paul Pona, a notorious crook and confidence man, escaped from the immigration authorities here yesterday while awaiting the commencement of his trip to an eastern seaport for deportation.

FIREMAN DROPS DEAD.

BROCKVILE, May 15.—(Canadian Press.)—The excitement and extra exertion of manning a pump while a fire was in progress is said to be responsible for the death at Hallville of John H. Kerr, aged 45, who dropped dead while at such work. He had been a previous sufferer from heart trouble.

MUSINGS AT A MANSE WINDOW

THE STRIKE IS ON! was the fateful phrase which fell from the lips of "Emperor" Cook, the fiery Secretary of the miners, as he walked out of the room where he had been in conference with Premier Baldwin, the Cabinet, and leading Labour men. It was toward the close of the eleventh hour, as J. H. Thomas, gray-faced, stooping, with tears in his eyes, followed him saying, 'we failed. . . . I am broken." The Prime Minister, grave and drawn, also came out, and his voice was low as he said that the country was "close to civil war." Just then, as if it had all been so arranged for dramatic effect, high in his belfry, Big Ben rolled twelve. All over Merrie England and the rest of the British Isles, little children slept, all unconscious of what was happening in the metropolis of the Empire. But the mothers and fathers of many of them were hoping and fearing, and anxiously awaiting the coming of another day to see whether the news would be good or bad.

WHY THE STRIKE?

What is it all about. The answer is not as simple as some seem to think. There are currents and cross currents. Some say that the long standing causa belli is the long standing demand of the British Coal Miners' Federation for continuance of the seven-hour day and a national minimum wage scale 33 1-3% above the pre-War wage. We know that in 1924 the miners obtained these hours and this wage, but last year the Coal Owners' Mining Association declared itself unable to maintain the arrangement, and a strike was only averted when the present Government granted a coal subsidy, which sustained the 1924 wage level artificially until last week, when the subsidy expired.

THE FIGHT FOR PEACE.

The Prime Minister has made herculean efforts to prevent a strike. He has worked toward this end both day and night. During the week he persuaded the Owners' Association to offer a national minimum wage 20% higher than the pre-War scale, if the Miners' Federation would accept an increase in the hours of labour from seven to eight. This the miners have flatly refused as they have stood by the slogan of their Secretary "Not a penny off the wages, not a minute off the working hours." And so the fight for peace on the one hand has been lost, while the fight for prosperity on the other hand continues. What the end may be no one can safely predict at the moment. But the world is waiting for Great Britain to muddle through!

INVOLVING THE KING.

The situation arising out of the Miners' case has been rendered infinitely more serious by the decision of the British Trades Union Congress to call a sympathetic "general strike." It is evident that the Government felt the extreme gravity of the crisis when the King transferred his Court from Windsor to Buckingham Palace. Here he conferred hourly with the Prime Minister over a private telephone, and finally issued a proclamation, under the Emergency Act of 1920, by which he invested the Premier with virtually the authority of a Dictator.

IT LOOKS LIKE WAR.

Folks in the Old Country began to think of August 1914. Within a few hours, soldiers, sailors and marines were on their way to points of expected unrest. And it was not long before civilian volunteer organizations, long ago prepared against just such an emergency as this, began to function for the maintenance of indispensable industries. It has been said that nowhere else, except in Soviet Russia, is trade unionism so well grounded as in the British Isles. In normal times, the unionists operate virtually all the land and sea transport services, the mines, most heavy manufacturing and the building trades. And the danger lies in the possible conflict between these organized forces in a time of irritability. A single incident may be the spark that will cause a conflagration which will burn down some of the age-long institutions in a land we thought to be free from any such upheaval.

PARALYSIS.

I can see it all, though looking at it through another's eyes. The first stages of the greatest strike in British history were swift. The midnight streets were thronged with radical workers in friendly carnival mood. Unobtrusively, soldiers moved. Bus at Hyde Park and many other depots motor transports assembled to carry the next day's food and milk. It was known that the railroads were being paralyzed. The newsboys had nothing to sell save radio and birth-control literature. All but one newspaper, the Evening Star, had been shut down. New British flags greeted the dawn from countless housetops, but no British flags moved out of the country's harbours. The third industry to be stricken was shipping. Meanwhile recruiting offices had been opened with queues forming reminiscent of 1914. Even business men took cots and canned goods to their offices as for a seige. Labour posters appeared affixed to locked doors on stations, factories and other places "Stand all as one." The strike seemed to affect all classes at the same moment. Grouse shooting parties and the women's international golf matches were cancelled. Nonchalance had vanished at the grim touch of actuality.

WILD MEN.

As an interesting sidelight on the strike the Atlantic Monthly has an article entitled, "Those Wild Men of the Clyde." The writer describes Glasgow as, 'The Reddest spot in the British Isles.' But to that description he adds the saving touch "Yes, but before Glasgow is Socialist, or Communist, she's Scotch." To one who knows anything about Glasgow and Scotland this phrase is full of meaning. I believe there was a time when Glasgow's coat of arms had the inscription "Let Glasgow flourish by the preaching of the Word."

And Glasgow did flourish by the preaching of the Word. It was in Glasgow that Dr. Chalmers, that prince of Presbyterian preachers, had his greatest success as an expositor of the Word of God. Day after day, to throngs of people, made up of the leading business men of the city, he preached at the mid-day hour as if every day were a Sabbath and men had lots of time for attending church. The same was true in the days of Moody and Sankey. Moody's greatest triumphs were associated with Glasgow. His greatest congregations assembled there. The success of his preaching was so great that no building was large enough to hold the crowds who wanted to hear his message. Those were the days when there were few wild men on the Clyde, the days when Glasgow really flourished by the preaching of the Word.

THE SIN OF SUBTRACTION.

Now all that has been changed. The so-called Labor College movement, which believes in education as 'a weapon in the class struggle and no more than that,' finds its stronghold in Glasgow. And a reputable writer feels justified in speaking of Glasgow as the Reddest spot in the British Isles. Why this change? There may be various explanations, and all of them equally sincere. But they cannot all be right, since many of them flatly contradict each other. A lecturer is addressing a group of Scottish workers. He is a graduate of Glasgow University. 'One of the few things I learned in college—one of the very few—was an experiment in psychology. Take three basins of water, one hot, and one cold, and one tepid. Put your right hand into the cold water, and your left hand into the hot. Keep them submerged for three minutes, and then plunge both into the tepid water. To your right hand the water is hot, to your left hand it is cold. This shows you, in one way only, how difficult it is to get at facts. How much more difficult in the social and industrial field, where prejudice, passion, privilege, and exploitation rule . . . " The Socialistic Scotsman thinks that if you could subtract the capitalistic bias out of education you might heal the industrial sore. But the Christian Scotsman believes that the sore will never be healed so long as Glasgow is satisfied with the subtraction of the most important part of the inscription, "Let Glasgow flourish by the preaching of the Word." Nowadays it only reads: "Let Glasgow flourish." The other part has been struck out. The mere act of subtracting may not be much, but what it indicates may be very significant. When the one desire seems to be that Glasgow should flourish, without any recognition of the need of God or of His Word, then is it not fair to assume that Materialism has taken the place of Spiritualism? And I recognise a distinct difference between Spiritualism and Spiritism.

SOCIALISM OR DEATH.

"There cannot be brotherhood until we have swept away Capitalism from the face of the earth. . . . Conditions are worse to-day than they were thirty or forty years ago. It is Socialism or perish, I tell you, in this or any other country. But Socialism can come here only if you people are willing to work, to live, and if need be to die for it. . . . Our movement is the greatest religious movement the world has ever known. Tell people the truth, I say: that Capitalism is on its last legs; and ask men to join with us in this, the only fight that matters, for the redemption of mankind." If that is not an attempt to redeem the race with corruptible things such as silver and gold it certainly looks very like it: and a redemption of that kind can be the most selfish and Godless thing in the universe, whether it is related to Capital or to Labour.

AMERICA LOOKS ON.

Dr. John Hayes Holmes, minister of the Community Church, New York, in the course of a sermon preached last Sunday, said: "It is one of the greatest events of modern times." "it is a strike," he said, "to decide whether the working people of the world have the right to decent living conditions.' If the case has been properly and adequately stated by this New York minister, every right-thinking individual must be hoping, if not praying, for an early and decisive victory for Labour. But the principles involved are far more complicated than his words lead us to suppose.

Dr. W. H. Rollins, a leader in the Congregational Church, says: "It is because the spirit of Jesus Christ is not in all of us that one of the great nations is today facing what is almost civil war. . . . It is the testing time of that spirit that has been rooting in Russia for ten years. Dictatorship have prevented the growth of the ideas for some time, but we are now to see what it will mean for the United States if that spirit comes to dominate Europe. England may quiet the present upheaval by the use of arms, but it cannot be finally settled except through the faith of Jesus Christ. We must have a fuller life, one that will be abundant enough for all to live and one that will satisfy the idealist. . . . The doctrine of our Government today is one of isolation, and we are denying our responsibility to any nation across the seas. In the face of this we must look to Jesus Christ for help. He brings life to the clay banks of humanity, and teaches us to pray for the coming of His kingdom."

CHRIST OR COMPROMISE?

The rest of the world believes that the British people have a genius for compromise. And they are talking of compromise now as being the way out. But a compromise never satisfies, never settles anything. The Church holds the only solution, of this, as of every other problem, that will fully satisfy. Not until the love of God is shed abroad in human hearts will there be universal peace and unselfish prosperity. —Allan Fairbairn.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

WHY GOD CHOSE ABRAHAM

Text: Genesis 18: 1-8, 16-19.

And the Lord appeared unto him in the plains of Mamre: and he sat in the tent door in the heat of the day:

And he lift up his eyes and looked, and, lo, three men stood by him: and when he saw them, he ran to meet them from the tent door, and bowed himself toward the ground.

And said, My Lord, if now I have found favor in thy sight, pass not away, I pray thee, from thy servant:

Let a little water, I pray you, be fetched, and wash your feet, and rest yourselves under the tree:

And I will fetch a morsel of bread, and comfort ye your hearts; after that ye shall pass on: for therefore are ye come to your servant. And they said, So do, as thou hast said.

And Abraham hastened into the tent unto Sarah, and said, Make ready quickly three measures of fine meal, knead it, and make cakes upon the hearth.

And Abraham ran unto the herd, and fetched a calf tender and good, and gave it unto a young man; and he hasted to dress it.

And he took butter, and milk, and the calf which he had dressed, and set it before them; and he stood by them under the tree, and they did eat.

And the men rode up from thence, and looked toward Sodom; and Abraham went with them to bring them on the way.

And the Lord said, Shall I hide from Abraham that thing which I do;

Seeing that Abraham shall surely become a great and mighty nation, and all the nations of the earth shall be blessed in him?

For I know him, that he will command his children and his household after him, and they shall keep the way of the Lord, to do justice and judgment; that the Lord may bring upon Abraham that which he hath spoken of him.

The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for May 16. Why God Chose Abraham. Genesis 18: 1-8, 16-19.

WHY GOD CHOSE ABRAHAM.

(By Wm. E. Gilroy, D.D., Editor of The Congregationalist.)

A lesson such as this raises many questions which cannot be answered. But with reasonable clearness any man, who wishes to understand the practical teachings of the lesson and its context, can very quickly discover why Abraham was "the chosen of God."

We are apt to think of God's choice of an individual or of his choice of a people as an arbitrary choice, conferring special privilege on some favored son or favored race. It is hard for us to get away from this notion of such arbitrary choice on God's part. The Jews considered themselves a chosen people in the ancient days; but in fact, if not in words, other races have considered themselves especially favored of the Almighty and continue to do so today.

It is hard for some people, for instance, to disabuse their minds of the idea that the Anglo-Saxons are not a peculiarly called and favored race, and some think that in general the Nordics have a particular place and favor in divine plans and purposes.

God's Choice

In view of these assumptions it is very necessary that we should study clearly what seems to have been the basis and ground of God's choice of individuals and nations. Far from being a matter merely of privilege and preferment, God's choice has always involved responsibility and duty.

Even the choice of Jesus of Nazareth was a choice that led to the cross, and in lesser degree God's choice has always involved a sacrificial way toward the fulfilling of his purposes.

Would Abraham have been chosen if he had failed to follow that impulse that led him out to a new land and to a new worship? There is evidently very strong warrant for the conception that Abraham's call to leave Ur of the Chaldees was a call toward a breaking with that environment and the establishment of life upon a new conception of worship.

Apparently it was a turning from idolatrous worship to a worship dominated with a sense of personality and moral ideals. Abraham, with his dealings with Lot and in other respects, showed moral vision, a vision of magnanimity and goodness far higher than that that many have today.

Abraham's Qualities

It was because of this capacity for consecration to moral and spiritual ideals that God called Abraham. He chose one fitted to be the founder of a holy people and the medium for the expression of his purposes.

A covenant-keeping God needs covenant-keeping men to make his will effective; and it is as a covenant-keeping man as well as a man of courage and directness of action that Abraham appears in these records of Genesis.

Here, too, he appears in our lesson as a man of social instincts, practicing, if not originating, that fine hospitality which has been so essential a part and so deep an obligation of eastern life.

Our lesson says that Jehovah appeared to Abraham. Elsewhere in the Bible we are told that no man hath seen God at any time. Just what was the vision that came to Abraham, or just in what form there came this one whom he regarded as a heavenly messenger, must be determined in the light of this later statement of the New Testament.

The matter is not one of great importance except to those who quibble over the letter of scripture and neglect its spirit. Those who are concerned about the practical teaching of scripture and finding in these ancient narratives and early beginnings the teachings and lessons that may help us to make our lives godly and useful in our own time, will concentrate their interest upon the nature of Abraham's relationship to God rather than upon the external details.

Fulfilling Conception

Few men would claim that Abraham's conception of God was as lofty as the conception that Jesus brought to his disciples at a later day, but Jesus regarded himself as fulfilling the conception that Abraham had had, and he recognized this primitive faith of Abraham, his devotion to duty, and his surrendering himself to the divine will as making him the father of the faithful.

The point is that we should live in allegiance to God as Abraham lived, and that if the conception of a spiritual being everywhere present, the conception that Jesus expounded to the woman of Samaria, is a richer and nobler conception, our lives will be enriched in this larger experience of communion with God only as we show the consecration that Abraham so profoundly displayed.

We should remember that God does not deal with men on the basis of arbitrary choice. The divine privileges are extended to men upon a very different basis—"Whosoever will, let him come and partake of the water of life freely."

God chooses those who are willing to accept his choice and who are ready, as was Abraham, to hear his call and surrender their lives to his love and power.

THE CHILDREN'S CORNER

There is a beautiful legend, in a book of Persian tales, about Rabbi Judah and his brethren, the seven pillars of wisdom. They sat one day in the court of the Temple at Jerusalem, disputing about rest. One said that rest meant to have attained sufficient wealth, yet without sin. The second, that it was fame and praise of all men. The third, that it was possession of power to rule the State. The fourth, that it consisted only in a happy home. The fifth, that it must be in the old age of one who is rich, powerful, famous, surrounded by children and children's children. The sixth said that all were vain, unless a man kept the ritual law of Moses. And Rabbi Judah, the venerable, the tallest of the brothers, said, "Ye have all spoken wisely, but one thing more is necessary. He only can find rest who to all things addeth this that he keepeth the tradition of the elders." There sat in the court a fair-haired boy, playing with some lilies in his lap, and, hearing the talk, he dropped them with astonishment from his hands, and looked up and said, "Nay, nay, fathers: he only findeth rest who loveth his brother as himself, and God with his whole heart and soul. He is greater than fame and wealth and power, happier than a happy home, happy without it, better than honoured age: he is a law to himself, and above tradition." The doctors were astonished. They said, "When Christ cometh, shall He tell us greater things?" And they thanked God: for they said, "The old men are not always wise: but God be praised, that out of the mouth of this little one has His praise become perfect."

In not a few cases the real reason for the divorce is a desire to marry some one else.

FROM THE WORKSHOP OF JOHN PLANE

Intolerance is the mark of a childish mind; when one has become a man one should put away childish things.

* * *

If history has proved anything, it has proved that every attempt to suppress free speech and free writing has strengthened the victims, and has increased the number of their adherents.

* * *

Those who are habitually intolerant can never learn, never develop; but a hospitable mind is ever growing. Tolerance is the mark of the truly civilized and cultivated, mature mind.

* * *

An increase in learning and wisdom is usually accompanied by an increase in tolerance.

* * *

It is not accidental that Britain is more tolerant than America, and that the American city is more tolerant than the village.

* * *

It is a pity when a man chooses a great subject, takes exactly the right attitude toward it, and then writes as though he were talking to a night school of immigrants.

* * *

When one laughs at another for saying Carrds and Dinnerr, let him repent when he himself says, "I had no idear of it."

The chief ingredients of many theatrical offerings to-day are imbecility and garbage.

It is but a narrow isthmus that divides the marsh of sentimentality from the mire of melodrama.

* * *

An excellent thing to remember is this—the expression "I would like" is always wrong. Say, "I should like" every time, and there is one error you will avoid.

* * *

Speaking of newspaper terms, why is a "physician" always "summoned"? Give him the title of "physician" is better than the popular one of "doctor"; but why not save a little space and add a little variety by using the good old word "call"?

Those people who think that the furnishing of baseball games, movies, theatrical shows, banquets, and flowers is in itself reformation of sin or effects reformation of sin, are quite capable of thinking that it would effect reformation of indigestion.

* * *

True helpfulness is to help others to help themselves—not just snivle and give hand-outs. It cultivates self-respect and keeps the backbone straight. It has full words with empty deeds beat a million miles.

You can set it down as a sure shot, that he who boasts the loudest does the least.

Life is a great game, and it takes both brains and practice to always know who holds the winning hand.

An earned meal tastes the best, and even to a tramp, a clean conscience is a good sleep producer.

* * *

The man who is honest and industrious, does not need to brag about it. His neighbors know it better than they know him. They value him on the basis of what he is.

A rooster can cakle the loudest, but he lays no eggs.

The prosperity and safety of the public depend on the industry, the economy, the morality and sobriety of the individual.

* * *

We were brought into the world without our consent—ignorant and helpless. The world agrees that it owes us a living and an education. But it has also decreed that we must work for the one and study for the other.

All men cannot become equally expert, equally artistic, equally inventive, equally constructive. All together make a symmetrical whole.

The sole perfection which modern civilization attains is a mechanical one: machines are splendid and flawless, but the life which serves them or is served by them is neither superb nor brilliant.

THE FIRECRACKER DANGER.

The Ontario Safety League has issued a timely bulletin in connection with the celebration of Victoria Day, calling attention to the fact that last year in Ontario twelve people were badly injured, one fatally, playing with firecrackers.

The sale of these explosives has already commenced, and the Examiner suggests to parents generally that they issue a warning to their children to be careful in the handling of firecrackers and fireworks.

Many of these are entirely too dangerous to be entrusted to children, and in all cases supervision is advisable in order to reduce the risk of accidents to a minimum.

Victoria Day is Canada's firecracker day, and while, fortunately, we have never approached the accident record set up across the line in connection with the celebration of July 4th, the fact remains that each year there have been people injured as the result of careless handling of holiday explosives.

If parents will interest themselves in warning their children about the risk of accidents or fires that is ever-present when fireworks are being discharged, the conditions in Peterboro on May 24th will be made considerably safer for everybody.

"On Victoria Day be careful how you play," is a sensible community slogan.

THE THREATENED DETOUR.

The announcement that the section of Provincial Highway between Fraserville and Bailieboro is to be macdamized this summer, is welcome news to motorists.

There is only one fly in the ointment.

The commencement of this contract means a detour, and as the Port Hope-Peterboro highway is the main artery along which tourist and other traffic coming to this city travel the break between the two villages will mean considerable inconvenience to automobilists unless the authorities see to it that the detour roads are put in proper shape to stand the heavy traffic they will have to carry.

Too little attention has been paid to this detour question during recent road-building operations.

So long as the traffic was diverted off the road under construction it seems as if it were nobody's business what became of it.

Little or nothing was done to prepare detour roads for extra traffic, and the result has been that most of them were speedily in a condition that was not only uncomfortable but in many cases decidedly dangerous.

With ample warning in regard to the closing of a section of the highway the local branch of the Motor League and other organizations should not fail to suggest to the Highways Department of the Provincial Government that a proper detour be provided.

BREATHING EASIER.

The improved situation in regard to the resumption of work in Great Britain yesterday, following the calling off of the great strike, has been received with much relief.

The conditions immediately after the strike were disturbing, to say the least, and there seemed more than a slight danger of trouble breaking out on a larger scale than ever because of the apparent attempt of many employers to utilize the collapse of the strike as a weapon by which to make new contracts in regard to wages or working hours with their employees.

Had this attitude been persisted in the results would have been serious.

The message of His Majesty the King, appealing for a spirit of generosity in post-strike negotiations, and the insistence of Premier Baldwin that no attempt should be made by employers to take advantage of the situation, have undoubtedly had their effect.

The lesson has been taught that the people of England will not yield to a general strike.

It would have been a pity indeed had the importance of that lesson been lessened by an effort to humiliate the workers or to wrest from them concessions in regard to hours or wages, and, fortunately, the sound sense of the British people has prevented such a mistake in policy, judging by the optimistic tone of yesterday's cables.

FOR HOTEL IMPROVEMENT.

The Ontario Motor League is taking an interest in the improvement of hotels in that Province, to the end that the tourist business may be promoted. Good hotels constitute an essential of the tourist business. And good hotels advertise themselves and the Province in which they are situated. By good hotels we do not necessarily mean Ritz Carltons or Pennsylvanias. Thousands of people who make summer trips are not looking for such palaces. They are satisfied with good beds, clean appointments, sanitary conveniences, plain, but good food. Given these things, the classes we refer to will be perfectly satisfied; they will tell their friends, and they will themselves come again.

The Ontario Motor League is offering a series of cash prizes for the hotels in the Province which show the largest measure of improvement during the coming tourist season. It is to be left to the tourists to judge. These are to be asked to furnish the League with their opinions on the subject, and the hotels which meet with the greatest approval of persons who stop at them, and which do the largest tourist business between May 1 and November 1, will be the winners of the prizes.

The idea appears to be a practical one. It gets right down to a vital item of the business. It offers more than the inducement of a cash prize to enterprising managers of hotels. It is worth considering in this Province. We have a good distance to go in Nova Scotia on the line of hotel improvement in many sections.—Halifax Herald.

If you haven't been able to take part in this week's clean-up campaign, better tackle it next week.

RUM RUNNING.

The Dominion Alliance, in calling upon the Federal Government to check the ever-growing exportation of liquor to the United States, has made out a very strong case.

The facts set forth in their open letter to the Government cannot be gainsaid.

It is undoubtedly true that this rum running is not only, as the Alliance points out, dishonourable in itself but contributes to the violation of our own laws.

As good neighbors of the United States, are we not guilty of violating all obligations of decency in openly assisting in the flouting of the law of that country?

Whether or not we like prohibitory measures, whether or not we regard the Volstead Act passed by our neighbors a mistake, we cannot escape the fact that it has been adopted by the American people, and that in sanctioning the exportation of liquor into that country we as a nation are assisting in breaking down the law of another nation.

In 1923 liquor valued at $3,178,908 was exported from Canada into the Republic, and this total has grown to $17,995,758 in the last fiscal year.

Not a drop of this vast quantity, it should be remembered, can be legally imported into the United States.

Where does it go?

Why, into the hands of American and Canadian bootleggers, there being a great deal of short-circuiting.

The petition to the Government stresses this fact:

"One inevitable result of this law violation is the breaking down of respect for law and order along other lines," the Alliance points out. "If criminals can with ease and impunity, and indeed with the tacit concurrence of Canadian law officers, violate the law of another nation and conspire with ex-patriated or disloyal citizens of that country in their nefarious plans, they will violate the laws of this country or any country. As a matter of fact, it is easier for a cargo of liquor, legally exported from Canada upon almost any of our inland waterways, to illegally re-land upon Canadian soil, than to illegally land upon the American shore. Who is so innocent and guileless as to think these rum runners care where they land it or what law they violate, so long as they make their profit?"

The remedy suggested by the Alliance is as follows:

"(1) That all shipments of intoxicating liquor, for export, shall be made only by brewers or distillers and from a bonded warehouse and through regular transportation, and customs channels, and shall be accompanied by a bond (a heavy bond) to be forfeited, and export permission may thereafter be refused, unless absolute proof is furnished that the liquor in question is actually delivered to the bona fide consignee at the point of destination, or satisfactory proof is given of loss.

"(2) That liquor not shipped through regular commercial, transportation and customs channels, and as provided, shall be subject to summary seizure and confiscation, and parties having such liquor in their possession, or in any way responsible for such shipment, shall be liable to heavy penalties.

"(3) That when a vessel is cleared outwards with a cargo of liquor, it shall not again be cleared without proof being furnished that the preceding cargo was delivered as consigned."

NOT A LIFE LOST.

For nine days the attention of the world has been centred on the British Islands, where the greatest labor strike in the history of mankind was in progress, where nearly three million men were arrayed against the Government, where the industrial life of the nation was brought virtually to a standstill, where passion was aroused to its highest pitch, and where the determination to win was supported on both sides by inflexible courage; and yet during that whole struggle not one gun was fired nor one life destroyed.

When we consider the occurrences which have invariably marked the progress of similar conflicts elsewhere—the carnage and destructiveness which have attended them—the absence of fatalities during this gigantic combat in Great Britain is perhaps its most astounding feature. Not only was there no bloodshed or serious manifestations of violence, but the rank and file of both armies were subject to strict instructions by their leaders to avoid any resort to outrage or any breach of the peace. And these commands were obeyed in the spirit and almost to the letter. Troops, it is true, were in readiness to prevent disorders, but they were not called upon, even in the most turbulent areas; not a bayonet was fixed nor a rifle cocked. The entire duty of preserving order remained with the police force and the new Civil Reserve Constabulary, whose services were required only partially.

This amazing freedom of a fight so bitter from anything calculated to do harm to the individual, this respect for orderliness and the desire to accomplish a great end without destruction and without needless mischief or pain, is the element in the Anglo-Saxon character which has made the race the example it is to the rest of mankind.

The Stratford Beacon-Herald, in commenting on this feature of the strife, draws attention to a recent incident at Cicero, near Chicago, where there was a small strike that affected one factory. The affair was purely local, but it entailed the death of one of the strikers and the serious wounding of another. "If there had been a strike at Cicero or in Chicago of the same gigantic proportions as the one in Britain," the Beacon-Herald says, "there would have been a massacre too horrible to contemplate."

True, indeed, or in the centres of almost any of the other European countries, judging from the history of past occurrences.—The Globe.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Ontario's general election is now to take place in October, according to the latest rumours. This report, it is needless to say, is not authorized by Mr. Ferguson.

The Senate, it is said, is waiting a chance to kill the Hudson Bay Railway project. None of the Senators, you see, have to run in the West.

You can take 3 or 4 million men off their jobs a great deal quicker than you can get them all to work again.

Two local cases where motorists involved in an accident failed to stop is further proof of the fact that many people are allowed to drive cars who shouldn't be entrusted on the public streets with an automobile.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

LETTERS TO BE PUBLISHED UNDER THIS HEAD MUST BE RECEIVED AT THE EXAMINER OFFICE ON THE DAY BEFORE THEY ARE DESIRED PUBLISHED.

GOOD ROADS SYSTEM

Editor of Examiner.

Dear Sir,—Please allow me space to reply to Mr. R. N. Scott's letters of Wednesday's issue. I am one of the hundreds that he speaks about who condemn the good road system. We had roads when we were allowed to do our own statute labor under one pathmaster to a beat. Alas the roads that our forefathers slaved to build and crown are a thing of the past. Now I am rural mail carrier and must travel daily over a part of the Peterborough Warsaw road and when I return from the trip am asked how are the roads. I answer there are no roads; just a trail of where they have been; all the foundation is gone. Along comes our road manager with a load of gravel; he places a shovelful here in a mud hole; another over yonder and so on until his gravel is spent. If that night it should rain, he starts out next morning with a scraper and shoves that all off to the sides to where the ditch used to be and the ditch now is in the centre of what used to be the road. Six years ago when I started the R.M.D. roads were in much better shape than they are at the present day. If the roads were built up and ditched at the sides those hills would not be so springy. Now if a culvert must be put in good material is furnished and a few men put that in place and out comes the county council to inspect the work. They return well satisfied, and I doubt if one of those men knew whether that culvert was placed to run the water up the hill or down. Just as Mr. Scott says "too many inspectors." It reminds me of a little incident that happened in my own house. One day I came in and the three small children were just as quiet as mice, whereas they usually keep up an uproar. I said, "How is it you are all so quiet." "Oh," they said, "we are playing school." One says I am junior teacher, another says I am the principal, and the third one says I am the inspector. "Well," I said, where are the pupils?" "Oh," they replied, "they have not come yet." And that is what I compare the good road system. All inspectors, overseers and bosses and the labor not come yet, and for the money that is spent is like an aged gentleman said in my presence on Peterborough market one day to a lady collecting missionary funds. He gave her a dollar, she thanked him and started on her way. He called her back and gave her two more, saying "It will take that to get the first dollar to its destination." So the money that is granted for roads. I hope to meet Mr. Scott someday and a few more men of his mind; and maybe we will see the day we shall all be back to the old road system.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor,
I remain, yours truly,
E. REIL,
Lakefield, R. R. 4.

NEW LOW FOR FRANC.

Quoted To-day in Paris at 32.62 to the Dollar.

PARIS, May 14. — (Canadian Press.)—Franc was given a new low official quotation to-day, closing at 32.62 to the dollar and 158.75 to the pound. General unsettled conditions in Europe and unloading of francs in London and Brussels were given as reasons.

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY

EXPLODED.

The theory that a man can be healthy, happy, and prosperous just because he thinks so is an exploded effort to educate people into the trick of the ostrich.

The mind is a powerful factor, but you must back it up with work.

The artist needs more than a frame to make a picture, and a man must work as well as think, for somewhere it says that the great Power helps those who help themselves.

The thought-theory sounds well, but it teaches men to sit down while other men of service march by.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, May 14 (Canadian Press).—Attributed to a large extent to the scarcity of ocean room, the export trade in wheat was extremely dull today. The few odd lot sales transacted passed on a lower price level. Trade in cash grain on spot was also dull, but a small quantity of No. 3 Northern wheat changed hands at 5 1-2 cents per bushel over the Winnipeg May option. Oats were steady.

Receipts of butter were 3,413 packages, compared with 2,020 last Friday. Lack of demand held the market easy with prices declining slightly.

Cheese receipts totalled 4,047 boxes, against 2,093 the same day last week. A slow foreign demand held the market quiet, but a steady tone maintained yesterday's prices.

SHOE FACTORIES OPERATE MONDAY

Quebec Manufacturers Plan For Full Capacity.

QUEBEC, May 15. — (Canadian Press).—The boot and shoe dispute here is approaching the end of its second week without any sign of an understanding between the manufacturers and their employees being reached, and from information obtained Friday it is not considered likely that new developments in the situation will take place before Monday or Tuesday of next week at the earliest.

A prominent member of the Boot and Shoe Manufacturers' Association declared that whatever work remained to be done in other than the mounting department of his factory, was being finished up and he understood similar conditions existed in other plants.

While intimating that he was not at liberty to say what means would be taken to accomplish their aim, he declared that the manufacturers were organizing to operate their plants at full capacity from Monday on.

The local committee will have complete programme arrangements finished this week, it was said today.

MONTREAL ASKS PRIVATE POWER TAX REDUCTION

Wants Same Basis as Publicly Owned Companies in Other Provinces.

SAYS TAX UNJUST.

Deputation Petitions Premier King For Income Tax Exemption.

OTTAWA, Ont., May 15.—(Canadian Press.) —A deputation from the city of Montreal, headed by Mayor Medric Martin, Friday waited upon Premier King and Hon. J. A. Robb, Minister of Finance, asking the Government to "correct the flagrant injustice from which the citizens of Montreal are suffering, and to place privately owned utilities on the same footing as those publicly owned either by extending to all such utilities an exemption from income tax, or at least by amending the act so as to place them on a similar basis as regards taxation."

The resolution, presented to the Government, which had been passed by the City Council of Montreal, asks that if these utilities must be taxed it should be levied upon the gross revenue instead of profits and should apply to all utilities whether publicly or privately owned "in such a manner that the burden of taxation may be shared equally by the citizens of all the provinces."

Tax on Consumers.

It was pointed out that publicly owned utilities under the Income Tax Act were exempt and that the users of gas and electricity from privately owned companies were compelled to pay large sums of money to the Federal government through the companies serving them. The citizens of Montreal paid $783,000 in income tax in 1925 through the Montreal Light, Heat annd Power Company and the company had announced that if this tax was removed thus placing it "on the same basis as public utilities operating in neighboring provinces" the entire amount saved would be applied to the reduction of rates.

The resolution asked that some redress "from this unfair and unjust discrimination" be granted during the present session as amendments to the income tax were at present under consideration by parliament.

Sympathetic Hearing.

After half an hour with the Prime Minister, the delegation came away stating that they had received a sympathetic hearing. It is understood that no definite assurances were given by the government. "I have every confidence in my chief," was the only comment made by Mayor Martin."

OFFICERS ELECTED.

WINNIPEG, Man., May 15 (Canadian Press).—The Winnipeg Tribune yesterday carried the following special from The Pas:

"A train consisting of eighteen cars of ties has gone north for the Hudson Bay Railway. There are now about 100 men working on the line, and it is expected that an additional 200 laborers will be at work within the next two weeks.

"The operations at present consists entirely of repair work on the older portion of the line. About 100,000 ties are spread along the line and another 300,000 are on order.

"Duncan Campbell, an old Mackenzie and Mann employee, has been placed in charge of the work. It is understood that the order is 'full speed ahead,' and that no time will be lost in getting down to real work.

PILSUDSKI HAS TAKEN WARSAW

Troops Stormed President's Palace—200 Killed, 1,000 Injured.

CABINET FLEES.

WARSAW, May 15.—Marshal Pilsudski's troops yesterday captured the Presidential Palace to which President Wojciechowski, Premier Witos and other members of the Government withdrew after Pilsudski's occupation of the city Thursday.

It was reported that several members of the Witos Cabinet were captured, but that some escaped by airplane.

Fierce Fighting.

PARIS, May 15 (Canadian Press) —The position of Marshal Pilsudski was reported to be critical in a Havas despatch received by way of Berlin last night, quoting the Warsaw newspaper Maerkische Ostrauer Morgenzeitung. This despatch says that Pilsudski has been obliged to contend with Government troops in the interior of the city and those coming from outside.

The fighting was particularly fierce Thursday night and Friday afternoon, and it is estimated that 200 were killed and about 1,000 wounded.

Pilsudski offered to negotiate yesterday on condition that the Witos Cabinet resign, but the Ministry, with the approval of the President, refused.

President Flees.

PARIS, May 15 (Canadian Press) —The announcement is made by the Berlin bureau of the Polish Telegraphic Agency, says a Havas despatch, that Marshal Pilsudski has captured the Belvedere Palace in Warsaw, where President Wojciechowski and his Cabinet have left for an unknown destination.

Support Dictator.

PRAGUE, Czecho-Slovakia, May 15 (Canadian Press). — Fighting continued in Warsaw throughout the day until 8 o'clock last night, says a despatch from the Polish capitol to the Tagblatt.

Pilsudski, according to this despatch, has obtained the support of the Social Democratic, People's and Radical parties, the latter of which is demanding the resignation of President Wojciechowski, as well as the withdrawal of the members of the Witos Cabinet.

Lithuanians Active.

BRESLAU, Silesia, May 15 (Canadian Press).—Polish-Silesian newspapers report that the Lithuanians, taking advantage of the Pilsudski uprising in Poland, have crossed the Lithuanian frontier at Vilna to reconquer this territory, which was annexed by Poland.

Rebel Strength Increases.

DANZIG, May 14 (Canadian Press).—Reports reaching here say that Warsaw is besieged by four army corps under General Roswadoski and that a number of pitched battles have taken place at Lublina, about 90 miles south-east of the capital. These reports indicate that the laboring classes in Galicia are going over to Pilsudski in increasing numbers. The railroad workers are preventing shipments of freight, with the exception of food supplies, for Warsaw. Factories in Lodz have closed down.

LACE IS REVIVED.

There is a decided revival of feeling for tulle and for fine net laces with thread patterns. Often it is combined to advantage with chiffon of exactly the same shade.

KINGSTON, Ont., May 15 (Special to The Examiner).—That there was no change in the situation at St. John's Church, Pittsburgh Township, and that both factions, Union and anti-Union, intend holding a service on Sunday morning, was the report given here this morning. It looks like a showdown between the two and the outcome is something hard to predict.

Coldsprings Young People Present Play at St. Andrew's

Under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid of St. Andrew's a very clever and well acted play was presented last evening in St. Andrew's Sunday school hall by the young people of Coldsprings. A large audience was present and enjoyed the drama presented in three acts, each one taking his or her part in a very capable manner. The St. Andrew's Sunday school orchestra played several selections before and during the performance.

The Misses Trethewey delighted the audience between the acts by selections on the guitars and vocal solos. Master Tom and Bob Allen were also heard in delightful piano duets.

The Coldsprings Sunday school are holding their anniversary services on May 30th, and followed by a tea and concert on June 1st, in their Sunday school hall. Everybody who attends will be assured of a read treat and a pleasant time.

BARGE CAPTAIN CALLED BEFORE CUSTOMS PROBE

Captain Tremblay Ordered To Appear For Examination on Tuesday.

ABSENT FRIDAY.

Attempt To Defraud Government of $250,000 in Liquor Shipment.

OTTAWA, Ont., May 15 (Canadian Press) — Friday afternoon's sitting of the Customs Inquiry committee adjourned early through lack of witnesses. Captain Ulric Tremblay, master of the famous barge Tremblay, and Ludger Brien, of Montreal, both of whom the committee desired to examine, failed to put in an appearance. The latter was represented by a telegram from his physician saying that Mr. Brien was ill, with a pulse of 120 and a temperature of 101. There was a discussion among the members of the committee as to the advisability of sending a Montreal physician to examine Mr. Brien and report to the committee. It was finally decided to wait receipt of a letter from Mr. Brien's doctor which the telegram said was coming. As for Captain Tremblay, the committee wired him to appear without fail on Tuesday morning when the next meeting takes place.

$250,000 Fraud Plan

After making a calculation based on evidence submitted by G. W. Taylor, assistant Deputy Minister of Customs and Excise, R. L. Calder, K.C., committee counsel, stated that the owners of the liquor on the barge Tremblay had attempted to defraud the government of approximately $250,000 in duty and sales tax.

C. P. Blair, chief executive assistant of the Customs department, informed the committee that he did not think the deposit of $1,700 exacted from the owners of the Tremblay before the barge was released, was adequate if viewed in the light of a fine. It was brought out earlier in the sitting that the barge, exclusive of cargo was valued at $20,000. Mr. Blair said, however, that the vessel could be seized again if full satisfaction was not obtained by the Department. He stated that the decision to release the vessel on payment of $1,700 had been reached at a very brief interview. One of the members of the committee remarked that this decision had apparently been reached previously in conference with Captain Tremblay.

No explanation was offered as to why there had been delay in disposing of the Tremblay case which is still before the department for final decision.

No Missing Records

Major Nash, auditor for the committee, was called to give testimony with respect to the books of the Dominion Jobbing Company and Bontex Garment Company, both of Toronto. With respect to the Dominion Jobbing Company witness stated that "the books and accounts of the company were kept in such a manner that our examination was rendered somewhat difficult. While there were no missing records of importance, the books produced to us were not properly kept or regularly balanced, and consequently many things therein had to be explained to us before we could be satisfied. Certain information that we asked for was not available.

"But," said the witness, "we believe that the lack of information was due to ignorance of proper bookkeeping methods rather than to conceal information. We carefully compared all foreign purchases with customs entries and clearances and satisfied ourselves that the proper amount of duty had been paid on such purchases. We made a close scrutiny of all cash transactions and found nothing therein to report upon."

The Bontex company, said Major Nash, kept no books.

"With respect to these companies," said Major Nash. "I have nothing to interest the committee."

There was a small clash between Mr. Stevens and Mr. Bennett with respect to the matter. The former took full responsibility for having the books of these firms examined.

Maple Syrup Theft Costs Eight Reaboro Men $177

LINDSAY, May 15. — Forty-four dollars a gallon for four gallons of maple syrup was the price paid by the eight residents of Reaboro who broke into W. I. Reid's boiling house in his sugar bush a few nights ago and carried off the saccharine fluid. The last of the party came up Friday and pleaded guilty to the charge of theft and housebreaking. The total amount of fines and costs imposed was $177.

The case aroused considerable interest as the parties are in different activities at Reaboro. They avoided the publicity of a police court session by appearing before Police Magistrate Bradford quietly and pleading guilty.

RAIL MEN LOSE IN PEACE TERMS

Will Be Taken Back as Traffic Requires Them.

SIGN AGREEMENTS.

LONDON, May 15. — Railway owners and strikers Friday signed a re-employment agreement which will permit the 450,000 striking railwaymen to return to their jobs.

The agreement is interpreted as a victory for the owners. It provides:

1. Strikers will be taken back as traffic justifies.

2. The Trades Union Congress admits that calling the railway strike was a wrongful act against the companies and agrees that the companies shall retain the right to claim damages for losses during the strike.

3. Railway workers agree not to strike again without prior negotiations with the companies; not to support any future unauthorized action of any of their members and not to encourage any supervisory employees to join any strike which may be called.

4. There will be no reduction in wages.

5. Reinstated men will retain their seniority of service.

6. The agreement excludes from its provisions men guilty of violence or intimidation during the strike.

Must Always Confer.

Taken at its face value are agreement between railways and the unions mean that Great Britain can never have a lightning general strike again, since the railwaymen are bound to confer with their employers in advance.

A third of a million pounds daily (about $1,600,000) is the figure reached by an economist for the Evening Star, in attempting to estimate the loss occasioned to the nation by the nine-day general strike. This figure includes wage losses. The writer points out that it is impossible to do more than approximate the losses of trade.

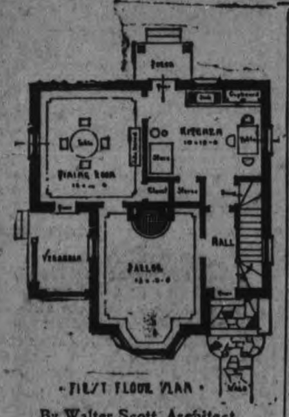
A Brick Colonial House of Interesting Plan



By Walter Scott, Architect

On plan, the over all measurements of the house are twenty-eight feet by twenty-eight feet, and is suitable for a lot forty feet frontage. A compact plan, both for first and second floors, the former showing a very conveniently arranged hall, parlour, dining room and kitchen. The parlour will make an unusually pretty room, with the fireplace opposite the bay, giving a possible balance for furniture and pictures. There is more than the usual directness between the various rooms in this plan which makes the house relatively cheaper to construct, furnish and maintain, all of which are very important considerations in these days.

Then, on the upper floor, there has been conveniently arranged the three bedrooms and bath room, with plenty of cupboard accommodation, all the rooms are of fair average size. Ceilings are nine feet in height. The basement, which contains the heating room, laundry and storage, is seven feet high, and well lighted and drained. The walls of the basement are of concrete, and otherwise the house is of brick—finished with red face brick, laid in Flemish bond with a white joint. This style of bond will give a fine texture and quite a character to the walling. Shingle the roof with russet brown, stained cedar shingles, the general woodwork being painted putty grey. To insulate the house against extremes of cold and heat the floor and roof have been treated with poured insulating material, several varieties of which, quite reliable, not costly, and readily applied, are now on the market.

The window frame and sash are of metal—the sash being made to open outwards, and leaving a wide useable sill on the inside for all the rooms.

The lot was laid out with a side drive to the garage and with a tennis lawn to the garage and with a tennis lawn and truck garden, the enclosures of simple open wire and an evergreen hedge across the street front. The house complete and ready for occupancy, exclusive of the value of the land will cost approximately seven thousand dollars.

Readers desiring further information regarding this house should communicate with the architect direct. Address Mr. Walter Scott, Bank of Montreal Bldg., corner James St. S., and King St. E., Hamilton, Ont. Copyright 1926, MacLean Building Reports Limited.

NOTED LAWYERS AT BAR BANQUET

Hon. James W. Gerrard, Former U. S. Ambasador To Germany Is One Speaker.

MR. CANNON SPEAKS.

TORONTO, May 15 (Canadian Press).—Hon. James W. Gerard, former Ambassador to Germany from the United States and one time Associate Justice of the Supreme Court of New York, was given a great ovation at the annual banquet of the Ontario Bar Association at Hart House last night when he and the Hon. Lucien A. Cannon, K.C., Solicitor-General for Canada, were the chief speakers. The tribute that was paid Mr. Gerard, who was introduced by Sir William Mulock, was all the more cordial in that it was tendered to a man who looked after the interests of Canadian soldiers who were prisoners of war in Germany from 1914 to 1917, when he was the official representative of the British Empire.

Mr. Gerard alluded to the conditions in Germany during the war, the present influences at work in Europe and America, and finished by paying a high tribute to the unfailing sanity of Britain, than which, he said, there was no country where democracy was more successful and none in which the majority acted with more restraint. Hon. Lucien Cannon, who was introduced by Attorney-General W. F. Nickle, spoke of what the members of the bar could do in promoting national unity and the destiny that lay ahead of Canada with her two great races working in harmony.

FINDS SOAP IS A GERM KILLER

Experiments recently completed by Dr. J. E. Walker, a New York physician, shows that soap, in removing dirt from the skin, at the same time kills bacteria likely to be found among the dirt particles.

We are now told, says Popular Science Monthly, that any ordinary soap is active enough to remove germs, so that in the process of a thorough washing of the hands, with the formation of a good lather, an appreciable proportion of the bacteria that may be present are killed.

Windows in ancient times were rarely placed on the exterior of a building, but overlooked the interior courts.

STRIFE IN CHINA IS DUE TO GREED

Generals Grafters, Victories Bought and Sold, Says Observer.

LONDON, May 15.—The civil war in China, which may have far-reaching effects on Europe and the world at large, is mainly due to the insatiable greed of the rival governors for wealth and power, says Lieut.-Col. P. T. Etherton, formerly British consul general in western China, in a signed article in the Daily Mail.

Each is striving toward that end, and public spirit is sacrificed to personal gain, the motive which is strongest with them all. Li Hung-chang, the greatest stateman China ever produced, once said that the value of a post was in proportion to the money you could make out of it, and from that you can trace the underlying principles of government.

At the root of it all is the fact that officials in China are practically unpaid, their salaries being totally insufficient to meet ordinary living expenses. They are expected to make their own arrangements in that respect.

"I well remember the scheme adopted by a local governor who had been ordered to accumulate a large quantity of firewood for military purposes, the rate in British currency being 4d for each 80 pounds in weight," said Col. Etherton. "He summoned his subordinates to effect the collection, with the result that the rate of wood rose to 11d, and still only half the required amount had been provided. The people then pointed out the hardship that would result to the district commandeering of further fuel, whereupon the governor displayed a fatherly benevolence. He had no desire, he said, to cause unnecessary hardship, so he would take the rest of the fuel in cash, at the then prevailing rate!

Armies—On Paper.

"The effrontery of those engaged in the shaking of the pagoda tree is amazing. Seventy-four per cent of the Chinese population are farmers, so the revenue from grain is a large item. The taxpayer attends at the district headquarters, known at the Yamen, on specified dates. His quota of cereals is fixed according to the area and productivity of the land, but grevious disappointment awaits him if he thinks that by bringing that amount he is freed from further obligation. Ordinarily the Yamen scales gives comparatively correct weight, but when it comes to an adjustment of the grain tax it is astonishing what an amount is required to induce them to obey the laws of gravity.

"I had occasion to report upon the military forces of the commander-in-chief of a certain province and the advisability of comparing the army, for which he was drawing a huge sums annually. An inspecting general was therefore dispatched from Pekin and his approaching advent warned the military governor that his bogus army would be exposed to the glaring light of day.

"However, he was quite undismayed, and knowing that an inspecting officer can be induced to imitate Nelson and his famous 'blind eye' if sufficient inducement were forthcoming, he despatched the members of his staff to the highways and byways, the villages and the plains, who gathered in boys and men from 15 to 60 or more, so that the total might bear some resemblance to the paper figure. The supply of uniforms was simple, for it was merely jacket and trousers, and with this and a rifle, a carbine, sword, lance or battleax, the army was at full strength. With the inspecting general's departure it shrank again a few hundreds, although the paper figure remained the same in order not to prejudice the profits.

Buying Surrenders.

"Along the Russian and central Asian frontiers the Chinese forces are supposed to be on a war footing, but the true relation between the actual and the paper strength of a Chinese unit is so indeterminate that it would be impossible to form any estimate even were the returns of the Pekin War Board available. What, for instance, can you do when you have such a case as once confronted me? The commandant of an important frontier outpost was stated to have 16 regular soldiers as the garrison, and he submitted returns to that effect. But actually the total was made up of two genuine warriors, four servants, the commander, his wife and eight children.

"The bribery and corruption take various forms. One of the generals now operating before Pekin issued a scale of payments for surrenders to his side, offering £10,000 for a battalion, complete with its commander, £4,000 for a field battery and so on down to the simple soldier, who was rated at a £10 note."

Biographical Sketches

After the Battle of Waterloo, Europe, having ended the long period of the Napoleonic Wars, began to steady down to pick up the pieces and to try and restore the various countries and peoples which had been thrown into disorder and poverty by the greatest warrior of history. England, with less of population then than Canada has now had supplied the greater part of the money required to fight the French conqueror, and, when the long strife ended, she was tremendously in debt, her foreign trade demoralised and her internal affairs in a similar condition. Then began the first great trek of her people to the colonies and elsewhere and Canada received its share. There was no "West" of Canada at that time, and the Maritime provinces and Ontario were the chief points of destination for the immigrants not forgetting, however, the Eastern townships of Quebec, which attracted a number of them. Devonshire and the north of England furnished most of those who came to Peterborough from England and Smith township claimed most of these. That township dates from the coming of these immigrants to it in or about they ear 1818, which is, broadly speaking, the earliest settlement of this county. In 1918, "The Mann family" of Smith celebrated the hundredth anniversary of its arrival. The distinguishing characteristic of the English immigrants to Peterborough, of those early times was a strong desire for a home and the determination to make it. Whatever gaiety or amusement there was in those days was incidental not so much the main object of life as at present everywhere. The relief of having a home and a fixed and comfortable place of abode belonging to the people themselves and the product of their own industry together with a strong and serious view of religion, are reflected in the gradual and steady rise of the immigrants of that date to a condition of strength, progress and security. Nowadays, the former homely remedies in case of illness and the simple and inexpensive sources of enjoyment are largely superseded by a reliance on scientific medicine and upon the more fashionable ways of modern life. The churches were, at that time, centres not only of profound faith and reverence, but of consolation and spiritual comfort to a degree hardly known in these later days. One hundred and eight years of farm life in Smith furnish a period of great interest and instruction. The question naturally arises,—could the present generation begin life as did the pioneers? The answer to it is the measure of the comparison. There can be no question that "character" which is the developed individual in man or woman was more pronounced in "those days" than at present and it is from this fact that the true "family" tradition arises which, like an anchor keeps many a small crew of subsequent humanity from going on the rocks. Such is the enormous value of a good family name and from it we may easily learn that to destroy, on any pretence, this firm foundation of individuality or character is to deprive the future of the chief strength of the heroic past. Any policy public or otherwise, which ignores the fact that the greatness of each is the strength of all and sacrifices it in the name of a general benefit to the indistinguishable commonplace of the mass will mean, as it must mean, the loss of that individuality, and sense of personal responsibility which characterises the best type of manhood and womanhood.

Mr. William Mann, who was born on the homestead, "The Hawthorns," in Smith township remembers not so many years ago crossing Chemong Lake, near the site of the bridge on the ice with a cow and a horse and buggy on the 20th of May. There have been more backward springs than this one without damage to the farmers' prospects. "Farming is a good business," said Mr. Mann, "and if a farmer is fairly careful and looks well after his farm he can do well off it. I think that it is the lack of home-training that characterizes the of young to-day more than formerly. Nothing can take the place of home-training and the Gospel, and there is no other way of giving the young right ideas and a fair chance. The young are all right if they are given a chance."

Mr. Mann's great-grandfather, with his wife, one son and two daughters, went to the United States in 1810 from Yorkshire, England, settling in New Jersey. There the son married, and there his son Mr. James Mann, the father of Willan Mann was born. One of the daughters married Adam Scott. In 1818, the year of the surveyance of Smith township and its setting apart as such, found the great-grandfather anxious to retain his British allegiance and determined to move north to Canada. The Mann family and friends therefore migrated to Port Hope where they settled for a short time, moving on by means of the river and the Indian trail to Chemong Lake, to the present farmstead. Adam Scott, being a mill-wright, was the first to take advantage of Otonabee's water-power by erecting a mill at what was from that time called "Scott's Plains," now Peterborough. There was only one building here then. It was a small Crown Lands' office, standing about where F. R. J. McPherson & Co.'s shop now stands in George St. The three James Manns, great-grandfather, grandfather and son (2 years old), were on the homestead together. The son James Mann, afterwards a justice of the peace, married Miss Robinson, a daughter of Thomas Robinson who had come from Yorkshire and settled in Smith also. Their son, Willan Mann, the subject of this sketch, married Miss Lucinda Braden in 1875. One of their sons, Dr. J. B. Mann, was with his wife, burned to death under tragic circumstances recently. Mr. Mann is very grateful for the kindness of the people of the city and district shown at this time.

THE SYMBOLS OF A DISTINGUISHED MOTOR CAR

The Wonder-Car of the Industry—Performance that eclipses Everything in its Class

At no other time in the history of the industry has a new car been accorded a reception like that of the Willys-Knight "70." At its price, it becomes, we believe, the outstanding value of the world in the six-cylinder field.

Combining the world renowned advantages of the Knight, Sleeve-valve motor (smoothness, long life, simplicity, economy) with revolutionary achievements in Six Cylinder engineering, has given this new "70" speed, power and pickup that out-performs any other car of its size and type and class.

It has the only type of engine that actually improves with use. No carbon to remove. No valves to grind. Better and smoother at 50,000 miles than at the beginning.

Drive it at 2 to 65 miles or faster; the engine quietly purrs on; not a semblance of vibration. At all speeds there is a complete absence of all road shocks. As a result of its advanced engineering there is absolutely no wandering, no shimmying, no wheel-fight.

These features of performance are embodied in a Sedan of distinctive elegance, superbly equipped and finished in the height of luxury. All waste space has been eliminated.

Such items as four-wheel brakes, air purifier, gasoline filter and thermostat are, of course, included as standard equipment. A special feature provides instant starting in zero temperatures.

See this wonder-car today. Ride in it, and enjoy a performance you never thought possible. Easy time payment terms at low cost.

KIWANIS LADIES' NIGHT.

The Ladies' Night held under the auspices of the Kiwanis Club, at the Empress Hotel last evening, was one of the largest and most successful affairs of the kind in the annals of a club that is noted for its good times. The air of jollity and real good fellowship that always marks these gatherings of the Kiwanis Club was at its height last evening, and everyone present appeared to have the very best sort of a time. There were ninety-nine people present at the banquet, with forty-three members of the local club, making a sixty-eight per cent. membership attendance, eleven members of the Riverdale Kiwanis Club, who motored down from Toronto for the occasion, starting on their return journey about one o'clock this morning, and forty-five ladies from the city. The Riverdale quota included four ladies.

The note of joviality which ruled the evening was struck in the community singing which enlivened the service of the banquet, and which was led by Kiwanian George Henderson, with a particularly snappy rendition, led by Mr. Joseph Wearing, of his famous song number, "Allouette," the latter made very interesting by the appearance of an enthusiastic gentleman from another dining-room, a Mr. Simpson from Montreal, who was evidently attracted by the singing of the zippy French chanson, and added a fine French accent and a jovial voice to the choral singing. Excellent music during the meal was played by Charles Sedgwick at the piano and Wilson Dunlop, traps. This duo was augmented later by the addition of Stewart Widdess, playing violin music for the dancing.

The tables last night were adorned with an especially effective little folder provided by the booster of the evening, Kiwanian John J. Turner, in small folded cards illustrating the construction of the Union Jack and giving the oath of the Boy Scouts. The folders contained small Union Jacks, which later were pinned to the dresses of the ladies. Larger flags of the same type were included in the prizes donated by Mr. Turner, and won by Mrs. Leonard of Toronto, Mrs. George Henderson and Mrs. H. W. Dickin.

Kiwanian Wilfred Huycke was appointed sergeant-at-arms, in the absence of Art Kimmel.

The evening's booster, John J. Turner, gave an interesting talk on "Tents."

During the evening, a very pretty solo number, "An Open Secret," with an encore in "The False Prophet," was sung with charming effect by Miss Greta LeBarr, accompanied on the piano by Miss Florence Saunders, A.C.A.M., who later delighted her hearers with a piano solo, "L'Allouette."

Dr. J. J. Craig, president of the local Club, occupying the chair in his usual very efficient style, called on Rev. Douglas Paterson, chairman of the Speakers' Committee, to extend the welcome of the Club to the visiting Riverdale members. Rev. Mr. Paterson did this in appropriate words, speaking of the hospitality extended him on a recent visit to the Riverdale Club.

Dr. Craig then extended the thanks of himself and Mrs. Craig to the Riverdale Club, who sent down flowers for the president's wife yesterday afternoon, and Mr. James Strachan, for the visitors, acknowledged the welcome of the local club. The trio of speeches from Scotchmen, as they were alluded to later, ended with a brief address in Lieutenant - Governor William Cockburn's usual witty style.

There was a good deal of gay badinage between Mr. Cockburn, who is Lieutenant-Governor of this Kiwanian district, and Kiwanian Frank Johnson, of the Riverdale Club, the two having several amusing tilts. Mr. Johnson, who has a very pleasing manner of address, gave a humorous short talk, dwelling chiefly on the feeling of good fellowship existing between members of Kiwanis clubs, and ending with a toast to the ladies.

Past President Charles Cook was deputed to respond to the toast to the ladies, and did so in his own inimitable fashion that always evokes such interest and attention among his audience.

President Craig then closed the first portion of the programme with a request for volunteers with cars to convey a party of children to one of the parks for an outing this afternoon, and met with a quick response from Kiwanians Lloyd Hamilton, A. J. Reynolds, J. Chadwick, C. S. Cummer, I. McNabb, M. Bredin and J. A. McKone.

The dance which followed was one of the most enjoyable portions of the evening's programme, while bridge players filled eight tables in the grill room. Prizes for cards, which were donated by Kiwanian Frank Stinson, were won by Mrs. Leonard of Toronto, Mr. F. Johnston of Toronto and Mrs. H. Gilgour (consolation).

A visitors' book was an innovation introduced at last evening's affair. Names recorded in it by guests last evening were those of the members from the Riverdale Club: Kiwanis Lt.-Governor W. Cockburn and Mrs. Cockburn, District Trustee W. H. Corbett and Mrs. Corbett, Mr. and Mrs. Nels Cobbledick, Messrs. W. A. Wagner (vice-president of the Riverdale Club), F. M. Johnston, James D. Strachan and J. W. Brandon, and Mrs. Leonard, also local names in those of Mr. and Mrs. Reg. H. Turner, Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Flitton and Mr. and Mrs. O. M. Steer.

The following is Kiwanian J. J. Turner's talk on "Tents":

The art of tent making is an ancient and honorable profession in vogue many years—offering shelter to the roaming tribes of Biblical times, and continuing until the present day to house many activities of life.

In the early days tents were made of woven cloths of grass, flax and hemp, while colored fabrics were used for lining to make tents cooler by day, and more comfortable to sleep in through being darkened to keep out the twilight and early daylight. Many crafts and arts have been known for thousands of years, and the art of tent making is among the oldest. There is a certain flexability about tents, just as there is in houses, for they can be obtained in a size suitable for one person or to accommodate five thousand or more. Tent making must be an instinct in the human mind, as many of us can look back to the time when we borrowed mother's mat rugs or quilt and fashioned them to form a shade, into which we would crawl and spend many happy hours.

Again, new country is being explored, and the party must move about from place to place, not sure whether the survey will open up land and commerce in that locality, hence no permanent buildings, or else the Governor-General and party desire to visit remote parts of this great Dominion, and must of necessity arrange for temporary and movable shelter on the journey.

Or an epidemic of disease breaks out, which must be isolated to safeguard others, and tents are hastily erected to house patients, to isolate development, and take care of convalescents. Tents are used for every kind of work, and are indispensable in wars, sickness and commercial pursuits.

Think of the pleasure one enjoys when a travelling circus visits the district and one is privileged to stand and watch the various tents erected to house the various activities connected therewith. The small hot dog tent, the dressing tent, the menagerie tent, and the huge tent used as auditorium to house and comfortably seat thousands. Tents for every purpose must be waterproof, and materials used in their construction vary according to the size and work to be done. For prospecting, where weight counts, we manufacture silk tents, strong in fibre, light in weight, and waterproof. General purpose tents are made of various weights of duck, while some stable tents are made of waterproof flax of heavy quality to stand rough wear and strain. The material largely used is cotton, the finest grades being scoured and cleaned to eliminate seeds and weeds brought in from the field with the crop, for it is these seeds which generate heat under damp conditions which burns the cloth and start mildew and decay in tents.

In the manufacture of tents drawings are made of each size and style, and from these plans the work grows and develops until final completion.

I said in the beginning the art of tent making has been in vogue for many years, and while formerly made entirely by hand, has adopted newer methods of building, and will never be replaced with anything better for the class of work they do, and I think it safe to assume tents always were and always will be.

Motor Shares Drop To New Low Levels

NEW YORK, May 15. Canadian Press. — The renewal of selling pressure against motor shares, several of which collapsed to new low levels for the year, featured to day's irregularly lower stock market. The day's sales aggregated about 425,000 shares; the close was heavy. Hudson bore the brunt of the selling in motor group, being hammered down more than 4 points to new low at 57½. Studebaker, Willys Overland, Common Jordan, Moon and Dodge Brothers also touched new low figures as did United States rubber common and Goodrich. Motor accessory stocks also lost ground.

Wheat Prices Advance With Rise In Sterling

CHICAGO, May 15.—(Canadian Press.)—Reports of unfavorable crop conditions in parts of the Northwest, together with the rise of sterling exchange to above par, led to an early advance in wheat prices to-day. Opening 1-2c. off to 1-8c. up, wheat soon scored moderate general gains. Corn and oats sympathized with wheat, corn starting at 1-8c. decline to 5-8c. advance, and later ascending all around. Provisions were firmer.

Stock Exchange Weak With Trading Decreased

NEW YORK, May 15 (Canadian Press).—Sterling exchange sold at gold parity $4.86 in the New York market for the first time since 1914. Cables on London were quoted here at $4.86 3-4 soon after the opening, that figure previously having been reached in the London market. While the return of sterling to parity was regarded as only a question of time when Great Britain returned to the gold standard last year, the sudden attainment of the goal came somewhat as a surprise to local dealers in foreign exchange.

HOW QUICKLY CAN A CAR STOP?

At a recent trial in a California city a young woman was suing for damages following injuries suffered in a street car accident. An ex-motorman testified that a car travelling 20 miles an hour could be stopped in a space of 30 feet. The young woman's counsel denied vehemently the ex-motorman's statement. Thereupon the judge and jury went to the scene of the accident and gave the ex-motorman a chance to demonstrate.

A special speedometer, consisting of a wheel attached to the side of the car, was used in the test, says Popular Science Monthly. Measurements made by this instrument showed that the best the driver could do, with the car going 20 miles an hour, was to stop the car in a space of 114 feet.

BROADWAY PAINTED BY MILLION LIGHTS

Great Electrical Display Represents a $20,000,000 Industry.

The light from a single one of the monster electric signs that paint New York's Gay White Way with the brightness of day would illuminate all the homes in a town of 10,000 population. That sign fetches a bigger rental than all the stores in the building above which it towers 50 feet into the night. It cost $20,000 just to build. It contains two miles of electric wiring and its message is written in 3,000 ten-watt tungsten lamps.

From the theatre streets below more people can see that sign in 24 hours than live in the cities of Washington, D. C., and Portland, Ore combined. It is one of the Gay White Way's 22 so-called "spectaculars" which if put together wouldmake nearly two acres of dazzling brilliance.

These tremendous flashing jewels, says the Popular Science Monthly, shower Broadway with the greatest concentration of artificial light to be found anywhere on the earth's surface. They represent a $20,000,000 industry.

In all Manhattan there are nearly 11,000 electric signs, of which 9,000 are to be seen along Broadway from its lower end at the Battery up to to 135th street. About 2,000 of these are on restaurants and 500 on the theatres. There are more than a million lights in the signs on Broadway alone.

One might think that such a tremendous spectacle of light would appear as a haphazard jumble, but such is not the case. Each sign stands out from its neighbors in contrasting colors, as well as in shape and motion. For Broadway has been scientifically charted. The famous kaleidoscope is the creation of highly paid engineers and artists. Some of them are constantly patrolling its streets at night to study its possibilities. One firm holds many unused leases on every available buidling where a sign might conflict with one of the existing signs. It costs nearly as much to keep black holes in the sky as to fill other spots with light. As much as $5000 is paid for a single roof on which the erection of a sign is never contemplated.

The expense of the big signs is so great that enormous pains are taken in designing them. Before actual construction begins a small working model of the sign, accurate in every detail, is built of metal. Then a motion picture of the model is made while it opeartes.

RADIO OVER THE PHONE.

At The Hague, in Holland, a telephone subscriber can have radio also, says Popular Science Monthly, for a unique installation has been made that enables telephone subscribers to get broadcast music over the wire by calling up a special radio number. The radio connection is broken off automatically if the subscriber's telephone number is called.

Health insurance best investment

EXERCISE PAYS DIVIDENDS WHEN MOST APPRECIATED

ALL men know what a good investment life insurance is—yet think of the appalling number who die without this simple protection for their loved ones. "Putting it off" is probably the chief reason.

This same fault is common when it comes to following Nature's order to get more exercise. Headaches, insomnia, poor circulation, indigestion and many other functional disorders are Nature's danger signals that the system needs more exercise.

Exercise to most people is work, and they put it off and put it off until they finally forget it or their aggravated condition sends them scurrying to their physician.

I know a wealthy man here in New York who owns several prize dogs. He employs a man to look after these animals, see that they are properly fed and regularly exercised every day. Yet this same man, who has not yet reached 45, is himself hog fat, and the most exercise he ever takes is stepping in and out of an automobile. I know that this man appreciates the value of exercise and diet, because he realizes how essential they are to keep his dogs in good form. However, he has neglected his own body so thoroughly that I am certain he will never see fifty. He thinks that his money will buy him health, but he will be greatly shocked when he finds himself laid up with gout, Bright's disease, diabetes, high blood pressure or some such organic disease that is awaiting him 'round the corner.

You can repair most mechanical machines. While it will stand more abuse than any mechanical device, once the human machine breaks down, there is no fixing. So I would advise all my readers to begin at once to make more deposits in the bank of health so that they may have some health insurance to draw upon in later years.

Health insurance deposits can be made by exercise. The body cannot be healthful without it. In conjunction with exercise we should live well-regulated lives. Work and recreation should be carefully balanced. Diet is most essential. Simple meals taken at regular intervals is an important rule towards good health, because overeating taxes the digestive organs and lowers their tone. It is best to leave the table a little hungry at all times.

The following exercises, if taken every morning, will deposit a reserve in the health bank which will come in handy on an "off" day.

Exercise No. 1

Lying flat on the floor, hands at your sides, palms down, raise the right leg as far as possible, keeping the leg straight and with the toes pointed. Repeat 10 times, counting each time the leg returns to the starting position.

Exercise No. 2

Repeat Exercise No. 1, but with the left leg, ten times, counting each time the leg returns to the starting position.

Exercise No. 3

Lying flat on the floor, raise both legs from the floor. Swing the legs alternately up and down without touching the floor with either leg. Keep the legs stiff with the toes pointed. Repeat ten times, counting each time the right leg is down.

Exercise No. 4

Lying flat on the back, extend both arms straight beyond the head, palms together. Raise the body to a sitting position without bending the knees and try to touch your toes with the finger tips. Repeat ten times, counting each time you touch the toes.

Exercise No. 5

Lying flat on the floor, raise both arms and both legs to starting position, keeping both arms and legs straight, palms together and toes pointed. Spread your arms and your legs, then return to starting position. Repeat ten times, counting each time the arms and legs come together.

Exercise No. 6

From the same position as in Exercise No. 5, cross the legs, first with the right arm and right leg uppermost, then with the left arm and left leg uppermost. Alternate this ten times, counting each time the right arm and right leg are uppermost.

Slightly Laxative and Reducing Diet

Upon arising do five minutes' exercise, concentrating on the special abdominal exercises. These may be taken conveniently in bed.

After the exercise and bath, drink two glasses of water.

BREAKFAST: (One pound prunes, one pound figs, one pound apricots, three tablespoons senna leaves cooked together). At the beginning I would suggest a dish of this fruit twice a day, after which only take it in the mornings. Some bran cereal, a coffee substitute, or if this is not preferred, weak tea. Graham, rye or some dark bread toasted—not more than two slices. Between breakfast and lunch drink at least two glasses of water.

LUNCHEON: Select three of the following vegetables: Parsnips, spinach, carrots, turnips, celery, cabbage, Brussels sprouts, beet tops, string beans, peas, lettuce, tomatoes. Dark bread, chocolate or cocoa and some stewed fruit. Two glasses of water between luncheon and dinner.

DINNER: Soup, broiled lean meat, such as steak, chops, chicken or fish. Two vegetables at least, some fruit, cheese, nuts, and weak tea. Drink two glasses of water between dinner and bedtime.

WOULD WAKE UP TIRED.

Stomach Out Of Order and System Run Down.

"I suffered from stomach trouble for several years," says Mrs. Mary Crouse, of Nineveh, N.S. "I would have severe pain after eating, and as a result I ate sparsely, and so ran down in general health. I grew pale and weak, was easily tired, and would wake up in the morning as tired as when I went to bed. Then my nerves began to give out, and my sleep easily disturbed. Naturally I was being treated for the trouble but it did not help me; indeed I was growing worse and could not walk to the nearest neighbor's without stopping to rest. It was at this stage that, as the result of an advertisement I read, that I decided to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I had taken the pills for several weeks before I could notice any improvement in my condition, then I seemed to have a better appetite, and less difficulty after eating, and this encouraged me to continue taking the pills until I had used a dozen boxes, by which time I could eat a hearty meal and enjoy it. My general health had improved so much that I felt I was again a well woman. I have not since had any return of the trouble, and feel that I can with confidence recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to other weak and ailing people."

For indigestion, or any of the numerous trouble due to thin, watery blood, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are strongly recommended. Sold by all medicine dealers, or will be sent by mail at 50 cents a box by The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont

By MALCOLM DUART

COPYRIGHT 1926

The Characters and Situations in this Story are entirely fictional.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Harry Morton, unmarried, middle-aged, wealthy, very attractive to women, divides his time between his home in Peterborough and his apartment in Toronto. His associates know nothing of his past, or what his real business is.

Audrey Morton, his adopted daughter, is wildly in love with him. He tries to divert her attention to John Parrish, his methodical young secretary. He lets her see him with gay women, including Nona, a Toronto stage girl, who is also deeply in love with him.

Audrey decides to enter stage life, to learn how stage girls manage to attract Morton. Parrish reports that she has hired a male dancer to be partner in her act. Morton arranges with Nona to leave her own place to be Audrey's teammate. A girl, who with her own male dance partner has long been out of work, is proposed for Nona's place. Morton sees Nona's manager in the girl's behalf, and is told that the male member of her team has tried to get $100 advance money from the producer.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXVII

"I've seen that fellow," Morton laughed. "He tried to blackmail me, once. Did you give him any money?"

"I did—not," jerked the manager. "I'm too old in this game to be passing out any money I don't have to. Except, of course, sometimes when my people are out of luck. Is his partner the girl you wanted to see me about?"

Without being invited, Morton helped himself to a chair, and told the girl's story—how it happened that Nona was leaving the company, why the other girl was sorely in need of work, something about Audrey.

The producer was interested. "Poor little girl!" he said, commiseratingly. "There's lots of hard luck in this profession, isn't there? But she's too skinny."

Morton's eyes narrowed, reminiscently. "When I first saw the young lady," he said, "she took off her coat. Underneath she was wearing only a kimono. I'm inclined to think—" he looked at the producer—"that those hollows are only in her cheeks and neck. A few days' feeding will fill her out."

The manager grinned. "Send her around," he said. "If she's a professional, she might do, with a week's fattening. Anyhow, I'll have her sing and put on a few steps. This is only a summer show anyhow."

Morton thanked him, and rose to go. "I feel guilty, now, in taking Nona away from you," he said. "You've been so decent about this."

* * *

In great good spirits, Morton telephoned his news to Nona.

"Send that girl over as soon as the old man is abroad in the morning," he said.

It was nearing midnight, and a cool breeze had sprung up. Swinging his cane, and whistling, Morton walked home. Audrey had arrived before him, and was waiting for him in the drawing-room.

She kissed him, absent-mindedly, and stood twisting a ring upon her finger as he sank into his chair. Her brow was contracted, as if in puzzlement, and she stood looking at the floor until he broke the silence.

"Better tell daddy," he suggested. "What's wrong?"

She sighed. Everything has been so queer, lately. Things used to go so smoothly, and I was happy, and now—well, I don't know."

She sighed again.

"Parrish up to something?" he asked.

She shook her head. "No, it wasn't Parrish."

He waited for her to continue. "Well, who was it then?" he inquired at last.

"Me, I guess. I think maybe I'm a fool." She pulled over a chair and sat close before him.

"Daddy, will you give me a thousand dollars, and not ask what it's for?"

His face did not change expression. "You have a big bank balance in Peterborough. You could draw on that," he suggested.

"I haven't any check-book," she said. "You told me about having all that money, and I don't even know how to draw it out. Don't I have to be identified or something?"

"I'll give you a book of checks on that bank," he said. "Your signature is registered there. I had you sign some cards a long while ago. You've forgotten it."

He went into his study, and presently returned with a small pocket-folder, bearing the printed name of the Peterborough bank.

"Fill out a check, sign it, and I'll cash it," he said. "Or if you like, I'll have you introduced tomorrow at my bank here in Toronto, and they'll cash it for you."

He waited impassively for her to speak. At last, she looked up at him.

"Aren't you going to ask me what it's for?" she said.

"Do you want to tell me?"

"I think I do—I don't know. I don't seem able to talk about it now. Daddy, how early can I have the money?"

"When the bank opens in the morning. Say, a quarter after nine."

"I need the money at ten. So that's all right. Goodnight, dearest."

His forehead was knitted as he watched her ascend the stairs, rather wearily. He dropped his chin on his hand, and thought, until the great clock in the dining-room beyond chimed one. Then he arose, and with a little of the air that Audrey herself had worn, he trudged upstairs to bed.

Morton was at his office the next morning, an hour earlier than usual. He summoned Parrish, and when the young man entered, the older man carefully closed the door.

"Were you with Miss Morton yesterday afternoon and last night?" he asked abruptly.

"Yes sir," said Parrish. "At least, I was until nine o'clock. Then she got angry at me, and told me to go away."

"Where were you?" Morton's voice was harsh.

"Down at the place where she's been dancing," said Parrish. "It's a hall where you pay a fee to the piano player, and something for the use of the room. A dozen or more people work there every afternoon and night, practicing dance steps. She found it."

"Who else was there?"

"That sheik she hired as a dance partner," said the young man, dejectedly. "She said she was going to have another partner in a day or two, but she wanted to learn what she could from him."

"Well, go on," ordered Morton, as his secretary paused.

"Finally I wanted her to come away. I don't like that fellow! And she said she wouldn't, and we got into another quarrel." His voice dropped. "She had the proprietor bring another man and they put me outside. So I went home."

"And left her there," added Morton, coldly.

Parrish moved uneasily. "I know now I shouldn't have gone. I ought to have waited outside. But I was mad, and I thought she could go to thunder, for all of me."

Morton asked no further questions. "Here's what I want you to do," he said. "Listen, and don't make any mistakes. Go out in the street, and get me a taxicab. Tell the driver I'll be down in a minute. Soon after I am gone, Miss Morton is coming here. She will be in my car, with the driver. She wants to be introduced at my bank, in order that she may cash a check. Go over with her in the car, and introduce her. But don't let the car start away from this building until you see me drawing near, in the taxi. Look at the cab carefully, so you'll recognize it from in front. I'll be cruising around and around the block. I don't want her to see me, but I do want to follow her. Understand?"

Parrish nodded, and started out on the first portion of his errand. He returned in a few minutes, and told Morton the taxi was waiting. The latter himself then left the office, and climbing into the waiting cab, gave the driver his directions.

It was no great while until Audrey appeared. The long town car drew up at the curb, and she tripped into the building. Soon she came out, with Parrish after her. He looked up and down the street, and then began deliberately tieing his shoelace. This done, he tied the other shoe.

"Come on! Come on!" called Audrey, from inside the car.

At this moment he caught sight of Morton's cab approaching from around the corner. There was no further delay, and the big automobile, with the small yellow taxi in pursuit, moved down the street.

There was a short stop at the bank, and the cars then renewed their progress. This time Parrish was not with Audrey, but stood, worriedly watching the two machines, until they were out of sight.

There was no difficulty in trailing Audrey's car through the heavy traffic. It was slower in making the corners, and in dodging other vehicles, than the short taxicab. The two cars, close together, proceeded about a mile, until Audrey's vehicle stopped at a corner. The girl alighted, and evidently directed the chauffeur to go on home. He saluted, and drove away, while the girl, after a moment's wait, set out on foot.

Morton tapped on the glass, and the driver pulled open the window behind him. "Go slowly, and keep just behind that young lady in blue," Morton told him.

The man shut the window, and threw his car into low gear. Cars behind him honked a protest, but the taxi stolidly crawled on, keeping pace with the girl.

She turned two corners. Then she stopped. Morton rapped on the glass again, and signaled his driver to halt. With a quiet smile he paid the man, and added a heavy tip. He stepped into a doorway as Audrey turned into a building half-way down the block.

"A. Sunshine Productions," was the sign over the doorway.

A cigar store was on the corner, and Morton, stepping into it, sought the telephone booth.

Calling the number of Mr. Sunshine's office, he waited. There was a look of relief on his face as Mr. Sunshine's own voice answered.

"Abe," he said, "this is Harry Morton. Listen. There's a young lady in blue—light hair—in your outer office. She's either meeting somebody there, or waiting for somebody. I wish you would go out, and tell her to step into your inner room, where the piano is. And Abe—when she's in there, shut the door. Tell her you need the outer office—tell her anything, but get her inside quick. I'll be up right away and explain."

He cut off Abe's rapid protests by hanging up the receiver.

A minute later he was running up the stairs of the Sunshine establishment. Abe awaited him at the outer door, in a state of inner disturbance.

"Why should I mess up my rehearsals with this young woman?" he started to expostulate.

Morton cut him off.

"Is she inside there?"

"Yes. Sure."

"Then listen." Morton explained the situation quickly, while Sunshine listened with interested "Ahs" and "Would-you-think-it's?"

"What did she say when you asked her to step inside?" Morton asked.

"She said she was waiting for her dance partner. I know him—she told me his name. He's a low-life if there ever was one. He ain't here yet."

"Suppose we wait for him out here," Morton suggested.

Abe nodded, and the two sat by the doorway, watching. By chance, no young dancers were waiting in the reception office, and the men had the room to themselves.

"I'm surprised she should have a fellow like that dancing with her," said Abe. "I thought she was going to dance with Nona. Didn't you call me up and tell me that?"

"She is going to team with Nona," said Morton, "but she had met this fellow first."

There was a sound of footsteps on the stairs, and they fell silent. In a moment the door was pushed open.

"There he is now," said Abe.

Morton sprang to his feet, as he saw the young man who entered.

"Great Scott!" he shouted. "You?"

With a quick leap, he placed himself between the newcomer and the door.

MOTHERS' DAY SERVICES

CAVAN, May 15.—Cavan Sunday School observed "Mothers' Day" in the church on Sunday afternoon.

Cavan Centre, Ebenzer and Mount Pleasant Sunday schools had been invited to attend and participate in the service.

The regular rally day programme was used.

Mr. Melville Staples, Orono, was the speaker for the occasion.

Mr. Staples had been a former superintendent for a few years and his father, Mr. Harry Staples, had held the same position in Cavan Sunday school for many years, so Mr. Staples was quite at home and given a warm welcome.

He gave an excellent address, suitable for the occasion. There was a large number present.

The Rev. R. T. Richards, Peterboro, a former pastor, was present and on being invited to help in the service, spoke for a short time.

AT HASTINGS

HASTINGS, May 15.—"Mothers' Day" was observed in the churches on Sunday. In the United Church, Sunday School a Mothers' Day programme was given. At the morning church service, Mr. J. C. Wilson rendered a solo "Nobody Knows But Mother," and the choir rendered an appropriate anthem. A reception service was held and 14 new members were received into the church.

During the service, the two eldest mothers of the church, Mrs. S. Carter and Mrs. Roberts, were presented with bouquets of carnations and roses. These were presented by two of the girls' classes of the Sunday School, addresses being read:

Dear Mrs. Carter,—

We, the members of the "Others" Class, on this Mothers' Day, wish to present you, the mother of our beloved teacher, and the oldest mother of our church, with these flowers.

May God's richest blessings be with you now and throughout the future, is the wish of every member of our class.

Signed on behalf of the class,
Hazel McDonald, President.
Evelyn Stewart, Secretary.

The presentation was made by Hazel McDonald, and the address read by Evelyn Stewart.

Dear Mrs. Roberts,—

We, the members and teacher of the Sunshine Class, have chosen you as the Mother whom we wish to honor at this Mothers' Day Service.

We are sorry you have been unable to be with us for so many Sundays owing to illness. We wish you to know we have not forgotten you.

We hope these roses will convey a little message of love and cheer from the hearts of the girls.

Presented on behalf of the Class and teacher.

The evening service was fully in charge of the mothers of the church and a pageant "The Mothers of the Bible" was presented by young girls who appeared in a dimly lighted church, each bearing unlighted candles. They were dressed in Egyptian costumes, and were Mother Eve, Evelyn Stewart; Ruth, Winnie Eager; Hannah, Kathleen Simpson; Mother of David, Jean McDonald; Rachael, Mabel Beamish; Jacobed, Mildred Lane; Salome, Grace Orr; Mother of John, Lillian Montgomery; The Spirit of Motherhood was presented by Hazel Macdonald, she lighting the candles of the mothers in order.

As Mary, the Mother of Jesus, appear, a vocal refrain was sung by Jessie Wilcox, "O Little Town of Bethlehem," and as Mary disappeared, "Jesus Shall Reign" was sung.

Readings and musical numbers were also given at the same service and the church was beautifully decorated with flowers.

St. George's Anglican Church held Mothers' Day services, the rector, Rev. W. A. Pippen, having charge. Special music was rendered by the choir and the hymns sung were all in keeping with the day.

St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church had a choir made up of the senior girls of the Sunday School. A recitation, "My Mother," was given by Annie Spooner, and a reading "The Mother of Jesus," was given by Mr. Geneste Hatton.

Rev. D. R. Thomson, presented helpful sermons on Motherhood at both the morning and evening services.

MADOC, May 15.—A very enjoyable dance was held in the Armouries on Friday evening under the auspices of the Young People's Club. Novelties in the shape of fancy paper caps were distributed and feature dances including balloon dances and bright coloured streamers added interest and gaiety to the evening.

Much enthusiasm has been shown by the fishermen of the village since the opening of the pickerel season and devotees of the art may be seen at Moira Lake bridges at early hours of the morning. At present the honor of landing the largest pickerel belongs to Clarence Carswell, who caught one weighing five pounds nine ounces.

CONGRATULATIONS FOR MADOC CADETS

Captain Heron Speaks Highly of Efficiency of Corps.

MADOC, May 15.—The Madoc High School Cadets were inspected on Wednesday morning by Captain V. W. S. Heron of the headquarters staff, Kingston.

Captain Heron congratulated the Cadets on their splendid performance, and spoke particularly of the improvement in drill, calisthenics and personal appearance. He congratulated the band which, though small, was select, and hoped that next year would see an increased number of buglers.

Captain Heron spoke warmly of the excellent work done by the Captain of the Cadets, Ted Nickle, and told the Cadets they were fortunate in having as their head a student who had had the benefit of three years' training in the U.S. Marine Corps and who gave his commands with military precision.

Captain Heron congratulated E. T. Nayler on the success of his work with the Cadet Corps, and said they were very fortunate in having a Great War veteran as their Instructor. He referred to his regret at the resignation of the principal, Mr. J. Marcellus. He had met Mr. Marcellus in 1923 and enlisted his co-operation in reorganizing the corps and spoke of the great improvement there had been in the work since then. He hoped the next principal would continue the work and concluded by saying that if he did not he would get no half holiday.

Mr. Marcellus then spoke a few words of congratulation to the boys and declared a half-holiday for the school.

MALE VOICE CHOIR SINGS AT COBOURG

Visit of Peterborough Musicians is Much Enjoyed.

COBOURG, May 15. — The concert given by the Peterborough Male Voice Choir under the direction of Mr. M. B. Chenhall, in Trinity Church here, was one of the most enjoyable musical events ever held in Cobourg. Mr. Chenhall is a former highly esteemed organist of Trinity Church and went from here to Peterborough.

As the large audience which filled the ground floor of the church was assembling, Trinity Sunday schoolorchestra, of about 25 pieces, under whose auspices the concert was held, played a number of selections with excellence, with Mr. M. E. Hall as conductor and Mrs. J. J. Kerr at the piano.

Rev. Dr. Brown voiced on behalf of the orchestra and choir, the appreciation felt because so many had assembled, and appropriately opened an evening of much enjoyment. Rev. W. A. Brenner, associate pastor, who had the pleasure of welcoming the choir to his former church, St. Andrews, last year, made kindly reference to that enjoyable occasion.

Mr. M. B. Chenhall spoke a few words to the audience, expressing the pleasure that he felt in returning to Cobourg, and the president of the choir reiterated the pleasure the choir felt in their visit and their appreciation of the large attendance at the concert.

Miss Logan was the piano accompanist, and Mr. Fred Chenhall presided at the organ during selections when pipe organ accompaniment was required.

The visitors and the Sunday school orchestra were the guests of the ladies of the church ,when refreshments were served after the concert, and a social hour spent.

WESTWOOD PEOPLE HOLD SUCKER HUNT

Many Sacks Filled With Fine Fish—Arbor Day Kept.

WESTWOOD, May 15.—The annual Westwood sucker hunt was held last week. There was the usual crowd of spectators as well as those who came for their share of suckers. All the surrounding townships were represented as well as the neighboring towns. The suckers were plentiful and the quality was considerably above the average. One man took away as many as nine sacks full while others had six and seven. Others cleaned their bounty by the roadside before going home.

On Friday, May 7th, Arbor Day was held in the school. Under the direction of the teacher, Miss M. Hinton, a busy and profitable morning was spent. The girls armed with wash cloths, soap and water scoured the windows and desks, while the boys raked and cleaned the yard. In the afternoon a trip to the woods was enjoyed by all the scholars and on their return games and races were taken part in with enthusiasm.

A play entitled "I Can't Afford It" will be presented in the Town Hall on Friday, May 21st by the Young People's League of Mark street church, Peterboro.

Only Liquor Talk

He maintained that the men in charge of affairs of the Ontario Legislature were lacking in efficiency and ideals. "Nothing of importance has been done, except to talk about 4.4 or the liquor question. There has been far too much said on this question already."

Mr. Fisher charged that the Ferguson Government had not passed any legislation to talk about. The blue sky law was not yet enacted. He pointed out that the Government had carried on for three years without a Minister of Education and he said that he doubted whether Mr. Ferguson could handle the portfolio even without his other duties.

Nothing had been done on the St. Lawrence River development, Mr. Fisher said. Instead the Ferguson Government had attempted to blame the Federal Government for its own neglect. He said that the promised Ottawa River hydro development had never materialized. Regarding Hydro, he charged that the Ontario Government had taken advantage of a private institution in Quebec by buying power.

$67,000,000 Debt Increase

The Ferguson Government has added $67,000,000 to the public debt of the province, apart from Hydro, Mr. Fisher declared. The deficit in 1925 was $5,000,000. The Ontario Government's plan to wipe off the public debt in 40 years was described by Mr. Fisher as impossible. "Failing to pay the grocer's bill they talk of paying off the mortgage off the house," he added. "The Ferguson Government is spending more money than any government ever did. The Drury Government spent $37,000,000 in 1922 while last year the Ferguson Government spent $52,000,000. They have not improved things and have increased taxes. In 1925 they collected $12,500,000 more taxes than in 1923. I hope we get a government that stands by its principles and is possessed of ideas.

James Malcolm, M.P.; Peter Heenan, M.P., and J. Albert Pinard, M.L.A. East Ottawa, also spoke.

COMPLETION OF LINE TO HUDSON BAY ADVOCATED

Manitoba Conservative Has Vision of Industrial Progress in Province.

USE NELSON PORT.

Quebec Member Says Factories Not Depending on Tariff.

OTTAWA, Ont., May 15 (Canadian Press)—Debate on the budget was resumed in the House Friday afternoon by T. G. Murphy (Conservative, Neepawa) who had not concluded his speech at the hour of adjournment on Wednesday.

Every political leader and every political party was committed to the construction of the Hudson Bay Railway, he said. The project should be carried on to completion immediately.

Opponents of completion of the Hudson Bay Railway, said Mr. Murphy, were trying to re-open the question of Churchill or Nelson as a terminus. Nelson had been chosen by competent engineers under two governments and money had been spent already on Nelson terminals and no change ought to be made now. Those who are working for the completion of the road realized that a red herring was being drawn across the railway trail.

Mr. Murphy said that stores in Ottawa were selling Australian butter and meat; some had not had Canadian butter or meat in their stores for three weeks prior to March 31, the date of his inquiries. He did not think it fair to subject western dairy butter to this competition. He pointed out that Manitoba was adding to agriculture, mining and manufacturing. Heavy expenditures on paper mills were being made at Fort Frances.

The Nelson River, emptying into Hudson's Bay, was capable of giving as much power as Niagara. There was no reason why Manitoba should not become one of the greatest industrial provinces in Canada.

Leaving the Farms

Young people were leaving the farms of Manitoba by thousands, some to enter the learned professions, all ultimately going to the United States.

Budget Insincere

R. A. Stewart (Conservative, Leeds) described the budget as "insincere and inconsistent." It was insincere because of the manner in which mention was made therein of tax reductions. Some of the taxes reduced by the government had been put on by the King administration; while others now decreased had been increased by the government. With respect to the income tax, the reductions announced should have been made two years ago.

The budget was also inconsistent because it violated the government's pledge to refer all tariff questions to the tariff board before making any changes. Mr. Stewart wondered if a "trade" had been made, as a result of which Progressive members refrained from criticizing the reductions in the income tax because of the cut made in the tariff on motor cars.

He also advocated an import duty on American magazines entering Canada.

The amendment to the budget, in its charge of breach of faith by the government, was unanswerable. Mr. Stewart declared in closing that he would vote against the budget and for the amendment.

Pulp Industry Helped

W. J. Lovey (Progressive, MacDonald) said that although the Progressives had opposed the Australian treaty last year, it was now proving to be of great benefit to the pulp and paper industry of Canada. Mr. Lovey quoted the trade figures for this industry since the terms of the treaty came into effect.

Speaking in favor of free trade he said that the protectionists on this continent were trying to do politically what was contrary to geography. He was not talking annexation, he said. He told of the efforts of the farm bloc in the United States Congress to secure some relief for the United States farmer who was suffering under high protection.

Protection, he said, only increased the cost to the consumer. Mr. Lovey advocated wider markets for Canadian products.

Sees Prosperity

Mr. Verville (Liberal, Lotbiniere) said that while his riding was largely a rural one, there were several industries in it. The owners of these industries were not depending on the tariff to make their concerns successful, but were relying on their personal initiative and the good-will of their employees.

Conditions among the farmers of Lotbiniere had improved since the King government had come into office. Whenever a Liberal administration was in power in Canada, he said, there was prosperity in the county, while the reverse occurred under Conservative administation.

Accommodation for vehicular traffic over the Quebec bridge should be provided. An agitation for such accommodation, he said, had been carried on since 1922. The government was to be commended for reducing taxation $25,000,000 annually.

LOCAL SPEAKER GIVES ADDRESS

J. J. Duffus Tells Lindsay C. W. L. About Tourist Trade.

WELL RECEIVED.

A most enjoyable as well as profitable evening was spent at the Knights of Columbus Rooms in Lindsay on Monday night, when an excellent programme was presented by the Catholic Women's League. Mr. Allan Lacey was chairman for the occasion. The feature of the programme was the excellent as well as educative address given by J. J. Duffus, of Peterborough. Mr. Duffus took ah his subject the development of the tourist trade in this country. Mr. Duffus prefaced his remarks by referring to the great increase yearly in the number of those who sought surcease from business cares and worries not only in America, but also on the continent. The desire for pleasure and recreation in the most desirable and attractive sections of country was most manifest, with the result that today on Canada witnessed the peaceful invasion yearly of hundreds of thousands of visitors from across the line who were attracted by the beauties and charms of Canadian lakes, rivers, forests, etc. Canada was favored by nature in this respect, and nowhere was this more in evidence than in the Kawartha Lakes District, right at our own doors—a veritable tourist's paradise unexcelled anywhere else in the world.

Mr. Duffus, in a most interesting manner, referred to the early history of this section of this country, and took his hearers in fancy along the water route covered by Samuel de Champlain in his explorations through this district. He also dealt with the early history of the Trent Valley and Rideau Canals, referring particularly to the wonderful stretch of country through which the former passed, and the splendid work being performed by the Trent Waterways Association to advertise its beauties and attractions.

Interesting statistics were quoted by Mr. Duffus in order to bring home to his hearers the magnitude of the tourist trade and its value to the country. He pointed out that 24,000,000 were living in three states adjoining Ontario, with 3,000,000 owning automobiles. The tourist trade, he pointed out, was the third largest source of revenue, and was equal to one-third the total wheat crop, and approximates the annual mineral output of the province of Ontario, Quebec and British Columbia combined. Last year for the first nine months, 2,000,000 autos came into Canada from across the line carrying 9,000,000 millions of people. This was equal to every man, woman and child in the Dominion. If one could form any idea of the amount spent to feed these visitors, they might be able to realize the vast sums left in the country.

Further statistics of the tourist traffice to Ontario for 1925 was given by Mr. Duffus. Automobiles from United States:—1,139,436 for 24 hours or less; 201,768 for 30 days; 1,936 for six months; the two latter estimates represent three persons per car, 611,112 Americans. Value of automobile traffic, $24,818,634; value of all traffic, $40,000,000. Distributed approximately as follows: Accommodation, $72,000,000; food supplies, $14,120,000; amusement $60,000,000; transportation of gasoline, oil, etc., $6,000; hairdressing, toilet, etc., $2,520,000; refreshments, $1,720,000; stationery $560,000; miscellaneous souvenirs, $1,780,000.

This obviously does not take into consideration the additional money spent on articles such as furs, linen, etc., which are purchased on account of the saving made by buying in Ontario, and not having to pay duty thereon for goods of the value of $100 per individual of party over sixteen years.

Mr. Duffus also gave figures relative to the vast amount of American money which had been left in Peterborough, Lakefield and Bobcaygeon last year by tourists. The different provinces were quick to recognize the value of the tourist trade and were bending every energy to attract it. The people of Ontario should be up and doing in order that this province might get its fair share. Publicity was important. Courtesy on the part of officials and the people generally should be extended to visitors. Every municipal officer and council as municipal body should be quick to realize what this great trade means to this country as well as its great future possibilities. Mr. Duffus pointed out thatwith our great agricultral, forest and mineral wealth, and the great value of the tourist trade, Canada would never again be confronted with a period of depression.

The speaker was accorded a hearty vote of thanks by Miss Corkery, M.A., of the Collegiate Institute staff, and Miss M. Murtha, of the Separate School staff.

A number of excellent musical numbers featured the evening's programme.

GLANDULAR EXTRACT TO MEET FRACTURES

Japanese Surgeon's Experiments Promise Speedier Recovery.

Breaking an arm, a leg or even a hip may not be so serious an accident within a year or two. Recent experiments in Japan indicate, says Popular Science Monthly, that healing broken bones of young persons may be hastened, and the fractured bones of even old persons may knit together if the patient is treated with a certain glandular extract.

Next to the thyroid gland in the neck are four tiny glands known as "parathyroid glands." An extract from these, when swallowed or injected, causes the percentage of calcium and phosphate in blood serum to rise, it is claimed. Large quantities of both these chemicals are needed in bone building. One reason why bones usually heal very slowly is because it takes a long time to extract enough of these substances from the blood.

Dr. Ogawa, a Japanese surgeon, recently has been experimenting with parathyroid extract in the Japanese medical academy of Keijo. He found that rats fed with the extract grew twice as much new bone as those not treated with it. It is now being tried out on human beings, and the results so far have encouraged the belief that the long weeks of wearing bandages and plaster casts may be greatly shortened.

ENDURANCE

THE quaking shocks from Battering Rams and the smashing blows of huge stones flung from catapults were used in ancient warfare to break down the walls of cities under seige. Sometimes these walls withstood the battering of the enemy for years. The Greeks gave up the Siege of Troy after ten years and only got inside by strategy. The Walls of Jerusalem stood the Roman Siege for 143 days and the city only capitulated when actual starvation had made them too weak to resist. Like ancient fortifications, the powerful sidewalls and tread construction of a "Gutta Percha" Tire ENDURE the bombarding enemies of the road.

WHY did they make city walls so Enduringly strong? To protect their lives, their property, their liberty and their happiness. There is war to-day between the motor tire and the destroying enemies of the road. Why do we build the "Gutta Percha" Tires so ENDURINGLY strong? To give our customers protection against accident, to give them economy in service, to make them free from anxiety and worry when motoring. It is the wonderful ENDURANCE built into "Gutta Percha" Tires that makes their resistance to the warfare of the road the longest and most difficult siege in modern times.

DOES anything have a rougher life than a Tire? You can't match it for an existence of constant warfare against fearful odds. From the day a tire goes on, it is skidded and bumped; bearing a ton's weight, it is pressed upon sharp obstacles that would cut any other substance to shreds; it is subjected to side strains that call for thousands of pounds of resistance. It is exposed to the hot sun of summer, the snow and ice of winter, and with all its pounding and hard work, is expected to give long and uninterrupted service. There's no other tire so remarkable for ENDURANCE as a "Gutta Percha" Tire.

Thanks To That Wonderful Remedy

MILBURN'S HEART AND NERVE PILLS

Mrs. F. H. Miller, 1843-11th Ave. East, Vancouver, B.C., writes:—"Five years ago my husband suffered terribly with severe attacks of palpitation of the heart and smothering spells, and two doctors stated that he could not possibly live six months.

A friend recommended Milburn's H. and N. Pills, with the result that my husband is still enjoying life at the age of 84 years.

He has improved so wonderfully that he can now climb the stairs without having those awful pains in his heart."

The Woman's Day

Written by a Woman for Women.

Touching brightly on woman's every major interest in life from books and babies to politics and psycho analysis.

(By Allene Sumner)

IS HE HOME?

All the strivings of modern woman to be something that she is not, to be a person rather than a stupid, clacking creature, are vain. This blow comes from a scholar of the Greek who, delving into dusty Greek tomes of ages ago, finds that the female chatter of then is so like the female chatter of the now that women might as well make up their minds that basically they are but what they are. He especially points to the Fifteenth Idyl of the classic poet Theocritus in which two wives, Gorgo and Praxinoe, chatter in this wise.

"Praxinoe: 'This wretched hovel is all the fault of that mad man of mine. Here he came to the ends of the earth and took—a hole, not a house—always the same, anything for spite!'

"Gorog: 'Don't talk of your husband like that, my dear girl, before the little boy! Never mind, sweet child, she is not speaking of papa, nice papa!'

"Praxinoe: 'That papa of his the other day went to get soap and rouge at the shop, and back he came to me with salt—the great big, useless fellow!'"

CLUB TALK.

If you club women prefer to talk of next year's club program rather than papas who buy salt instead of soap, consider a "Racial Background" program. General books might include Bercovici's "Around the World in New York," Abbot's "Immigrant and the Community," Ross "The Old World in the New," and books on various races might include Grant's "Peasantry of Palestine," Villari's "Italian Life in Town and Country," Garnett's "Balkan Home Life," Ball's "Things Chinese," Hough's "Dutch Life."

CHECKED HOSE.

The mode's vogue for check fabrics in suit wanders into the hose realm, leaving its mark upon small vaguely checked beige and taupe silk and lisle sports hose.

CAR SLEEPERS.

Women never lose their sense of propriety even when sleeping on street cars. This is the latest finding of science, which also has discovered that man's latent improprieties exhibit themselves in public slumber. They nod and soon, with a childish cherubic expression, sink to rest upon the soft shoulder of a woman passenger to right or left. But the street car woman sleeper purses her lips, clutches her purse, and nods jerkily up and down.

MAID'S JOB.

If you are maid-of-honoring at a spring wedding, you might enjoy knowing just why you're all decked out in jade or maize or peach chiffon with picture hat to match. In return for the privilege of being all dolled-up you must hold the bride's prayer book and bouquet while the ring is slipped on, return them when the ordeal is over, and arrange her train for her as she leaves the altar. The maid also acts in an assistant hostess capacity, helping the Bride receive her guests in reception line.

IT PAID.

Mothers who wonder if much, or any, of the effort put on "those little extras" in their child's life, "really pays," may enjoy the story of Jeffery Farnol, author of "The High Adventure." He says that all his writing success dates from the day when, aged 6, his father and mother read aloud to his brother and himself every evening. Not "Little Black Sambo," either, but "Count of Monte Cristo" and "David Copperfield."

THE HOME KITCHEN

THE USE OF NUTS IN THE DIET.

Nuts are frequently used as meat substitutes as they are rich in protein and fat. The Brazil nut is especially endowed with protein sufficient to satisfy the requirements of normal nutrition. Nuts may be used interchangeably with meat, though poor in calcium and vitamines A and C. These things can, however, be added with fruit and vegetable combinations. Peanut flour is highly recommended to use with other flour in bread making.

In judging a nut diet two and a half Brazil nuts make one hundred calories, ten almonds the same, three large walnuts, five peanuts and five large pecan nuts are the same and so on down the list.

Nuts used as a staple appear in soups, salads, roasts, desserts, and in fancy dishes. Almond meal that contains no starch or sugar is used often in the diabetic diet.

Potato and Nut Cream Soup.

Pare six medium-sized potatoes. Boil until soft, drain, mash, add pepper, salt, two teaspoonfuls of sugar, a tablespoonful of butter, a quart of hot milk, and a tablespoonful of corn starch dissolved in a little cream. Bring to boiling point and then put through puree sieve. If too thick, add a little more hot milk and stir until the consistency is just right. Meantime whip a half cupful of cream stiff and add to it a little salt and pepper and two tablespoonfuls of finely chopped nuts. Drop a tablespoonful on top of each portion of soup. The flavor will be improved if the juice of a large onion and a half cupful of minced celery is added to the soup.

Walnut Fritters.

Put a cupful of milk and a tablespoonful of butter into a saucepan. When it begins to boil, add three tablespoonfuls of dried and browned crumbs and a little dredging of flour Cook gently until it comes free from the pan. Cool, then add two eggs, beating until smooth, a heaping tablespoonful of chopped walnuts, a teaspoonful of grated onion, the same of chopped white celery leaves, pepper, salt and a saltspoonful of sugar. Mould into small pats, dip in egg, then in crumbs, and fry a delicate brown. Garnish with grilled tomatoes. Serve a cream or smooth tomato sauce with the fritters.

Nut Peppers.

Cut off the ends of four bell peppers and remove the seed cones and tough skin ribs. Take a cupful of dried crumbs, a quarter cupful of chopped pecan nuts, a grated onion, a minced hard boiled egg, a tablespoonful of butter, a tablespoonful of sugar, pepper, salt, a beaten egg, and a little heavy cream to bind the mixture. Stuff the peppers, after oiling them over, and bake until the peppers are tender when pierced with a straw.

CARS KILLED 25,000 IN U.S. DURING 1925

Motor Accidents Also Cause Injuries To 700,000 People.

NEW YORK, May 15 (Canadian Press).—Automobiles in the United States in 1925 killed approximately 25,000 persons and injured 700,000, most of the accidents being preventable, according to William H. Connell, retiring president of the American Road Builders' Association, who spoke at the twenty-third annual convention dinner of the organization last night.

Canadian Granite Used For Monuments In France

Dinner Gown of Shrimp Pink Georgette and Silver Lace.

Smart women find the soft dinner gown a necessity for Summer wear. The model sketched above is an ideal frock of simple and graceful lines, to wear on Summer evenings.

Shrimp pink georgette is the material used, and this is most effective, combined with the delicately patterned silver lace, which makes the lower part of the skirt, the vestee, and the long folds that finish the sleeve length.

Fine loop edging of silver thread outlines the slender collar of the frock, and the ornament at the front is shrimp color, with shrimp grosgrain ribbon ends dropping almost to the hemline.

NO COUNCIL SEATS FOR FOUR NATIONS

League Committee Opposes Increase in Number of Permanent Seats.

GENEVA, May 15 (Canadian Press).—All arguments for an increase in the number of permanent seats in the League of Nations Council have fallen on deaf ears, and President Motta of the reorganization committee last night sounded the death knell of the hopes of Spain, Brazil, Poland and China to sit in perpetuity. M. Motta stated the majority opposed an increase in the permanent seats, while one nation, Sweden, was against any increase.

Smocking Puts a Brave Front on a Spring Frock

BUTTERICK 6813

Here is a little frock, new French in cut and old English in its smocking, that can go to day-school in cotton crêpe and to Sunday-school in crêpe de Chine. Cherry red, crayon blue, love-bird green, violet and the new crushed-berry pinks are delightful shades for a silk frock that isn't worn every day, or for a cotton voile frock that can be washed when necessary. Crêpe de Chine washes nicely, too, in these show-the-spot colors. Dark blue smocked in scarlet, hunter green with lighter green, wood brown with nasturtium yellow are excellent colors for school.

The Examiner does not sell these patterns.

A GIRL of TODAY

MAMIE'S GREAT SURPRISE

My face, I was sure, was getting redder and redder but I stood by my guns. "Last, but not least, Mamie Riley," I said. "I had someone this day tell me he loved me and wanted me."

"So have I," said Mamie quietly.

I had been stretched out on the sofa but I sat up with a jerk.

"Mamie, you haven't really seen Mr. Tremaine again?"

"Yes."

"And talked with him?"

"Yes."

"Oh, Mamie! What did he say? Tell me all about it."

"You are tired, dear. I ought not to keep you up. I told the men that you have had enough excitement for one day."

"I couldn't sleep now unless you told me all of it."

"Well, you see, Judy, Buddy saw me last night. At first he could not believe it was I, but he finally recognized me although he did not let me or anyone else know it. He was so afraid that he would lose sight of me again.

"This morning he came into the restaurant about 10 o'clock. You know that there are less people there at that time than any other. He walked directly over to the hat-checking room.

"The first word he said to me was, 'Mamie, why did you do this terrible thing?'

"'Most people would say I did the right thing, Mr. Tremaine,' I answered.

"'Please, please, Mamie,' he pleaded. 'Don't high-hat me now. I couldn't stand it. Did I ever say anything to you that for one moment would make you think that I had intended to do you any harm?'

"I did not—I could not answer.

"With that he came back into the hat-checking room and grasped my shoulders.

"'Answer me,'" he commanded.

"'No, you never did. But Lola Lawrence told me that you had sent her to Tortentio also, and that when you had grown tired of her she suddenly found that Tortentio had no more interest in her voice. She said that same thing would happen to me.'

Buddy fairly shook me.

"'Mamie, do you think I could ever love a woman like Lola Lawrence?' he demanded."

TOOTH EXERCISE.

You have read considerable of late about the 'daily dozen,' and other such setting-up exercises.

So you know, of course, that the body requires exercise if it is to develop and keep fit.

You have been told, too, that a vigorous chewing of your food is both beneficial and necessary as the first step in good digestion.

But perhaps you have never given thought to the beneficial effects of thorough mastication on the tooth structures themselves.

In the first place, then, there is the stimulating effect on the supporting structures of the teeth, giving them proper 'tissue tone.'

In the growing child, the development of the jaws necessary to provide for the normal arrangement of the teeth, is impossible without sufficient masticatory exercise.

Former generations ate hard and coarse foods, and suffered little from dental trouble.

Mastication of such tough uncooked food gave to their teeth and jaws sufficient exercise to promote the most vigorous circulation and a very decided massage of the gums. These agencies through the abundant blood supply to the jaws provided ample tissue nourishment for growth and development along with great powers of resistance to infection.

To-day, we are using a great many over-refined and pre-digested foods, which require little or no chewing, and in the use of which, even the mechanical effects from the scrubbing of the tooth surfaces are lacking, with the result, that Nature working out her inexorable law, that a member that is not functioning as intended, gradually loses its efficiency, is making the tooth structure softer and less resistant to disease.

There should be, therefore, an habitual use at each meal, of foods selected, not only on account of their nutrient qualities, but because they are of such a nature as to require vigorous masticatory effort.

VIADUCT CONTRACT IS LET IN TORONTO

Price Estimated at $2,000,000—Many Tenders.

U. E. Gillen, general manager of the Toronto Terminals Railway Company, in charge of the construction of the viaduct, announced today that the contracts for the Bay and York streets subways and the concrete structure in front of the new Union Station has been awarded to P. A large number of tenders were received for the work. Mr. Gillen, in accordance with the rule of the terminals company, would not announce the price, but the estimate for the entire work covered by the contract is approximately $2,000,000.

Work on the new subways and concourse in which will be provided facilities for the mail, baggage and express services, will commence as soon as possible, Mr. Gillen stated.

He also announced that the terminals company is calling for tenders returnable on May 26 for the removal of the York Street bridge.

YOUR HEALTH

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M.D., Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

I know a very pretty woman who attributes her beauty to good health. However despite her healthy organic condition she occasionally suffers from a few minor nervous troubles.

As her case is applicable to numbers of women I will go at more length into it. Like so many women of the present day she goes to business daily and in the work she does she allows herself to become rushed and to grow nervous in contending with this rushed condition. She admits herself that most of the rush is due to bad management and she is taking steps to correct it.

Now if you find that your nerves give you uneasiness occasionally I advise first of all a visit to your doctor. No one was ever harmed by an occasional physical examination. On the other hand you either benefit by the assurance that you are in good physical condition or else you find what is wrong early in the game and take intelligent means to check it.

In the case of my friend the main things the doctor advised were the avoiding of stress and strain and the indulging in at least an hour's exercise daily. When she can she takes this hour's exercise out in walking. If she cannot arrange to walk however she divides her exercise time up into fifteen-minute periods of indoor exercise. She keeps a ready list of exercises in her mind and does various ones to give herself variety.

Here is an exercise that is quite strenuous. You can put it on your list and if you are unable to perform it at first you can become better at it through practice. If it seems a bit strenuous go at it gradually trying it for only a few counts the first time and gradually increasing your counts.

Begin by taking your place as real runners do in a race. This means to lean forward with your right knee bent in front of you the fingers of both hands supporting your weight by placing them on the floor in front of you and with your left leg straight out behind you resting your toe on the floor.

Now quickly bring your left foot forward and put your right foot back.

Repeat this alternating rapidly until you can go through it ten or fifteen times in quick succession.

ADVENTURES of the TWINS

by OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

No. 16—THE GREEN DINGBAT SPEAKS.

The Twins took the little Rag-bag Whiffet by the hand and led him away. They could still hear the Balloon Man crying his wares, and the green poll-parrot chattering away on his post. "Yes, my dear, I'll have three lumps in my tea, well—if you insist—"

"Don't worry, Whiffet, we'll find your lost shadow somewhere. It can't have gone so very far," said Nancy. "How many buttons have you left out of your fortune?"

The Whiffet reached into his pocket and pulled out all his buttons. "Two pearl ones, four bone ones, three shoe-buttons, one off the old alpaca duster, a collar button and a snapper," he counted.

"Well, you're rich yet," said Nick.

"What are you asking for?" said the Whiffet, putting his fortune away again.

"Because there's a sign over there that says 'Side-Show,'" said Nick. "Will you pay our way in?"

"Sure," said the little rag-bag creature, who was kind-hearted, even if his clothes had shrunk and he hadn't such a thing as a shadow about him.

So they went to the side-show tent and paid a shoe-button and three pins apiece to get in.

The side-show man, who wore three sets of spectacles on his nose, four neckties and two suits of clothes, looked at them closely. "You look honest," he remarked. "Pass in."

The first thing they saw was a sign. The sign said, "Ask the Dingbat. He'll tell you." Under the sign sat a queer-looking person at a table. The queer-looking person who sat at the table was green and he could wiggle his ears.

"What are we to ask you?" said Nick.

"Ask me how old Anne is," said the Dingbat.

"Well, how old is Anne?" said Nancy.

"It's none of your business," said the Dingbat, wiggling his ears.

"The very idea!" cried Nancy. "Such manners! I never in all my life heard such a thing."

"I'm not paid to have manners," said the Dingbat. "That costs extra."

"How much?" said the little Rag-bag Whiffet hurriedly reaching into his pocket. All he heard was 'costs extra' so he supposed he'd have to pay.

"How much have you?" said the Dingbat.

"Two pearl ones, four bone ones, one off the old gray duster, a collar button, and a snapper," said the Whiffet. He didn't say anything about the shoe buttons because it had taken all his shoe-buttons to get in.

"Well, that's what it will cost you exactly if you wish me to be polite," said the Dingbat. "All but the snapper. I've got one. He's a beagle and snaps at all the cats and the postman. Now then, ask me all over again. How old is Anne?"

"Say," said the little Whiffet, "if it's all the same to everybody, and I've paid for everything, I'd like to ask a question myself."

"At your service, sir," said the green Dingbat, wiggling his ears most politely.

"Where is my shadow?" said the Whiffet. "I lost it coming over the stile."

The green Dingbat turned blue, then red, and then to a beautiful dark raspberry. "Ask Mr. Snoopsy," he said, "the pirate, who lives in a cave between Hidy Go Land and the sea."

Tomorrow's HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble

SUNDAY AND MONDAY, MAY 16-17.

Sunday's horoscope shows favorable conditions for all pertaining to spiritual, intellectual and educational matters, but enjoins the control of the temper and discretion in social intercourse. New ventures are favored.

Those whose birthday it is may launch forth on new ventures, having surmounted old obstacles, with the prospect of stable growth and sure returns. A child born on this day may be industrious and capable, but should learn to control its tongue and temper. It should succeed with large corporations.

Monday's astrological forecast is for an important change, with possible travel and new environment. The opportunity should be grasped and the ambitions pushed vigorously to the desired goal. Employment is favored in many ways.

Those whose birthday it is may find a fine opening for the attainment of desired ambitions, possible through change, travel or radical upheaval of benefic import. Also employment is under benefic sway for the year. A child born on this day should be ambitious, generous and adventurous and will probably attain high place in life through its fine personal qualities and initiative. It should also succeed well in the employment of others.

THE CORNER STORE

It's just around the corner, and a little bit of place—the store where, twenty times a day, the youngsters have to chase. Yea, Tommy takes some money an' he grabs his coat and hat, an' he hustles round the corner for a bit of this or that.

"We're out of bread," says mother, "an' the butter's kinda shy." And then she thinks of other things that she forgot to buy. Necessities are listed and a basket's handed son. He kicks a bit, but mom inisists, and sends him on the run.

I've often wondered what we'd do without the corner store. The man who runs it always has the things you're looking for. The grownups call it handy and they hope it's there to stay, but kidlets kinda razz it, 'cause it interferes with play.

GOOD NIGHT STORIES

By Blanche Silver

DICKY MEETS A BUSY LITTLE BUILDER.

"Well," laughed Dicky when he saw several little bees buzzing around a limb of the chestnut tree out in his yard, "What's the idea? Can't you find better honey from the garden flowers than you can up in that old chestnut tree?"

The busy bees went on with their merry buzzing and paid no attention to Dicky.

"I wish Happy Giggles was—," he began when a tiny hand touched his arm and Dicky turned around to find the little Make-believe elfin standing at his side. "Hello, there, Happy Giggles! I was just getting ready to wish for you."

"Here I am," laughed the elfin. "I suppose you would like to know why those bees are wasting their time fooling around the chestnut tree when there is so much honey out in the garden?"

"You're right, Happy Giggles," replied Dicky. "Ask that biggest bee."

Happy Giggles whistled softly. Then the bee came down quickly and nodded to the elfin and Dicky.

"Glad to see you, folks," he buzzed merrily. "This is a busy day with us. We have to strengthen the edges of our hive so we're gathering the juices from the chestnut buds. Come along. This stuff hardens quickly, and I want to put it in place." Then he spread his wings and sailed away, Dicky and Happy Giggles following close behind him. When he reached the bee tive, he began mixing the juices of the chest nut bud with some wax. When it was just right he laid it all along the edges of the beehive, and as soon as the air hit it, it hardened.

"Can't You Find Better Honey?"

"Now that will protect the edges of the hive," he buzzed, sitting down to chat once more.

"Tell me, Mr. Bee," whispered Dicky. "Where are the queen's cells?"

"All those big ugly looking cells along the edge belong to the Queen Bees," replied the little bee.

"Those horrid, ill-shaped cells?" asked Dicky. "I thought the Queen Bees would have the very best of cells."

"No indeed," laughed Mr. Bee. "Any old lump of wax is good enough to make the queen's cell. Then if we need a bit of extra wax for anything, we just dip out some from thecovering of the queen's cell. That's why they don't look neat. Then, too, they are usually always pear-shaped. You can always tell the cells of the drones by their superior size."

"Looks as if you were going to have plenty of queens in this cell," laughed Dicky. "I should think they would all get to fussing with so many queens."

"Don't worry," buzzed Mr. Bee. "When they hatch out and are old enough, they'll take a few workers from this hive and travel off to build new homes for themselves. You see bees increase so rapidly we have to do something and every swarm of bees that leaves this hive must have a queen at their lead. She picks out the next home site and her followers build the hive for her. I must get busy. Goodbye." Then without another word, Mr. Bee sailed away.

Dicky and Happy Giggles watched the swarm of bees around the beehive awhile, then they wandered on through the weeds to play.

OPPOSITION TO N.H.L. CIRCUIT

International "Pro" League Offers Detroit Franchise—Coliseum Leased?

A RIVAL LOOP.

DETROIT, May 15 (Canadian Press).—The International Hockey League, which is said to be in a formative stage, backed by New York and Chicago promoters "to fight what they term Tex Rickard's monopoly in the National Hockey League," has offered a franchise for a Detroit team to E. P. Strong, of Cleveland. Strong made this statement Friday in connection with his announcement of leasing the Coliseum at the state fair grounds here for 20 years at an annual rental of $50,000 for a winter amusement place.

Two weeks ago two Detroiters, Morris Friedberg and Morris Caplan, announced the purchase of the Victoria Cougars, champions of the Western Hockey League last winter, for $100,000. The purchase was made following assurance given at a meeting of the National Hockey League at Montreal that the Friedberg-Caplan interests would be granted a franchise in that circuit. Actual award of the franchise was put over to another meeting of the League, after the constitution had been changed to permit admission of Detroit, along with Chicago, as League members.

Tex Rickard, it was said in hockey circles here, is behind Chicago's request for a franchise in the National League. He owns the New York club in that League. Chicago interests are said to be planning co-operation with Strong to establish a rival loop.

The Coliseum, Strong said, will be equipped with ice-making equipment capable of caring for two hockey rinks. The arena, he said, will accommodate 10,000 spectators for hockey and 14,000 for boxing. Indoor polo will also be included in the repertory of sports.

In 1906 when the Cambridge eight were matched for a race against Harvard on the Thames, the Englishmen suddenly found they wanted a bigger boat for their heavy crew. So they sent a hurry order to the firm which for several generations has constructed the boats for the English varsity races. Six men were put on the job and the new shell was designed and completed in four and one-half days.

GREAT CROWDS IN LOUISVILLE

Kentucky Derby Attracts Race Followers By Thousands To-day.

RUM RUNNERS, TOO.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 15 (Canadian Press).—Keyed to the highest pitch, packed to overflowing with thousands of visitors from all sections of the land, Louisville last night awaited to-day's dawn and post time for the 52nd renewal of the kentucky Derby, for which 17 of the finest three-year-old colts in the nation have been entered.

Excellent weather — clear and warm and dry—appeared to be in prospect, and that arm of the Federal Government known as the "weatherman," was backed up by another, also bent on dryness of his own kind—the well-known prohibition director. His forces have been busy, working for aridity, too. Plenty of little fellows who would make it a "wet" derby have been rounded up, and yesterday two men, giving their names as Harry Cole, 25, and Donald Bruton, 24, were arrested, charged with trying to bring in 18 cases of "Canadian" whiskey from Florida.

Colonel E. R. Bradley, of Lexington, Ky., is the only owner who will start more than one colt in the classic. He named three to start, and his entry shares with W. R. Coe's Pompey in the favoritism of the crowd. Pompey had more backers and the odds were a little shorter than on the Bradley entry that is headed by the Ace, Bubbling Over. Baggen Baggage and Boot to Boot, the pair running one-two in the Louisiana Derby, comprise the rest of the Bradley entry. There are thirteen others.

Sande May Not Ride.

Earl Sande, premier jockey of the United States, who rode Zev to victory in 1923 and Flying Ebony in 1925, faces the probability of watching the race from the rail. He was not given a mount in the first list of probable jockeys. Eleventh hour changes may give the twice winner a chance at his third Derby win, a feat no jockey has ever accomplished.

There is the chance that Colonel Bradley may duplicate his feat of 1921, when his entry, Behave Yourself and Black Servant, finished one-two. On only one other occasion, in 1919, has an owner sent the winner and place horses to the post, that was Commander J. K. L. Ross, Canadian sportsman, with Sir Barton and Billy Kelly.

No fillies or geldings were ready for the race. The strength and stamina necessary to carry 126 pounds once and a quarter around the mile oval is so great that on one occasion only has a filly worn the rose wreath of victory, and in only five of the fifty-one previous races has a gelding led the field.

CANADIANS ENTER BALTIMORE RACE

BALTIMORE, Md., May 15 (Canadian Press) — Marthon's national A. A. U. crown will descend on a new brow in the Laurel-Baltimore run today. Chuck Mellor, of Chicago, last May's A. A. U. champion over the 26 miles, 385 yards route is not defending his title, with the exception of Meller, however, and John C. Miles, the 18 year old Canadian who established a new world's record at Boston last month, marathon's stardom is here.

Clarence H. Demar, of Melrose Highlands, Mass., Albin Stenroos, who carried the colors of the Finnish-American A. C. of New York to second place at Boston and Albert (Whitey) Michelson, of the Cygnet A. C., Portchester, Conn., were ruling favorites tonight to don the laurel wreath.

Three Canadians will run in the race. They are Arthur Scholes, former Canadian champion, representing the Gladstone A. C., Toronto; Percy Wyer, who carried the colors of the Monarch A.C., of Toronto, to victory at Detroit in April, and Francis T. O'Donnell, who will carry the colors of the Canadian National Recreation Club of Montreal.

Inside Sporting Dope

By A Wise Cracker

Mister Sporting Editor:

It looks to me, Mac, as how the Lakefield or Havelock hockey teams stands a good chance of being selected to represent Canada in the next Olympic Games. With the pros picking up the Simmon-pures right and left, the Big Six Western group threatening to turn professional and the O.H.A. taking a can on every boy which shifted his base since last season, amateur puckchasers will be as scarce as short skirts when next winter arrives, and the teams in the villages will be about all that'll be left.

This is moving week in hockey circles—or at least it used to be. The annual jumping has been sadly cramped this year by a moral reform wave hitting the O.H.A., which has broke out in the form of nasty telegrams from Mister Billy Hewitt, usually a mild-mannered bird, but which has been keeping the wires hot the last few days with messages to ambitious hockeyists telling them if they was thinking about moving to stay where they are, and if they has moved to jump back again before the 15th. And the wires all wound up, "And I don't mean maybe." Mister Hewitt may be bluffing, but they's a mean sound to his telegrams, and the trouble is, you gotta wait until next Nov. to find out.

PETERBORO IS HIT.

To some extent the Peterboro hockey team has been hit by this unusual activity on the part of the O.H.A. 2 nice young fellows from Oshawa was figgering on paying their poll tax here this year, but Mister Hewitt's billy doos kinda changed the sketch, and the chances is that only 1 of the pair will be with us. How the heck can the O.H.A. object to anybody from Oshawa getting themselves a job somewhere else when only a coupla weeks ago about 2,000 Oshawa folks paid 20 bucks a piece to go down to Ottawa to tell the Government they was all losing their jobs, and that the whole town was only 1 jump ahead of the bailiff? You can't blame a coupla young fellows for leaving a place when every 1 there says she's dead and they're just waiting for the undertaker.

And will you tell me, Mac, if the hockey bosses is going to be just as strict about the way the boys in Toronto shift around? If the clamps is going to be put on the boys round the Province while an all-star team is being built up in Toronto to clean up the Allan Cup serious and win a trip to the Olympic Games, the howl that will be caused will be worst than what the automotive industry raised the day the Budget was brought down. The lads from the sticks has been making a doormat outa the Toronto O.H.A. teams the past few seasons, but if the O.H.A. bars every player which changes from city to city and lets the Toronto athletes locate where they like, they might be a difference. However, time and the sporting page will tell, and meanwhile we'll hafta give the O.H.A. credit for that their policy will be the same in Toronto as out.

The boys in the Western loop is talking about a professional league, seeing the O.H.A. won't let them run 1 under the association's name. They'll make a horrible mistake if they ever let the idea get beyond the talk stage. A pro league under such conditions won't last no longer than the crossword puzzle craze, and the magnates which attempt to finance such a proposition will turn grey the 1st season. Surely they haven't forgot the old Ontario Professional League and the fine lemon that turned out to be.

SIR HENRY A HOCKEY SCOUT.

By the way, Mister Sporting Editor, I see by the papers that Stratford has ½ dozen or 7 new players from all over the map, and they was all moved there by the Canadian National Railway. It looks like Sir Henry Thornton was the most successful hockey scout in the business, judging by the names which is included in the Stratford list, but they is likely to be political complications if this kinda thing keeps up. 1 of these days the order paper in the House of Commons will contain a bunch of questions, something like this, from Tommy Church:

1. Has the Government any knowledge of Sir Henry Thornton being connected with the Stratford Hockey Club?
2. Does the Government know 6 or 7 players have been moved to Stratford by the C.N.R.?
3. If so, what are their ages; do they shoot left-handed or right; and how did they vote in the last election? .....
4. What action does the Government contemplate in regard to these players?

However, you gotta hand it to Stratford. That C.N.R. transfer alibi was a good trick if they getta way with it, and it's a good trick if they don't. Just at present the odds is that they don't, but they deserve credit for originality anyhow, and it taint no crime to try.

THE BALL SEASON.

The Central Ontario League ball season gets started next Wed. when the Petes play the Ponies in their new grounds, the Richardson Stadium, ir. Kingston. Harry Batstone and "Bubs" Britton of the Ponies has booted many a ball there in the football season, and here's hoping they boot many more this summer. Shiner Johnston's team ain't exactly in mid-season form, and may not be at full strength for the opening clash, but the boys is hopeful of starting the season on the right foot. Young Mister Jeff Hardill will likely be called on to go to the heaving mound in the opening fixture, and the youngster is in good shape for the fray. Just how Mister Johnston will line up his athletes has not yet been announced, but he expects to have a array of talent that'll give Joe Daley and his Ponies a lively argument. Locally the season'll likely open with a visit from a Toronto team on May 24th, followed by the Belleville crew for the 1st league game on the following Saturday.

Kingston has a coupla new men this season, but it's doubtful whether they will make up the retiring of Somerville, the Ponies' star second sacker. "Somer" knew his onions about as well as any 1 in the league, and he was a fast, sure fielder and a hard hitter, and Mister Daley and his men will miss him.

Well, Mister Sporting Editor, by next week they oughta to be quite a bit to tell the customers about baseball, and in the meantime I'll put the brakes on.

Sportfully yours,
A. WISE CRACKER.

FIRST VICTORY FOR AUSTRALIA

Defeated Hants By Ten Wickets at Southampton.

IN GREAT FORM.

LONDON, May 15. Canadian Press Cable. — Having drawn three of their games and been compelled to abandon one, the touring Australian cricketers finally succeeded in chalking up a victory when they overcame Hampshire on Friday by ten wickets.

This was the first win for the Antipodeans since they opened their season against the minor counties at Maidenhead on April 29th. Since then they had played Leicester, Essex and Surrey, the second game being abandoned due to rain.

From the beginning of the contest at Southampton, it was evident that the Australians were in fine form; seven of their batsmen got double figures, with Gregory securing over a century.

Hampshire did badly in the first innings but pulled up considerably when they followed on, reaching a total of 248 in the second frame.

Brown and Mead, who had begun a steady partnership before the stumps were drawn Thursday, were expected to continue strongly today and Hampshire pinned their hopes on this pair. Misfortune befell Brown however before he was able to add a single run to his score and he was caught by Ellis off Everett's bowling.

Mead did little better, contributing only eight more runs before he was taken leg-before-wicket to Macartney. Hampshire's morale then suffered a relapse. Romell and Kennedy were dismissed in quick succession and Britton began what looked like a promising career. Whsn Hill had fallen to Mailey for zero, Cross came on the scene, only to be stumped by Ellis. The Hampshire wicket-keeper, Livsey, got away to an encouraging start, and contributed the largest score of the day for Hants, but he also went the way of his confreres at 32.

Retired at exactly the four century mark, Hants took the field with the Australians again at bat. Ryder and Taylor found the going easy; only 30 runs were required to win the game and these two acquired them rapidly. When they had scored three more than the necessary count the game was ended, Australia securing the laurels by ten wickets.

Australia (first innings) 371; Gregory, not out, 130; Taylor 73.

Hampshire (first innings) 152; Bowell, 46.

Hampshire (second innings) 248; Brown 78; Head 46; Livsey 32.

Australia (second innings) 33 for no wickets.

Total: Australia 404, ten wickets to go.

Hampshire 400 for two innings, all out.

County Matches.

In county cricket Friday play was marred by bad weather in the Midlands and in Wales. Three games were abandoned, one at Worcester, where the home club was engaged with Yorkshire, one at Leicester, against Warwickshire, and the third at Glamorgan against Lancashire.

The totals up to abandonment were:

Yorkshire, 34 for six wickets.
Warwickshire, 144, all out.
Glamorgan, 137 for seven wickets.

Concluded games were staged at Lord's, where Middlesex defeated Somerset by nine wickets. Somerset's innings brought them 319 in the first and 106 in the second. To this Middlesex responded with 238 in the opener and no less than 190 for one wicket in the succeeding frame. Some heavy scoring featured the play with Young and Hunt outstanding for Sorerset. Young's total reached exactly 100 while Hunt hit 70 not out.

For Middlesex two centuries were featured, one by Hendren, who secured 104 and the other by G. T. S. Stevens with 102, not out. In Middlesex second innings Hendren contributed 71 not out.

At Nottingham, Notts defeated Essex in the first innings. The visitors rang up 146 and 102 for three wickets, while Notts, declared the game closed when they stacked up 254 for four wickets. The scorers were Russell who secured 66 not out for Essex, and Whysall of Notts with 117 not out.

HELPFUL HINTS TO GOLFING STARS

BY SPECIAL ARRANGEMENT WITH GOLFERS MAGAZINE, CHICAGO.

JOCK HUTCHISON—CAUSE OF SLICE.

There are two ways of slicing. The intentional is made by taking the open stance, with the left foot well back. The two "V's" formed by the thumb and fore-finger of each hand should be so much on top in such a position that one cannot see the knuckles of either hand. The shot is made by cutting the club-head in toward the left or in the direction that the ball should not take. Players who use their left hand a great deal more than the right will be inclined to slice, as this hand has a tendency to pull the club in.

There is another way the duffer has of slicing that is very aggravating and exceedingly hard to correct, as it is done mostly with the body.

The body going into the shot too quickly pushes the hands on ahead so fast that they are far in advance of the club-head. The ball is hit before the club has had a chance to whip through. The ball is half shoved and half pushed to the right with a spin that carries it further in that direction.

No good golfer would attempt to imitate this sort of shot.

Diamond Disputes Decided

BILLY EVANS

What is the status of a substitute player who enters a game without informing the umpire of the fact?

The impression is rather general that unless a substitute inform the umpire of his entrance into the game it is not legal.

This erroneous belief is due to the fact that the player is supposed to first report to the umpire. In league baseball there is a fine of $25 for failure on the part of the substitute to do this.

While failure to properly report to the umpire is confusing and creates many disputes, it often happens and the rules regard it as legal.

The substitute, if a pitcher, is considered in the game the moment he takes his position on the rubber; if a fielder, when he takes the place in the field of the man he substitutes for; if a batsman, the moment he gets into the batter's box; if a runner, when the substitute replaces him on the base he is holding.

In such cases any play made by or on such unnounced substitute shall be legal.

MOVIGRAPHS

HOLLYWOOD, May 15.—This motion picture business has outgrown its nurse's arms. It's getting downright seriously big. Here are the facts and figures:

Upward of $67,000,000 a year is being spent by the industry to advertise its wares. Newspapers are the chief gainers, says Will Hays.

Eight hundred and eleven feature pictures are being planned for 1926-27. During the last year 696 of such pictures were produced. Hardly a week goes by without the birth of an outstanding production.

Free casting bureaus have replaced the old "extra lines" at the studios, and these bureaus have placed 60,000 people since the first of the year.

Echoes of "The Good Old Summer Time," "Bedelia," "Rings on My Fingers," and "Yip-I-Addy"! Who do you suppose is in the movies now? Why, it's Blanche Ring, herself.

Miss Ring, who comes of a family boasting three generations of stage folk, made her debut at 16 as Chauncey Olcott's leading woman. As a singing comedienne, she captured Broadway, and her name became known from coast to coast.

She's to be Tessie, a designing spinster in W. C. Fields' "It's the Old Army Game" (meaning, never give a sucker an even break).

Gene Tunney has dropped in for a picture. The heavyweight battler, while keeping in trim for a shot at Dempsey's noble headgear, will star in one of those red-blooded action serials. Tunney will portray an ex-Marine, who upholds the tradition of that branch of the service "the first in and the last out." Tunney was a "devil dog" during the war.

Dimitri Buchowitzki will direct Emil Jannings' first American picture. The famous German dramatic star is to arrive in September. The picture will be "A Thief of Dreams," based on Richard Connell's story "A Friend of Napoleon," which appeared in the Saturday Evening Post. Buchowitzki directed three of Jannings greatest pictures in Germany, "Peter the Great," "Othello," and "All for a Woman."

More than 1000 people applied recently for an opportunity to appear in Gloria Swanson's new picture, "Fine Manners." Half of them were chosen for a big scene.

Although Much Lighter, Georgian Wins Decisive Victory.

NEW YORK, May 15 (Canadian Press).—W. L. (Young) Stribling administered a drubbing last night to Johnny Risko, Cleveland heavyweight, in a slashing 10-round battle in Madison Square Garden. Fifteen thousand fans saw the 21-year-old Georgian spot his opponent 14 1-2 pounds in weight, then cut loose with an attack that smothered and harassed the Clevelander almost from start to finish. Stribbling outboxed, outfought and outgeneralled Risko, had him groggy under smashing rights to the chin in both the fifth and seventh rounds and at the end carried off the judge's verdict by a decisive margin.

BOY SCOUT NEWS

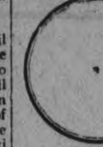
Tenderfoot Tests (2.)
Know the Scout Signs.

They are used when you are following a trail or are acting as advance guard or scout, to guide the scouts or party following you, so that they will not take the wrong road. The best way to make them is to scratch them on the right hand side of the road, using a stick. Chalk may be used, but should not be used too much. There is a tendency to make too many signs if you use chalk and you may place a mark on a fence or gate and the owner will object. If you are following a road, don't make signs all along the road, but wait till you reach a corner or a branch and then make it. Of course if you leave the road, be sure to mark the place. You can place your signature under the sign, by drawing the head of your patrol annual and your number in the patrol. This identifies the maker of the sign and shows those following, that they are on the right trail.

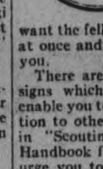
The following are the Scout Signs, and what they mean:

(1) "This road to be followed," is indicated by an arrow. It is really self-explanatory and needs no further comment.

(2) "This road not to be followed," is indicated by a cross. When you come to a cross roads or a Y in the road, place an arrow on the road you follow and a cross on the roads you don't use.



(3) "Letter hidden 3 paces from here in the direction of the arrow." This is a small square with an arrow on one side of it and the figure 3 in the centre. If your letter is 5 paces away, place the figure 5 in the square. Hide your letter under a stone or piece of wood, or in the crotch of a tree. Don't leave it in the open where others might see it and unknowingly destroy it. If you find a letter not meant for you, replace it exactly as you found it.



(4) "I have gone home." This is a small circle with a dot in the centre. You use this at the end of the trail when you are going back to camp or headquarters, and want the fellows following you to return at once and not waste time looking for you.

There are a large number of Indian signs which are very good and will enable you to give quite a lot of information to others. These are to be found in "Scouting for Boys," and "The Handbook for Canada" and I strongly urge you to get a copy or borrow one and learn them. Your hikes will be much more interesting and you can play some splendid Scout games by using the signs. Looking for the signs, trains you to keep your eyes open all the time and makes you a keen observer.

The Y.M.C.A. Rotary Camp is being carefully planned and will be open almost before we realize it. All boys in Peterboro' have the opportunity of attending, and if your troop is not going to camp, you ought to take advantage of the chance anyway. Your patrol may decide to go. In this case you will come under the supervision of the Y.M.C.A., as far as your meals and programme are concerned; in the words of the army, you will be attached for Duty, Discipline and Rations. On certain days, if your patrol wishes to go on a hike by yourselves, you may do so. Every effort possible will be made to keep your patrol together for meals, games, etc. If you wish, your patrol may have a tent to sleep in. The question of patrols doing their own cooking, presents so many problems and difficulties, that it has been decided not to permit it, except on special days when you go on a patrol hike.

Weekly Game:
"Patrol Horse Race."

Patrols in single file at one end of room, smallest Scout (the jockey) standing beside the P. L. On "Go!" the ockey mounts the back of the P. L. who runs to the end of the room and back. Jockey, without toucheng the floor, changes to the back of the next Scout in line. And so on. If the jockey touches the floor in changing mounts, he is disqualified, or loses a point to his patrol.

GLADIOLI GROW BEST IN SANDY LOAM AND THE LONG DAY'S SUN

A. E. Prest at Horticultural Society Offers Practical Advice For Culture.

IS AFRICA'S GIFT.

A meeting of the Horticultural society was held last night in the council rooms of the Chamber of Commerce. Two fine lectures were delivered by A. E. Prest on the subject of Gladiolus, and by J. S. McGiffin, on the subject of Gardening and its Problems. Dr. Middleton occupied the chair. The attendance was small and it was announced at the end of the meeting that the society had 400 members at present. The campaign is still open for new members and it was stated that it was not too late yet to get your plants from the society.

Mr. Prest.

Gladiolus—

Every one who has ever grown the gladiolus has continued to grow this beautiful flower. The reasons for this are, doubtless, that probably no other flower requires so little care, thrives in such a wide range and variety of soils, is so free from insect pests. In fact no garden flower will stand so much neglect and yet return such a splendid array of bloom as with this summer-flowering bulb. The blossoms of the new types are magnificent in their brilliancy and variety of color and beautiful in form.

The improvement in the gladiolus really started about 1750 with the introduction of some of the hundred and fifty species nature to Southern and central Africa.

The origin and development of the new types of gladioli is a long and intensely interesting story, and for lack of time we will pass over this story as I take it you are more interested in knowing how to grow them to bloom successfully.

We are indebted to many great plant breeders, such as Victor Lemoine, France; Max Leichtlin, of Baden-Baden; Kelways, Grullemans, Childs, N.Y.; Kunderd; Diever and Groff, of Canada and many others for the development of the beautiful "glads" such as we may all grow today.

One of the latest, important crosses was made when the small, vigorous, tropical Maid of the Mist gladiolus (Primulinus), from the Victoria Falls, Africa, was used.

It is a productive species, with slender spikes, hooded, drooping, clear primrose-yellow flowers. The new hybrids have the slender curved, graceful stalks and dainty hooded flowers of the Maid of the Mist. The yellow color blended with other strains has given delicate new tints of salmon, buff, apricot, etc., in an endless variety, and their delicate grace makes them beautiful as cut flowers.

In fact, there is a distinctive beauty in each of the various types—Plain Petal type, Ruffled Petal type, Primulinus type, Lacinatus type (not yet very plentiful).

How to Grow.

Because of the rapidity of increase and the speed with which the corms can be grown, the gladiolus makes a perfect plaything for the amateur gardener.

The gladiolus is classed among the tender bulbs because it cannot stand the frost. It should, therefore, be planted in the spring, after the ground has lost all trace of frost and the bulbs must be dug up in the fall, after the blooming season is over. This, in our season, should be commenced about October 1st.

While the gladiolus may be counted upon to return good for evil in the way of bravely blossoming when neglected, it will respond nobly to care and good feeding. It will give good results in heavy soil, but much better in lighter soils even to almost pure sand.

Best results are secured in sandy loam, which is well supplied with some loose decaying fertilizer. If the gardener is obliged to use heavy stiff soil, he should work in a liberal supply of sand or fine coal ashes and well-decayed, natural fertilizer from the stable.

It is not absolutely necessary to prepare the beds the autumn before, although this is good practise. Fresh fertilizer may be used if plowed in in the fall and allowed to remain rough, just as the plough or spade has thrown it up in large clods. This method leaves the soil in prime condition for spring planting.

The gladiolus does its very best when exposed to full sunshine all day long, and it is poorest in the shade. Many gardens are shady during part of the day, therefore, the sunniest location should be chosen for the glad beds.

With well-prepared beds in sunny locations the success of the plants will depend almost entirely on the quality of the bulbs.

Most people who do not know will give preference to the largest size bulbs. The large size of bulbs does not necessarily mean the bulb with the greatest pep or productivity. The smaller bulbs, possibly two-thirds grown, will invariably give a stronger and more vigorous spike and a finer bloom. Small bulbs properly grown and stored will often produce plants twice as large as those produced by large bulbs which have been improperly handled and cured.

The next step is time for planting. Some seasons, certain varieties may be planted the middle of April, but generally, in our climate, the first week in May is a safe time to start planting and continue a successional planting until June 1st. The object of this is to have a succession of bloom, continuing for about two months. The largest size bulbs should be planted about four inches deep and six inches apart in the rows. The smaller bulbs according to size may be planted two to three inches deep and closer together in the rows. The rows should be 18-ins. apart if possible. The object of this is so that the gardener can cultivate freely and thoroughly with the five-prong hand cultivator.

Cultivate thoroughly between the rows. Soil should be kept light and moist by weekly cultivation. Too much water is not good for the plants in the growing period. Frequent cultivation will do more to stimulate active vigorous spikes than any other factor, water will be required through the blooming season, but when watering, give a thorough sprinkling, so that it will soak in to some depth.

Varieties to Grow.

For exhibition and show purposes, one's fancy turns to the large type plain and ruffled forms. Included in your collection you would not pass over some of the old varieties such as Mrs. Frank Pendleton, Loveliness, Prince of Wales, Le Marshal Foch, Mrs. Francis King. These will stand the test of time for years to come.

Among some of the newer named varieties we will surely select Crimson Glow, Mrs. F. C. Peters, Louise, Byron L. Smith, Purple Glory, Purple Perfection, Golden Measure, Gold Anna Eberius, E. J. Shaylor, Pink Wonder, Rose Ash, Sheila, Mary Pickford, Evelyn Kirkland, Giant Nymph, joe Coleman, Mrs. Dr. Norton, Crinkles, etc. One could go on naming very desirable varieties by the hundred.

For decorative and landscape work be sure and include in your collection some of the beautiful Primulinus Hybrids. These are becoming deservedly popular, their dainty form and magnificent blending of colors appealing and some of the newer ones on the market have a charm and a blending of color that is distinctive. Some of these are: Alice Tiplady, Jewell Myra, Salmon Beauty, Maiden's Blush, Gold Drop, Asia, Ming Toy, Souvenir, etc.

While the gladiolus looks beautiful in the open garden, no other flower excels them as cut bloom. Cut them freely for the home, the sick room, the hospitals and for cemetery decoration. When cutting always leave four or five leaves on the spike to give the bulb a chance to mature.

By all means grow them by their named varieties. Label each variety carefully in the row. It will add to your pleasure and enjoyment to be able to call them by name at the blooming season and to be able to say to your friends this is Mrs. Frank Pendleton, Mrs. Dr. Norton, Byron L. Smith, etc.

Finally, learn to love them. A thing of beauty is a joy forever. We all believe in this truth. A beautiful flower is like a little child. The more we love them, the more attention we will give them, protecting them from all things that are injurious or harmful. And the more attention we give to this fact of nurture and cultivation in our flower garden, in like proportion to our love and care shall we behold in the gladiolus a thing of beauty and a joy forever.

The second speaker of the evening was J. S. McGiffin, of the "Farm and Dairy." Mr. McGiffin spoke on the subject—"Gardening and Its Problems," and he divided this subject into two heads, "What to Grow, and How to Grow It." If you can answer these questions said the speaker, you will get along well in gardening.

What to Grow.

The first thing a man must consider is the amount of space he has to grow his garden in, for he can grow a much larger variety of plants on a 20-acre plot than on a small plot, for on a small piece you do not want to fill it up with shrubs, but you should choose the best thing that will show to the greatest advantage. It is never wise to experiment with plants of unknown hardiness on small pieces of land for the plant may not survive and then you have no garden but you should always choose something that you know will do well, and as for soil, try to find plants that will do well in your particular kind of soil, said the speaker.

Then again the cost of material enters into consideration. Everyone always wants new varieties but new varieties are always expensive, and it is just a question whether you derive any more out of this new variety than out of some of the old varieties said Mr. McGiffin. Then it is a question of a man's likes and dislikes for, if you like a certain kind of plant you will spend much time in cultivation of the same. If you want a change of garden each year you should plant annuals, or plants which last only one year, but these require more labor and time. Perennials last for two or more years, but they have to be cultivated if you want to have them permanent. These perennials always should have a place in any garden that is worthy of being called such. A few shrubs should be grown, such as mock oranges and lilacs. Another type which should be found in everybody's garden is the climber. These may be either annual or perennial, but they never do well when exposed on a south wall as they get early growth and catch the late frosts.

How to Grow Them.

The speaker said it was impossible to lay down a hard and fast rule but planting generally speaking is better to be done in the spring, for that is the time when the plant is as nearly dormant as possible and thus does not receive any great shock. When you plant in the fall, the flower is exposed to frost, heaving and other winter conditions. In the spring they always get to a better start. When you come to plant you ought to make a good large hole and spread the roots out as much as possible, firm the soil well around the roots of the plant as the plants never grow unless the roots are in close contact with the soil. It is usually better to germinate the seeds in light soil in a hot bed and then transfer the plant into a heavier soil. The cultivation is the major thing in having a good garden, as in cultivating the soil is aired, and the small organisms are stimulated. The best fertilizer is well-rotted manure, and on most garden soils you cannot use too much of it In the case of chemical fertilizers you have to be very careful in the use of them.

THEATRE

AT THE CAPITOL.

LADY WINDEMERE'S FAN.

"Lady Windermere's Fan," the Ernst Lubitsch production for Warner Bros. of Oscar Wilde's immortal dramatic classic, which is opening at the Capitol Theatre on Monday, is a flashing story of England's fashionable aristocracy. Although the play is over a quarter of a century old, it is so in step with modern thought that its clever plot and witty characters are perennially fresh.

Mrs. Erlynne, (played by Irene Rich, a woman of many indiscretions, has returned to England after many years sojourn abroad. Wishing to take her place in fashionable society, she hits upon the birthday party of Lady Windermere, her daughter, as a suitable occasion.

Lady Winderemere (May McAvoy) is ignorant of the fact that Mrs. Erlynne is her mother, and when Lord Windermere (Bert Lytell), under pressure from Mrs. Erlynne, asks his wife to invite her, she refuses. By mistake, Mrs. Erlynne comes anyway and meets with a frigid reception. Her charm soon wins over the guests and she fascinates Lord Augustus (Edward Martindel) in spite of himself.

Later Lord Darlington (Ronald Colman), a friend of the Windermeres in love with Lady Windermere, discovers that Lord Windermere has visited Mrs. Erlynne. Darlington tells Lady Windermere her husband is unfaithful and persuades her to elope with him. She leaves for his apartment only to find there Mrs. Erlynne, who has discovered her plans and wants to make her go home. The quarrel, but when Darlington, Windermere and a number of other gentlemen arrive unexpectedly, they both are driven to hiding.

Winderemere sees his wife's fan and accuses Darlington of having his wife there. He is about to search the place when Mrs. Erlynne sacrifices her future by appearing and claiming the fan.

Still ignorant of their relationship, Lady Windermere appreciates the sacrifice and gladly returns to her husband. It is he who now condemns Mrs. Erlynne and she who champions her cause.

Lord Augustus as been unable to forget the fascinating Mrs. Erlynne, despite the disgrace of finding her in Darlington's apartment. She has also fallen in love with him and at last he proposes to her. Finally she finds happiness in his love and the knowledge that, without revealing her relationship, she has saved her daughter from the mistake that had ruined her own life.

The race track scene in "Lady Windermeer's Fan" were filmed in Toronto, Canada. The track there is an exact replica of the Epsom Downs in England, where the scene in the play takes place. In this way it was possible to secure the genuine atmosphere of a British race track, because in Canada, as in England, the turns are on the right instead of on the left as on the American race tracks.

AT THE REGENT

HUNTLY GORDON AND IRENE RICH IN NEW PICTURE.

Gertie Wentworth-James's popular novel has been picturized by Warner Bros., and "The Wife Who Wasn't Wanted" will begin a three days' run on Monday at the Regent Theatre.

It is a domestic drama which reviewers in other cities have heralded as a sincere and convincing story of a mother's sacrifice for her son.

Huntly Gordon, Irene Rich, and John Harron play the leading roles of John Mannering, district attorney; his wife and his son Bob. They present a happy family picture which is threatened when Judge Bledsoe (Wilfred Lucas) comes to plead that Mannering use his influence to save his son, who has been arrested for speeding. Mannering refuses; and that night their son Bob, in a party with Diane Bledsoe (Elinor Fair) is forced into reckless driving by the girl, and a woman passenger is killed.

Fuel, Tire and Repair Bills Shrink on Concrete Roads

Permanent concrete highways reduce the cost of motoring. They cut the costs that hit the motorist hardest — fuel, tires and repairs. This fact, proved by actual test, is only incidental to their outstanding value as tax-savers.

Concrete roads cost practically nothing to maintain. Traffic and the elements have little or no effect on their rugged endurance. Concrete paving therefore means that each year's appropriation can be devoted almost en bloc, to what is after all the primary object of the taxpayer and motorist —the building of new mileage.

Concrete roads save money for the taxpayer and for the motorist and help the prosperity of every community through which they run.

"It's the little they cost to maintain that makes Concrete Highways economical."

Y.W.C.A. HOLDS ANNUAL MEETING

Excellent Work Being Done by the Various Officials.

The annual meeting of the Young Women's Christian Association, held last evening in the gymnasium, was well attended and interesting. Reports of various activities, which will appear in full in later issues, were given, and a musical programme presented, followed by the service of refreshments, in charge of the social convenor, Mrs. R. W. Cormack, a tour of the building and a visit to the swimming pool.

Devotional exercises were led by Rev. J. D. Richardson, followed by remarks by the president, Mrs. T. Cruickshank, in which she mentioned in congratulatory terms the excellent work done by various officials and departments of the Association, referring to the general secretary, Miss Leta Brownscombe; the house superintendent, Mrs. E. Morrison; the physical director, Miss C. Littlefield; the assistant secretary, Miss M. Storey; the various volunteer workers: Miss M. Hamilton, in charge of the English literature classes; Miss M. Harvey, cooking classes, and Miss Thomlinson, Bible study classes. Club leaders, The Examiner for publicity in its columns, subscribers and helpers in various activities were also thanked.

The report of the Nominating Committee was presented by Mrs. F. E. Harvey, the financial report by Miss E. Morrow, and the general report by the secretary, Miss L. Brownscombe.

A very pleasing programme included vocal solos by Miss Bertha Hill, a whistling solo by Miss Mignon Mayneord, and a stunt, "A Word to the Wise," with the following members in the cast: The Misses Florence Waudby, Marion Bowerman, Verda Graham, Whipple McIlmoyle, Hazel Jackson, Rachael Arbey, Lillian Nesbitt, Violet Perver, Margaret Storey, and Miss C. Littlefield. The story of the stunt was read by Mrs. F. McNeely. A group of four pageant dances was also given, including the Highland Fling, Butterfly, Peter Pan and the Flower Fairies and the Vintage dance.

An address on Y.W.C.A. work in general, with particular reference to industrial work, was given by Miss Bertha Hamilton of Toronto, and was very much enjoyed. Miss Hamilton, who is a member of the National Committee for "Y" industrial work, spoke of the general work of the Association, and of the manner in which varying needs of varying communities were met by the workers. Industrial work in Canada has opened up a special field in the Y.W.C.A. work, and although the Dominion has not the same problems to face in industrial life as the older countries, it has the advantage of their experience in such difficulties.

Something has been done in Peterborough by the "Y" along the line of such industrial endeavor, and the Association here is sending one or more representatives to the National Camp to be held at Camperdown, near Georgian Bay, from August 28 to September 6 of this year. Promised delegations are coming from London, Woodstock, Brantford, Toronto, Hamilton, Montreal and Buffalo, N.Y.

BOY SCOUT NEWS

ST. ANDREW'S TROOP

The St. Andrew's Troop got off to a good start last night, and it appears that it will be necessary to have a Pack of Wolf Cubs as well as a Tropp of Boy Scouts. The boys who were on hand for the Scout Troop have started the practices for their Tenderfoot Badges, with the idea of qualifying soon for the positions of Patrol Leaders. Others who have ambitions along this line had better be on hand next Friday night at 7.30 in order to commence work immediately.

It is proposed after the first few evenings of organization to hold the weekly meetings out of doors where Scout games can be played to better advantage. Boys from 8 to 12 years of age who wish to join the Wolf Cubs will meet next Friday at the same time as the Scouts. After that day the hour of meeting will be changed. Scouts meet at 7.30, and are always dismissed at 9 o'clock or before, so that they may reach home early.

A visitor last night was Mr. Hope, Cubmaster of the All Saints' Pack.

Two hundred and sixty-three years ago on the last day of April Samuel Pepys wrote in his diary something like this

"Lord! what a stir Stankes makes, with his being crowded in the streets, and wearied in walking in London, and would not be wooed . . . to go to a play nor to White Hall, or to see the lyons, though he was carried in a coach. I never could have thought there had been upon earth a man so little curious in the world as he is."

The tremendous gusto with which this Pepys himself lived made him a most unfit subject for ennui. He was practically proof against any form of boredom. He may have been, as our friend Harvey Heavydome insists, a shallow fellow who live a superficial life in a fool's paradise of pseudo-sophistry—and then, again, he may not: but even if he was, he made an admirable job of living, and for that we honour him.

How we would like to see things surrounded by the glamour through which he saw them! If he walked abroad, he was sure to see something to interest him. Or, rather, was it possible for him to see something that didn't interest him? He had no less pleasure in beholding a good painting because he had seen an enjoyable play. He had none the less delight in seeing a beautiful woman because he had seen a beautiful sunset. He found as keen excitement in a lovely piece of furniture or some strange curio as he found in the latest cravat, a new example of the culinary art, or in the latest book. He was no whit less a jolly fellow over the wine cups or charming partner on the dance floor because he enjoyed good music and appreciated an accomplished musician. Although he gloried in the teeming life of the great city with its throngs, its sights, its sounds, its thrill, and its throb: and although he loved to walk or coach through its paved or cobbled thoroughfares,—yet none appreciated more than he did a holiday in the country or on the sea with the free and exultant beauty of nature uncaged.

Nevertheless, he was by no means your professional optimist: he knew when "the venison pasty was palpable mutton." But he had the rare knack of approaching a thing in a friendly manner—almost naive at times,—not with the "you've-got-to-show-me-first" spirit of the Missouri Mule. Everything was worthy of his attention until it had proved itself unworthy. He was the ideal man-about-town: he didn't consider an elegantly semi-suppressed yawn a necessary adjunct to the gentleman's wardrobe.

I don't think Pepys was a usual type of man even in the day of the Merry Monarch. Perhaps he was a "confidential old sinner," but he had an exhilarating way about him.

* * *

Now that the incomparable Senorita Raquel Meller has come at long last to New York, may we not dare to entertain the hope that spring will come eventually to Ontario?

. . . Mademoiselle Printemps, however, like most coquettes, becomes increasingly capricious as she grows older.

The Proxy Playgoer notes that Mr. Winthrop Ames has revived Gilbert and Sullivan's "Iolanthe" on Broadway in such a manner as to leave critics and connoisseurs superlativeless. . . . Mirabile dictu!

And since revivals seem to have been in order for some time back, Walter Hampden's offering of Rostand's "Cyrano de Bergerac"—more superlatives, please!—and Helen Hayes in the Maude Adams role in Barrie's "What Every Woman Knows" are quite what one would have expected.

But if the Proxy Playgoer were to take a trip to the Big Town just now, he would not miss that weird affair, "The Great God Brown." That's Eugene O'Neill, again.

As far as the musical comedy is concerned, "Sunny" seems to be up on top of the heap. But then the original company of "No, No, Nanette" still holds forth on the White Way. . . . Do we have to put up with another established institution?

* * *

We entertained an Established Institution ourselves not long since, in the person of Sir John Martin-Harvey. Sir John can make even the extravagant heroics of the second act of a Dumas romantic drama seem real . . . which is high praise indeed. But, say what you will, there was something about that play of "The Corsican Brothers" that gripped and held long, long after the final curtain. Whether it was due entirely to the splendid acting of Sir John or not, I cannot say.

* * *

Which leads us to say that only a small minority of Peterborough playgoers is able to achieve the discinction of coming late. But if these easy nonchalants are few in number, they are remarkably efficient in noise.

MILLBROOK W.M.S. MEETINGS ARE HELD

United and Presbyterian Societies Hold Gatherings During Week.

MILLBROOK, May 15.— The Women's Missionary Auxiliary of Grace Presbyterian church held its May meeting in the Sunday school room on Wednesday afternoon, the large attendance being a most encouraging feature of the gathering.

The president, Mrs. R. J. Doak, was in the chair, and the Scripture lesson, from the 20th chapter of John's gospel, was taken up under the heading of "Faith", each member having a selected passage to read when called upon. This constituted the answer of the roll-call, the word for next months being "Strength."

The study-book, "Prayer and Missions", the third chapter of which was taken up by the question and answer method, the president asking the questions and the following five members responding: Mrs. T. Ingram, Mrs. C. Thorndyke, Mrs. J. N. McGill, Mrs. S. E. Eakins and Mrs. Doak.

The Bible reading was from the book of Ephesians. An effort is made each month to vary the manner of conducting the meeting, and the result has been quite satisfactory. Two minutes of silent prayer followed the Scripture lesson on Wednesday, one of the members leading in audible prayer immediately afterward. Some other plan will be arranged for the June meeting.

After next month, according to its usual custom, the Auxiliary will close until September.

The ladies of the Fallis Line church entertained the Woman's Missionary Auxiliary of the United church, Millbrook, for its May meeting on Wednesday afternoon about thirty members going out by motor to the gathering.

No special group was in charge for this meeting, the main feature being a report of the initial W.M.S. convention for the Cobourg Presbytery. The president, Mrs. Howard, took the chair and the program for the inaugural service was followed for the opening devotional period, Mrs. H. W. Johnston and Mrs. J. McKnight, the other two delegates, assisting Mrs. Howard, Mrs. John Rowland reading the Scripture lesson from John 17. The hymns sung were those used at the convention.

Mrs. A. J. Brown was in charge of the "Watch Tower", two "Heralds", Mrs. John Hatherly and Mrs. R. H. Edmunds, giving interesting items on the work in India and Africa respectively.

Sixty-three Auxiliaries, with a membership of 5,357, are in the Cobourg Presbytery, and Mrs. Johnston gave a comprehensive report of the recent convention.

Mrs. Howard followed giving an outline of the address of Mrs. Barker, a missionary's wife, from Korea, who spoke at the evening session. Not being a salaried worker Mrs. Barker could speak of the unfailing cheerfulness and resourcefulness of the young women who are missionaries in that field—features which the workers themselves never allude to.

"Why the Korean girls in the mission schools so often have Bible names is explained by the fact that, being unwanted in the heathen homes, they are simply called by a number; but when they enter a Christian school the teachers choose for them names, usually from Bible characters. Ask a Korean man, who has no son in his home, but who has two or three daughters, how many children he has, and he will answer 'None'. Girls are of practically no account, and the husband and father reckons his family by the number of sons only."

"We own what we sell," was the final message, implying that we must have a personal experience of the salvation which we desire others to accept before we can be effective workers, and faithful stewards in the Master's service.

Considerable dissatisfaction having developed from the plan, suggested at the last meeting, of making a charge of 25 cents for those who are not car owners when the Auxiliary meets in the country. The matter was again brought up for discussion at the May meeting. Some preferred to pay when they accept a ride in another person's car, but the general feeling was that it was unwise to pursue this course. The money was to go to swell the Auxiliary funds, the annual fee now being fifty cents instead of $1.00 as formerly, or if necessary to rent an extra car should there be a shortage.

However the car owners felt strongly that they did not wish any charge made, and it was pointed out that the Auxiliary has never lacked enough cars to convey the members to any meeting-place outside the village, some better plan could be devised to increase the finances. Hence, after full discussion the motion passed at the April meeting was rescinded.

The ladies of the Fallis' Line appointment served tea and a very pleasant social time was spent before the guests finally left for home.

Miss S. Dean moved the formal vote of thanks to the hostesses, and Mrs. T. H. Aiken was the seconder.

A solo, "Believing Prayer," by Mrs. P. Stinson, sung before the reports were given, was much enjoyed.

Mrs. Gordon Cooke, of Beamsville, a former teacher at Macdonald Hall, Guelph, will be the speaker for the annual series of meeting under the auspices of the Women's Institutes of the district, the dates being as follows: Mount Pleasant, Tuesday, May 18, in the Temperance Hall, at 2.30 p.m.; Bailieboro, Wednesday, May 19, in the Forester's Hall, at 2.30 p.m.; Cavan, Thursday, May 20 at the home of Mrs. J. D. Hunter, at 2.30; Bethany, Friday, May 21, in the Town Hall, at 8 p.m.

Millbrook branch has decided not to have the delegates speak here this year. It is hoped, however, that Mr. Putman may visit the district at a later date, when all the branches will participate in the gathering.

The Subjects of Mrs. Cooke's addresses are: "Balancing Our Lives"; "Cake-Making and Baking"; "School Lunches, and Other Dietetic Problems."; "The Interdependence of Town and Country"; and "Customs and Conventions."

A social hour, with opportunity for personal acquaintance with the visiting speaker and for asking questions, will probably be arranged for in connection with each meeting.

Mrs. T. A. Skitch of Bailieboro, is the district president, and Mrs. J. R. Eakins, Millbrook district secretary.

Amundsen Discovered No New Land In Vast Arctic Region

NOME DISAPPOINTED BY NORGE LANDING AT TELLER HOMES DECORATED AND TRIUMPHAL ARCH ERECTED DIRIGIBLE IS DEFLATED AND WILL BE DISMANTLED

Amundsen and Ellsworth Visit Nome After Launch Trip Norge Reached Teller at 8 P.M. After 71 Hour Flight.

NO MESSAGE FROM THURSDAY TO SATURDAY.

Flags of Three Countries Dropped at Pole on Steel Rods That Remained Upright — Longest Trip By Dirigible.

NOME, Alaska, May 17 (Canadian Press)—Reliable advices received here at 11 o'clock Saturday night, eastern standard time, said that the Amundsen-Ellsworth dirigible Norge has been deflated and is flat at Teller, 75 miles northwest of Nome.

The report said the craft will be dismantled immediately for shipment to the United States.

Launch Trip to Nome

NOME, Alaska, May 17—Captain Roald Amundsen, Lincoln Ellsworth, Captain Oscar Wisting and Lieut. Oskar Omdahl, of the crew of 18 of the dirigible Norge, arrived here from Teller, 75 miles north-west, in the launch Pippin at 5 a.m. Sunday. The Norge reached Teller from Spitzbergen via the North Pole at 8 p.m. Thursday.

The Pippin was dragged fourteen miles to open water, over the frozen bay of Port Clarence at Teller before it could put off for the trip down the Coast of the Bering Sea. It was a cold and gloomy voyage.

Capt. Peterson piloted the little launch in which the quartet left Saturday night to complete the voyage originally planned for the airship from Spitzbergen to Nome.

In Nome's Harbor

A small band of natives and whites from Nome and the surrounding district greeted the transpolar flyers when they arrived at the mouth of the Snake River, seven miles west of Nome. The Snake River, which flows into the Bering Sea, affords Nome its only harbor.

Amundsen was leader of the Arctic flight; Ellsworth second in command, Omdahl and Wisting, especially charged with landing the Norge.

The remaining fourteen men comprising the crew were left at Teller with the big dirigible, which has now been deflated. It is to be made ready for shipment by steamer to the United States.

Nome's Disappointment

A feeling of resentment against Amundsen was expressed by many people of Nome over the failure of the explorer to bring the Norge to Nome after sending a message to Ralph Lomen, Norwegian Vice-Consul, to arrange to have one hundred men ready to help pull the airship to the ground by ropes. This message assured the populace that Nome would be Amundsen's landing place and the Chamber of Commerce went to considerable expense placing a cable and four anchors on the Nome landing field. A triumphal arch was erected on the main street and streamers and banners lined the street while all buildings and homes were decorated. Some persons suggested that the decorations be substituted by crepe.

The public was deeply chagrined, including Amundsen's Norwegian friends.

71-Hour Flight

These friends, which he had made on previous explorations into the Arctic recalled Amundsen's quiet slip out of Nome for Point Wainwright in 1922, on his first Polar expedition. Point Wainwright is 100 miles southeast of Point Barrow, on the Arctic Coast. This undertaking failed when Amundsen's airplane, piloted by Omdahl, was damaged in a take-off from the ice. The Norge landed at Teller 71 hours after having left King's Bay, Spitzbergen, on Tuesday. The air voyage took the dirigible across the North Pole where the explorers dropped the flags of three nations.

After word was received of the passing over the Pole, it was reported the dirigible was seen early Thursday near Point Barrow, the most northern point of Alaska. From Thursday until early Saturday no messages were received from the Norge. It was feared then that a storm might have carried the dirigible far from the Alaskan coast.

Captain Amundsen, Lincoln Ellsworth and Colonel Nobile dropped their countries' flags, mounted banner-like on steel-pointed rods. These rods steered themselves vertically into the ice and remained standing.

The crew took off their caps during the ceremony, and it was a beautiful sight to see the flags against the glittering snow.

Ice formed on the engine gondolas and rigging and dropped off in pieces and was then caught by the propellers and shot through the ship, together with the pieces of ice formed on the propellers themselves.

These were very exciting hours, the crew being engaged continuously in patching up holes in the fabric covering the keel and all the air balloons. The gas bags fortunately had been strengthened to meet this eventuality, but it was doubted that the precautions had been sufficient.

The chance that the propeller blade would bat chunks of ice through the skin of the ship and practically keep them under bombardment had not received sufficient attention. It was not absolutely expected.

Had Minimized Danger

The possibility of such trouble had been suggested but it was minimized. That this danger was suggested but not considered important is shown by a message many weeks ago from Rome which said:

"The gondolas are about four yards from the side of the ship, the tops of the propellers being about twice their diameter from the sides of the gas bag.

"It had been thought that moisture freezing on the propellers might be thrown off in the form of tiny pieces of ice with such force that the bag might be cut, but when this was called to the attention of the Italian constructors, extra strips of fabric were fastened on the sides of the bag."

No one entertained the idea, however, that great chunks of ice might break off from the ship's structure and be driven with terrific force into the body of the ship by the propeller blades.

Similarly, a year ago an unanticipated source of danger nearly caused disaster to the Amundsen-Ellsworth expedition. Motor trouble, exhaustion of fuel, a crash in an attempted landing and other catastrophes were all foreseen.

Elapsed Time for 2,700-Mile Flight

The total distance covered by the Norge in the polar trip, not counting the forced travel out of its course, was approximately 2,700 miles. The different stages of the trip were made in the following approximate elapsed time.

One Case Of Smallpox Appears In Peterboro'

The first case of small pox made its appearance in the city over the week-end, said Dr. T. W. H. Young, city medical officer of health, this morning. Fortunately, he said, the case was a very mild form of the disease, and no other complications were threatened, although every precaution was being taken to guard against any possible outbreak. The only other case of infectious disease in the city at present is one of scarlet fever.

NO LAND SEEN AT NORTH POLE

Few Rocky Islands Set In the Midst of Ice Strewn Water.

BATTLE WITH STORM.

NOME, Alaska, May 17 (Canadian Press).—Lincoln Ellsworth of the Amundsen - Ellsworth trans-Polar expedition, told the Associated Press here to-day that he saw much open water at the North Pole when he and his 17 companions passed over it last Tuesday night in the Norge. This statement by Ellsworth provided an answer to the question that has puzzled geographers and explorers for many years. Mr. Ellsworth said that rocky islands were seen by his party at the Pole, but that these could hardly be considered land.

Battle With Storm.

ROME, May 17 (Canadian Press) — The final lap of the dirigible Norge's flight from Spitzbergen over the North Pole to Alaska was a heroic battle against an Arctic storm of which the result was in doubt until a momentary lull permitted the airship to be landed near Nome. An official account of the flight sent by Commander U. Noble, designer and navigator of the Norge, to Premier Mussolini from Nome this morning reads in part: "Trip from Spitzbergen over North Pole to Alaska was carried out successfully, covering about 5,300 kilometres (3,293 miles) in 71 hours.

"The first part of the Polar flight was accomplished without difficulties, but during the second part, between the Pole and Point Barrow, dangerous ice formations on various metallic parts of the dirigible hindered flying, causing damages which fortunately were not serious because of precautionary measures which I had taken.

From Point Barrow to here, the flight was very difficult because of strong winds and thick fogs which caused deviations toward Behring Straits, making the last few hours of navigation very painful. Profiting by a momentary lull we landed successfully in perfect shape."

Fog Hindered View.

MILAN, Italy, May 17 (Canadian Press). — Definite observations of the unexplored territory between the North Pole and Alaska by the expedition on the Norge was rendered impossible by dense fogs, according to special despatches to the Corriere Della Sera. After passing the Pole and reaching the unexplored territory, those on the airship were able to faintly see that no land existed. Then the fog forced the Norge to rise to a great height, after which for many hours she flew completely blanketed in fog.

THE WEATHER.

Yesterday was another warm Sunday, though not equal to that of a few weeks ago. The highest temperature reached was 75 deg. as compared with 81 on the previous Sunday. Lowest last night 40 degrees.—W. P.

Non-Stop Record By Norge For Semi-Rigid Dirigible

WASHINGTON, May 17. — The flight of the dirigible Norge over 2,750 miles from Kings Bay, Spitzbergen, to Teller, Alaska, constituted the longest non-stop flight ever made by a semi-rigid airship, officials of the Navy Department declared Saturday in praising the success of the transpolar flight.

The entire trip from Rome, Italy, to Spitzgergen, with stops at London, Oslo and Petrograd and the added trip across the Pole was also said by naval officials to be by far the longest trip ever accomplished by a dirigible of the type of the Norge.

The nearest approach to this record, according to naval officials, was the flight of the C-5, an American non-rigid airship, which covered a distance of 1,200 miles in a non-stop flight from Montauk Point, L.I., to St. John's, Newfoundland, in 1919, but was subsequently carried out to sea and lost.

PLAN TO SETTLE LEAGUE TROUBLE

Three More NonPermanent Council Seats To Be Created.

SCHEME APPROVED.

(By Henry Wood, United Press Staff Correspondent.)

GENEVA, May 17.—A plan under which it is believed the controversy which prevented Germany becoming a member of the League of Nations at the recent Geneva meeting will be settled was approved today by the League of Nations Council commission handling the question.

The plan would increase by three the non-permanent memberships on the League Council, of which it was tactitly understood Poland, China and Latin-America would be given one each. The Commission expected to adjourn until June for the final adoption of the plan and also to permit diplomatic exchanges intended to induce Spain and Brazil to withdraw their candidacies for permanent membership. Germany failed to become a League member when a controversy arose over council memberships.

COLONEL MILLS DIES SUDDENLY RITES TUESDAY

Enlisted With First Canadian Contingent and Served in France.

DIED SATURDAY.

Prominent in Military, Political, Civic and Church Affairs.

On Saturday, May 15th, Lieutenant-Colonel Joseph Mills died suddenly at his residence, 451 Hunter street. While he had been suffering from heart trouble for some time, his sudden death is a distinct shock to his family and friends.

He had a long and honorable military career, having received his commission as a second lieutenant in the 57th Regt., Peterboro Rangers, on the 4th of March, 1899. He became Captain in the same year, and Brevet Major on the 28th September, 1909, and obtained his full majority 20th April, 1911.

He enlisted at the outbreak of hostilities and proceeded overseas with the first Canadian contingent and saw active service in France with the famous second battalion, passing through the crucial battles of the war at the Ypres salient. He was gazetted Lieutenant-Colonel 2nd October, 1914, and performed many various military duties during the war.

His medals were the 1914-15 star, General Service, and Victory Medal, and the Colonial and Auxiliary Forces Officers' decoration. He took command of the 57th Regiment, "Peterborough Rangers" on August 8th, 1917.

Colonel Mills had the unique distinction of having both his sons serve with him in the Great War.

He was born at Kingston, March 11, 1861, and on November 8, 1883, married Emma Louisa Claringbold, also of Kingston, who survives him, as do also his sons, Major A. Bruce Mills, of Peterborough, and Samuel V. Mills, now residing in Oshawa, and his daughter, Mrs. Basil D. Hall, of Peterborough.

He served on the council of the Town of Peterborough for several terms, was a staunch Conservative, and always took an active, useful and prominent part in the affairs of the city, province and Dominion.

The late Colonel Mills was a man of genial and kindly disposition, ever-ready to serve to the best of his ability, and endeared himself to a very large circle of friends, who with his family and relatives will sincerely mourn his loss.

In religion he was an Anglican and since coming to Peterborough had been closely identified with the growth and development of the congregation of St. John's Church, acting in various capacities as warden and member of the advisory board and vestry, as well as performing the lesser duties that fell to his lot.

The funeral will take place from the family residence on Tuesday at 2 p.m., proceeding to St. John's church, where a service will be held at 2.45 p.m., and thence to the Little Lake Cemetery, and will be under military auspices.

REBELS REQUIRE TRIAL OF ALL EX-MINISTERS

Court Martial of Cabinet Members Demanded By Marshal Pilsukski.

MANY CASUALTIES.

Civilians Crowded To Watch Fighting and Were Struck By Bullets.

VIENNA, May 17. Canadian Press—Despatches from Warsaw say that Marshal Pilsudski has demanded power to prorogue Parliament for one year. He also has demanded that all members of the retiring government be court martialed. The central committee of the Socialist party has demanded that all "corruptionists' in the Witos Cabinet be punished.

The casualties resulting from the Pilsudski coup d'etat are greater than have previously been admitted, it is learned authoritatively. About 500 persons were killed and 1000 wounded. That so many civilians, including women and children, were among those killed or wounded, is explained solely on the ground that instead of running for cover when the shots were heard the people got within range in their attempts to see what was going on.

4.4 LICENSES NOT RECEIVED

Holders Do Not Know Why New Permits Are Not Issued.

NEW BEER A JOKE.

The Examiner visited the local hotels this morning and inquired about the 4.4 beer licenses which ran out the first of May.

The Department of the Provincial Secretary have not as yet renewed these.

The local proprietors were unable to say why their new permits had not been sent to them.

Some of the hotels who sold 4.4 last year are refusing to sell it this year, and the rest who sold it state that the 4.4 beer has been a joke, and it has hurt their business, as the renovations that had to be done to the bar room were such as to ruin the other trade that they had.

The woman left a black cloth coat with fur collar and a black satin hat on the shore.

A baggage check issued by the New York Central at Buffalo bearing No. 13,083 was found in the water near where the woman had entered.

PERET CONFERS WITH CHURCHILL ON FRENCH DEBT

Hope For Settlement To Improve Exchange Is Discouraged.

DUTIES RAISED.

French Government Would Prevent Export of Farm Produce.

LONDON, May 17. United Press—Raoul Peret, the French Minister of Finance, arrived here from Paris and conferred to-day with Winston Churchill, Chancellor of the Exchequer, on the French debt. He is expected to remain here about three days.

French hopes that a settlement of her debt to Britain may improve the standing of the franc are not encouraged here, where it is pointed out that funding of the French debt to the United States preceded a new crash in the exchange.

The crash incidentally has been responsible for various increases in French export duties on food stuffs, the increases being designed to prevent foreigners from buying farm produce cheaply in France.

POINCARE MAKES BITTER ATTACK ON SOME ALLIES

Former President Says That France is Bearing Cost of War.

CLAIM WHITTLED.

Not Recompensed For Concessions Made To Prove Peaceful Spirit.

SIVRY SUR MEUSE, France, May 17. — Canadian Press. — In a bitter attack on the attitude of France's former allies towards the question of debt settlement Raymond Poincare, the former president of France, denounced on Sunday the spirit of "low national selfishness" prevailing since the war. Speaking at the inauguration of the soldiers' memorial in this village, the former premier recalled how he had reviewed U. S. troops shortly after the armistice. "Those officers and soldiers who marched past me would have been greatly surprised," he said, "if they had been told that a few months later the treaty negotiated and signed at Versailles would not have been ratified by the United States and that seven years later it would not be vanquished Germany but France who would have to bear the greater part of the cost of the war." Painting a section of the allies in unflattering colors, Poincare reviewed the post war history down to and after the occupation of the Ruhr, saying that bit by bit all of France's claims have been whittled down. France had been forced to evacuate the Ruhr to prove to the world her peaceful spirit, he said, "but far from being recompensed by that benevolent concession we were immediately exposed to seeing fresh concessions wrung from us and today our allies put forth a claim to recover before everything else the sums advanced by them in the common interests."

BURGLAR FOILED IN TORONTO STORE

Watchman Arrives Just as They Have Explosives Ready at Safe.

TORONTO, May 17.—(Canadian Press.)—Just as they had everything prepared to blow the safe of Arnold Bros., grocers, Yonge street, last night, burglars were interrupted by the unexpected arrival of Edward Seaman. Seaman arrived at the premises shortly before 10 o'clock with his wife and dog. As he opened the front door, the canine bounded into the store and quickly disappeared into the rear, barking. Immediately Seamon heard sounds of hurrying footsteps overhead. Guessing that there were burglars in the place, he sent his wife post haste for a constable. Going to the office on the second floor the watchman found a hole bored in the safe and wires ready to explode the charge. The burglars escaped by a rear stairway.

TO PAY TAXES IN PETERBORO

Hon. G. N. Gordon Informed of Change in System Here.

INCREASE SHOWING.

Hon. G. N. Gordon told The Examiner to-day that Colonel A. E. Dyment, chairman of the Executive Board of the Canadian General Electric Company, Limited, Toronto, had told him that all sales taxes payable to the Federal Government on Canadian General Electric goods manufactured in Peterborough would be paid to the Peterborough Customs House.

Before this, all sales taxes were paid at the Customs House, Toronto, and the Peterborough Customs House lost the credit of those earnings.

It is expected that this increase of revenue, shown as coming through Peterborough, will place the Peterborough Customs House in a higher classification and indicate more accurately the amount of revenue earned in Peterborough.

BURGLAR FOILED IN TORONTO STORE

Watchman Arrives Just as They Have Explosives Ready at Safe.

TORONTO, May 17.—(Canadian Press.)—Just as they had everything prepared to blow the safe of Arnold Bros., grocers, Yonge street, last night, burglars were interrupted by the unexpected arrival of Edward Seaman. Seaman arrived at the premises shortly before 10 o'clock with his wife and dog. As he opened the front door, the canine bounded into the store and quickly disappeared into the rear, barking. Immediately Seamon heard sounds of hurrying footsteps overhead. Guessing that there were burglars in the place, he sent his wife post haste for a constable. Going to the office on the second floor the watchman found a hole bored in the safe and wires ready to explode the charge. The burglars escaped by a rear stairway.

TO PAY TAXES IN PETERBORO

Hon. G. N. Gordon Informed of Change in System Here.

INCREASE SHOWING.

Hon. G. N. Gordon told The Examiner to-day that Colonel A. E. Dyment, chairman of the Executive Board of the Canadian General Electric Company, Limited, Toronto, had told him that all sales taxes payable to the Federal Government on Canadian General Electric goods manufactured in Peterborough would be paid to the Peterborough Customs House.

Before this, all sales taxes were paid at the Customs House, Toronto, and the Peterborough Customs House lost the credit of those earnings.

It is expected that this increase of revenue, shown as coming through Peterborough, will place the Peterborough Customs House in a higher classification and indicate more accurately the amount of revenue earned in Peterborough.

LIBERAL PARTY CALLS MEETING

Northumberland Executive To Discuss Provincial Political Situation.

CAMPBELLFORD, May 17.—It is evident that the Liberals of Northumberland County, which now constitutes one riding for Provincial as well as for Federal purposes, believe that there will be a Legislative election sometime during the summer, and the organization has commenced preparations for the fray. A. J. Meyers, secretary of the Liberal Association for this riding, has been instructed to call a meeting of the executive to be held at Warkworth on Wednesday afternoon at the Leonard House, when the situation will be discussed and the organization strengthened.

The last re-arrangement of the Provincial ridings by which East and West Northumberland were made one constituency is regarded as a move in favor of the Conservatives as that party has always had a normal majority in the East which is now represented at Toronto by Major J. F. B. Belford, while Sam Clarke represents the western section, a position he has held for the past 28 years without a break, long enough to make him the dean of the Legislature. Mr. Clarke still remains the favorite son of his party and beyond a doubt will receive the unanimous nomination for the united constituency if his health permits him to accept.

DO THIS AFTER SEVERE ILLNESS

How To Speedily Gain Strength and Put on Needed Weight.

Nothing like the wonderful vitalizing vitamines extracted from the livers of the common codfish to help convalescing people to quickly get strong and well—everybody knows that.

So nowadays, medical men who keep up with times are ordering a tablet containing the vitamines that give to frail folks vigor, strength and weight—a tablet that is known as McCoy's Cod Liver Extract Tablet — and it surely has proved a blessing to thousands of people who have been sapped of their natural strength after any severe illness.

Skinny men and women take them to speedily put on plenty of good healthy solid flesh and for this purpose they are so extremely good that thin men and women often take on five pounds in 30 days. As a matter of fact, your druggist will return your money if you don't take on 5 pounds in 30 days.

Great for weak, skinny, backward, run-down children, too, and gives them a hearty appetite.

Be sure and ask for McCoy's, the original and genuine Cod Liver Extract Tablet. McDermid & Jury, and Bond's Drug Store have a big demand for them and millions are sold monthly all over North and South America. They are sugar coated and as easy to take as candy. 60 Tablets—60 cents.

COUNTY ROADS NEED REPAIRS

United Counties Officials Find Many Bad Places To Fix.

A NEAR TRAGEDY.

Campbellford, May 17. — Warden John McCubbin, Reeve Harry Bedal, of Murray Township, Deputy Reeve C. A. Wight of Darlington and Geo. Greer, superintendent of county roads, who constitute the county roads commission for the United Counties of Northumberland and Durham, were here Saturday on their annual spring tour of inspection of the highways under their jurisdiction. The commissioners completed their trip Saturday night after four days of hard travel. Owing to the nature of the season considerable outlay will be required to put the county roads in repair before anything is expended for construction. The bog holes that proved so many traps to autoists during the past few weeks have dried out but many of these places are yet so rough that they remain a menace to traffic. The same conditions prevail on the township roads in this vicinity.

The commission inspected that part of the county highway near Orland where it crosses the creek, and where there are no guards on the sides.

The night before the oxcials' visit there was a near-tragedy at this point when Samuel Dudley of Colborne almost drove his car into the mill pond in turning out to pass another auto. Mr. Dudley's car dropped into a rut, and slewed, but he managed to bring it to a standstill on the very edge of the pond, which is about ten feet deep at this point. This piece of roadway was closed to traffic for some time about two years ago while being repaired and is yet a source of alarm to nervous autoists.

TWENTY-EIGHTH EUCHARISTIC CONGRESS TO BE HISTORY - MAKING EVENT

When Marie Tamisser, a pious lady of Tours (France) inaugurated the first Eucharistic Congress (celebration of the Lord's Supper) at Lille, France, on June 21st, 1881, she little thought it would become the important religious function it is today.
